WAR WITH ETHIOPIAN EMPIRE IS INEVITABLE, DECLARES MUSSOLINI

TODAY

Mussolini's Queer Sons
Einstein's New Theory
Bit Her Nose For Love
Death Of A Wit

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

MUSSOLINI'S SONS, Vittorio, 19, and Bruno, 17, named probably for Giordano Bruno, in days when Mussolini was a radical, have enlisted as pilots in the Italian air force, to fight in East Africa. Bruno Mussolini is the youngest licensed fighting pilot in Italy. Both boys select service in scouting and bombardment planes.

The sons of royalty did not do that in Germany.

It must puzzle Hitler to see non-Aryan Italian boys acting so strangely.

THE LEARNED Professor Einstein, who has a new space theory, believes that by combining his "relativity" with the "quantum theory," he can explain all the phenomena of the physical universe.

Max Planck, who started that quantum theory, and Professor Einstein, will probably be surprised when they reach heaven, and find out what a complicated thing "the physical universe" really is. The old Greeks thought they explained everything with "fire, air, earth and water." They explained nothing. Man cannot even understand or explain himself; but Professor Einstein, at least, "tackles" the universe, and makes men think. Thank him for that. His is a great mathematical intellect.

COMING BACK to earth's commonplaces, Asaya Sillasse Haile, Ethiopian law student at the university of Geneva, is sentenced to two year's imprisonment, because he bit off the nose of his Egyptian sweetheart, in a demonstration of affection. The girl is a Mohammedan, the Ethiopian Christian. His lawyer tried to prove that such demonstrations of affection were not unusual.

It might surprise the Paris judge to know that his distinguished fellow countryman, Montaigne, would sympathize with the Ethiopian. Montaigne said that "biting and scratching" were essential parts of violent affection. Modern man seems to have "cooled off."

ETHIOPIA'S EMPEROR swears that he is not trying to start a fight with Italy, and everybody will believe him. The sheep would hardly bite the wolf. Not even Ethiopia's need of a seaport would drive the descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba to war with Mussolini.

The emperor further announces he has abolished the slave trade in Abyssinia, where, until recently, it was widespread and profitable. That is good news for the slaves, whose fate in such a climate was hard.

In this Ethiopian matter, Mussolini's mind is on Japan, which is taking the trade of Ethiopia, shutting out Italians. There might be another war in that difficulty.

OLIVER HERFORD, dead at 72, was described by President Wilson as "that very delightful wit and artist."

Herford said "a little widow is a dangerous thing." Asked why he wore an ugly hat, because of "a whim" of his wife, Herford is supposed to have said: "You must remember that my wife has a whim of iron."

COMMITTEE BEING FORMED TO FIGHT FOR LOWER TAXES

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The World-Telegram said today it learned that Charles H. Sabin, Jr., was forming a committee of wealthy persons to lobby for lower income tax rates, a federal sales tax, abolition of nuisance taxes and drastic cuts in governmental expenditures.

The paper quoted a fund-soliciting letter which it said had been sent out over Sabin's name saying of the committee "the Wrigleys, Armours, McCormicks, Mayers, Mortons of the west are on it, and in the east we have the usual Pells, Whitneys, Taylors, Watsons, Vanderlips, etc."

The organization is called the Committee of Americans, the World-Telegram said, and claims to be nationwide. Its eastern headquarters' address was given as the offices of the Hamilton gas company, where only an elderly man opening the day's mail could be found today.

PRESIDENT IS OFF ON WEEK-END FISHING TRIP

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt set out from here aboard the government yacht Sequoia today for an afternoon of fishing and a weekend of the waters of Chesapeake bay.

He carried in his hand as he boarded the ship in the hot July sun a rod and reel column from a Washington paper describing the best fishing opportunities.

TAX ROW GROWS AS LONG SESSION THREAT IS MADE

Differences Over Scope Of Program Prompts Opposing Predictions

PLANS MADE TO EXPEDITE OTHER 'MUST' MEASURES

Opinion Divided Over What Share Wealth Tax Bill Should Contain

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Fast-expanding differences over the scope of the president's wealth-tax program prompted opposing predictions tonight that it would be dropped temporarily and that it would hold congress in session well into September.

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, forecast that congress either would recess and reconvene in the fall or enact the tax bill at the session beginning next January 3.

On the other side were house ways and means committee Democrats, still sticking by their pledge to bring out a bill this session. They doubted, almost to a man, that final congressional action on the bill—not even drafted yet—could be obtained before the first week of September.

Simultaneously, plans went ahead to expedite other measures on the "must" legislative program. The house planned to take up Monday the controverted amendments to the Tennessee valley authority law.

The senate arranged to take up Monday and vote Tuesday on a motion by Senator Dieterich, Democrat, Illinois, to concur in the house amendment, knocking out of the utilities bill the death sentence for "unnecessary" holding companies. Scheduled to follow that were the Wheeler water carrier, AAA amendment and omnibus banking bills.

In the house hearings were set for next week on the new "must" gold clause bill, while leaders hoped the Guffey coal stabilization and federal alcohol control measures would be ready for the floor by the week-end.

There was, too, a wide difference of opinion among house ways and means committeemen over what the wealth distribution tax bill should contain. Chairman Samuel B. Hill, Democrat, Washington, of the tax subcommittee, said he thought the meas-

HEAT DECREASES IN MANY REGIONS

Score Of Deaths Caused By Weather In Sun's First Strong Attack

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—The sun relented today after the first general demonstration of its summer power which caused, directly or indirectly, a score of deaths.

Temperatures were in or near the 90's and as high as 100 degrees over wide areas but discomfort was lessened by cooling showers and winds and a forecast for more moderate weather over most of the nation.

Though Kansas continued to bake, its maximum of 100 degrees at Dodge City, was four degrees under the previous day's high of 104.

Henry Roebuck, a farmer, died after a sunstroke in a wheat field near Clarence, Mo. Three heat deaths in Ohio and another in Indiana brought the total directly attributable to this

NEW MEXICO COURT RULES CHAIN STORE TAX IS NOT LEGAL

SANTA FE, N. M., July 6.—(AP)—New Mexico today was without its occupational or so-called "chain store tax."

The much-publicized chain store act smashed into the rocks of unconstitutionality, with the state supreme court ruling Friday in favor of four large store operators who had sued to enjoin the operation of the tax on the ground of unfairness and inequality.

Originally enacted by the 1933 legislative assembly, the first chain store tax was attacked by a referendum calling for the act to be put to a state-wide vote.

The special assembly of 1934, acting before the referendum vote occurred, repealed the original measure and passed another which differed only in the lower rates affixed to certain brackets of business.

The second act immediately was thrown into court, with District Judge M. A. Otero, Jr., of Santa Fe last fall holding it unconstitutional because it penalized certain concerns for doing large amounts of business. The supreme court upheld him.

26 'Dictatorship Clinching' Measures Speedily Pass In House; Senate Acts Tonight

'MERCY' SLAYER

Chicago authorities say they will seek a murder indictment against William Ganschaw (above), 58-year-old mechanic, who told police he helped his ill and suffering wife kill herself with gas as an act of mercy. He said he intended to die with her but changed his mind. (Associated Press Photo).

Long Is Well Satisfied By Conquest Of New Political Authority

GRETNA MAN IS NAMED AS JOE FISHER'S SUCCESSOR

Eugene Stanley Makes Ineffectual Fight Against One Of Bills

BATON ROUGE, La., July 6.—(AP)—Huey Long held "court" for political followers in his skyscraper statehouse tonight, well pleased with action of the special session of the legislature in speeding his 26 "dictatorship clinching" bills toward final passage after midnight tomorrow.

He swapped yarns with enthusiastic listeners in the governor's office of the 33-story capitol, satisfied with his conquest of the city administration of New Orleans and his firing and hiring privileges over every non-elective political employe in the state.

The session—the sixth extraordinary assembly in a year—was called Thursday night after Long rushed to Louisiana from Washington by airplane.

His measures went into the law-making hopper that night and with breath-taking speed were steered toward final passage by the house of representatives today, unhampered by scant and feeble minority opposition.

The house adjourned until 12:30 a. m. Monday after sending the bills to the senate. It took the senate only a few minutes this afternoon to refer the bills to the finance committee where they were reported favorably at the rate of one a minute under Long's personal direction.

The senate then sent the measures to the legislative bureau and adjourned until 6 p. m. tomorrow. The bills will then be advanced to third reading and finally passed after midnight. Concurrence in amendments by the house will end another of Louisiana's momentuous legislative meetings.

Two new members of the legislature appointed by Governor O. K. Allen, bringing the total number he

DR. DEAN STARTS TERM THIS WEEK

Alleged 'Poison Whisky Highball' Slayer Facing Life Sentence

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—Unless Governor Sennett Conner again intercedes, Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean of Greenwood, Miss., prominent socially and professionally, must begin next week serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary.

The Greenwood woman doctor, convicted of the "poison whisky highball" death of her clinical associate, Dr. John Preston Kennedy, must begin serving her sentence Tuesday unless Governor Conner, who left the capitol today for an unannounced destination, extends a 30-day order of suspension of sentence or grants the woman a full pardon.

A suspension of sentence granted by the governor June 8 will expire Monday.

Recovering from a recent illness, Governor Conner and members of his family left Jackson today. The governor was ordered by his physician to take a few days rest. He did not indicate his destination, nor what action, if any, he expects to take on the Dean case.

Miss Lena Brock, private secretary to the governor, said she expected to communicate with the governor by telephone Sunday or Monday, and he

KING GEORGE SEES DEMONSTRATION OF NATION'S AIR UNIT

DUXFORD, Eng., July 6.—(AP)—The finest, fastest ships of the royal air force roared past King George and Queen Mary on the 42nd anniversary of their marriage today, in the first royal review of the newest branch of the armed forces.

After an hour's ground inspection of 350 planes of 38 squadrons drawn up at Mildenhall airdrome, the king motored the 35 miles to Duxford to join the queen and 200,000 other Britons in watching 200 planes roar by in formation.

The king, for the first time, wore the blue uniform of the royal air force. His two sons, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, were similarly attired. With them, he drove up and down the long lines of planes at Mildenhall stopping several times to chat with officers.

ARGENTINE IMPORT PLAN SEEN AS U. S. PROPAGANDA

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The plan of Governor Jose Castells of the Argentine Chaco to import Texas cotton farmers found little sympathy today among Texans in congress.

Senator Connally expressed the opinion the campaign of Argentina, Brazil and Paraguay to capture part of the cotton empire because of a reduction program in this country "evidently is propaganda, probably inspired up here."

MOVE IS STARTED FOR THIRD PARTY

New National Organization To Launch Its First Campaign In 1936

CHICAGO, July 6. — (AP) — Formal demand for the creation of a new national political party, which would launch its first campaign in 1936, was voted today by the "third party" advocates' rally.

Quickly settling a controversy which had tied up their morning session, the conference of "liberals" decided their temporary organization, to act until a convention can be held, should be titled: "The American Commonwealth Political Federation."

That out of the way, they adopted their organizing committee's recommendation that they go on record "as favoring a new national political party, based on the principle of production for use."

An executive committee to be elected here was directed to call a national convention in time to get the proposed party in the running for 1936.

Delegates indicated the convention would likely be held in October.

Without much debate six other recommendations detailing the officers, their duties and the general structure of the new federation were approved by the shirt sleeved delegates.

Officers of the federations will include a chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer.

Its national committee will be composed of two delegates "elected at clearly representative state conventions, called by the national executive committee."

The executive committee, another approved recommendation, declared will be composed of "the national of-

PRESIDENT SET ON OBJECTIVES

New Deal Is Headed Into Epochal Political And Constitutional Struggle

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was believed at the capitol today to be pointing the New Deal determinedly into an epochal political and constitutional struggle.

Whatever uncertainty existed before was offset by his request for the house ways and means committee not to "permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block" the Guffey coal bill.

Other developments this week also supported the prospect.

With challenges of its enactments pyramiding in the courts, the administration finally saw the Wagner labor bill become law and progress of the social security and utility control bills toward the statute books.

Each had been attacked as unconstitutional. The parties divided on the votes.

Suits to annul them will take their place alongside those already pending against the AAA and TVA. Thus a broad range of New Deal philosophy

Slayer Of Little Detroit Girl Makes Plea For Wife

DETROIT, July 6.—(AP)—Merton W. Goodrich, at the end of the long flight that began last September after the brutal slaying of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher, said today he was "ready to get it over with" but would not plead until he knew the fate of his wife.

"I don't want to make any more trouble," said the thin-faced confessed slayer. "I know I don't need a trial, but if they file charges against my wife I'll plead not guilty.

"I don't want her bothered. She is innocent."

Goodrich and the wife who said she stayed with her husband after he told her of the assault and murder "because he begged me not to leave him" were confronted by Frank Gallaher, father of the former trap drummer's victim.

Gallaher hurried to police headquarters a few minutes after the train arrived from New York, where the former inmate of the Lima State Hospital for the Insane was picked up when a patrolman saw him attempting to attract the attention of children in a Central park wading pool.

"I want to have a look at that fellow," Gallaher said, and was led into the room where Goodrich waited nervously.

The sallow musician groaned and hid his haggard face in his hands as Gallaher stared searchingly at him. The visitor ended the silent, accusing scrutiny abruptly, muttered "crazy-looking guy" almost inaudibly, and went to another room to view Mrs. Goodrich.

The drummer's wife returned Gallaher's stare momentarily, then wept.

MONGOLS ACCUSE JAPS OF PLAN TO SEIZE TERRITORY

Ultimatum Demands Mongolia Allow Japan Military Observers There

GREAT GRAVITY LOOMS IN FAR EAST SITUATION

Threatened Country Is Close Political Ally Of Soviet Russia

MOSCOW, July 6.—(AP)—Independent Mongolia today formally accused the Japanese army already virtual master of North China of plotting to seize Mongolian territory.

A communique issued at Ulan Bator Mongolian capital and published in the official Soviet press said Manchoukuan and Japanese forces had delivered an ultimatum demanding the right to maintain military observers in Mongolian territory. It made this charge:

"Recent events prove that Manchoukuo with the Japanese army's support wishes to avoid peaceful settlement of border incidents and prepare the way for further occupations of our territory."

Mongolia with its Soviet type of government is closely related politically with the U. S. S. R. Its borders march with Siberia's for many miles. Manchoukuo lies in its east. North China into which the Japanese army has penetrated deeply during recent months is southeast.

The Japanese demands followed several Mongol-Manchoukuan border incidents which were termed provocative in nature. They were presented even as Russia's diplomatic representative at Tokyo was busy seeking assurances against repetition of similar incidents including alleged invasion of Soviet territory along the Siberia-Manchoukuo frontier.

A note which Chan Kei, head of the Manchoukuan foreign ministry, and high Japanese army officers handed July 4 to the Mongolian section of the mixed Mongol-Manchoukuan committee studying the border incidents contained the demands, the Mongolian communique said. It called them "entirely unwarranted" and "intolerable."

The Japanese army asked the right of permanent residence for military

SOLONS DEMAND ACTION ON SILVER

Thomas Says 40 Senators Will Ask Early Stabilization Of 2 Metals

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Contending banks were using the treasury's silver buying machinery for their own profit, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, said today that President Roosevelt will be served immediately with a request backed by 40 senators for early stabilization of gold and silver.

The 40 senators, including members from all but about a dozen states, appended their names to a letter addressed by Thomas to the president requesting adherence to the monetary policy adopted by the last congress. Under terms of that, this government was pledged to continue buying silver until either one quarter of the nation's monetary metal was silver

ESCAPED ARKANSAS CONVICT GIVES UP TO FATHER, SHERIFF

CONWAY, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—Officers here were advised today that Zack McHenry, 25, one of two escaped convicts who left a trail of terror during their flight across central Arkansas, surrendered this morning to his father and the sheriff of this county in a woods nine miles north of here.

McHenry was returned to custody near the little town of Wooster, just off trunk highway 65, when Sheriff J. R. Summers of Faulkner county, and the fugitive's father, Sam McHenry, farmer living near here, found him and persuaded him to give up.

The father joined the searching posse last night in an effort to have his son returned to prison peacefully.

The youth made no show of resistance when discovered in the woods. Officers had concentrated their search near here in the belief he would seek a hideout near his home in this county following his break from Tucker penal farm on July 4 with a fellow-convict, Lee Sitton, 38, who was still sought today.

Benito Mussolini, Italian dictator, declared in a speech yesterday that war with Ethiopia was inevitable.

LEAFLETS ATTACK ROOSEVELT CRITIC

Georgia Governor Characterized As 'Boll Weevil Menace' In Circulars

WALLBURG, N. C., July 6.—(AP)—Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia was characterized as "the boll weevil menace" and the audience was urged to "boo the menace back to Georgia" in circulars distributed among a crowd of farmers waiting here today to hear an address by the anti-Roosevelt executive.

The circulars were not signed, but the man distributing them, who declined to give his name, said "the labor unions" were responsible for them.

The leaflets said organized labor and President Roosevelt were co-operating to "exterminate this pest."

Several hundred persons were present as the governor began speaking under the auspices of the Non-Tax association, an organization opposed to policies of the agricultural adjustment administration. Farmers of the area recently voted overwhelmingly in favor of continued tobacco crop control, an AAA proposal.

It was this policy which Talmadge has attacked.

Loosening a volley at the Roosevelt administration, Governor Talmadge said money is "choked off" from America's small business people in spite of the national emergency legislation.

The Georgia critic of the "New Deal," levelling blows at federal taxes and imports, said in his prepared address that of the "billions of dollars appropriated by congress to help business" none "has found its way into small loans." He added:

"Billions of dollars have been loaned to railroads. Other billions have been loaned to great industries, but in the rank and file of small business people, money is scarcer today than ever in the history of our government."

YOUTH HELD WHEN BODY OF GIRL IS FOUND IN CREEK

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—Clyde Trammell, young Fort Smithian, was taken into custody for questioning late today, shortly after discovery in Clear creek 20 miles north of here of the scantily-clad body of Mary Isabel Mahar, 14, who had been missing since Independence day.

Mrs. Agnes Minella, New York resident visiting in this vicinity, found the body when she walked to the stream with her two children.

Sheriff Fred Long and Prosecuting Attorney Finis F. Batchelor of Crawford county, announced detention of Trammell for investigation. The youth was reported to be the last member of a holiday swimming party of 16 to see Miss Mahar alive.

A jury empaneled by Dr. B. B. Bruce of Alma, county coroner, began an inquest but adjourned until Monday afternoon. Sheriff Long said he believed the condition of the girl's body, clad only in undergarments, indicated "some violence."

2 ILLINOIS FLIERS WILL MAKE ENDURANCE FLIGHT

PEORIA, Ill., July 6.—(AP)—Two Peoria aviators, Ken Ringel, 29, and Ellis Frederich, 31, announced today plans to start about July 21 an attempt to return the official world endurance flying record to Illinois by breaking the 27-day mark set last Monday by the Key brothers of Meridian, Miss.

Flying a six-place monoplane of the type used by the Hunter brothers, whose world mark stood until the plying Key boys went up in the "Ole Miss" at Meridian, the Peoria pilots have set their goal above Mt. Hawley airport at a full month.

Britain Contemplates Making 'Hopeless' Effort To Avert Struggle

(By Associated Press)

Events seemed to be marching irresistibly toward war between Italy and Ethiopia.

ADDIS ABABA—The American legation told 125 resident Americans to leave the country.

LONDON—Britain contemplated one more effort for peace, with little hope it would succeed.

PALERNO, Italy—Benito Mussolini, speaking to 12,000 Blackshirts leaving for East Africa, said: "We have decided upon a struggle in which we will not turn back."

ROME—Italy continued her warlike preparations. Mussolini's two young aviator sons signed up for service.

WASHINGTON — The state department in effect has refused Emperor Haile Selassie's request to find some way to make Italy abide by the Kellog anti-war pact.

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

ROME, July 6.—A ringing battlecry from Benito Mussolini echoed through Italy tonight as the country turned to preparations for war with Ethiopia. Before 12,000 volunteers destined for service in East Africa who gathered at the Salerno today, Il Duce, cheered to the echo, declared:

"We have decided upon a struggle in which we as a government and a people will not turn back. The decision is irretrievable."

A cannon-top was Il Duce's rostrum for his fighting speech, and the throng of eager-faced youths roaring approval of his words, included four of his own kinsmen. They were of the battalion from Forli, the premier's home town. In Rome the leader's two aviator sons, Vittorio and Bruno, signed up for African service.

The Forli unit, with three other Blackshirt and two regular army divisions, went over equipment in expectation of speedy departure for the African adventure.

Meanwhile the steamer Celio left Naples with 22 officers and 600 men aboard, while the Principessa Maria began loading 40 officers and 1,350 men for departure tomorrow.

The Naples sailing, together with the troops scheduled to put out from Salerno, will push well past 130,000 men in the army Italy has concentrated in her African colonies for hos-

LONG FORCES KILL PROPOSAL TO AID STRICKEN FARMERS

BATON ROUGE, July 6.—(AP)—Rep. Joe B. Hamiter's resolution to authorize a state loan of $250,000 for relief of flood-stricken farmers in a number of parishes overflowed by the Red and Sabine rivers was killed today by Senator Huey P. Longs' house majority.

The resolution, which would have approved the borrowing of the money by the state board of liquidation for relief in Rapides, Caddo, Natchitoches, DeSoto, Grant, Avoyelles, Vernon, Sabine parishes and elsewhere was anaesthetized by being referred to the Long-controlled ways and means committee when Hamiter, anti-Long, of Caddo, urged its adoption.

Rep. Isom J. Guillory, St. Landry, Long's floor leader, contended that the resolution's provision for administration of the relief money by the police juries of the affected parishes was a vague and unsatisfactory method of distribution.

Will Rogers Says

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 6.—(Special)—That library that we got 159 years ago Thursday was a great thing but they ought to pass a law that we could only celebrate it every 100 years, for at the rate of accidents Thursday we won't have enough people to celebrate it every year. And the speeches? Did you read them? Never was so much politics indulged in under the guise of "freedom and liberty."

They was five per cent what George Washington did, and 95 per cent what the speaker intended to do. What this country needs on July the fourth is not more "liberty or more freedom." It's a Roman candle that only shoots out of one end.

Will Rogers

800 WOMEN TO ATTEND COURSE

Adults Will Go To Baton Rouge For Studies In August

A large delegation from Ouachita parish is expected to attend the annual adult short course held at Louisiana State university August 12-15. In all, it is expected that fully 800 Louisiana women will attend from all parts of the state, according to estimates made by Miss Ellen LeNoir, state home demonstration agent. A comprehensive program will be filled with inspirational lectures, classes dealing with such subject matter that will be of aid to housewives, recreational features and social functions all are included in the program.

Housing facilities will be furnished by the university and the cafeteria will serve well-balanced meals at a nominal cost. Miss LeNoir is said to be bending every effort to make an outstanding success of the short course.

According to reports from 52 home demonstration agents in the state, each parish where there is a home demonstration agent employed will send a delegation.

One of the features of the course will be the meeting of the state home demonstration council at which plans for the coming year will be considered.

STOLEN FIRE TRUCK IS RETURNED AT COVINGTON

COVINGTON, La., July 6.—(AP)—Presumably a holiday prank, the fire truck taken from the Covington engine house July 4 was back in the fire house today after being found in the woods off the highway about ten miles north of here.

Reading in New Orleans newspapers that the truck was missing, James W. Godberry of New Orleans, notified Covington fire department officials that he had seen the truck stranded in the woods off the highway while passing in his automobile.

NEW GLY-CAS IS A SENSATION IN ALL MONROE

Crowds Coming to Phoenix Drug Co., to Get Gly-Cas; Monroe Lady Like New After Short Trial of New Medical Remedy; Mrs. Wimberly Enjoys Meals First in Years.

Never before has a single medicine created such a sensation throughout Monroe and vicinity as this new Gly-Cas. Hundreds of local residents have already been given the good results

MRS W. D. WIMBERLY

they had been wanting for years and were unable to find in any other medicine or treatment before. Read what Mrs. W. D. Wimberly, 307 North Sixth street, Monroe, highly respected local lady who has lived here for the past forty years and is well known throughout this entire section, said recently to the Gly-Cas man who is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"It is really a pleasure to do my work feeling as I do today," said Mrs. Wimberly. "Stomach troubles had been a constant source of distress with me for years and at times the attacks would be so severe I thought I would never be able to stand them. Indigestion was terrible and often would spit up soured foods after eating. This would fill my entire system with poisonous gases, my heart would palpitate dreadfully and would become so dizzy I could hardly stand it. I would bloat so I could hardly get my breath at times a good nights sleep was impossible, head ached almost continually and was simply worn out all of the time. I lacked the energy to do my regular household duties and my future did not look very bright for me as seemingly everything had failed to benefit my miserable condition to any great extent. It was terribly discouraging and I did not know where to turn next when I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas on every side. And I decided to put this new remedy to a REAL TEST on my own case—and found it even more wonderful than I expected."

"My bowels were regulated almost at once—and in a MOST NATURAL way too," continued Mrs. Wimberly, "Those terrible poisons and gases were removed from my system and I began to show improvement from the very first few doses. Today I am able to eat the most substantial foods and with no ill effects afterwards and enjoy eating what any well person eats. My former pep and energy has been restored, sleep well and it is a real pleasure to do my work feeling as I do now. Little did I realize that any medicine could be so wonderful as Gly-Cas has been in my case—no wonder it receives so much praise—it deserves it all and more too. And to think even those dreadful headaches and every pain has left me too—Yes—there is only one Gly-Cas and it gives results."

The Gly-Cas man is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this valuable new remedy. Adv.

CCC Youths To Build Camp At Old Fort Beauregard

By Wade W. Scott

HARRISONBURG, La., July 6.—Boys of the CCC erosion camp at Fort Beauregard in Harrisonburg will have a practical example of erosion control prepared by nature's own handiwork as they take up quarters on the site of the historic old fortress. The gigantic pine trees with here and there a gnarled oak, or blackjack bush serve as mute evidence that erosion can be prevented while cutover hills surrounding the fort are slowly being washed into the Ouachita river which runs at their base.

Work of erecting about 14 buildings, fences and roads which will make up the new CCC camp will start Monday under the supervision of CCC engineers. Every mark of historic interest will be preserved if possible.

The huge hill right in the bend of the Ouachita river was made into a fort by the Confederate soldiers who threw up breastworks of dirt and huge sand rocks along its edges The barricades which skirt the edges of the hill are still in evidence and have washed very little, being still about the right height for protection. A knoll about 15 feet high in the center of the fortress marks the place where the cannon were planted, commanding a view of the Ouachita river in both directions for several miles. This knoll is now covered with huge pine trees.

Old-timers say that the fort prevented the Union gun boats from passing and saved the town of Monroe. The Union boats were held at bay by the Confederates until 15,000 men came by land from Natchez to force abandonment of Fort Beauregard. When the fort was finally taken only 45 men were still fighting for its defense, all others having fled on account of starvation. Records show that the fort was considered one of the strongest points and actively participated from March 6th, 1863, until evacuation on the night of September 4th, of the same year.

All over the old fortress can be seen evidence of terrific struggle, which according to old-timers, would never have been taken had it not been for the lack of supplies and ammunition. Outposts in every direction from the fort can be seen, most of which command a perfect view of the Ouachita river as well as a view of the hills and ravines back of the fort which prevented attacks from the rear.

The shoals which hindered the Union boats from passing after they had successfully put the Confederates to route, is still a bugbear to river men whose craft now pass peacefully along the river, having only one other barricade during low water, that being Lock No. 2. It was said that the water was falling at the time if the battle and the troops had held the gun boats at bay so long, that by the time they had reached Catahoula Shoals above Harrisonburg, it was too risky to pass. Thus, it was said Fort Miro was saved.

A letter dated, May 10th, 1863, from George M. Logan, lieut.-colonel of the Confederate forces, commander of the fort until time of evacuation on September 4th, 1863, addressed to Capt. Samuel Boyer Davis, assistant adjutant general, Monroe, La., follows: "Captain: Four Federal gun boats came up this morning at 2 o'clock. They anchored at the mouth of the Bushley and immediately sent a flag of truce. I dispatched Captain Benton and Lieut. Blanchard to meet the flag and state that I would hold the fort forever. Lieut. William W. Fowler represented the Federal government. He informed us that Commodore Selim E. Woodsworth commanded the fleet and demanded unconditional surrender of the fort and its surroundings. If we did not accede to the demand they would give us one hour to move the women and children.

"Capt. Benton responded that the only answer he could give was that the fort would be defended at all hazards and that the women and children were already moved.

"The flag of truce returned and an hour later three of the boats began shelling. They have fired some 150 shots, but have done no damage, only knocking up some of the parapet. They have destroyed one house in the town.

"We have fired but two shots, as they are a little out of our range and are waiting for them to approach us to give them their just deserts. Our firing is accurate but falls short, and therefore shall fire no more until they come nearer. Lieut. Carter has this instant been seriously wounded. "We should have more troops between here and Alexandria. I shall hold the forth with God's blessings.

Your obedient servant, in haste,
GEORGE M. LOGAN,
Lieut. Colonel Commanding Post.

(Editor's Note: The Capt Benton mentioned in the letter was the father of Miss Lida Benton, now living in Monroe.)

Mayor L. L. McGuffee said Monday that all buildings erected by the government will revert to the town of Harrisonburg when the camp is demobilized, it being placed on town property and agreed to by CCC officials at Washington. The town will furnish the camp with water while the electricity will be purchased from a utilities company in Jonesville. The efforts of Mayor McGuffee, Aldermen E. C. Beasley, J. W. Wright and Z. Y. Stutson, have brought about the erection of possibly the first CCC camp within the corporate limits of a town.

Mayor McGuffee said, "I believe the fort shows without a doubt, the best example of the prevention of soil erosion. These large trees have sheltered the land and held it together to preserve the fort just as it was when our forefathers fought here. It should serve as an inspiration to the boys as to the good work they will be doing." A. B. McGuffee, grandfather of the mayor, is perhaps the only survivor of the battle of Fort Beauregard and it is a known fact that he is the only survivor in Catahoula parish.

Many of the boys who will be among the enlisted men at the CCC camp at Harrisonburg are probably descendants of the brave little group of a few hundred men, who protected the fort, eventually leaving until only 45 remained on the date of the complete evacuation. Echoes of the war will be resounded with the slashing of the axe, the clink of the shovel and pounding of the hammer, a structure far superior to its progenitor will be erected to house descendants of the brave forces of '63.

One reason for the timber surrounding the fort never having been cut was because the lumber company owning the land encountered pieces of shrapnel, minnie balls in trees taken a few miles from the scene of the battle. Several expensive band saws were ruined and the company abandoned the idea of cutting the timber at that time. After all merchantable timber belonging to the company had been cut into lumber, the company then decided to fell the remaining part along the range of hills on which Fort Beauregard was located. It was then that the late E. J. Sargent, mayor of Harrisonburg and publisher of The Catahoula News started a campaign which resulted in the town purchasing the land and timber to be used as a park.

Fort Hill, as it is commonly referred to, has been a favorite site for community picnics. Many a chicken has been barbecued behind the protecting breastworks, and parties of every kind are held in the historical setting. A government marker furnished by the Historical Society at Washington will be planted where the cannon stood.

An agreement has been made that all relics unearthed by the CCC boys will be placed on display about the fort and will later become the property of the town. It is the belief of local people that more cannon balls, minnie balls, as well as two brass cannons, not accounted for, will be unearthed.

Jonesboro

The Baptist W. M. S. met at the church Monday afternoon for the regular monthly business meeting, Mrs. P. H. Key presiding.

The devotional was given by Mrs Key, and afterwards, reports from the different officers were given, together with those of the chairman of the various committees. This being the month for the society to serve the Lions club at the noon meal, the president appointed committees to take charge of the serving each Thursday of the month. The society also voted to invite Miss Emma Leachmon, a field worker from the Home Mission board, to visit the church in September, at the time the school of missions is held in the Jonesboro church.

The Methodist W. M. S. met at the church for the regular monthly business meeting with Mrs. A. A. Meredith presiding.

Mrs. Meredith also gave the devotional exercises, taking her lesson from the 19th chapter of the Psalms. Good reports were given from the different officers and the different circles. Mrs. T. D. Callaway was elected superintendent of Christian social relations, with Mrs. Henry Scroggins as her assistant. The society also voted to give one scholarship to the Houma Mission Field, amounting to $150 for the year.

The regular weekly meeting of the Art club was held in the home of Mrs. Brown Traylor. The reception rooms were decorated with a profusion of summer flowers. The club members held the regular business session and enjoyed an hour of sewing. The hostess served an iced course to Mesdames H. M. Gatlin, Paul Stinson, W. P. Miller, Stanley Lewis, Martin, J. D. Jefress, George Littlefield, H. W. Ayers and Wayne Stovall.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lewis was made very attractive with a variety of summer flowers, when they entertained the members of their auction bridge club. At the conclusion of the games of bridge, Mr. H. M. Gatlin was the high scorer of the evening, and received a lovely toilet set. Miss Elizabeth Bremer, of Glenmora, was the guest of the club, and was presented with a lovely colonial doll as a prize.

After the presentation of the gifts, the hostess served a delightful iced course to Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kirkland, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox, Mr. and Mrs H. M. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stinson, and Miss Elizabeth Bremer of Glenmora, La.

The shipping sheds at Jonesboro were closed July 1, after one of the best seasons since the beginning of the project in Jackon parish. Thirty-eight cars of tomatoes and 27 carloads of potatoes were shipped from Jonesboro this year. This year's shipment was better than last year, as only 27 carloads of tomatoes, and 27 carloads of potatoes were shipped from this point. In addition to those shipped from Jonesboro this season some 25 cars were shipped from Chatham, indicating that Jackson parish is outstanding for trucking possibilities.

The following boys from Jonesboro left last Monday for the summer camp at Camp Windywood, near Pollock, La.: Jack and Jimmy Shows, Jerry Michaud, and Kenneth Brumfield. They expect to be away about three weeks. The camp at Windywood is sponsored by the state Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. and each year some 125 girls are in attendance at the camp. The period for the boys' encampment follows immediately after that of the girls.

MISSISSIPPI VETERANS SUPPORT CASH BONUS

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—Voicing an insistent demand for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, the first annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, department of Mississippi, was brought to a close here today.

The veterans re-elected Roland B. Wall of Brookhaven as department commander and selected Greenwood as the next convention city before adjournment this afternoon.

The veterans last night heard their national adjutant general, R. B. Handy, Jr., of Kansas City, suggest material reprisals at the ballot box against office holders who failed to support the bonus.

FORMER QUEEN IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Elizabeth Of Greece Given Absolute Decree On Abandonment Grounds

BUCHAREST, July 6.—(AP)—On the ground that her husband, the former King George of Greece, had abandoned his marital domicile in Rumania, the court of appeals today granted an absolute divorce to former Queen Elizabeth.

This action precluded the possibility that Elizabeth might join George on the Greek throne should he be recalled as a result of a plebiscite to be held in Greece probably the end of this month.

The proceedings today occupied only 16 minutes and were held in secret. George, who is living in London, ignored the entire case and was not even represented by lawyers.

Elizabeth, it was announced, will now resume her old title of Elizabeth of Hohenzollern, princess of Rumania. She will make her permanent home on a beautiful estate she recently purchased in Transylvania.

Under Rumanian legal procedure the divorce will be final, failing an appeal by the former king within five days from next Monday.

Inasmuch as he was not represented at the proceedings it was taken for granted that no appeal would be filed.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hollis of Wink, Texas, Mr. Ray Hollis of Longview, Texas, and Mr. Jesse Hollis of Alexandria, spent part of the week here with their father, Mr. George W. Hollis. Little James Walter Goss, who has been visiting at different points in Texas for the past several weeks returned to his home in Farmerville with them.

GOOD-WILL VALUED BY IRON MOUNTAIN

Bakery Has Built Up Mutual Confidence Between Salesmen, Grocers

Mutual confidence and good-will between grocerymen of northeast Louisiana and truck salesmen of the Iron Mountain bakery, 508 Harrison street, is one of the reasons why the bakery has built up a successful business throughout the Monroe trade territory. And that same reason is also the reason why the public gets strictly fresh bread throughout the territory in purchasing products of the Iron Mountain bakery.

As explained by W. E. Bennett, manager of the bakery, the truck salesmen do not over-sell their retailers; they sell the retailers only about as much bread as the retailers will sell between the time of one delivery and the next delivery. This assures the public that no bread will be left over on the retailers' shelves or in his showcases until the following day.

The inclination of a truck salesman to overstock a retailer, to leave with him more bread than he can justifiably be expected to sell, in the hope that the retailer will put forth efforts to sell greater amounts of bread and thereby build up a baker's trade, is recognized in the baking industry, according to Mr. Bennett. The Iron Mountain bakery, therefore, forbids a truck salesman to bring back into the bakery establishment any baking product taken out of the establishment and placed in the salesman's truck for sale on his route.

Nearly all of the eight truck salesmen of the Iron Mountain bakery have been connected with the bakery for some years. They are thoroughly familiar with their trade, and the early morning delivery salesmen leave with retailers purchases of bread the amount of which is determined by the salesman, instead of the storekeeper. This is because the storekeeper is asleep and his store is closed when the salesman arrives at his store before daylight and leaves his bread in a box in front of the store.

This plan has worked out exceptionally well in building up the Iron Mountain bakery's business. An example of the exactness with which the plan works is shown in a recent trip Mr. Bennett made with a truck salesman on the Vidalia route, which serves 126 retailers. On the return trip from Vidalia stops were made at each of the retail establishments, and it was shown that not more than 20 loaves of bread were "oversold" on the entire route.

12,000 ITALIAN VOLUNTEERS ARE ON WAY TO FIGHT

tilities expected to begin after the rainy season ends in September.

Special transports have carried 107,000 soldiers and workmen who may be converted into soldiers. About 10,000 more have gone on weekly mailboats.

They carried with them the most astounding military equipment Africa has ever seen—flame throwers, gas outfits, the latest thing in tanks and airplanes and equipment for covering vast areas with chemicals designed to burn the bare feet of Emperor Haile Selassie's soldiers.

While Fascists rejoiced at Mussolini's escape from harm when lightning struck the wireless antennae of his big three-motor airship while it was fighting its way down through an electrical storm to the little west coast town, authoritative sources here reiterated that Italy neither wanted nor would accept mediation of her conflict with Ethiopia.

Once again they declared the matter one to be settled—and settled once for all—directly between Italy and Ethiopia. Italy wants no half settlement such as territorial concessions, they said.

If Haile Selassie is willing to ask Italy to assume an armed protectorate over his country, these sources said, then war may be avoided. If not, war is certain.

Nothing daunted by his near disaster, Il Duce was in top oratorical form as he told his massed fighting men the die was cast.

"Remember," he said, "that Italians have always defeated the black races. Adua (where an Italian invading force was badly beaten by ill-equipped but numerically superior Ethiopian defenders in 1896) was an exception only because of the difference in proportion between the forces. There were only 14,000 Italians against 100,000 Ethiopians."

Declaring the earlier Ethiopian conflict unfortunate for Italy because she was less concerned about her soldiers than with "miserable questions of parliament"—an institution his Fascist regime has virtually abandoned—Mussolini continued:

"Italy today is rewriting an heroic page of her history."

He asserted the entire nation was "behind her sons who are leaving for Africa," and paraphrased the famed Fascist slogan, "Better to live one day as a lion than 100 years as a lamb," in this wise:

"Every Italian prefers a life of heroism to a life of uselessness."

That phrase brought the greatest ovation from the Italian youths ready to join the more than 100,000 men Italy already has sent to her colonies adjoining Ethiopia.

Col. Attilio Biseo, the leader's favorite co-pilot who accompanied Gen. Italo Balbo on his mass flight to Chicago, was at the controls with Il Duce both on the flight down and the flight back.

Il Duce returned to Rome to find his government, obviously relieved at the United States government's disinclination to do anything about Ethiopia's appeal to the provisions of the Kellogg anti-war pact, pushing forward energetically the enormous preparations for war.

he planned to arraign Goodrich Monday but that he would not decide what action to take against Mrs. Goodrich pending further questioning.

Goodrich identified the hammer with which he killed the girl, the rope with which he trussed her up, and the trunk into which he stuffed the body before fleeing from his one-room apartment.

Preparations to forestall a demonstration against Goodrich upon his arrival proved unnecessary. He was hurried from the train, through the station baggage room and into a police car. Few spectators were aware of his identity.

cidental "upstanding he-men." A Siamese husband may now get a divorce by proving his wife's infidelity. But the wife may not get a divorce by proving her husband's infidelity. After divorce comes, a husband may remarry immediately, the wife must wait 310 days.

According to a newspaper cable, the law specifies that "the husband is the ruling head of the household." That will probably depend on the wife, in Siam, as it does here.

Siam has adopted the Russian idea, allowing divorce by mutual consent, with no accusations.

THE WIDOW of Lenin, whose embalmed body lies in Moscow exposed to public worship, does not call herself "Mrs. Lenin," but Madame Nadejda Krupskaya. And, speaking with the authority of her important husband, she tells Russian women not to be bossed around by their husbands. They must be good mothers, but they must not let married life "separate them from public work."

cause in the past two days to 13. Seven other persons were drowned.

The first real taste of summer was not entirely unwelcomed. While city residents suffered, farmers especially in the corn belt rejoiced. It was just what they have been ordering for weeks. A report from Humbolt county, Iowa, said corn had responded by growing two inches daily during the past three days of sunshine.

Retailers too said they had encountered this week the first strong demand for vacation supplies. As a result gains for their business over the same period last year were reported from Washington as "noteworthy."

High temperatures for the day included: 95 at Kansas City, 90 at Cleveland, 88 at Detroit, 86 in Washington, 85 in Chicago, and around 90 in Indiana. The mercury dropped eight degrees to 80 in Portland, Me., and "normal" weather prevailed on the Pacific coast. It was 91 at Louisville.

YOUTH OF SWARTZ IS CHARGED WITH STRIKING MOTHER

Hubert Hollandsworth, about 19, of Swartz, yesterday was held in the parish jail charged with assaulting and beating his mother, Mrs. L. A. Hollandsworth.

The charge against the youth was said to have developed from a disagreement between him and his mother over some vegetables. He wanted to take the vegetables and sell them, and she wished to preserve them, it was reported. He was said to have struck his mother in the face, and to have inflicted a scratch on her arm.

After the youth was arrested, it was stated that his mother sought to have the charge against him dropped.

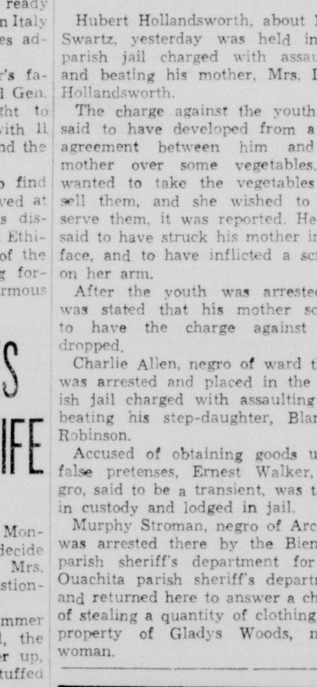

Charlie Allen, negro of ward three, was arrested and placed in the parish jail charged with assaulting and beating his step-daughter, Blanchie Robinson.

Accused of obtaining goods under false pretenses, Ernest Walker, negro, said to be a transient, was taken in custody and lodged in jail.

Murphy Stroman, negro of Arcadia, was arrested there by the Bienville parish sheriff's department for the Ouachita parish sheriff's department and returned here to answer a charge of stealing a quantity of clothing, the property of Gladys Woods, negro woman.

observers, the right for them to move about freely and keep contact with Manchoukuo and permission to run telegraph lines into Mongolia to facilitate this communication.

Failing Mongolia's compliance, the communique asserted, Japan threatened to demilitarize much of the eastern section of Mongolia by forcing the withdrawal of Mongolian troops.

A recent dispatch from Tientsin, China, quoted foreign military observers as expressing the opinion Japan's North China and Mongolia policy was designed primarily to guarantee her freedom of communications and freedom from trouble to the south in case she came to war with the Soviet.

While the Mongol-Japanese issue was regarded here with great gravity, Soviety officials withheld comment pending further developments.

TWO STRUCTURES RAZED IN BUSINESS EXPANSION

Two more old residential structures, in years gone by the homes of private citizens on a pretentious residential thoroughfare, but used as rooming houses in late years, have been razed here in the business revival which is steadily pushing the depression into the background.

The buildings were a one-story structure at 205 Walnut street and a large two-story structure at 207 Walnut stret. They were razed so that property on which they stood may be used as an automobile sales lot.

Several weeks ago another large, two-story rooming house, located across the street from the latest two to be razed, was dismantled.

The U. S. government distributed more than seven billion fish fry and eggs during 1931.

OBITUARY

W. W. PIGFORD

Hundreds of friends gathered Monday to pay respects to William Wells Pigford, 71, pioneer merchant, druggist and banker of Lumberton, Miss., who died at his home last Sunday morning. Mr. Pigford was the father of Mrs. F. A. Terzia, Jr., of Monroe.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. C. H. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist church, the Rev. C. A. Schultz, pastor of the Court Street Methodist church in Hattiesburg, and the Rev. M. L. McCormick, pastor of the Millsaps Memorial church in Jackson. Interment was made in the Lumberton cemetery.

Mr. Pigford was born in Lauderdale county. He moved from Meridian to Nicholson, near here, about 50 years ago. For six years he was a druggist in Nicholson. He then moved to Lumberton, where he also operated a drug store. Later he organized the Pigford Mercantile company, which is now operated by his son, M. A. Pigford.

Mr. Pigford was for 25 years president of the Lumberton Bank and was a steward in the Methodist church for 35 years. In addition, he was a director of the Laurel Oil and Fertilizer company.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, L. C., of New Orleans, and M. A., of Lumberton; two daughters, Mrs. F. A. Terzia, Jr., of Monroe, La., and Mrs. Willard Haynes of Lumberton; one brother, W. S. Pigford of Lockhart, Miss., and seven grand children.

MRS. FRANCIS HARRIS

JONESBORO, July 6.—(Special)—Mrs. Francis Harris, 78, died July 3, after an illness of about six months. Funeral services were held July 4 at 10:30 from the Edmonds funeral home, with Rev. John L. Dodge, officiating.

Interment followed in the Jonesboro cemetery. The deceased is survived by three sons and three daughters, Mrs. Nora Calloway, Blevins, Ark. Mrs. Ruth Billingsly, Lubbock, Texas, and Mrs. Jennie Causey, Jonesboro. The sons are John Harris, Jonesboro; J. C. Harris, Hemet, Cal., and Claud Harris of Preston, Ark.

E. D. PRICHARD

HODGE, La., July 6.—(Special)—E. D. Prichard, 69, died Thursday at 9 p. m. Funeral services were held Friday at 2:30 at Old Salem church, with J. L. Dodge officiating. Interment followed in cemetery at this church. The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. E. D. Prichard and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Farris, of St. Helena, Oregon.

City Briefs

F. B. Neeley of 202 Egan street, has been seriously ill at his home the past week.

Mrs. T. H. Elliott of 112 Grayling Lane, is now able to receive callers after a serious illness.

Mrs. W. H. Mayes will return to her home today after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. T. H. Elliott, who underwent a serious operation at St. Francis sanitarium recently. Her little niece, Dorothy Jane Elliott, will accompany her home.

Davis Pace of West Monroe, student at Tulane, left yesterday for Quantico, Va., where he will take a course with the U. S. marines for the next six weeks.

Joseph Kusin left Saturday for Chicago and New York on a business trip.

C. P. Couch, president of the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad, was in Monroe Saturday, coming over from Shreveport for the day which was spent in the offices of the company in the Bernhardt building and in meeting a number of representative business men of Monroe.

MAN WANTED FOR THEFT OF CAR HERE ARRESTED

Sheriff Milton Coverdale was notified last night by the chief of police of Brookhaven, Miss., that Max King, wanted here to answer a charge of stealing an automobile, has been arrested by the Brookhaven police for the local sheriff's department.

Sheriff Coverdale said King is accused of renting an automobile from the Monroe Cab company, located at the corner of South Grand and Grammont streets, Tuesday of last week, and failing to return with the car.

A woman arrested with King at Brookhaven gave her name as Mrs. Max King, stating that she was the accused man's wife.

The Brookhaven police chief told Sheriff Coverdale that King refused to return here without extradition papers being obtained.

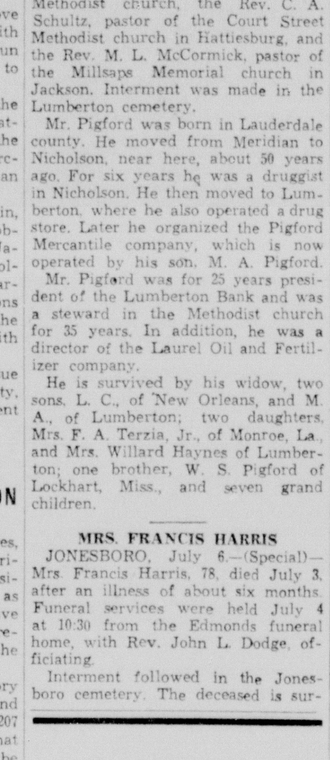

Bill Miller, former Stanford ace and Olympic pole vault champion in 1932, is coaching track in Central America.

Varied Aspects Of Loyalty

We can learn worthwhile lessons probably from every phase of this existence. For instance, from our most vicious criminal gangsters we learn the lesson of the importance and value of loyalty.

The gangsters have developed to a high degree the observance of loyalty to the gang. Loyalty among them has become a religion. Again and again gangsters are found seriously or fatally wounded by their own gangs; yet not a word will they squeak. They remain perfectly dumb under questioning.

Gangsters are arrested and sent to the penitentiary when they could win their freedom if they would tell what they know about the gang.

An extraordinary spirit of loyalty has been developed among gangsters. The same spirit of loyalty has been developed among professional politicians. While loyalty in itself is beautiful, still the purpose that impels gangsters and professional politicians to promote loyalty among their henchmen is not beautiful. The only way that gangsters and professional politicians can get results is by means of a strong spirit of loyalty to the gang and to the ring. Or, in other words, they must have an organization composed of persons placing the welfare of the gang or the ring above everything else. They will discipline severely any member of the outfit whose actions prove or indicate his disloyalty.

Reward for loyalty and punishment for disloyalty are the outstanding compelling influences that make possible the success of gangsters and professional politicians.

The forces of decency foolishly blunder when they temporize with disloyalty to their cause and when they fail to reward loyalty. All over this nation in civic organizations, clean social groups and in churches, you will find men received with cordiality and respect, you will find them placed in positions of honor, who have proved again and again that they are the enemies of decency and integrity. Again and again, you will find men known to be rascals, elevated above those who are known to be sincere and honest.

Liberality is all right. We should be liberal. But we should not smile on the evildoer and make him feel that his evil doings are countenanced or ignored. On the contrary, we should let it be seen very clearly that the man who misbehaves himself will be disciplined by the people standing for right behavior.

We shall never stop the respectable rascal until we make rascality reprehensible. We shall never halt the man who is working against the best interests of the public until we repudiate him as long as he continues his misbehavior.

That is not to say that we should treat as an outcast the person who has done wrong or is doing wrong. Certainly he should be given an opportunity to redeem himself and come back. But until he does redeem himself he should not be put in any position of honor or prominence. Those places should be reserved for persons worthy of them, persons who are striving diligently to uphold honor and to establish decency.

If those working for the right thing would demand loyalty to their cause with the same zeal that gangsters and professional politicians demand loyalty to their interests, the business of being decent would be decidedly speeded up and strengthened.

MR. HOOVER'S PLANS

Frank R. Kent, whose loyalty to Mr. Hoover during the four years that closed with the descent into the maelstrom and the two years that have followed the ordeal by fire has been a rather touching spectacle, is of the opinion that the former president will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1936.

Mr. Kent argues that his old idol, although somewhat battered and bruised from the buffeting of the difficult years, is entirely clearheaded about his own position. In consequence, he says, Mr. Hoover is not a candidate, does not want to be a candidate and has no intention of being a candidate. He appreciates that his candidacy would split his party and enhance the Roosevelt chances. In passing, Mr. Kent sheds a tear for him as an unlucky man who has been badly treated.

But, at the same time, his statements leave unexplained the sudden emergence of Mr. Hoover from the solitude of his Palo Alto retreat, the rush of his apologists, including Mr. Kent, into print, his conferences with leaders, his appearances before party organizations and the lugubrious wails about the established order that he is sending up from a score of college campuses.

It becomes difficult under all circumstances to reconcile Mr. Hoover's own performances and utterances with Mr. Kent's assurances and so, perhaps, it would be safer to wait awhile before reaching a conclusion as to the designs of the former president.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

LO! THE PASSING INDIAN

There are no more dangerous Indians in America.

Hurray for the red-man!
There little is left
Of the lands that he used to possess.
Yet with what he is sent
He is calm and content
And emits not a whoop of distress.
Bereft by the pale face of Woodland and plain,
He cheerfully harrows and hoes,
And why he's as mild
As a timorous child
He knows! You can gamble he knows!

Supposing some stranger
Should knock at your door,
And savagely bid you depart;
Your loud raucous cries
Would go to the skies,
And something would speedily start.
But the Indian continues to sow and to reap,
Never lifting his voice in a moan,
Though the woods and the hills
And the rocks and the rills,
In the days of the past were his own.
No longer I wonder
Why poor luckless Lo
Has taken his fate lying down.
Yet he goes on his way,
Dull day after day,
With never a groan or a frown.
The answer, perhaps, may be found in the fact
That, although he is fond of a fight,
He'll be forced to the wall
If he battles at all,
For he isn't so very darned bright.

Opposes Statesmen's Wars

By BRUCE CATTON

Once in a blue moon, someone takes the unprecedented step of trying to find out what the ordinary man in the street thinks about his country's foreign policy.

When this is done the results are apt to be surprising.

Some 40 organizations recently undertook a great poll of British citizens to see what sentiment might be in regard to the League of Nations, disarmament, and similar issues.

All in all, they collected more than 11,000,000 votes, slightly less than 40 per cent of the entire British electorate. If the 11,000,000 people who voted represent a fair cross-section of British opinion—and there is good reason to suppose that they do—here is what the average Briton wants done:

He is overwhelmingly in favor of British adherence to the League of Nations.

He is almost equally overwhelmingly in favor of arms reduction.

He favors international agreement to abolish military and naval aircraft and to prohibit the manufacture and sale of weapons for private profit.

He favors the use of economic sanctions, such as the boycott, against aggressor nations which make war in violation of such agreements as the Kellogg treaty. By a lesser majority, he even favors the use of military measures against such nations.

Add all of this together and you discover that the war-weary Briton not only wants peace, but is willing to take some risks and do some unorthodox things in order to get it. That isn't surprising. He lived through four and one-half years of war that almost wrecked his nation; he isn't keen to get another dose of the same.

Statesmen are fond of saying that wars come as a result of irresistible popular clamor; that the various treaties, agreements and leagues to preserve peace are all right in theory but do not command the popular support which they must have in order to succeed; and that a statesman who proposed outright disarmament, or tried to put real teeth in such a thing as the Kellogg treaty, would immediately be disowned by his own voters.

This British poll would seem to give the lie to those claims. It shows that the people of at least one great nation—a nation which lives under the shadow of war, has enemies at its very frontiers and can look back on a long and proud tradition of military success—are ready, even eager, to go to almost any length to keep another war from overwhelming the world.

SO THEY SAY

It is idle to talk of the wickedness of killing, because if and when the next war comes, men will think only of the nobleness of dying.—Lord Hewart, chief justice of England.

The non-farming three-fourths of the nation cannot insulate itself against the economic distress of the agricultural fourth.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The rich, of course, should bear their full share, but to destroy estates is to destroy the goose that lays the golden egg.—Senator Elmer Thomas of Utah.

Creative enterprise is not stimulated by vast inheritances. They bless neither those who bequeath nor those who receive.—President Roosevelt.

BARBS

Our old friend and well-wisher, George Bernard Shaw, says an American asylum for the sane would be empty. Perhaps, but the fact that an empty theater greeted the American presentation of Shaw's new play suggests that we're improving a little mentally.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — The period of taxation maneuvers, counter-maneuvers, trick plays, feints, and about-faces has added greatly to the ranks of those inhabitants here who stand firmly convinced that they are living in what is technically known as a bughouse.

The kindest friends of the administration wish you would blame it all on the notorious local heat.

Low-minded persons who always like to see the privileged classes get a kick in the pants are, however, enjoying a couple of developments on the side which give some promise of making capital life more bearable through a redistribution of its burdens.

Congressman Raymond Cannon of Wisconsin is undertaking to add an element of misery to the lives of the foreign diplomats here and Congressman Steve Young of Ohio has a diabolical scheme aimed at the army officers.

Just A Bowl Of Cherries

These two groups are the envy of us all. Having little to do beyond polo, golf, tennis, and an occasional few turns in a swivel chair, they're always invited to the best parties. They're the only fellows who have time to go and the only ones who have time to change their clothes.

Furthermore, their clothes never get mussy, so they seldom have to change—an obvious item of unfair competition.

Diplomats would be the especial victims of Congressman Cannon's bill, which provides heavy taxes on the wealth of citizens (male or female) who marry aliens. The tax would run from 10 per cent on all fortunes over $100,000 to 25 per cent on fortunes above $500,000.

All over the world, one hears, Washington is looked upon as a happy fish pond for young diplomats whose careers require an heiress in the family. The numerous heiresses who make their debuts here would think twice about that tax. Cannon believes, and the young diplomats would be so handicapped that even young congressmen might have a look-in.

Would This Be Tough!

Young's bill would make army and navy officers on duty in Washington wear uniforms all day long. They wear civilian clothes now and in that disguise, Young insists, flood the capital's cocktail lounges and country clubs.

Says Young: "My bill would reveal all the loafing among them. Civilians would be amazed and taxpayers outraged when they saw the hundreds of officers in uniform. They would insist that the officers be ordered into active service."

Hold That Line, Joe!

For years, Senate Majority Leader Joe Robinson has been privately assuring his friends that he would like to take a sock at Huey Long. This yen comes on Joe in great surges when Huey familiarly puts his arm around Joe on the Senate floor.

Robinson's candidacy for the United States supreme court requires a certain dignity and he thus far has held off. But the day may be approaching.

When Roosevelt's soak-the-rich tax message was being read, Huey eased over, put his arm around his ancient enemy's shoulder, and asked:

"How do yo like it, Joe?"

"Go way from me, or I'll black your eye!" growled Joe, who didn't like it at all.

But Huey just laughed and repeated the performance a bit later, with:

"How's it goin' now, Joe?"

"Lay off me, or I'll black both your eyes!" hissed Robinson, gathering himself as if about to spring.

Huey just kept on laughing. But he didn't come back.

Let The Bones Roll

If Roosevelt backed up the men who run the affairs of the District of Columbia, the capital would have legalized gambling.

Both District Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen and Police Chief Ernest W. Brown have agreed with Congressman William Schulte of Indiana, during an investigation of local lawlessness, that much of the crime problem here might be solved by legalization of gambling—which is now the chief business of Washington's underworld.

"Human nature being what it is," explained Hazen.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—At 2 o'clock in the morning the fog of carbon monoxide lifts from rialto streets, and the first cool wind rustles the discouraged little potted trees hedging the bistro that is Dave's Blue Room. Ice tinkles in tall glasses and dice rattle in backgammon cups. Having the place to themselves now, Broadway folk relax and talk . . .

Talk about a young actor whose ego hasn't been exactly dormant during his recent rise to prominence. Mentioning his mother the other day, he declared her a remarkable woman. A most unusual woman, indeed. "And the most remarkable thing about her," he concluded, "is that she's so modest about me."

They talk about the Marions Chase. There were two of them, and both lived in the same hotel, and they both were well-known singers. Greatest difference between the Marion Chase was that one sang in night clubs and the other warbled for the uppity Metropolitan Opera company.

The situation naturally led to a good deal of confusion. The opera girl would be bidden to moan torch numbers as a guest star at the opening of Chez Rowdy-Dow, and the cabaret entertainer was begged to vocalize in church choirs, polite musicales and society weddings. Each one, resentful of the other's presence, refused to move, and difficulties mounted. It was the opera singer who finally weakened. She didn't move, but changed her name. It's Marissa Chase now.

Dollars Talk

They talk about Hollywood and the invasion of its money into the Broadway theater. The big film companies have been bidding competitively for screen rights of legitimate shows, and paying huge prices for the successful ones. Now they have discovered that it is cheaper to put up the money and become co-producers of plays and musical comedies.

Thus the screen rights are clinched in advance, and when shows make a profit on Broadway the producers are doubly rewarded. But even a Broadway flop may be adapted into a successful movie. Last season Warner Brothers financed the revue "Calling All Stars," expecting a hit show and subsequently a hit movie, and got neither. On the other hand, Warners backed "The Red Cat" feeling pretty certain that it would flop on Broadway. It did, too, but the movie that followed cleared a far greater sum than had been lost.

Opinion is sharply split on whether Hollywoodsmen are rushing in to wreck or revive the flesh-and-blood drama. If play scripts are read with an eye to future flicker adaptation, reactionaries ask, what will happen to plays of the caliber of "The Children's Hour" and "Tobacco Road," which Holy-wood dassn't touch. But a lot of showmen whose loyalties are divided between Broadway and the coast believe the drama most of all needs new blood and fresh money.

Ghost of a Show

Lounging of an early morning at tables of the sidewalk cafe, the mainstemmers chuckled over the experience of Walter Catlett, able actor who went to the cinema city. Interviewed by an executive who couldn't remember his name, Catlett identified himself as Richard Mansfield. "And what shows you been in, Mr. Mansfield?" asked the official.

"Oh, Hamlet, Othello, King Lear"

"Yes, yes," said the other impatiently. "But what modern shows?"

"Why not any. You see—" and here he leaned forward and spoke in a sepulchral whisper—"I've been dead for 20 years!"

Homesick, Not Seasick

Annette Kellerman is in town again, with what seems to be all her old figure and fervor for swimming. Her visit reminds one of the Broadwaymen of a westward Atlantic voyage he made a good many years ago. From sailing time until the ship was docked at Manhattan, he didn't see the occupant of the next stateroom. He frequently heard the person, though—the low moans and other distressful sounds of mal de mer. When everyone was leaving the ship, he noticed a mountain of luggage being removed from the stateroom. On the trunks appeared the words: "Annette Kellerman — Neptune's Daughter."

The talk swings to one of the street's most objectionable busybodie, and he is dissected by the gossips. "Only trouble with Blank," observes Martin Greene, "is that he's got on inferiority complex."

Winnfield

A party of Winnfield girls will return home Sunday from Camp Windywood, where they spent the past two weeks. They are as follows: Brookste Fuller, Lowice Branch, Gloria Nugent, Joan Faith, Sue Radescich, Helen Lois Milam, Doris and Kathleen Kemp.

The girls earned a reputation of being good campers by their ready and joyous participation in all camp activities. In the special contests, Brooksie Fuller, Lowice Branch and Helen Lois Milam won special recognition as being among the best campers in the entire assembly, and were awarded a torch. First place in the senior group diving contest was awarded to Brooksie Fuller, while Helen Lois Milam won the title of "Miss Winnfield" in the beauty contest.

Others were successful in passing tests in life-saving.

The W. M. S. of the First Methodist church held a very satisfactory business session the past week when reports of the past quarter's work were made which showed a highly satisfactory condition of affairs.

The Presbyterian auxiliary met at the church for a program meeting Monday and the theme under consideration was "Spiritual Life." Mrs. A. S. Stokes made an interesting talk.

The girls' auxiliary of the Baptist church W. M. S. met with Mrs. W. P. Martin Tuesday when a program on "Stewardship" was given. Mrs. W. F. Minor was leader. A rehearsal of "Aunt Polly Joins the Missionary Society" was given. This will be presented July 11 at Harmony Grove Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robins, of Huntsville, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Compton of Rusk, Texas, arrived Wednesday and spent the fourth of July with Mr. and Mrs. A. Peterson. They left for home Saturday, being accompanied by Jack Compton and Kelly Peterson. Kelly expects to visit in San Antonio and Corpus Christi before returning home.

The R. A. chapter, the junior and Sunbeam bands of the Baptist church had an enjoyable joint social in the church basement Monday, after regular meetings were held. Games were directed by Misses Dorothy Ethridge, Terrell O'Neal and Hazel Durham. Refreshments were served to 40 persons.

Mrs. A. L. Phillips, of Marion, is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. S. Branch. She is accompanied by her son, Jimmie, who is to spend some time later at Camp Windywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Shelton and son, Marion, of Charleston, S. C., have arrived for a visit with Mr. Shelton's father, J. W. Shelton. They expect to remain several weeks.

Mrs. Ada Kennon of Heflin, arrived this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Watts, Jr.

Miss Pearl Shaw of Alexandria, spent Sunday here with her brother, F. L. Shaw and family. At the same time, Miss Shaw's sister, Mrs. Earl Grigsby, of Baton Rouge, was a guest in the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cupp of Phoenix, Ariz., accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. C. M. Fritzinger and husband, arrived Tuesday for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. S. Jenkins. From here they will visit relatives in Monroe, Baton Rouge and in Laurel, Miss.

Mrs. John Kelsoe had as her guests recently her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McMain, of Pollock, and her sisters, Mrs. Lester Mayes of Tullos, and Mrs. J. M. Sage of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. W. O. Averette, who was called to Wichita, Kans., recently on account of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Strickland, has returned home and her daughter is now much improved.

Mrs. Verna Henderson has returned to her home in Hot Springs after a visit with Mrs. J. B. Wallace.

Mrs. C. O. White of Greenville, S. C., and Mrs. Bessie Creed of Selma, spent the week-end here with Mrs. Pinkie Wright, who is still seriously ill.

A. L. Hoke has returned from an extended trip through the east, stopping to pay a visit to friends in Bridgeport, Del.

Mrs. W. E. Harlan and sons, Jimmy and Ray, of Chicago, are the guests of Mrs. Harlan's sister, Mrs. Earl Hughes.

Dr. G. B. Hall, evangelist, of Wichita Falls, Tex., will start a series of revivals in the Presbyterian church here on July 14. He will be assisted by the pastor, Rev. A. S. Stokes.

Ferriday

Miss Lucille Hopkins of Havana, Cuba, is spending some time here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle. She came to Ferriday from New Orleans, where she visited Miss Ida Davis, another relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Price and young son are enjoying a visit in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Mrs. O. C. Montgomery, Sr., and son, Malcolm, of Vicksburg and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Montgomery, Jr., of Natchez, spent the past week-end at Lake St. John, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cobb and members of their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Knight have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Berkley Knight and young son of Sicily Island.

Reverend and Mrs. Charles G. Brace and young son, Carl, and Mrs. Bruce's sister, Miss Cora Darden, spent a recent week-end in Centreville, Miss., where they were the guests of Mrs. Bruce's relations.

Among the 20 capital crimes of colonial North Carolina were bigamy and the circulation of seditious literature.

FORMER JURIST GIVEN FREEDOM

W. Bernard Vause Is Paroled From Federal Penitentiary At Atlanta

ATLANTA, July 6.—(AP)—W. Bernard Vause, former Kings county judge at Brooklyn, New York, was paroled from the federal penitentiary here today.

The 55-year-old former judge started serving a six-year term on February 3, 1932, following his conviction in the southern district of New York for conspiracy and use of the mails to defraud.

The charges against Vause grew out of the operation of the Columbia Finance corporation.

He was sentenced July 30, 1930, and appeals were carried to the circuit and supreme courts and an appeal for executive clemency was made to President Roosevelt.

The former judge was acquitted in 1930 on a federal charge of false income tax return for the year 1926. Two state charges in New York courts based on the Columbia corporation losses for investors have been dropped.

During his prison term Vause was hospitalized three times, the federal parole board said it found in announcing several months ago that he would be paroled today.

Leaving the prison in mid-morning, Vause entered an automobile and left quickly. No statement regarding his release was forthcoming from prison officials.

GOOD ATTENDANCE IS EXPECTED AT CAMP

Young people from the First Baptist church here are awaiting the annual encampment at Mandeville which will open on July 16. From 30 to 35 will leave here by bus, according to present plans. Churches in the Monroe area, such as those at Jonesville, Oak Ridge, Bastrop, Delhi and other places, are to send delegations who will accompany the Monroe group, L. A. Stulce, educational director of the First Baptist church here, said.

The student union conferences daily will be led by trained workers. On the program are Frank Leavell, G. K. Keegan, E. E. Lee, Rev. J. L. Dodge, Rev. W. A. Corkern, Miss Elizabeth Cullen, Miss May Detherage and Miss Gladys Young.

Each day there will be inspirational talks made by Dr. H. E. Dana, Dr. M. E. Dodd and Dr. T. B. Maston.

Summer Sweethearts

CHAPTER XIII

The girl at the wheel of the big car sat slim and straight and golden in her white frock, her fair hair ruffled in the wind. She looked straight into the eyes of the man on the big black horse.

"I'm all right," she said confusedly. Their glances clung. "You were so quick, I think you probably saved my life. . . ."

She was conscious that nothing she said made any particular sense, but it did not seem to matter. Nothing mattered save the fact that it was morning in summer, that she was young and alive and that Michael Heatheroe was staring down at her as if he had never seen her before.

"You'll try the riding again?' he muttered vaguely.

Katharine laughed and looked away, answering him. Of course she would ride. That was nothing—the tumble had been nothing.

Up the hill a car honked imperiously. Two chickens, trotting out of the door yard of the farm below the riding club, crossed the macadam with slow dignity. Between them a little tiger cat appeared in a series of flying leaps. The chickens scattered.

"This—this is nice up here," commented the girl. "I love it—love to live on a farm."

"Yes, you would," he said, laughing. "Feeding pigs and gathering eggs and picking windfall apples. . . ."

"I would. Honestly."

He glanced significantly at her hands, those slender, rosy-tipped hands fresh from Isabel's ministering fingers. Katharine, accepting the unspoken comment, shrugged her shoulders.

"Can't help it that my life has been so easy."

"No, you can't. That's true."

His voice was grave and she stood, as it were, convicted.

Katharine flushed. "You—you despite us all as wasters, don't you?"

"I do?" said Michael Heatheroe, on a note of honest surprise. "Wherever did you get such a notion?"

"Skip it," cried Katharine gayly. "I was just talking. . . ."

"I think you're grand," said the man soberly.

"Oh, Michael, do you really?"

The moment hung, poised, precious and fragile as a drop of summer dew. But what Michael would have said she was not to know. There was the angry bray of a French horn behind. Katharine, obedient to its challenge, swerved her car to the right, in the narrow road, and a long, low chariot gleaming with cream colored paint and bright work swept past. Sally Moon was at the wheel.

She pulled up abreast of the man on the black horse. "Oh, Michael, don't forget about tonight!"

"I won't." His voice was expressionless.

"If you've a minute now I want to talk to you about those trotters," said Sally languishingly.

"Goodby then," Katharine said coolly. She slid her car into gear and was off like a streak before he could detain her. Was there a gleam of triumph in Sally's opaque dark eyes as she passed?

"I hate her—how I hate her," Katharine cried to herself, taking the curves at a dizzy rate of speed.

Don't forget about tonight, indeed! Pretending she owns him. Nasty little thing. Her cuddly ways, too. I've heard about Sally Moon. Probably he tells everyone he thinks they're grand."

Katharine drove her foot viciously down upon the gas-feed and the little car leaped madly ahead.

What a fool she was, to be losing her head about a pleasant young man who had a way with horses! What, after all, did she know about him? Precisely nothing!

Bertine was very cool because Katharine was late for lunch. "Dr. John telephoned." Bertine said as they rose from the table. "He's coming out for a swim."

"That's nice." Katharine was politely disinterested. As if it mattered whether John Kaye stayed or went . . .

"I do think you might show a little interest in our guests," said Bertine bitterly. "Since you met that woman—that Mrs. Merser—you don't seem to have time for anyone . . . "

Katharine did not answer. Everything was horrid today. Heat had descended on the village like a blanket. Bertine made home unendurable, with her scoldings and complaints. Nothing was as you thought it would be. . . .

She went to her own room and brushed her hair and changed her frock for a brief bathing suit of leaf green silk. In it she looked like a dryad. There was a little cove on their beach where an old maple tree threw pleasant shadows at this time of day. There she would be secure from everyone. In an hour or two she would go in swimming by herself. Let John Kaye find her if he could!

Katharine settled herself in the curve of the rock wall with her plaid beach robe and a book, but her eyes kept roving from the printed page as she review the brief encounter of the morning.

"I think you're grand," Michael had said. Probably that didn't mean a thing. . . .

Presently she fell asleep.

There were voices behind her when she awoke. A man and a girl. They must be below the convent hedge. Probably one of the maids who had slipped down to talk to her beau.

Katharine felt heavy and drowsy. The heat was intense. She had no inclination to move.

Those voices sounded familiar, although neither was lifted above a whisper. "I've fixed it," said the man easily. "We drive up to Greenwich about 10. We meet Howe and the minister at 10:30. Howe has fixed up the license business. Then we send the folks a wire. How does that strike you?"

"Marvelous!" a girl's voice said. Zoe's voice. Katharine stirred uneasily from her lethargy. She ought to make some sound—cry out that she had overheard.

There was the sound of a kiss. The sound of half-hysterical laughter. Katharine sat up, rubbing her eyes. Had she dreamed it all?

But no. To the left a dinghy painted red sped out toward the little yacht bobbing at anchor. Gibbs Larkin's boat.

Zoe Parker eloping with Gibbs! But that was preposterous. Katharine hoped, uneasily, that she had dreamed it. After all, even if it were true, was it any of her business.

She shook herself, sprang erect. She ran to the end of the pier and dove, a flash of green and white against the dazzling summer scene. The man smoking a cigaret on the balcony watched her intently. He was a slim man in a gray business suit. His blunt-tipped fingers were the fingers of a clever surgeon. His eyes were keen behind his glasses.

When he came down the pebbled stretch of beach several minutes later Katharine was swimming. She shouted out to him. "Come along in!"

"Later!"

The heat shimmered on the pier, the sun made a bright cascade of molten reflections on the water. A boat with sail painted emerald green bobbed at anchor off the point. Katharine swam back and hauled herself up by the iron ladder. "Oh, John, it's grand. You ought to come in."

"Going to in half a minute."

"John, are you mad at me?"

He looked at her with his familiar smile and for a minute Katharine was struck by the quality of it.

"I wanted to have a talk with you, Katharine," he said, his voice oddly trembling.

"Did you, John? Look—first of all I want to tell you something. It's the most cock-eyed thing that ever happened to me, but I've got to tell someone. Not half an hour ago I heard Zoe Parker planning to elope with Gibbs Larkin." . . .

"Well, what's all the shouting for?" inquired the man, watching with lazy interest the play of emotion in her mobile face.

"He's terrible, Johnny. We can't let her do it. The other night—you remember—when you came down on the beach and found me? You saw a man dash off, didn't you? I could tell by the way you looked."

He nodded. Something flashed across his quiet face.

"Well, that was Gibbs. He'd been seeing Zoe. I didn't think it would ever be this serious. The Parkers would never forgive me if they knew I'd helped."

"What," asked Dr. Kaye equably, "do you want me to do?"

MAY ASK STATE TO CONSTRUCT NEW DAM

Members of the West Monroe Kiwanis club are of the opinion that if the project were properly outlined and application made in proper form that the state department of conservation might be induced to take over the development of Cheniere lake.

The construction of a dam across the Cheniere at Lenwil, thereby forming a large lake of clear spring water, has been advocated by the West Monroe Kiwanis club for some time. Plans in the past have been formulated but no permanent results have resulted to this time.

Steps are now proposed to be taken through the state conservation department which may be asked to create a dam of the proper height and a fill for a section of highway leading to the stream. Land not suited for agriculture would be used for a lake that could be stocked with fish, in the opinion of those who are interested.

Enthusiastic residents of one Japanese community recently named a new-born camel after the country's leading actress.

TAX ROW GROWS AS LONG SESSION THREAT IS MADE

ure should raise $350,000,000 to $500,000,000 annually.

Another leading Democratic committeeman, who talked privately because he did not want to start a "fuss" with Hill, remarked he thought a bill raising $200,000,000 would be sufficient.

Hill said, however, that it would be difficult to raise $340,000,000 a year even by increasing taxes on all incomes over $100,000 and putting new levies on all inheritances above $50,000. Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee had calculated that $340,000,000 would be raised by taxing only incomes above $1,000,000, inheritances over $300,000, gifts, and corporation incomes.

Secretary Morgenthau told Harrison's committee that the treasury had in mind a tax along those lines which could bring in $300,000,000 to $600,000,000 annually.

"So far," Hill said, "I haven't heard of any such plan; and I don't believe the treasury has any definite plan. Those $300,000,000 and $340,000,000 and $600,000,000 figures were held out to the country as to what could be done, and I don't see how we can stop at a small figure.

"But the money just isn't there unless we cut more deeply into the middle brackets."

The ways and means committee starts its hearings Monday.

Senator McNary said his belief was that congress either would pass a small bill hitting the high incomes and adjourn soon or prepare for more detailed study of a broad tax program and put off its passage.

DR. DEAN STARTS TERM THIS WEEK

may issue instructions then for disposing of the Dean case.

The governor has been presented with a pardon petition bearing the names of several hundred persons urging him to pardon the woman physician, who is said to be critically ill.

At a pardon hearing in Jackson several weeks ago, physicians attending Dr. Dean, testified that she would not live "over a year" if confined in prison.

Dr. Dean was convicted of administering a lethal dose of poison to Dr. Kennedy, with whom she admittedly had had a "love affair," in a whisky cocktail. The woman was convicted largely upon the accusation of the alleged victim, who in a "dying declaration" said that he had been poisoned by Dr. Dean, witnesses testified.

Under the direction of State college, farmers in 10 North Carolina counties are carrying out systematic reforestation of idle lands with loblolly and longleaf pines.

26 DICTATORSHIP BILLS APPROVED

has appointed to 11, were seated today.

Alvin T. Stumpf, Gretna, La., manufacturer, was given the seat formerly occupied by Joseph W. Fisher of Jefferson parish in the house of representatives. Fisher was recently convicted on income tax law violation charges and is now serving a federal penitentiary sentence.

In the senate, T. A. McConnell of New Orleans, was appointed to replace Paul E. Chasez, whose seat was declared vacant today because he accepted a job as personnel director of the federal emergency relief administration in New Orleans.

Senator Joseph Boudreaux of Abbeville, objected on the grounds the governor had no right to make legislative appointments and further that Chasez's job with the FERA did not disqualify him.

The governor's appointments are made under a ruling of the attorney-general that he has the authority as no elections can be held this year.

When Chasez' seat was declared vacant by a 26 to 3 vote, Long said:

"We ought to ask the federal government to give out three more jobs so we can make this senate unanimous."

Frank Peterman, former senator, was removed when he became Louisiana administrator for the FERA. Both Chasez and Peterman were anti-administrationists.

The smooth course of the 26 bills through the senate finance committee was interrupted only once, when District Attorney Eugene Stanley of New Orleans, Long's bitter enemy, appeared to protest against favorable action on the measure giving the state attorney general the right to name Stanley's assistant district attorneys and clerical help.

"In every parish in the state, outside of New Orleans, the district attorney has the power to appoint his assistants," Stanley said. "I say this is a bad bill and has behind it a purely political motive. I beseech at your hands an unfavorable report."

The committee, however, in stride, approved the bill without a dissenting voice being heard.

Long ascended rhetorical heights in explaining the bill which will give him control of every non-elective political employe in the state, by placing the employes under the state civil service commission which the senator controls.

"This is the golden dream of politics," Long said. "It is a law which the state will never want to get rid of in years to come."

Long heard himself described in the house as a "lying crook" and a political manipulator of state funds when the house took up and passed the bills providing a $200 fine and a 90-day prison term for use of federal relief funds for political purposes.

Long has repeatedly charged the Roosevelt administration planned to use government money in fighting him in Louisiana.

Ineffectual efforts were made by anti-administrationists to include in the bill provisions for the same penalties for political use of state funds, but administrationists answered the state already had laws taking care of such misuse of public funds.

The house beat down an anti-Long resolution calling upon Long, self-professed "aide and ambassador" of President Roosevelt, to take state action to carry out Roosevelt's pension plan for the aged. It was sidetracked by introduction of an administration resolution criticizing the president's plan as inadequate.

Some voiced opposition was raised by bills stripping Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, of New Orleans, of practically all powers.

One measure gives the state control of all employes and another provides for payment of policemen and firemen, who are already under Long's control.

Employes of 11 city departments, presently under Walmsley's control, are being paid by the FERA because the city's coffers are empty as a result of Long's legislation and litigation. The policemen and firemen were not paid by the FERA.

"It had not been my intention to say anything about these matters, but no matter how meritorious they may be, I can't vote for them," said Representative Mason Spencer of Madison parish.

"I can't vote for a lot of half-baked stuff being railroaded through this legislature that nobody knows about and cares less. No good can come of it."

Frank H. Peterman, state FERA administrator, said in New Orleans today that when the state administration took over the city departments the FERA would discontinue paying the workers.

"That suits us," retorted Long. "Anyhow, we don't propose to take over the city departments until election day."

The state elections will be held in January, 1936.

YACHTSMEN PERISH AT SEA

Engaged in a trans-Atlantic race of seven yachts from Newport, R. I., to Bergen, Norway, in their 54-foot ketch, the Hamrah (above), Robert Ames, Boston sportsman, and his two sons, Richard (left inset) and Harry (right), perished in a gale that overtook their craft about 600 miles east of Newfoundland. A mountainous wave washed their father overboard and the boys were drowned in vain efforts to rescue him. (Associated Press Photos)

ficers and seven additional members elected at this convention."

Intentions of the conference to develop a new party on a national scale were emphasized in the eighth and ninth articles of the recommendations. They directed the executive committee to organize the states into "properly functioning units of the American Commonwealth Federation" and to arrange for city, county, ward and precinct units.

With the tenth recommendations another argument developed.

The majority report urged: "This conference affirm its belief in the Democratic process and the achievement of its ends through peaceful means. Members and groups shall be admitted to this federation which support this principle."

Chairman Paul H. Douglas, university of Chicago political economist, told the delegates this was strong enough to keep out communists.

But a minority report by Ray McKaig which recommended "that all members of the Communist party and all those opposed to the Democratic process be excluded" drew support from the floor.

SOLONS DEMAND ACTION ON SILVER

or until the price of that metal had reached $1.29 an ounce.

Commenting on the recent drop in the price of silver from a high of 81 cents, to about 69 cents, Thomas contended the banks, with forehand knowledge of when the treasury was to buy or sell silver, were able to profit either on the upturn or the drop.

The Oklahoman emphasized he did not accuse either Secretary Morgenthau or the banks with "duplicity" but insisted "banks will be banks" when an opportunity for profit is offered.

will be reviewed by the supreme court, possibly in time to influence the 1936 campaign profoundly.

If the essential principles share the fate of NRA and no other way can be found to effect them within the constitution, proposals to amend that instrument are expected.

If all should be sustained, "issues" now indicated would have less chance of realization.

In the months that must pass before the court acts, the current dispute over fundamentals of government is expected to grow. While the president has just broadened his objectives to include "wider distribution of wealth" through taxation, opposition to the New Deal centers the more on its alleged "unAmericanism."

Tallulah

Mrs. R. C. Gaines was hostess to the members of her bridge club on Saturday afternoon of last week. She served delightful refreshments after the games. Those in attendance were Mesdames W. C. Starrett T. B. Lucas, George Yerger, Jr., R. T. Campbell, W. M. Scott, C. H. Todd and Alex Blanche.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. was entertained on Wednesday evening at Lake Providence with a delightful swimming party, a picnic lunch being served after the swim. Those present were Flynt Hall of Gulfport, Burney Jones, Patricia Gilpin, Lucille Flowers, Vivian Scott, Helen Massey, Louise Westmoreland, Barbara Harrington, Herbert Massey, Emma Lishman, Hunter Whitehead, Ethel Emory, William Towne, Cecile Whitehead, J. C. Bryan, Joe Cline, Herbert Day, Martha Bunch, Marguerite Boswell, Lessie Wood, Aulbra Smith, Lena Mae Cheevers, Lavonne Waters, Katherine Westmoreland, Mary Sue Cummings, Helen Gibson, Herman Smith, Clyde Wade and Jimmie Spinks. The group was chaperoned by Mrs. H. J. Jones.

The Friday Afternoon club met with Mrs. Herman Lancaster. Mrs. Wray Bowie won the high score prize and Mrs. J. D. Halbach captured second high. A refreshing salad course was attractively served to Mesdames Wray Bowie, J. C. Lee, C. H. Calhoun, J. D. Halbach, Paul Schwartz, Harry Anderson, R. L. Moncrief and John Fridge.

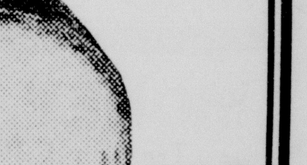

Increasing interest is being manifested in the Daily Vacation Bible school being conducted at the Methodist church. New pupils are enrolled each day and the work in each of the departments is progressing satisfactorily. The junior department, under the leadership of Mrs. C. K. Smith, is using as a basis for study, "The Land Where Jesus Lived," the primary department, under Mrs. C. S. Pierce, "Learning About Our Church," and the beginners, "Our Happy World.

The monthly meeting of the Madison Parish Garden club was held with Mrs. Albert Sevier on Tuesday afternoon, with the vice-president, Miss Bertha Keller, presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. M. Murphy. Mrs. W. D. Buford served as leader of the program, which consisted of two appropriate readings by Mrs. C. W. Spencer and a round-table discussion on parks for Tallulah, led by Miss Keller. The club voted to sponsor a project for a park and playground for Madison parish and will lend its efforts to its accomplishment. The president-elect, Mrs. Horace Maxwell, named her yearbook committee and flower show committee.

A delightful social hour followed the session, when the hostess served a delicious ice course. Those in attendance were Mesdames D. H. Allen, W. D. Buford, Charles Coltharp, J. H. Devine, W. R. Gilfoil, T. P. Kell, H. R. Maxwell, E. T. Purnell, A. L. Sevier, George Webb, J. B. Collins, David E. Holt, W. H. Hale, Tom Fortner, Will Sevier, Jr., and C. E. Hester and Miss Bertha Keller.

Mrs. Albert Sherwin entertained the members of her bridge club. Mrs. Hugh Montgomery received the award for high score. An enjoyable plate lunch was attractively served at the close of the games to Mesdames R. L. Baily, Hugh Montgomery, Maxwell Yerger, Will Adams, Will Sevier, Jr., and Misses Jane Johnson, Katherine Ward and Jessica Greene.

Ouachita Parish Farmers To Discuss Eradication Of Tuberculosis

Meetings of Ouachita parish farmers for the purpose of discussing a campaign of eradication of tuberculosis in cattle in the parish, in connection with a state-wide program, will be held in various communities from tomorrow until Tuesday of next week, it was announced by E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent.

Assembly places for bunching cattle for tuberculin tests will be selected at the meetings.

The parish program, and the entire state program, are being conducted without cost to the farmer. Under the law, all persons who own cattle, whether they own a large herd or one animal, must have their stock tested for tuberculosis.

Following is the schedule of meetings:

Monday: Guy Barr's farm, 9 a. m.; Sterlington, Methodist church, 11 a. m.; Fairbanks school, 1:30 p. m.; Hugh Collins' store, 3:30 p. m.

Tuesday: Lock Arbor church, 9 a. m.; Swartz school, 11 a. m.; Millhaven negro school, 1:30 p. m.; I. E. Lucas' farm, 3:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Richwood church, 9 a. m.; Monroe, court house, 11 a. m.; Harrison, Rhymes' farm, 1:30 p. m.; Riser school, 3:30 p. m.

Thursday: McDonald's dairy farm, 9 a. m.; Bosco, 11 a. m.; Jess Bawcomb's home, 1:30 p. m.; Allen White's farm, 3:30 p. m.

Friday: Claiborne school, 9 a. m.; Cheniere school, 11 a. m.; Drew school, 1:30 p. m.; Lee Neal's store, 3:30 p. m.

Saturday: Peevy negro school, 9 a. m.; Eureka school, 11 a. m.; Calhoun school, 2 p. m.

Monday, July 15: Mineral Springs negro school, 9 a. m.; Old Cadeville school, 11 a. m.; Okaloosa school, 1:30 p. m.; Lapine school, 3:30 p. m.

Tuesday, July 16: Mt. Vernon school, 9 a. m.; Cypress school, 11 a. m.; Watson school, 1:30 p. m.

Reading room, 1108 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily except Sundays and holidays 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 7. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Sing praises to God, sing praises; sing praises unto our King, sing praises. For God is the King of all the earth: sing ye praises with understanding. God reigneth over the heathen: God sitteth upon the throne of His holiness." (Ps. 47). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "That God is a corporeal being, nobody can truly affirm. The Bible represents Him as saying, 'Thou canst not see My face; for there shall no man see Me, and live.' Not materially but spiritually we know Him as divine Mind, as Life, Truth, and Love. We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God. The Jewish tribal Jehovah was a man-projected God, liable to wraht, repentance, and human changeableness. The Christian Science God is universal, eternal, divine Love, with changeth not and causeth no evil, disease, nor death. We acknowledge and adore one supreme and infinite God." (pp. 140-497).

Brother Johnson has moved here on the field to take up the work of the Lord and will be our regular pastor from now on. Those who heard him while he was here with us a few weeks ago will remember the interesting, instructive and inspiring messages straight from the Word of God. All are urged to turn out and give our new pastor a rousing welcome.

RECREATION SETS UP SUMMER PACE

Many Projects Are Now Being Carried Out; Others To Come

Municipal recreation department projects are now in full swing and promise diversified interest, a member of the board said Saturday. There are now five playgrounds in full operation and one playground for boys exclusively that is near the Missouri Pacific railroad station. There are four teams of junior league baseball, six teams of senior league baseball and eight teams of soft ball in operation.

The new recreation center, 124 1-2 DeSiard street, is proving popular. Games of all kinds are being played and club meetings are conducted there. The Rhythm club, the junior and senior stamp clubs, tthe Marionette club and other organizations are using the rooms as a place for assembling. It is open for adults as well as for children and all are welcome from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily.

It is the purpose to interest the general public in the programs that are carried out. For example, the lantern parade and swimming contests were highly successful July 4 at the natatorium. The next affair that will be open to the public will be a doll show on July 26 at the recreation center. There will be a doll parade at 10 a.m. and an open display at 2 p.m. on the same day. At 7:30 p.m. also there will be a special show staged at the recreation center.

After the doll show there will be a model boat building contest at the pool and races will be conducted on July 28.

Other contests will be announced from time to time, it was said.

Kansas unemployed took steps to form a state organization at an Emporia meeting.

NEW STORE PLANNED BY E. JACK SELIG

Contract has been awarded by E. Jack Selig for the remodeling of a store at 230 DeSiard street, formerly occupied by the Roosevelt bar, which will be occupied on or about August 15 by Jack's Clothes shop. The contract was for $1,750.

The new establishment will be managed by E. Jack Selig, Jr., and will feature two-price clothing and topcoats.

The interior of the store will be completely renovated and all new fixtures will be installed. New show windows will be built and the store will be one of the most modern in the city when completed.

Other contests will be announced from time to time, it was said.

Jack Selig, Jr., returned from Chicago Friday, where he purchased a full line of new fall suits and overcoats which will be shipped in time for the opening. He also purchased new and novel window fixtures.

CARTER IS FREED UNDER BIG BOND

Alleged 'Legs Murder' Slayer Released Pending High Court Appeal

LAUREL, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—W. M. Carter, 67-year-old Laurel businessman sentenced to life imprisonment for the butcher slaying of Mrs. Daisy Keeton, wealthy laurel widow, today was released under $15,000 bond pending appeal to the state supreme court.

Carter was released temporarily by Judge W. Joe Pack in Jones county circuit court after he had heard several doctors testify Carter's health would be jeopardized if he were kept in the Jones county jail until the supreme court acted.

Miss Ouida Keeton, daughter of the slain woman, who is also sentenced to life imprisonment for the "legs" murder of her mother, has been released under a similar bail, pending appeal.

The torso and legs portions of Mrs. Keeton's mutilated body were found on a lonely country lane early this spring. The remaining portions of the body have never been found.

MERCURY CLIMBS TO 96 DEGREES AS RESIDENTS PANT

Yes, sir. It was hot Saturday and Saturday night.

Old Sol beamed down in all his glory during the day, sending the temperature soaring to 96 degrees as a maximum.

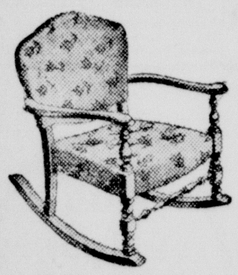

The heat continued far into the night and it took no stretch of the imagination to realize that mid-summer is here.

Saturday's maximum temperature was the second highest of the year, according to Miss Katie Key, U. S. weather observer. The highest for the year was 97 degrees.

"WATCH THE FORDS GO BY"

POWER TO GO
AND POWER TO STOP

A SAFE CAR helps to make a safe driver. The Ford Motor Company sees to it that you get a safe car. Unusual power to go is combined with unusual power to stop. Ford brakes are an outstanding feature. They are powerful, efficient and easy to apply—with more braking area per pound of weight than any other car under $1095.

But Ford safety is more than the safety of good brakes. It is built into every part of the car.

The Ford body is all steel . . . steel reinforced with steel and electrically welded into a one-piece unit for still greater strength. All Ford body types have Safety Glass throughout at no extra cost.

Three other reasons why you will feel safer in a Ford are ease of handling, stability, and the alert, obedient performance of the V-8 engine.

The Ford is steady on curves. It hugs the road because of correct weight distribution and because its center of gravity is low. You will find that the steady, sure response of the Ford communicates calmness and confidence to those in the car and makes each journey easier and more reposeful.

The Ford thus gives you double safety. The way it drives helps you to avoid danger. The way it is built provides unusual protection in time of emergency.

Boon To Home Dressmaker

Patterns 2194 and 2353

There never was a season when fashion seemed to make "all things possible" to the home dressmaker as does this one! Even the tailored sports frock (once considered the sacred right of "professionals") has abandoned some of its detail for softness, so it's easy for even the beginner to make pattern 2194 with its simple yoke-sleeve topping a shirred bodice. Turn about is fair play, so this time the afternoon frock, pattern 2353, seemingly all softness and flattery in its puffed sleeves and high skirt panel ending in a sash, borrows a tailored trick and gives a clean-cut finish to the neck with a neat round yoke and buttons. Sports fabric for pattern 2194; and of soft sheer for afternoon model.

Pattern 2194 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3 1-4 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Pattern 2353 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 3 3-4 yards, 39-inch fabric. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Anne Adams pattern, thirty cents (30c) for both. Write name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Anne Adams summer pattern book should be in every home! Its forty fascinating pages are full of fashion facts every woman wants to know! Everyone's problem is solved . . . the bride with trousseau troubles . . . the matron with weighty problems . . . the much "dated" deb . . . tiny tots at play . . . vacation planners! Consult its fashion pages for a smarter wardrobe! Read its absorbing special articles for a smarter point of view! Send for your copy today! Price of book fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

After the meeting the hostess served iced tea and sandwiches.

H. T. Van Fossen, Jr., has returned after spending a week in Washington, D. C. and Annapolis, Md., where he was called to stand his physical examination for entrance to the naval academy.

Young Van Fossen won the principal appointment from the fifth district, and spent a year studying at Marion Military institute and his grades at that institution were accepted for the mental examination but in the physical examination was rejected.

Mrs. A. J. Wyly entertained the Philathea class of the Methodist church at the home of Mrs. T. J. Slagle. Mrs. C. E. Newman, junior past president, presided in the absence of Mrs. E. Wilbourn, who is spending the summer in Vicksburg. Donations were acknowledged from Sheriff J. C. Bass of $5, and two dozen glasses from Mrs. R. K. Howard.

Mrs. Grady Wyly will be hostess to the first of a series of teas for which the various members of the organization will be hostesses during the summer months.

After the business session the hostess served cakes and cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Merrill were hosts at a farewell dinner honoring Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Goyne, before their departure to reside in Vicksburg, which was regretted by a wide circle of friends.

Guests to bid farewell to this popular young couple were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Surles, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Abernethy, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bass, Miss Sue Pinkston, Miss Ruby Bass, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hebrard of Bernice, La., and Judge W. H. Maben.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

SYNDICATE HAS FINE STATEMENT

Report Of Investors Syndicate Indicates Efficient Management

The 1934 statement of condition of Investors Syndicate should bring to their more than 200,000 certificate holders throughout the United States and Canada a satisfying sense of security and peace of mind—a feeling of the soundness and proven stability of the company in which they have expressed their confidence.

During its entire history, year in and year out, Investors Syndicate has maintained an unbroken record of progress, regardless of good times or bad.

The company's record during the past five depression years proves the soundness of its plan of operations and the conservative policy of its management. During this time its liquid position was substantially strengthened, its total resources were almost doubled and every obligation was met promptly, when due.

In the recent depression period of general uncertainty, Investors Syndicate disbursed to its certificate holders a total of more than $40,000,000—in sums that meant to many the difference between actual charity and independence of conditions. Some of this money went toward the college education of young men and women preparing themselves for life's battles. Some aided in the purchase of homes or helped to free them from debt. To some, it meant food, clothing, shelter—comfortable and carefree old age, at a time when a person of 60 or 65 without means of support, was unquestionably a burden upon relatives or friends.

In all, this vast sum proved a bulwark of living protection between these people and the emergencies which arose.

Investors Syndicate's 1934 statement shows a substantial strengthening of its liquid position as an added protection to its certificate holders. Cash, high grade bonds and marketable securities were increased from $13,517,806.45 at the close of 1933, to $24,026,775.32 as of December 31, 1934, totaling 38.8 per cent of the company's resources.

Total resources at the end of 1934 amounted to $61,905,167.22, as shown in the accompanying statement, an increase of $7,390,316.96 over the previous year.

From the date of its founding in 1934, Investors Syndicate has paid every obligation promptly when due.

They are proud of this record.

John S. Fox, district manager, heads the Investors Syndicate organization in this territory.

PONTIAC SALES SHOW BIG GAIN

3,000 More Cars Sold To June 20 Than During Year Of 1934

Retail deliveries of Pontiac automobiles in the United States from January 1 to June 20 exceeds those of the entire year of 1934 by more than 3,000 cars, it was announced today by Mr. A. W. L. Gilpin, vice president and general sales manager of Pontiac Motor company.

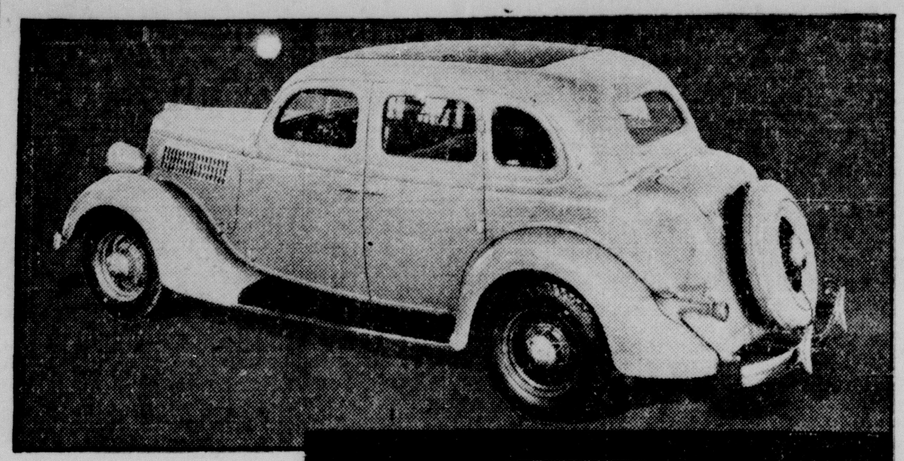

Deliveries this year to date total 76,147 while those for the 12 months of last year were 72,877, it was stated. The 1935 figures have not been equalled since 1929. At the end of the 10-day period of June, 1934, Pontiac dealers had delivered 40,169 cars, thus revealing an increase in retail sales this year of more than 75 per cent.

"Early in the year we predicted that sales would hold up into the summer," said Mr. Gilpin, "and the record for June bears out that such will be the case." Deliveries during the second 10-day period this month were 4,872, giving us a total for the first two periods of 9,184 with every indication of running well over the 14,500 mark for the month.

"Reports from our dealers and field organizations are optimistic and points to one of the best summers Pontiac has ever seen. Employment in our factory is holding up near the peak with two shifts to date working in most departments."

"Naturally we are gratified at the wonderful acceptance the public has given Pontiac cars this year. It justifies the judgment of the engineers who designed the line and it indicates that the cars are performing satisfactorily in the hands of owners."

Here's The New Ford V-8 Touring Sedan

Ford dealers have introduced a beautiful new line of Ford cars with built-in trunks. These cars are furnished with DeLuxe equipment.

The rear seat is moved forward. The built-in trunk opens into the space behind the rear seat. The spare tire is mounted outside of the trunk. These features provide a trunk of generous proportions.

A Ford dealer employee crawled into the trunk shown at the right to illustrate its generous proportions.

KNEE-ACTION CAR PROVES POPULAR

Latest Chevrolet Figures Prove Comfort Feature Is Preferred

Conclusive proof of the motoring public's demand for knee-action, demonstrating that buyers not only want it but are willing to pay the small extra charge for it, is presented in the Chevrolet Motor company's announcement that only three per cent of the purchasers of its Master de luxe models, which may be had either with knees or with a conventional front axle, order the conventional type suspension.

William E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, who announced the comparative figures, declares that the proof of the knee action acceptance is all the more positive because knee action requires an outlay of $20 additional.

"When we announced, last January," said Mr. Holler, "that knee-action would be optional equipment at a small extra charge, I underestimated the hold that the improved suspension had already taken on the motoring public. I gave out a statement estimating that 90 per cent of the purchasers of the Master de luxe models would order knee action. Instead, it is 97 per cent.

"This percentage is based on figures for sales beginning with March. Before that, we were not in heavy production on conventional axle models. In March, 97.2 per cent of our orders were for knee action cars; in April, 96.3 per cent; in May, 98.7 per cent; and in June, 97.5 per cent.

"Knee action got off to a great start in 1934, its first year. More than half of all the cars registered in the United States last year had some form of knee action. Until this year, however, we could not tell whether people were buying cars with knee action because they preferred them to conventional axles, since no make of car gave buyers their choice of either form of suspension. This year, Chevrolet, by making knee action optional, has given the public its chance to register its preference, and knee action has won overwhelmingly."

Trucker Without Mishap In 400,000 Miles Driving

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—(AP)—Four hundred thousand miles of truck driving without so much as a dented fender is the record of Harry Wilde, freight carrier driver for a feed firm here. He has driven daily for nine years without an accident.

Wilde, who claims a national safety record for regularly empolyed drivers, has been awarded medals and bonuses for his achievement.

RECKLESS DRIVER MUST BE CURBED

Many People Killed By Improperly-Driven Motor Vehicles

The reckless driver, like the habitual criminal, can't win.

Every newspaper carries the evidence of that, in accounts of those whose lives have been sacrificed to speed, to incompetence, and to carelessness at the wheel, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc.

The tragic end to the great career of T. E. Shaw, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," was headlined in the papers of the world a few weeks ago. Not yet 40, Shaw had done war service whose value to the English cause was so great as to make it almost unappraisable. He had distinguished himself as a translator of Greed classics. He was one of the most brilliant of living archaeologists. He was a military and mechanical genius of the first rank. It was certain that his period of greatest achievement still lay in the years ahead.

Shaw's "hobby" was to drive automobiles and motorcycles at incredibly high speeds on country roads. According to news accounts, his cycle was going at around eighty miles an hour when he was forced to deliberately crash to avoid striking a boy on a bicycle. A few days later he died without regaining consciousness. His doctor said that it was best that he did not live, because of the terrible injuries his brain had sustained in the accident. Congenital recklessness had robbed the world of one of its gifted minds.

Every year in this country alone some 35,000 people die—victims to improperly - driven motor vehicles. Among them are the famous and the obscure, the brilliant and the mediocre. Each life lost means that the nation's resources have been sapped—each death means misery and unhappiness to others. Reckless driving is an unbeatable game at which the player always loses—and which likewise penalizes and robs the innocent.

The average tourist spends $5.57 a day of which 27 per cent goes for lodging and 37 per cent for food, the California Automobile association estimates.

KELLY-BAXTER BOUT TOPS OUTDOOR CARD TODAY

FOUR MATCHES ON BIG PROGRAM AT CASINO BALL PARK

Bruscato Celebrates First Anniversary With All-Star Mat Show

With four matches on the program, Monroe's biggest wrestling show will be staged at Casino park this afternoon, starting at 3:30 o'clock. It will be the first outdoor mat show presented here in several years.

Celebrating his first anniversary as a wrestling promoter, Charlie Bruscato has made elaborate arrangements for the big show, with a match between Ernest Kelly, long a favorite in Monroe, and Laverne Baxter, clever North Carolina youngster, headlining the program. The Baxter-Kelly bout is one of a double main event, the other presenting a pair of barrelhouse performers in Leo, the Terror, 245-pound bearded villain of Kentucky, and George Cochrane, former Washington lumberjack, who tips the beam at 225.

The preliminary bout which opens the big show will find Johnny Ackten, 169, of Mobile, meeting Emanuel Lopez, 173, of Laredo, Texas, in what has been billed as a grudge match. In the semi-final, Louis Bacigalupi, husky Italian from Chicago, will tangle with George Mansor, Syrian Adonis. Bacigalupi weighs 230 pounds and Mansor 225.

Both main events will be best two out of three falls, each with a two-hour time limit. The semi-final will be a one-fall affair, with a one-hour time limit, while the prelim will be one fall, limited to 45 minutes.

The largest crowd ever to witness a wrestling show here is expected to pack Casino park. Promoter Bruscato announced last night that reservations have been received from Alto, Bastrop, Rayville, Sterlington, Ruston, Columbia, Delhi and Crossett, Ark., as well as many requests for ringside seats from local fans.

The ring has been placed over home plate at the ball park and a good view of the action may be had from all parts of the grandstand. Ringside seats will be provided, with general admission tickets entitling their holders to choose their seats any place in the stands.

While every match on the card promises to be good, the Kelly-Baxter match is expected to be one of the best ever staged here. Both are clever youngsters who have made a big hit with local wrestling enthusiasts. Each is a clean, scientific performer and both know plenty of holds.

Kelly has been wrestling here for almost a year and he has built up a large following. Baxter made his local debut a couple of weeks ago and gave one of the most pleasing exhibitions ever shown here. The two are ideally matched, each weighing 210 pounds and each being an exceptionally fast worker.

The other main event, featuring Leo and Cochrane, will provide a contrast for the Kelly-Baxter affair. Both are as rough as they come, and Leo has yet to be tamed in the local arena. Cochrane has promised Promoter Bruscato that he will turn the trick today and the fans may expect all kinds of fireworks when the two roughhouse artists meet.

Bruscato said yesterday that Bacigalupi, who meets Mansor in the semi-final, has fully recovered from a snake bite which prevented his appearance here last Wednesday night and will be in good shape for his encounter with the Syrian. Mansor will be making his first appearance here, and consequently local fans know little about him, but he has an excellent record.

Ackten and Lopez, a pair of light heavyweights, are said to have a grudge against each other and today's match is expected to settle their differences, whatever they may be.

City and highway police will handle the traffic at the park, and Bruscato has announced that there will be plenty of parking space. Cars will be parked inside the ball park as long as space permits, the promoter said.

The big show will include music by Vincent LaRocco and his 20-piece band and several other features. Promoters from various parts of Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas will be guests of Bruscato on his first anniversary.

Bruscato said last night that he was considering several referees to handle the show today and promised that a capable official will act as third man in the ring. Harry Prophit will make the announcements and Phillip Lisotta will keep time.

THE ALL-STAR GAME

The National league apparently is tired of taking it on the chin in baseball's annual all-star game. The senior loop will present a team Monday which includes an even dozen members of the New York Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals, admittedly the two strongest clubs in the National, in an effort to crash through with their first victory since the game was inaugurated two years ago.

The American league squad this year will honor a number of veterans who have had their great moments but who are hardly the best in the league at the present writing. There's no denying that Vernon Gomoz, Schoolboy Rowe and Bob Grove, for instance, rank with the outstanding hurlers of the game but in the light of cold statistics, they're not the tops in the American league right now. Vito Tamulis, Johnny Allen and Ted Lyons all have better records, but neither got the call.

Also, Lou Gehrig and Joe Cronin will start at first base and shortstop, respectively, but the records indicate that Hank Greenberg and Bill Knickerbocker would have been better choices. Knickerbocker is hitting .311 to Cronin's .265 and the Boston skipper has been rather jittery around short this season. Ossie Bluege, a shopworn player, drew an infield berth ahead of Hale, Travis, Higgins and other brilliant young ball players.

The fact that Lyons was overlooked is particularly regrettable. The veteran White Sox hurler has been going great guns this season and for the first time in the history of the all-star classic, he has earned the right to a berth on the hurling staff. It may be his last chance to crash the big game.

Of course, the American league vets may come through in the clutch and knock the dope for a cocked hat, but with an infield consisting of Terry, Frisch, Vaughan and Martin, an outfield of Medwick, Berger and Ott and the league's leading hurlers to do the chunking, it looks like the National's year.

WHO'S THE CHAMP?

Danno O'Mahoney beat Jimmy Londos and they're calling the Irishman the heavyweight wrestling champion of the world. But is he? In Massachusetts Ed George was and as far as we know still is recognized as the champ, and the O'Mahoney-Londos thing was held in Massachusetts. How could O'Mahoney win George's title when the said George wasn't even in the ring?

Of course, Londos was recognized by the National Wrestling association and by other state wrestling commissions which are not members of the N. W. A. And the fact that he was defeated by O'Mahoney, even in an "outlaw" state, apparently wins the title for Danno, although the line of reasoning is a little complicated.

Several of the boys supposedly "in the know" up East told us last week that Londos' price for "losing" the championship was $50,000. Jeems had accumulated a small fortune and was tired of it all. He says he's through now and will take a trip back home to Greece. But if the heavyweight ranks haven't produced a champion more colorful than O'Mahoney by the time Londos finishes his vacation, you can look for the Greek to come out of retirement and regain his title. After all, wrestling must have a showman at the top of the heap and there's no denying that Londos qualifies in that respect.

CHARLIE'S 'BIRTHDAY'

Charlie Bruscato celebrates his first birthday as a wrestling promoter with a four-bout card at Casino park this afternoon. It's Monroe's first outdoor wrestling show in seven or eight years and from all indications, it will be a big success.

Bruscato took over wrestling here a year ago, after Little Rock interests had made a flop of it with light heavyweights and middleweights. Several years ago Charlie built Roosevelt stadium with little prospect of making it a paying proposition. After the first attempt to make the mat game pay was unsuccessful Bruscato took over the promotional end of the game, brought in heavyweights instead of the lighter boys and began to build for the future.

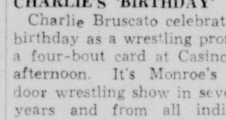

The increased attendance testifies to his success. There have been some excellent matches at Roosevelt stadium and some that weren't so good, but as a whole the fans have been well pleased with Bruscato's efforts.

Charlie has done a good job in his first year as the big boss of wrestling and it is the wish of his many friends that he continue to enjoy the success that has marked the venture so far.

LOOKOUTS, CRACKERS SPLIT

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—The Lookouts, hampered by injuries and the fact that players obtained in trades have not arrived, played inspired ball here today to split a double header with Atlanta.

Chattanooga won the first, 4 to 3, on John Mihalic's homer in the tenth. The Crax won the nightcap, 3 to 1, with Jim Lindsey besting Dick Lanahan in a duel.

Scores:
First game:
Atlanta ..... 002 010 000 0—3 9 2
Chattanooga ... 000 102 000 1—4 11 0

BARONS DOWN ROCKS

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 6.—(AP)—A home run by Eddie Moore, rookie Baron stortstop, gave the Birmingham club a 6 to 5 victory over Little Rock today, their second straight in the current series. The Barons batted Mustaikis out in the seventh to come from behind, and then Moore's clout cinched it, after the Travellers had tied it up in their half of the eighth.

Little Rock ..... 100 100 111—5 9 0
Birmingham ..... 100 000 32x—6 9 2

Holbrook, Nats Catcher, Marries Washington Girl

ROCKVILLE, Md., July 6.—(AP)—James M. (Sam) Holbrook, catcher of the Washington Senators, and Miss Ruth Stoehr of Washington were married tonight at the home of the Baptist minister.

They were accompanied by Cliff Bolton, also a catcher for the Senators, and Mrs. Bolton.

Holbrook gave his home as Meridian, Miss., his age as 23. Miss Stoehr is 18.

Ferriday All-Stars To Play Elizabeth Today

FERRIDAY, La., July 6.—(Special)—The Ferriday All-Stars will play the strong Elizabeth Sluggers at Fair Grounds park Sunday. The game is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock.

The All-Stars defeated the Wisner Lumberjacks on the fourth of July by a score of 12 to 1.

VAUGHAN HOLDS PACE AS LEADING NATIONAL HITTER

Pittsburgh Star Continues Batting Rampage After Layoff

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—All predications to the contrary, Arky Vaughan resumed hitting at his usual clip or a little better when he returned to action after spending two weeks on the sidelines with a charley horse and hit hitting feats furnished the outstanding feature in the big league batting race during the past week.

Vaughan, after a brief slump, rallied to shoot his mark up to .406 in Friday's games. That showed a gain of six points through the week, in which he made 13 hits in 29 times at bat.

Bill Terry of the Giants picked up eight points to jump from sixth place to third among the National League leaders while Wally Moses of the Athletics gained six points and moved up from seventh to second in the American league.

Joe Medwick, runner-up to Vaughan, just managed to maintain his .362 average and his place on the list while most of the others lost ground.

Cramer Haas Beats Shafto In First Round At Bastrop

Upset Features First Round Matches In Kraft Golf Tourney

BASTROP, July 6—(Special)—Elimination of Wesley Shafto, Monroe, an early favorite, in the first round of the championship flight, and a thrilling hard fought match between Mercer Tinnelle of Shreveport and W. B. Gladney, Bastrop, which was won by Tinnelle 1 up in 20 holes, were among the features of the first round of play in the fifth annual Kraft Paper golf tournament here today. Ninety golfers qualified for play in the tournament with entries from all parts of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi. Monroe is well represented with 25 entries and West Monroe has six entries.

Cramer Haas of Monroe won from Wesley Shafto by a score of 2 and 1 to provide one of the upsets of the day. In the other matches in the championship flight, Ross McDade, Shreveport, defeated Jimmie Cole, Baton Rouge 2 and 1, and Joe Halbach, Tallulah, won from McVea Oliver, Monroe, 4 and 2.

In the semi-finals in the championship flight to be played Sunday morning beginning at 9 o'clock, Haas will meet Tinnelle and McDade will meet Holbach.

Wesley Shafto and Joe Halbach were tied for medalist honors with a score of 77 and in the play-off this afternoon, Halbach won with a score of 79.

Much interest is being taken in the tournament and a large gallery watched the matches here this afternoon. The tournament will come to a close Sunday evening with the awarding of $400 in prizes to the winners. Semi-finals in all flights will be played Sunday afternoon and the finals will be played in the afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock.

Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, holder of the Kraft championship, wired today that he was unable to take part in the tourney. Edwin McClure of Shreveport, another expected entry and winner of the championship in 1932, also failed to arrive, although his father, N. W. McClure, is taking part in the tourney.

Bobby Oliver of Monroe, the youngest player in the tourney, won his match today, defeating Jimmie Davis of Ruston, 4 and 3.

DIZZY DEAN TO GO UNPUNISHED

Frisch And Breadon Declare St. Paul Incident Is Closed

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, alternately baseball's bad boy and hero, avowedly is to go unpunished for his refusal to appear yesterday in an exhibition game at St. Paul.

Despite his rebellion and unkind remarks about the world champion St. Louis Cardinal club being "a chain gang," team officials agreed today that the incident was "finished."

After a lenghty conference with President Sam Breadon, Manager Frankie Frisch this afternoon declared he planned no action.

Plainly weary of the whole affair, neither Breadon nor Frisch would comment at length.

"It's all blown over, I tell you," the irritated manager said. "No punishment is planned for Dean. I'm sick of the whole matter."

However, after twice changing his mind, Frisch was still undecided whether he would name Dizzy to start in the all-star game at Cleveland Monday. Frisch will manage the National league team.

"I don't know for sure yet who will be the opening pitcher," he added. "I haven't decided definitely."

Visibly annoyed at the latest of a long line of outbursts from his temperamental pitcher, President Sam Breadon said he would support Frisch if the manager chose to fine or punish Dizzy.

Unrepentant and unchastened, Dizzy, who charged during his oral explosion at St. Paul that the Cardinals "were a chain gang, an outfit that would send you back if you didn't hit a 600," was still in a rebellious mood.

"If he (Frisch) wants to keep me out of the all-star game, it's all right with me. It's his priviledge," Dean declared.

EVANGELINE LEAGUE

(By Associated Press)

The Lafayette White Sox, fresh from a victory over an all-star team selected from the other seven clubs of the Evangeline league Friday, trimmed a full game from the lead of the Jeanerette Blues Saturday by winning, 4 to 3, in an exciting game decided in the ninth inning.

Alexandria climbed within reach of the second place White Sox by clubbing Lake Charles into submission, 9 to 4.

Opelousas and the Abbeville Athletics, played the best baseball of the day, the Indians finally ekeing out a 1-0 win in a tight game featured by airtight hurling.

In the other league contest Saturday, Rayne was forced to go 11 innings before turning back the tail-end New Iberia nine.

New Boxing Club Will Hold Meeting On Monday

The first meeting of the recently organized Ouachita Valley Athletic club will be held on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, David Hunt, acting secretary of the club, announced yesterday.

A short boxing class will be held after the meeting.

Free instructions in boxing are being offered by the club and everyone interested in the sport is invited to attend Monday night's meeting.

CUBS GO THIRTEEN INNINGS TO BEAT PIRATES, 10 TO 8

Bruins Win Out After Pittsburgh Ties Score With 6-Run Rally

PITTSBURGH, July 6.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs ended a four-game streak today by beating Pittsburgh in 13 innings, 10 to 8, after the Pirates had tied up the game with a six-run ninth inning attack.

Cavarretta's fourth single of the game sent Galan home with the winning run in the final inning and Tommy Thevenow's error let Herman in with a second run.

The game started out as a pitchers' battle between Buy Bush, ex-Cub, and Tex Carleton. Bush was lifted in the seventh and Mace Brown, Weaver and Hoyt all worked before Swift, the losing hurler, went into the game in the tenth.

Carleton permitted but two hits until the seventh when Thevenow's triple and Grace's double scored a run and brought an ex-Pirate, Larry French, to the rescue. French was chased in the ninth inning uprising, in which a bad throw by Stanley Hack to Cavarretta let in the tying run.

Galan hit a home run for the Cubs in the seventh. Arky Vaughan, leader of both leagues in hitting, went without a safety in four times at bat.

PHILS, BRAVES DIVIDE

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—(AP)—The Phillies divided a doubleheader with the Boston Braves before 8,000 fans today. Boston overcame a 4-0 lead piled up by the Phils to score a 10-5 triumph in the opener, but in the second the locals ran away with a 15-2 triumph.

Baxter Jordan hit a home run for the Braves in the first game while George Watkins paced a 21-hit attack in the second fray with his 13th home run of the season.

Macfayden, although laced for 15 hits, lasted until one out in the ninth and got credit for the victory of the Braves in the first, while Jorgens pitched brilliantly in the nightcap and limited Boston to eight safeties.

Johnny Moore led both clubs with the stick during the afternoon making seven hits in eleven times at bat.

Bucky Walters, pitcher and third baseman, finished the second game at second base for the Phillies.

Revival In Boxing May Bring Little Fellows Into Limelight

By John J. Romano

Freddie Miller took the bull by the horns instead of waiting to be gored by dissenting opinion as to his right to leadership of the featherweight division. The National Boxing association conceded Freddie's superiority over the 126-pound lads, but the New York Boxing commission ordered an elimination tournament which proved to be a flop. The fighters were lucky to draw enough money to pay their expenses to their respective homes.

Undeterred the boxing solons ordered a 15-round contest between Mike Belloise and Baby Arizmendi, with the victor to be acclaimed champion, in that state anyhow. The Mexican won and has that distinction although it does not mean a thing. Arizmendi was beaten by Babyface Casanova, a fairly good bantam who was knocked out by Sixto Escobar, the Puerto Rico sensation.

Miller smarted under the injustice of the New York commission ruling. Determined to prove his worth he set sail for England where he has bested Nel Tarleton twice,

YANKS SPLIT TWIN BILL AND TIGERS GAIN IN RACE

SENATORS HOLD LEADERS EVEN AS DETROITERS WIN

Yankees Win Second Game In Extra Innings After Losing First

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The Yankees floundered badly today as they encountered their first defeat at Griffith stadium this season, but they finally ended up by splitting a doubleheader with the Senators and preserving their slim lead over the second place Detroit Tigers.

Bump Hadley

Washington won the first encounter 8 to 3 while the Yanks came through in the 11th inning to take the second 10 to 7.

The even break reduced the Yankees' lead by a half game, leaving them just one ahead of the Tigers, while the Senators remained in seventh, a single percentage point behind the Athletics, who were beaten by Boston.

The Senators had things all their own way in the opener as Bump Hadley, after yielding three hits and as many runs in the opening inning, settled down and allowed only three more blows in eight frames. Washington hopped on Vito Tamulis for four runs to take the lead in the fourth, and hand the young southpaw his second defeat of the season. Joe Kuhel doubled the score in the eighth when he belted a home run after Pat Malone had loaded the bases.

The wildness of both teams' pitchers was the outstanding feature of the overtime second encounter. The Yanks built up a 4-1 lead off Leon Pettit in the seventh and seemed headed for an easy triumph, when Johnny Murphy blew up and filled the bases with three walks. Lefty Gomez replaced him, but before he could retire the side a single by Jake Powell and errors by Ben Chapman and Red Rolfe enabled Washington to score four runs and take the lead.

Each team tallied in the eighth and the Yanks knotted it up again in the ninth on doubles by Chapman and Tony Lazzeri.

Going into the 11th Ed Linke ran into a wild spell like Murphy's, and was relieved by Bob Burke, after giving two passes and issuing three balls to Lou Gehrig. Burke passed Gehrig and Lazzeri to force in one run, then Myril Hoag singled home two more. Finally Lazzeri and Hoag worked a double steal for the fourth run of the inning.

TIGERS BEAT BROWNS

DETROIT, July 6.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers hung up their ninth consecutive victory today, a 7 to 6 triumph at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, and edged to within a few percentage points of the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Tommy Bridges was touched for six hits, three walks and five runs before he was removed for a pinch batter in the second. Rowe finished the game, allowing five hits and receiving credit for his ninth victory.

CHISOX SHADE TRIBE

CHICAGO, July 6. — (AP) — Carl Fischer's effective relief pitching and a 16-hit bombardment that included Zeke Bonura's 15th homer, and six other extra base blows overshadowed three long Cleveland hits and gave the White Sox a 7 to 6 victory in the opening game of their series before 8,000 today.

It was the White Sox's sixth straight victory and the Indians' seventh straight defeat.

RED SOX TRIM A'S

BOSTON, July 6.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell pitched his way to his twelfth victory of the season today when the Red Sox turned back the Athletics, 6-4.

The Sox made all their runs with three hits. Ferrell struck out eight men including the redoubtable Jimmy Foxx twice and Bob Johnson once.

Werber's home run in the second inning was the Sox's first hit and accounted for three runs.

Cronin's double in the fourth, Miller's sacrifice and Rick Ferrell's long fly gave Boston its fourth run. Boston made its remaining runs in the fifth when Dahlgren walked. Wes Ferrell sacrificed and Melillo tripled to right, scoring Dahlgren. Melillo scored after Almada's flyout to Cramer.

Baseball's Biggest Crowd To See All-Stars Battle

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

CLEVELAND, July 6.—The greatest crowd that has ever paid to witness a baseball game, a capacity gathering of nearly 85,000, is expected to jam Cleveland's municipal stadium Monday for the big parade of the all-stars in the third annual game between hand-picked forces of the National and American leagues.

Anything can happen when a galaxy of such satellites of the diamond clashes but it looks like a ripe occasion for the Nationals to turn the tide after two previous setbacks. They are fortified with a dozen of the ace performers of the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals, world champions. They look to have a distinct edge, especially in pitching, over the crippled and somewhat shell-shocked American league array.

The pitching prospects for the Americans are equally spotty, on the basis of spring performances. Schoolboy Rowe, big Tiger righthander, has been highly erratic but Cochrane yesterday denied reports he would be withdrawn. Tommy Bridges, big winner for Detroit so far, may get the starting assignment, with Harder as No. 2 man. The use of Lefty Gomez of the Yankees, who was hit hard at the outset of last year's game, or Lefty Grove of the Red Sox probably will depend on how many left-handed hitters the Nationals send into action at one time.

Frankie Frisch, manager of the world champion Cardinals, ran into a series of unforeseen difficulties in the direction of the National league squad when the Dean brothers staged another "rebellion" over an exhibition-game appearance at St. Paul and Van Mungo, Brooklyn pitcher, turned up with a bruised finger that probably will prevent his appearing in the game.

Frisch had planned to use Dizzy Dean as his starting pitcher but when Diz and brother Paul refused even to show themselves to the crowd at St. Paul he announced firmly that he would not have Dean on his all-star squad and named Paul Derringer as his probable first choice for fling-duties. He may switch to Hal Schumacher, right-handed "sinker ball" ace of the Giants. Schumacher has now run up ten consecutive victories and is easily the league's pitching standout. Also available are Carl Hubbell, Giants' screwball ace, who baffled the American league sluggers for three innings last year, and Paul Derringer of the Reds.

Cochrane says he won't divulge his starting lineup until Monday but here's the probable batting order:

Nationals

Vaughan, Pirates, ss.
Ott, Giants, rf.

National alternates: Collins, Cardinals, Herman, Cubs, and Whitehead, Cardinals, infielders; P. Waner, Pirates, outfield; Mancuso, Giants, and Hartnett, Cubs, catchers; Hubbell, Giants, Derringer, Reds, and Mungo, Dodgers, pitchers.

American alternates: Myer and Bluege, Senators, infielders; Cramer, Athletics, Chapman, Yankees, and West, Browns, outfielders; R. Ferrell, Red Sox, and Hemsley, Browns, catchers; Rowe, Tigers, Harder, Indians, and Grove, Red Sox, pitchers.

Sunnyside Team Beats Crowville In 2 Games

ST. JOSEPH, La., July 6.—(Special)—The Sunnyside baseball club won a double header from Crowville on the Sunnyside diamond July 4. The scores were 4 to 2 and 7 to 1.

Thompson was on the mound for Sunnyside in the first game and held Crowville to four hits, while his mates were connecting for 14. Lester Shepherd, Sunnyside's southpaw hurler, pitched the second game. In seven trips to the plate, Dick Olds got two home runs, two singles and a double to lead the batting.

Spencer Celebrates 4th With Pair Of Victories

SPENCER, July 6.—(Special)—The Spencer baseball team celebrated the Fourth of July by winning both games of a twin bill, defeating Perryville, 6 to 4, in the first game behind the four-hit pitching of Ellis "Hooks" Bowen, and winning the nightcap from Sterlington, 3 to 1, as Flynn Wallace set the invaders down with two safeties.

Aubra Love's circuit drive in the seventh inning of the first game with one on gave the locals their margin of victory. Wallace held the opposing batsmen well in check in the second affair, but with the help of some erratic fielding the visitors made a serious threat in the ninth. The first two batters were safe on errors, but Wallace bore down and Ford struck out, Evans grounded out, and Gilbert, leading hitter of the Ouachita Valley league, flied out.

Score by innings:
Perryville .....011 101 000—4 4 3
Spencer .....011 110 20x—6 9 7

Hamilton and Hart; E. Bowen and Norman, Spillers.

Sterlington .....000 100 000—1 2 2
Spencer .....120 000 00x—3 7 5

A. Bowen and Hart, Gimber; Wallace and Spillers.

Some great hitters go through whole seasons without hitting a home run with the bases full, but Al Simmons of the White Sox recently hit two such drives within three days.

M'DIARMID, COEN MEET FOR TITLE

Texas Star And Missourian In Final For Western Net Crown

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Texas, and Wilbur Coen, Jr., of Kansas City, will battle it out tomorrow for the men's western singles tennis title at the South Shore Country club.

McDiarmid, seeded at the top, ploughed through two matches necessary to bring the rain-delayed schedule up to date, in easy style. His quarter finals victim was Ernest Sutter, Tulane university star, 6-0, 6-3. Art Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., had little better luck against the clever Texan losing by 6-2, 6-3.

Coen trounced Sin Kie Kho, Chinese Davis cup player, 6-3, 6-3, but but had plenty of trouble with big Bill Reese, star of the Georgia Tech team in the national intercollegiate tournament last week. The Atlanta youngster staged a furious battle in the first set, but went down, 9-7, and Coen, relying on a strong backhand, finished the match with a 6-3 victory in the second set.

Katherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., three times winner of the women's title, defeated Lila Porter of Mobile, Ala., the surprise player in the tournament, 6-1, 6-3, to reach the finals. She will meet Eunice Dean of Fort Worth, Texas, who eliminated Helen Fulton, Winnetka, Ill., 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Reese didn't have to lift a racquet in gaining the final four. His opponent, 18-year-old Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla.—the tournament "dark horse"—failed to appear on the South Shore Country club's courts at 10 a. m., and the match was awarded to Reese.

After getting away to a wobbly start, Hendrix steadied in the second and third sets to defeat Lewis Carson, another Shanghai entry, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1, in the quarter finals.

Fred Fitzsimmons May Undergo Arm Operation

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Fred Fitzsimmons, veteran right-handed hurler, may be lost to the New York Giants for a month as the result of a chipped bone in his right elbow.

An X-ray, taken this morning, revealed the chipped bone. The plates were to be read again this afternoon. If it is fully established that it is a bone fracture, Fitz will submit to a surgical operation.

LEE TURNS WRESTLER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—Bill Lee, who led the Alabama Tide to victory over Stanford in the Rose bowl last New Year's day, is training for the "grunt and groan" profession near here. At Germantown, Tenn., Lee is learning the wrestling game under Charlie Rentrop, veteran wrestler. Lee tips the scales at 246.

Walter Johnson was never knocked out of the box in his pitching years between 1912 and 1920.

EAST DIXIE

GREENWOOD WINS, 12-3

GREENWOOD, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—Greenwood's heavy artillery hopped on a trio of Cleveland hurlers here today for 17 sound hits and a 12 to 3 victory. The Chiefs' big inning came in the third when they chased nine runs across the platter. Dumfold went the route for the winners, limiting Cleveland to ten scattered hits.

Score:
Cleveland .....100 001 100— 3 10 4
Greenwood .....109 002 00x—12 17 2

BUCKS BEAT SOLONS

GREENVILLE, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—The Greenville Buckshots hammered out six runs in the eighth inning of their game today with the Jackson Senators to pull a victory out of the fire after the visitors apparently had the game on ice. Jackson piled up a six-run lead in the first three innings, only to see it go glimmering before the lusty bats of the Bucks.

Score:
Jackson .....151 000 003—10 12 1
Greenville .....100 003 16x—11 11 2

L. B. Jones, Pritchard, W. L. Bobo, McClung, Swigart and O'Neil; Clark, Stewart, G. Bolton and Simmons.

JUDGES BEAT HELENA

PINE BLUFF, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—Although outhit the Pine Bluff Judges managed to scrape out a 4-2 win over the Helena Seaporters in an East Dixie encounter here tonight. The Judges nicked Kepler for only five hits, but they took advantage of the visitors' misplays to make them count.

Score by innings:
Helena .....000 000 011— 2 6 2
Pine Bluff .....100 001 20x— 4 5 4

Kepler and Clawitter; Galeria and Sueme.

LIONS DOWN GINNERS

EL DORADO, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—El Dorado maintained its slender advantage in the East Dixie league tonight by soundly trouncing the tail-end Clarksdale Ginners in a loosely played game 7-1. The Lions gathered but six hits off the deliveries of Sanders and Hodge, but they coupled them with two Ginner errors to score twice in the third, seventh and eighth innings and once in the opening frame.

Score:
Clarksdale .....100 000 000—1 6 2
El Dorado .....102 000 22x—7 6 3

Sanders, Hodge and Butler; Perez and Krole.

Max Schmeling Meets Paulino Uzcudun Today

BERLIN, July 6.—(AP)—Important Nazi officials cancelled other engagements today in order that tomorrow's heavyweight fight between Max Schmeling and Paulino Uzcudun may be the center of national interest.

Schmeling rules a 5-to-1 favorite. He appeared tonight to be in top form. Max is confident he'll spoil Paulino's claim of never having been knocked off his feet in the ring.

Max indicated he is looking to America to furnish his next opponent whether it be James J. Braddock, the heavyweight champion, or Joe Louis, the negro sensation.

MRS. MOODY BEATS MISS JACOBS IN 3-SET BATTLE

FORMER CHAMP IN GREAT RALLY TO WIN CROWN

oody Climaxes Comeback With Stirring Exhibition Of Tennis

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—(AP)—elen Wills Moody, poker-faced arling of Wimbledon's galleries for ore than a decade, reclaimed the world's feminine tennis championship today with as fine and gallant a last-ditch rally as the game ever has seen.

Helen Moody

Heading into what seemed certain defeat and frustration in the comeback campaign that has stirred the tennis world, the 29-year old San Francisco matron dramatically overcame a 5 deficit in the third and deciding t of her match with Helen Jacobs, merican titleholder for three years, owned her arch rival 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

THE CHAMPIONS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—(AP)—Champions crowned in the all-England tennis championships:

(x) Men's singles—Fred Perry, Great Britain.

Women's singles—Helen Wills Moody, United States.

Men's doubles—Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist, Australia.

Women's doubles—Freda James and Katherine Stammers, Great Britain.

Mixed doubles—Fred Perry and Dorothy Round, Great Britain.

(x) Indicates retained title.

nd annexed the all-England singles rown for the seventh time.

Seventeen thousand fans who sat stood through the struggle verged pon hysteria before Miss Jacobs, run the point of exhaustion, knocked he final ball over the back corner fter an hour and 40 minutes of uelling play.

The victory supplied all the vindiation Mrs. Moody ever will need for he incident in the American championship final of 1933 when, suffering from a back injury, she walked ff the court in the third set with liss Jacobs leading 3-0. She was ccused then of quitting, of depriving liss Jacobs of a chance for a cleanut, undisputed victory.

Today, however, she gave a conlusive rebuff to any one who ever uestioned her fighting heart. Almost as though she willed it, Mrs. Moody again gave her fighting adversary a three-game advantage in he third set, the same advantage liss Jacobs had enjoyed at Forest ills. She even spotted Miss Jacobs 5-2 lead later in the set and once, n the ninth game, had match point taring her in the face.

Then like an avenging goddess, she won five straight games from one of he gamest fighters who ever donned ennis shorts.

When the final point kicked the ball over the baseline, the winner ecstatically tossed her racquet over er shoulder almost into the bleacher crowd and literally raced to grasp her defeated rival's hand.

Miss Jacobs stood up bravely as hey walked off side by side and the crowd stood and roared its approval or many minutes.

Then in her dressing room, she lay prostrate for 45 minutes and on the verge of tears.

"Helen deserved to win," Miss Jacobs said falteringly. "I just couldn't et that match point."

Also tuckered out but in much better shape than her rival, Mrs. Moody said:

"Helen played gloriously. I never expected to win."

One linesman vouched for the fact that Miss Jacobs played the last three games in a virtual daze.

"We had to tell her it was her service in the final game," he said. What a wonderful fighter she is."

Had she been fresh, Miss Jacobs undoubtedly would have won the match in the ninth game of the final set when she went to the net for what appeared to be a simple kill of Mrs. Moody's weak lob. But, at match point, Miss Jacobs seemed unable to lift her racquet high enough for the decisive stroke and hit futilely instead into the net.

Later with the count at 5-5, Miss Jacobs needed only one point to break Mrs. Moody's service and gain what might have been a decisive 6-5 lead, but once more she drove into the net. She never had another chance as Mrs. Moody poured terrific drives to the back corners.

The entire picture of the match in retrospect was of Mrs. Moody hitting out bravely, clipping the sidelines and controlling play throughout. On the other side of the net Miss Jacobs shuttled endlessly across the baseline, getting her racquet on what seemed to be impossible drives, never conceding a point until she had given every ounce of effort she could muster.

In winning the second set, Miss Jacobs proved that Mrs. Moody was vulnerable when forced to the net. The older star on these occasions lacked a finishing smash and easily was passed.

But once Mrs. Moody got her drives clipping the lines in the final set, Miss Jacobs was too busy just chopping them back to attempt any strategy.

In the first two sets when Miss Jacobs was fresh, Mrs. Moody scored only nine placements in all. But in the third set when Miss Jacobs was sad on her feet, she sent 15 past her. There was some eye-brow lifting as Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, prospective American Davis cup doubles pair, were beaten in the final round of mens doubles by Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist of Australia, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 5-7, 7-5.

Great Britain added the Women's doubles and mixed doubles crowns.

Freda James and Kay Stammers decisively trounced Mme. Rene Mathieu of France and Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Germany, 6-1, 6-4, to win the women's tandem championship, while Perry and Miss Round teamed up to capture the mixed title from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopman of Australia, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2.

TWO NEW SWIM CHAMPS CROWNED

Pair Of Youngsters Gain Outstanding Victories In A. A. U. Meet

DETROIT, July 6.—(AP)—Two new champions were crowned tonight on the basis of record-shattering performances in the finals of the National A. A. U. swimming meet. Neither of the titleholders is yet out of his teens.

John Macionis, 19-year-old Philadelphia youth who will be a sophomore at Yale next fall, upset the dope in the 440-yard free style to wrest the title from Jack Medica of Seattle, Wash. The blond Lithuanian boy finished only a few inches in front of Medica, whom he had led all the way, although his margin at no time was more than two feet. Macionis was timed at 4:51.5. The recognized world record for the event was 4:52.0, established by Johnny Weismuller in 1927.

Ralph Flanagan, Miami, Fla., high school boy to whom the experts had looked to furnish Medica with his chief contention, finished third. Other contestants in the order in which they crossed the line were Jimmie Gilhula, Detroit; Dexter Woodford, Ohio State university, and Ralph Gilman, San Francisco.

Adolph Keifer, 17-year-old Chicagoan, who is a senior at Roosevelt High school, won a decided victory in the 100-meter backstroke, finishing seven feet ahead of Taylor Drysdale, Detroit.

OWENS, PEACOCK TO RACE AGAIN

BUFFALO, July 6.—(AP)—Another chapter in the intense rivalry between America's outstanding negro track and field athletes—Jesse Owens of Ohio State and Eulace Peacock of Temple—will be written here next Tuesday evening when they meet again in an all-star program of champions and record-holders sponsored by the National A. A. U.

Owens, who has already bettered the world marks for 220 yards, the running broad jump and the 220-yard low hurdles, will oppose Peacock, his conquerer in the 100-meter and running broad jump in the national championships last Independence day, at 100 yards and in the broad jump. Peacock bettered the world's 100-meter standard and the existing broad jump mark to defeat Owens at Lincoln, Neb.

Other contestants in the century will be George Anderson of the University of California, I. C. 4-A 100-meter titlist and Roy Draper of Southern California, I. C. 4-A 200-meter king. In the broad jump Owens and Peacock will go out to surpass the dazzling 1935 effort of 26 feet, 8 1-4 inches by Owens.

Owens and Peacock will be the featured performers in a field of stars, including ten national champions, six N. C. A. A. champions.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

In the foregoing articles of this series, I have tried to give a complete description of the golf swing, without indulging too much in the theorizing and speculation which delight the student and the hobbyist. It has been my purpose to show, in their simplest form, the essential movements, which form the foundation of a sound method, and are varied only very little as each individual makes use of them according to his taste and capabilities.

Even so, it is not difficult to see trouble in the way of the average golfer as he attempts to make use of this description in order to play better golf. Even granted the most ideal combination of a perfectly accurate exposition and a perfectly accurate understanding, one still must translate the words and method of another into his own muscular activity, subject to his own nerve control. No one can say exactly how far the backswing should go, how much the hips must turn or shift, precisely when the completely release of the wrist-cock should take place. Trese things are learned only from experience.

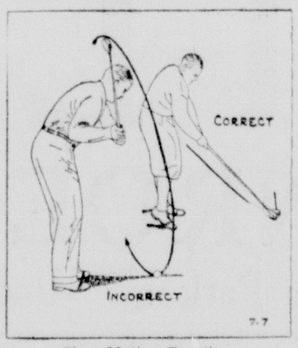

Nevertheless, a careful study of such an analysis of the swing as has been presented here should result not merely in confusion and dismay. For one who understands the proper order of movement, even in a purely theoretical way, finds himself at least in possession of the education he will need to make a practical success on the golf course. He will need only, as he will in any other activity, to train himself to perform as he has learned and observed. And this is the way to go about it.

How To Practice

We will consider that we are dealing with a person who has played some golf—enough to be reasonably sure of hitting the ball each time. We will assume that here or elsewhere he has gained a fair idea of what he has to do in order to hit the ball correctly. His problem is to get the "feel" of the action he has had described for him.

The first move is to the practice tee with a sack full of balls. Many will never take even this first step, but for the one who does, the next is this—before hitting even one shot, let him stop and think what it is he wants to do. Obviously it is to hit the ball and hit it straight. Nothing else matters for the moment.

Now let him visualize what he must do to bring about this result. Let him see clearly what must be the nature of the contact between club and ball. If he thinks hard enough, he will conjure up a vision of the club-head moving precisely along the line the ball is intended to take, with its face exactly perpendicular to that line, and making contact in the exact center of the face. He will see that if these conditions are met the ball must fly straight.

Slow Motion Practice

Now, let him stick a tee in the ground, over which and through which, without a ball, he can swing his club. Then slowly, at first, almost in slow motion, let him, by trial and re-trial, find out what movement he will have to make to bring about the conditions he desires. Remembering what he has learned of theory he will very soon learn the reasons for the hip-turn for saving the wrist cock, for the shift to the left, etc. By concentrating on the end which these complicated actions are designed to achieve, some order is bound to come out of the confusion in his brain and he will be on the road to better golf.

A golfer is no different from any other human in that he wants a reason for doing as he is told. What better demonstration can he have than to find out for himself that he cannot hit the ball straight if he holds his weight back on his right foot, or hits with his hands from the top of the swing? Finding out for himself that he must drop his swing inside before he can hit out is the finest lesson he could have.

Boating On The Ouachita

July Fourth saw little activity on the Ouachita river this year as no form of organized boating was staged.

And unless some interest and backing is aroused, it seems probable that there will be no regattas held at any time this year. In the event a yacht club is organized, and this appears to be an ultimate certainty, racing on the river will once more become popular. This form of sport undoubtedly will be furthered by responsible interests because speedboat racing has in the past attracted larger crowds to Monroe than any other form of competitive sport.

Monroe is strategically located on one of the most ideal and beautiful bodies of water in the entire United States and this geographic advantage is naturally suited for both pleasure and racing boat activities.

Last week thousands of spectators spent Sunday afternoon on the shores of Cross lake at Shreveport viewing the greatest regatta ever staged there. They were thrilled in knowing that they had witnessed the establishing of three new world's records which put Shreveport on the boating map of the country.

Monroe, too, can support these regattas.

The "Pegasus" and the "Goofus" belonging to Milling Bernstein and Alden Shotwell, respectively, left Wednesday for overnight July Fourth cruises up the river.

William Smith, one of the partners who owns and operates the Monroe Dock company, returned from a vacation trip to Beeville, Texas, with the following account: Rising flood waters near Beeville had entrapped a large herd of cattle on a small knoll of ground that was also rapidly becoming overflowed. Cowboys tried in vain to herd the cattle by swimming their horses around the knoll and behind the panic stricken steers and thus move them through the deep sections to higher ground. However, all of the usual persuasion was of no avail and something had to be done immediately or the whole herd would drown.

Someone thought of securing outboard motors for the job, which was quickly done from the neighboring towns, and with these small motors attached to skiffs the cowboys went at the herd again.

The cattle were so frightened by this new kind of "cayuse" and theer strange "snortings" that they allowed themselves to be "herded" or rather swum through the deep waters to the high section of land.

SAILOR, DO YOU KNOW:

That the marine inspectors drop in at the most inopportune times to embarrass you with their inquisitive glances into your government required equipment? That one life preserver for each passenger regardless of whether the passenger is a paid or invited guest is required? Also that this life preserver must be of the fedesal approved type?

That the fluid in your fire extinguishers becomes weakened from age and must be renewed according to the manufacturers' instructions?

That a sounding device for signals meeting government requirements must be maintained in good working order on your boat at all times?

JACKSON JUNIORS WIN

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—The Jackson American Legion junior baseball team today went into the state finals by turning in a 3 to 2 win over the Meridian nine, in a 12-inning bitterly fought contest. The Jackson team will meet the winner of a seven-team elimination contest in north Mississippi within the next few weeks.

DOUCIERE WINS

ARCHIBALD, La., July 6.—(Special)—The Douciere baseball team defeated Archibald on July 4 by a score of 10 to 8. The good pitching and catching of Wheeler, Harveston and Evans and the excellent support and good hitting of the rest of the team was responsible for the victory.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—(AP)—Short covering and evening-up of commitments in preparation for the government acreage report for Monday brought light buying into the cotton market today and futures closed nine to eleven points higher.

At the start of the two-hour session prices were three to five points higher on better cables from Liverpool. They were also buying in the near months on a large spot house and by a firm that ordinarily acts for Japanese interests.

July closed at 11.92, the best price of the day for their position, while October at 11.59 and December at 11.58 were up an even 50 cents a bale. As is customary prior to a government report evening-up operations resulted in considerable activity in the market.

The weather map showed that needed rains were falling in the eastern portion of the belt while in the western areas there was little precipitation and favorable temperatures.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advance of 9 to 11 points.

New York

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Cotton recovered today a good part of Friday's losses. After showing net gains of 16 to 23 points, the market eased under week-end realizing or scattering liquidation. October, after selling up to 11.75, closed at 11.65, with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 10 to 14 points.

Cotton futures closed barely steady, 10-14 higher.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The brief stock market session was an indefinite affair today with selective buying lifting a number of issues to new highs for the year while profit taking soft spots appeared elsewhere.

The close was somewhat irregular. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

Wheat was under pressure most of the time, but corn and the other cereals registered some recoveries. Cotton also found support. Bonds were just about steady. Foreign gold currencies did better.

Shares up fractionally to around a point included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Loews's, Schenley, Air Reduction, General Motors, Chrysler, Western Union and Westinghouse. Among losers of as much were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, American Can, Consolidated Gas and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

While dividend papers continued to attract the attention of idle money hunting employment, buying flurries in non-dividend issues were interpreted by some ticker tape watchers a san indication that earnings hopes fo rvarious companies are growing brighter.

The rails did not respond particularly to the general improvement in freight car loadings for the past week, as the upturn had been anticipated.

With congress in recess until Monday, the political picture was somewhat dim.

Trade news was not especially disheartening. Motor equities paid little attention to the lower production estimate for this week. Cram's figured an output of 59,380 units against 88,537 in the previous week. The drop was explained by the Independence day holiday and the fact that seven plants were closed all week for inventory and vacation purposes.

The utilities were in a waiting mood pending final action on the holding company bill. Bank stocks were dull following word that a possible split on the Glass measure might cause a deletion of its underwriting clause. The steels, while still in moderate demand, were inclined to rest after their spurt of yesterday.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—Uncertainty that persisted regarding what disposition of Canada's wheat surplus would be made led to fresh setbacks of Chicago's grain values early today.

Opening 7-8 to 1 3-4 cent down, Sept. 80 1-4 to 3-4, Chicago wheat prices quickly recovered to a moderate extent. Corn started 1-4 to 3-4 off, Sept. 72 1-2 to 3-4, and then scored gians.

Wheat closed nervous, 2 1-8 to 2 3-4 under yesterday's finish, Sept. 79 1-8 to 1-4, corn 1-4 to 1 3-8 advanced, Sept. 74 1-8 to 3-8, oats 1-8 to 1-4 off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents higher.

HOME OF JOHN HUMBLE IS DAMAGED BY BLAZE

Firemen were summoned yesterday afternoon to the residence of J. L. Humble, 3215 Concordia street, in Cole addition, where rags on the top of a hot water tank were reported to have become ignited and set the walls afire. The damage amounted to about $50, the fire inspector reported. Shortly before noon firemen extinguished a grass fire at the intersection of North Sixth street and Rochelle avenue.

Recent tests indicate that oil waste in engines is due largely to worn main, rod, and camshaft bearings which permit excessive throwoff, and is only partially stopped by new rings.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, July 6. — (AP) — Bonds steady; price changes narrow. Stocks irregular; profit taking stems advance. Curbs mixed; utilities sag. Foreign exchanges quiet; gold currencies improve. Cotton steady; trade and foreign buying; scarcity of contracts. Sugar-Coffee closed.

CHICAGO.—Wheat lower; enlarged receipts expected. Corn higher; offerings scarce. Cattle closed week; choice steers steady; others up 25 cents. Hogs about steady, quality considered; top 9.75.

GULLEY WILL BE ARRAIGNED SOON

Farmerville Man Sits Silently In Jail, Accused Of Slaying Two

EL DORADO, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—Silent and grim-faced, Clyde Gulley, 38, Farmerville, La., married man, sat in a solitary cell in the Union county jail here today, awaiting arraignment July 12 on charges of murdering his ex-sweetheart and her holiday companion at a roadside stand near here Thursday.

While attorneys conferred with witnesses and agreed to the preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge John Carroll next Friday, Gulley refused to discuss the slayings of Cleo Moore Murphy, 22, of Huttig, and R. A. "Pap" Harper, 22, of Strong.

To all requests for his version of the double killing or that he pose for photographers, Gulley made the same quiet, emotionless answer:

"I'd rather not."

The body of the young Huttig woman, whose affair with the Louisiana man previous to the Independence day tragedy, had caused the serious wounding of one of her kinsmen, was buried yesterday at Sparkman, Ark. Funeral services for Harper were planned for Sunday morning at Strong.

Prosecuting Attorney Alvin D. Stevens filed two formal charges of first degree murder against Gulley yesterday, and Walter L. Brown, former prosecutor, appeared as defense attorney for Gulley. Brown did not indicate what plea he would make when the case is called by Judge Carroll.

Patrons and attendants at the roadside stand told Deputy Sheriff Elmer Nelson that Gulley killed Harper as the youth walked toward a taxicab in which the elder man and the Murphy woman were sitting. Nelson quoted these witnesses as saying that when Harper fell with three bullets in his chest, Gulley turned his pistol on the woman and shot her twice.

When officers caught Gulley driving the taxi toward Bernice, La., the girl, slumped down in the seat beside him, was dead.

Gulley is said by officers to have a wife and two small sons living at Farmerville.

AMERICANS DEPORTED FROM CUBA AS AGITATORS

This group of Americans constituting an "investigating commission," which went to Cuba to study social and labor conditions, got no further than the dock in Havana. Regarding them as agitators, Cuban soldiers met their boat, hustled the whole crowd to a detention camp and then deported them on the next boat for New York. They arrived home yesterday. DEPORTED GROUP RETURNS TO U. S.

15 American Liberals, Kicked Out Of Cuba, Brimming With Indignation

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Fifteen American liberals who went to Cuba to investigate what they called "the destruction of civil liberties" returned today from a fast round-trip on the Ward liner Oriente, brimming with indignation over alleged "inhuman treatment."

To newsmen who boarded the boat at Quarantine, Clifford Odets, liberal playwright and chairman of the delegation, asserted in a prepared statement: "This delegation has been honored by deportation by the present Cuban dictatorship."

Conrad Komorowski, correspondent for a liberal magazine, attributed the treatment accorded the investigating committee by the Cuban government to "collusion between the American diplomatic service and Cuban industrial interests."

"The sugar interests are keeping the Cubans in peonage," said Komorowski. Odets added to that, "it appears to me that the American embassy, sugar and utility interests in Cuba worked together to prevent our determining the extent of the destruction of civil liberties."

The delegation, which included two negroes and four women, dwelled at length upon their incarceration by Cuban authorities and their being held for 17 hours incommunicado. Odets said neither the men nor the women were given mattresses and that the springs of the beds at Tiscornia detention camp made their backs look like waffles. Other members of the party said that none of the windows had screens and they were bitten a-plenty by mosquitoes.

Regarding action or lack of action by American diplomatic representatives at Havana, Odets commented: "I have no doubt that a joint course of action regarding the treatment to be accorded us was mapped out by the American embassy and the Cuban government before the boat ever entered the harbor. I have no doubt, further, that Cuban secret service representatives were on the boat en route to Cuba. We were met by an armed encampment on the dock."

An immediate series of protests to the state department and to congress is planned by the group, whose trip was sponsored by the League of American Writers. They were met here by members of several liberal groups, including the Student League for Industrial Democracy.

VALUABLE BROOCH LOST BY WOMAN IN STORE HERE

Mrs. C. M. Neal of Crossett, Ark., reported to the police Saturday that a dress and valuable brooch had been picked up either by mistake or by a thief from where she laid the package on a table in a local five and ten-cent store.

Mrs. Neal said that she had purchased another dress while in Monroe and changed dresses while here. She wrapped the other dress on which the brooch was attached, in a paper and when she went into the store to shop, she laid the package down. She missed it in a few seconds but could find no trace of it.

Besides the value of the brooch, Mrs. Neal said there was a deep sentimental feeling attached to it. She has offered a $10 reward for the recovery of the package and the police ask that anyone picking it up by mistake, return it to police headquarters for the reward.

CENSUS TAKEN BY PARISH COMPLETE

Shows Total Of 15,115 Educables Of Both Races; Gain Of 602

The 1935 quadrennial census for Ouachita parish, as required by the state board of education, was completed here Saturday and results were made known from the offices of T. O. Brown, parish school superintendent. It was shown that there are 15,115 educable children in the parish, including white and negro, which is a gain of 602 over the figures of a similar Ouachita parish census taken in 1931.

The census was taken with utmost care and careful checking and rechecking of lists was done in order that no mistakes be made and that credit be given the parish for each and every child of educable age, from six to 18 years.

Total figures of white families in Ouachita parish having children 18 years of age and less, are given as 5,938. The total number of families in the parish with children below the age of six years is shown as 3,740. Total number of educable white children, ages six to 18 years, is 9,495.

The total number of negro families in the parish with children 18 years or less is given as 3,051. The total number below six years is 2,228 and the number of negro educable children is 5,620. These results give a total of 15,115 of educables of both races in the parish.

As the allocation of state funds for educational purposes is based on the result of the census figures, it is pointed out that special care must be taken to secure accuracy.

Members of the local staff who took the census under the supervision of the office of T. O. Brown, Ouachita parish school superintendent, were well pleased with the results obtained. The superintendent stated that the figures have shown a very satisfactory gain over four years ago.

14 CADETS FROM THIS SECTION OF STATE PROMOTED

Selection of 14 cadets from northeast Louisiana for the first year advanced course in the reserve officers' training corps, with the rank of sergeant, in the regiment of L. S. U. for the 1935-36 session has been announced by Major Troy H. Middleton, commandant of cadets at the university.

Scholastic and military standing are the bases of consideration, according to the commandant. Interest and ability in military, disciplinary record, military bearing, neatness, and the general reputation of the applicants enter into the selection.

Following is the list of those from this section, given by parishes:

Caldwell: L. T. Weathers, Columbia.

Catahoula: Audley Clifford McDonald and Kellie H. Moses of Harrisonburg.

Concordia: Franklin E. Foster, Ferriday; John H. Maxwell, Canebreak, and Malcolm Saab, Vidalia.

Morehouse: William Carl Johnston, Bastrop.

Ouachita: Anthony L. Alroldi, Toufick Mickel, John B. Strahan of Monroe, John G. Turk, West Monroe.

Richland: Norvel Ellis Thames, Mangham.

Winn: Eugene Wayland Gates, Sikes.

Photographic equipment consisting of a wire gird, an anemometer, and a motion picture camera calibrated to determine exposures per second now computes the landing speed and gliding angle of new planes tested by a large aircraft manufacturer.

WHITE FAMILY HOLDS REUNION

Many Descendants Of Daniel White Present At Gathering Near Ruston

RUSTON, La., Jply 6.—(Special)—The W. H. King farm home near here was the scene Thursday of the first annual reunion of the White family, pioneer settlers of north Louisiana. Most of the nearly 50 persons present were lineal descendants of the late Daniel White, who at one time engaged in the saw milling business in several parishes in the central section of the state.

Three sons of Daniel White, S. N. White of Gladewater, Texas, T. W. White of Mansfield and the late W. W. White of West Monroe, were at one time well-known newspaper publishers in this state, each of them having published weekly newspapers in several Louisiana towns. Two other sons, J. P. White of Winnsboro and the late Eugene White, who lived in Winnsboro before he removed to Shreveport where he was connected with the circulation department of the Shreveport Times, several years ago were associated with the Winnsboro electrical power plant, which Eugene White, the major stockholder, later sold to the Louisiana Power and Light company.

Among those present at the reunion were J. P. White and children Winnsboro; Wiley White, brother of Daniel White, and Mrs. White, of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Guimbelot, of Winnsboro; Mrs. Joe Hilliard and children of Greenville, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ferguson, of Choudrant; Bessie and Guy Stokes Ramsey, of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White and children of West Monroe; Carl Gustafson, Jr., of Greenwood, La.; Truett Hinkey, of Vienna, La.; Ruel Ferguson, of Blue Ridge, La., and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. King and son.

Of 8,414 schools conducted in Kansas in 1934, more than 7,000 were of the one-room type.

6 PERSONS PLEAD GUILTY IN COURT

Prisoners Sentenced By Judge Dawkins On Internal Revenue Charges

Six persons pleaded guilty in a special session of the federal court here Saturday morning to charges of violating the internal revenue act, and each was sentenced to serve six months in the federal jail at New Orleans. They were Roy Raphial, E. B. Dixon, Idoff Johnson, Pleas Clinton, Craig Holmes and Zeke Williams.

Hertha Lawson, convicted of violating the Dyer act, was given a sentence of two years in the federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla.

Ruby Brannon's suspended sentence of three years for violation of the narcotic act was revoked. The institution in which she will serve the sentence will be recommended by the state attorney general.

Previously placed on probation for violation of the Dyer act, James Kiser was given an extension of probation until the October term of the court. The probation of Herman Chapman, who had been convicted of forgery of a government check, was extended for a year.

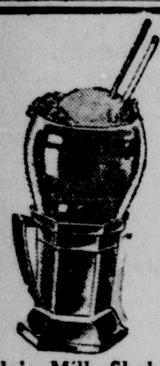

The suspended sentence of Ezbed Sonnier, who had been convicted of using the mails to defraud, was revoked, and his bond was set at $3,500.

L. T. Short was placed on probation for a year for postal laws violation. Judge Ben C. Dawkins, of Monroe, presided.

SETTLEMENT FILED

In a compromise settlement filed yesterday at the office of the parish clerk of court, Ewan A. Kelly received $3,000 from the Vincennes Bridge company for an injury he received last March 28 while employed on the construction of the state highway bridge across the Ouachita river here. Kelly received the injury as he was exerting his strength in turning a winch on a barge, according to his petition for damages.

Nature Clothes City In Beauty

Social Life Begins As Sun Vacates Sky

Families Dine In Open And Most Entertaining Is Done In Gardens; Boating Is Favorite Pastime In Monroe

By Eve C. Bradford

Mid-summer! The time of the year when the earth seems to pause breathlessly. The soft winds sigh and whisper, disclosing golden secrets they have learned in their long pilgrimage. Heaven is not far away; it is here on earth, for the world has been resurrected and is robed in its pristine beauty. The drone of the insects grow louder. But the sweetest music of all is the whirring of the electric fans and the tinkling of ice in tall frosted glasses.

Summer advances. The corn grows taller and waves its soft yellow hair in the warm breeze. The fields of cotton grow greener and the darkies idle along waiting until the fields are transformed into a sea of snowy white. The throats of the mocking birds are bursting with song. The cattle stand knee deep in the sleepy bayous shaded by the branches of oaks. There is soft music everywhere in the tree tops, in the rustle of the leaves and in the lapping of the water along the water front.

Life begins at sundown in Monroe. The mist comes up from the river and the garden suddenly comes to life. Families dine out of doors and most of the entertaining is done in the shadow of a pool or some enclosure safe from the prying eyes of the public. Those who remain at home during the long, hot summer know how to take life easy, and especially fortunate are those who own comfortable houseboats. It is always cool on the river, no matter how hot the day.

When Elizabeth Cutler arrived at the family home, "Bethaven," from Chicago the other day, Henry and Bessie immediately arranged a little excursion on board the "Bitter Sweet." However, summer in Dixie has no terrors for Elizabeth. We saw her the other morning looking as cool as the proverbial cucumber.

Another southerner who prefers Monroe in summer to cooler climes is Verna Watts. She is in the city now enjoying her vacation with old friends. She is looking as handsome and as vivacious as ever. We saw her recently in a white evening gown and found ourself more impressed than ever with the beauty of her wavy auburn hair. There is a shining sweetness about Verna that wins all hearts.

Speaking of vivacity reminds us of Del Paine. She always comes up smiling, regardless of the weather. Some one said not so long ago that they would like to take her apart and find out what makes her tick. She is really a lovely person and an exhilarating tonic for whatever ails you.

Still another vivacious person is Sallie Merideth. Never have we seen her in a state of gloom. She has the most charming personality and has enough irons in the fire to keep a dozen women busy. We have learned through association with Sallie that it is the busy woman who is the happiest.

Floy Surguine is quite the loveliest person we have met in many a day. We watched her the other day in the living room of the home of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Swift, and were completely charmed with her low, beautifully modulated voice, her poise and her grace. She will join her husband in Africa next month, and is already anticipating the pleasure of 28 days at sea. People like Floy, with their calm assurance of good things to come, can adapt themselves to conditions and mode of living in any section of the globe. She told us something about life in Africa and we decided that it must be a really beautiful place. She spoke of the beauty of the azure sky, the flaming sunsets, the exotic flowers and the abundance of fruit.

We discovered something at Judge Schulze's barbecue on the fourth of July that we did not know before. It was Charles Titche's remarkable ability as a speaker. Patriotism flared high and every one who heard him was proud to call him a son of the south. It often takes an occasion such as this one to bring to light a talent lying dormant.

The honeymoon month has been torn from the calendar, but the memory of those marriage ceremonies will linger. They conjured up visions young couples starting on a long journey together with high ideals of honor and loyalty. There is much of courage and steadfastness in the words of the wedding service.

Nautical Suggestion

Your nautical-minded hostess, who has asked you to spend a couple of days on board her boat, large or small, will be pleased if you turn up for breakfast in a sea-going outfit consisting of navy blue, nicely tailored slacks of linen, gabardine or duck and a halter of white and navy blue that has some kind of nautical motif in it. Take along a matching blue, double-breasted, sailor-type, mannish jacket to slip over the halter when the wind is cool. Remember that navy blue and white are the colors of the sea, and even though you think you look better in pink yellow or other hues, save them for other week-ends on shore.

The halter you wear with your slacks will go with extra shorts. The double-breasted jacket can be worn with a pleated flannel skirt for the afternoon. Be sure to have a small beret or hat to keep your hair in place. Crownless linen varieties are ideal.

For holidays in which tennis plays an important part, there are divided skirts with shirt-like tops and regular backless tennis dresses. These come in washable fabrics, of course, and in all summer colors. However, any tennis player will do well to stick to plain white. You can go in for vivid shades when you pick knock-about pajamas or slacks for week-ends where no special programs are planned.

Incidentally, rubber bathing suits take up little space in a bag. An habitual week-ender will do well to have at least one. In addition to being splendid for active swimming and extremely smart this year, rubber suits do not have to hang in the sun for hours before you can pack them. Simply take off your suit, wipe it, inside and out, with a towel and tuck it away.

Drink Recipe

The activities of the non-alcoholic fruit products department of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union are at their height this summer, when fruits are plentiful. There is nothing more refreshing than cold fruit juice and all fruits lend themselves to the making of juice. Clever homemakers today make a point of knowing how to concoct cool, sparkling, zestful and reviving drinks for summer which are as popular as hot spiced fruit drinks were in the winter.

Of course, with fruit colorings it is easy to fix it up according to Mom Beck's directions to The Little Colonel Shirley Temple, when she said, "When yo' wants a pink party everything in it's gotta be pink, and when yo' want a blue party everything's gotta be blue," and you saw what a grand success the pink party turned out to be.

Mrs. Blanch Pennington of Elizabeth, N. J., national director of non-alcoholic fruit products, gives the recipe for her white ribbon special as requiring one quart of Orange Pekoe tea, one large can of crushed pineapple, one cup of lemon juice, two cups of orange or cherry juice, and two quarts of water. Boil two sticks of cinnamon in two cups of water, strain, then add sugar and let boil three minutes. Cool and add aforementioned ingredients. Set in refrigerator until ready to use, then add fresh cut mint leaves, cherries or strawberries, and green ice cubes. This will serve about 35 people.

It's Figure Flattering, This Crocheted Dress

Crocheted of a mercerized knitting and crochet cotton, this stunning chevron striped dress is going places this summer. The skirt has diagonal rows of mesh, meeting in a point at the center front—very flattering to the figure. And the full sleeves are made of wide meshes. There is a wide bib front, with little crocheted buttons and loops up the sides.

Feazel-Hyde Wedding Solemnized July 4th

Others Take Nuptial Vows; Engagement Is Announced; Dances And Various Group Functions Are Held

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity was that of Miss Lucile Hyde, niece of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hyde, and Mr. Ralph Feazel of Ruston, July the fourth at seven o'clock in the afternoon, with Reverend W. G. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of the families of the couple.

The ceremony was performed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hyde, with pastel-shaded flowers, in extravagant array, forming the background. The vows were spoken 'neath an arch of southern smilax, pink gladiolas and blue hydrangea tied with misty illusion. Tall floor standards overflowing with pink gladiolas formed a narrow aisle.

Mr. Joseph Wright sang in splendid voice "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Gertrude Ellison of Camden, Ark., at the piano. "Because" was softly rendered during the ceremony.

Miss Mildred Vincent of Kelly, La., was the bride's attendant. She wore a pastel pink model of chiffon and lace with blue accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The bride wore an exquisite model of pastel blue crepe with pink accessories and a corsage of pale pink bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mr. "Red" McManus of Ruston acted in the capacity of best man.

An informal reception permitted friends to offer their well wishes and to enjoy the delicious ices, in the form of pink roses, served with the wedding cake in the dining room. Miss Elizabeth Benton and Miss Juanita Ellison of Camden presided over the beautifully-appointed table.

Mr. and Mrs. Feazel are spending their honeymoon in New Orleans and on the gulf coast. On their return will be at home to their friends in Ruston, where Mr. Feazel is associated with the Feazel Motor company. Mrs. Feazel traveled in a smart tailleur of Madonna blue with accessories of a darker shade of blue.

Mrs. Feazel is a graduate of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university and attended the Louisiana State Normal college at Natchitoches. Mr. Feazel, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Feazel of Ruston, attended Louisiana Polytechnic institute.

Pride-Folse Wedding

Claiming prominence among the season's nuptial events was the marriage of Miss Dorothy Bruff Folse of Oak Ridge, La., and Mr. James Willsey Pride of Madison, Ala., at the church of the Redeemer, Wednesday, June the twenty-sixth, with Reverend Paul D. Bowden of Virginia, uncle of the bride, officiating.

The church was garlanded with Shasta daisies and banked with luxuriant palms and ferns in woodland effect. The altar was a solid mass of white and green, with sheaves of Madonna lilies in the background. Tall cathedral candles flamed in the handsome candelabra flanking the shining brass cross in the recesses of the altar. Clusters of Shasta daisies and white tulle marked the pews reserved for the intimate friends and members of the families of the bride and bridegroom.

A nuptial concert was rendered, while the guests were assembling, by Miss Lena May Ross of Hodge, pianist, and Mr. H. G. Marcus of Oak Grove, violinist. Miss Juanita Cotton of Oak Grove sang in splendid voice, "O Promise Me."

Before the entrance of the bridal party, Messrs. William Rolfe and Tazewell Baird the third, wearing white linens, unwound the white satin ribbons that formed the aisle down which the bridal party walked.

The maids, Miss Catherine Ivy of Decatur, Ala., Miss Marion Reeves of Oak Grove and Misses Maybeth and Lois Thibadeaux of Mer Rouge, wore lovely frocks of rose-colored silk net over rose-colored taffeta and poke bonnets of rose-colored lace. They carried colonial bouquets of pastel-shaded flowers tied with loops of orchid satin ribbon falling to the hem line of their bouffant skirts.

The two honor maids, Misses Margaret and Winnifred Folse, were charming in sea-green frocks of silk net over green taffeta. Their hats and colonial bouquets were similar to those of the maids.

The flower girls, May Dalgarn and Ann Maurice Boyd of Collinston, wore floor length frocks of rose net over rose-colored taffetta. They scattered rose petals down the white carpeted aisle.

Mr. Floyd Fletcher acted as best man.

The bride, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a handsome wedding gown of ivory duchess satin fashioned along classic lines most becoming to her patrician type of beauty. The bridal veil of illusion was caught to the hair, bonnet fashion, with a cluster of orange blossoms worn by the bride's grandmother, the late Mrs. Penelope Douglass, on her wedding day. A cluster of beautiful white calla lilies formed the bridal bouquet.

Following the ceremony the bride and bridegroom knelt on white satin cushions to receive the benediction.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. In the receiving line were Misses Ellie and May Traylor, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Folse, Mrs. W. T. Pride, mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. O. A. Folse, grandmother of the bride.

The bride's table in the dining room, overlaid with handsome Irish lace was centered with a superb plaque of shasta daisies and maiden hair flanked by tall silver candlesticks supporting white cathedral tapers.

A crystal punch bowl at one end of the table was presided over by Miss Lucile Huffman in white lace evening model. The handsome three-tiered wedding cake, the gift of Mrs. Paul Norman, graced one end of the table and was cut by the bride before she changed her wedding raiment for a handsome tailleur of navy blue.

A coterie of lovely girls, Misses Henrietta Bowden of Pelham, Tenn., Elizabeth Folse, Margaret McDuffie and Irma Jane Gibson, in evening frocks, assisted in the serving of the confectionery course.

Mr. and Mrs. Pride are spending their honeymoon in New Orleans and upon their return will be at home in Madison, Ala., where Mr. Pride is a prominent young planter and large land owner.

Mrs. Pride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Folse. She is a graduate of Sophie Newcomb college, a member of Alpha Omricon Pi sorority and a charter member of the General William Carroll chapter, D. A. R. Mr. Pride is a son of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Cotillion Club Dance

A gay, pleasure-seeking group of friends danced under the multi-colored chandeliers on the Cherokee terrace of the Frances hotel Wednesday night as guests of the Ruston Cotillion club.

The affair, one of the most brilliant of the summer season, was marked by several interesting features, outstanding being the floor show and the serving of refreshing aperitifs at the tables outlining the ball room floor. Rainbow-colored lights cast fantastic shadows along the walls and the glistening floor, where the feminine guests, in beautiful evening attire, and the gentlemen, in white linens, danced until the early morning hours.

Guests attending from this city were Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Burgess, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Isaacman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mr. Bert Yates, Mr. Ford Benham, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sholars and Mr. and Mrs. William Rodriguez.

Cotillion club members were Miss Charlotte Davis and G. A. Davis, Mrs. T. L. Jones, Jr., and Mr. E. Moore Decker, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Laskey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Willis, Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Sorority Dance

Diaphanous frocks of mousseline and chiffon fluttered on the dance floor at Plantation club Thursday night, when members of Delta Beta Sigma sorority were hostesses at a gala fourth of July affair. With every one in festive mood and the entrancing strains of music filling the air, the event proved to be one of the most enjoyable of the mid-summer season.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Giraudy Prophit, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prophit, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Starsney and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Miles.

Among the dancers were noted Jane Gregory and T. J. Hunt, Roberta Neal and Tommy Downs, Nell de Lee and Kirt Touchstone, Jonnie Myers and Boyd Grant, Dot Williamson and Jimmie Wyatt, Mary McKee and Raymond West, Mary Styler and Joe Ammons, Laura Grace Kendall and Fred Ammons, Helen Earle and Leo Montgomery, Gertrude Ellison and Buddy Bubb, Mary Hayward and Lavell Green, Sara Virginia Craig and F. Outing On Lake

Members of Phi Kappa fraternity and their "dates" spent a blissful fourth of July at Lake Bruin, where they swam, fished shot fire crackers and feasted on barbecued steaks and other edibles to their heart's content.

They were guests at Morgan's camp during their two-day outing.

Attending the house party, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Martin, were Miss Clara Terzia and Billy Herring, Miss Happy Tidwell and Durwood Griffin, Miss Pricilla Hodge and Kent Breard, Miss Anne Molaison and Will D. King, Jr., Miss Nina Mae Lee and Byron Breard, Miss Alma Dell McKee and Harold Fink, Miss Edith Nell Haynes and Jimmy Jones, Miss Marie Roark and Johnny Sherrouse, Jr., Miss Marie Taylor and Freneau Prophit, Miss "Monkey" Myatt and George Kennedy, Miss Helen Earle and Charles Baur, Miss Sara Beth Farmer and Billy Haynes, Miss Eleanor Colbert and Bob Hannah, Paul Fink, Jimmy Swink, Carl Morgan, Henry Colbert, Jake Chase, Buster Baur and B. MODES of the MOMENT

The first hint of autumn — lightweight felt and velvet hats. — Diana Merwin

These new hats for late season wear, give a hint of early fall in their fabric and shaping. In the new hats of smaller size, there is a definite trend to beret styling, many models being shown in both felt and velvet. Hats with larger brims will, of course, continue in favor right through the summer season, yet they take up this new felt theme enthusiastically, in bright colors and pastels, as well as in the ever popular black and navy blue.

The convex brimmed hat in the lower sketch, is fashioned of summer-weight felt, in dubonnet red. It displays a deeply curving, down-turned brim all around and a very shallow crown. The edge of the brim is glove stitched and a back bandeau holds it securely in place. For decoration it uses a white gardenia with grosgrain bow at the front of the crown.

Luncheon For Bride

Dan Cupid, that busy little fellow who has been working overtime this summer, inspired the matrimonial theme employed by Mrs. J. C. Steele and daughter, Miss Joy Steele, in the decorations of their luncheon table at the Lotus club Friday at 1 o'clock, with Mrs. Foster Wallace, one of June's loveliest brides, the honor guest.

A honeymoon cottage with winding walks, lily pool and rose arbor centered the table. Cunning little "cottage" place cards also accentuated the "honeymoon" theme. Exquisite corsages were presented to Mrs. Wallace and to Miss Sadie Foster.

Mrs. Wallace was a lovely figure in green linen sport model with wide-brimmed green linen hat and white accessories.

A luscious five-course luncheon was served to Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Freneau Surguine, Mrs. Floyd Martin, Miss Sadie Foster, Miss Lillie Thompson, Miss Bonita Allen, Miss Clara Terzia, Miss Happy Tidwell and the hostesses.

Two Clubs Meet

A meeting of unusual interest was held by the Carroll Woman's club and the Civic club of Lake Providence in the home of Mrs. J. Martin Hamley on Tuesday.

Mrs. Madison Thompson of Ruston, guest speaker of the afternoon, discussed the important issues which were before the triennial convention held in Detroit. The parish health officer, Dr. F. D. Boyd, was also present, outlining plans for the preschool clinic which the clubs will sponsor, giving the use of their clubhouse for the purpose.

The two clubs are interested in presenting Miss Mary Sue Wigly of Chicago, national lecturer on economic problems, a committee being appointed to perfect arrangements. Miss Wigly was an outstanding speaker at the state convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs at Lafayette last November and was received with acclaim.

The Carroll Woman's club is sponsoring swimming classes which are held at the beautiful lake for which Lake Providence is noted. The club is responsible in part for the salary of the instructor.

For the pleasure of the guests, little seven-year-old Olive Ann Guenard, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Guenard, gave an exhibition of her skill as a whistler in a group of melodious numbers. Her whistling, of unusual duo-tone, is a talent few people possess and never fails to elicit highest praise from her audiences.

Present for the afternoon were Mrs. Addison Thompson, Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson, Mrs. C. A. Rose, Mrs. E. E. Erwin, Miss Elizabeth Howard, Miss Eunice Howard, Mrs. F. D. Boyd, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. A. M. Nelson, Mrs. J. B. Erwin, Mrs J. W. McDaniel, Mrs. H T Van Fossen, Mrs E. C. Frenz, Mrs. F. X. Randell, Mrs. T. H. Estes, Mrs. John M. Nelson, Mrs. J. C. Bass, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Miss Olive Ann Guenard, Mrs J. H. Guenard, Mrs. A. S. Hill and the hostess, Mrs. Hamley.

Preceding the club meeting, a beautifully appointed luncheon was served in the home of Mrs. C. A. Rose, the guests including Mrs. Addison Thompson and Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson of Ruston, Mrs. John M. Nelson, president of the Civic club, Mrs. T. H. Estes, president-elect, and Mrs. J. Martin Hamley.

25th Anniversary

Anniversaries are always such interesting affairs, and especially so when they bring together old friends in some beautiful garden spot, where they can exchange reminiscences.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the union of the home and foreign missionary societies of the Southern Methodist church was unusually delightful, as it occurred during the perfect days of late June and was celebrated in the beautiful, shadowy gardens of Mrs. Fred Coon's home.

With glorious old trees silhouetted against the flaming sunset and luxuriant shrubs and foliage for a natural background, two hundred guests thronged the garden and enjoyed to the fullest the courtesies offered by the hostesses, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, president, and all the past presidents, including Mrs. M. L. Meredith, Mrs. Robert Cann, Mrs. D. C. Warner, Mrs. J. W. Worthington, Mrs E. N. Stewart, Mrs. Carl Atkinson, Mrs. S M. Collins, Mrs. W B. Clarke and Mrs. John Herring.

Mrs. Holloway extended a gracious welcome, while Mrs. John Munholland gave an interesting history of the society and introduced the past presidents.

Diversion was offered during the receiving hours by dramatic readings contributed by Mrs. Emma Alexander and the charming musical numbers rendered by Mrs. P. A. Poag, pianist, Mr. Alfred Hennen, flutist, and Mr. Wayne Wamsley, violinist. Beautiful vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Persis Jones.

The tea table was presided over by Mrs. W. J. Meyer, who cut the handsome birthday cake, and assisted in serving frosted frappe, assorted sandwiches and beautifully embossed petit fours. Assisting in serving refreshments were Mrs. Fred Coon, Mrs. S. M. McReynolds, Mrs. Addie Walker, Mrs. S. R. Wright, Mrs. W. M Washburn and Mrs. Robert Cann.

Garden Club Session

Members of the Garden club met under the spreading branches of the historic old oak tree in the gardens of Mrs. Robert Layton's home Friday morning for their regular monthly session.

Mrs. Elmer Richards, president, presided.

Mrs. J. R. Wooten, chairman of the civic committee, reported that plans were being completed for cooperation with other clubs of the city and a joint meeting to be held at a later date.

It was voted that the Garden club go on record as having for its aim a

Convention Sidelights

Mrs. Addison Thompson of Ruston, state chairman of the publicity committee of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs, gives some interesting sidelights on the recent national convention held in Detroit, Michigan.

She says: "The city of Detroit, noted for its manufacturing enterprises, may well be called a city of hospitality. The men of affairs who have gleaned great fortunes in industry have proved themselves to be great philanthropists. It was through their courtesy that club women who attended the convention were privileged to enjoy much that was cultural and social.

"Greenfield village, which is still in process of assembly, stands a tribute to Henry Ford, its founder. In striking contrast to the bustling city, which is a few miles distant, the serene little village is composed of buildings of a former day, all with historical significance. They were taken from their original locations and assembled here. Thomas A. Edison is the central figure, not only for the reason that Mr. Ford considers him one of America's most famous men, but for the reason that it was Thomas A. Edison who first gave him encouragement when he was struggling to perfect an automobile.

"The first laboratory of Mr. Edison stands as it did at Menlo park. Mr. Jehl, a life-time companion and coworker of Mr. Edison, lectures to visitors, demonstrating the first phonograph and the present day radio. 'Had it not been for Mr. Edison you would not have the radio today,' he remarks as he takes a light bulb from the radio. 'Mr. Edison was not an educated man. Education is a box of fine tools to work with. It takes common sense to use them. Mr. Edison always used common sense,' he comments with a tone of reverence.

"When Mr. Edison was taken to see the reconstructed laboratory when it was completed, he was overcome with emotion. He said that he was a boy again, that he felt 50 years fall from his shoulders.

"As the significance of Greenfield village dawns, with its quiet little streets, its velvety lawns, with little shops, stores, a church, a school where Mr. Ford and Mr. Edison sat on the back seat and carved their initials, the blacksmith shop under the spreading chestnut tree where two beautiful horses wait to be shod by blacksmith's who work with precision, the horse drawn carriages with old gentlemen in perfect livery conveying the visitor from one point to another, there is a dramatic appeal, and a craving for the beautiful is satisfied.

"Mr. Ford was host to club women on a boat ride during the convention and for entertainment provided a chorus of negro singers who rendered classical number of considerable beauty.

"The Chrysler male chorus, composed of 200 singers, contributed a program of music presented in the magnificent Masonic temple.

"Members of the Chevrolet glee club also entertained with a concert at Belle Isle.

"The five thousand club women who were guests of Mr. Ford and Mr. Edsel Ford at Orchestra hall were privileged to listen to the national broadcast over the Columbia network. The Ford symphony orchestra and chorus was augumented by Paul Althouse, American tenor and celebrated opera star.

"Attaining a degree of perfection never to be forgotten was the Chicago chorus of women's voices, in "It Takes a Heap O' Livin"

"The Masonic temple, where the sessions were held and which commands a price of $750 per day, was the courtesy extended by that order to the General Federation of Women's clubs."

Monroe Residents Off Or Planning To Leave On Vacations

Local Vacationists Are Scattered Over Nation

Almost Every One Is Planning Trip Somewhere During Months Of July And August; Many Have Already Departed

Summer vacations dominate the social calendar these days. Almost every one we know is planning a trip somewhere, either for this month or the month of August. And many have already taken their departure.

To the four corners of the nation they will travel, with foreign soil claiming a few. From the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes and from the Pacific to the Atlantic, Monroe vacationists will be scattered this summer.

Miss Maible Hood and Mrs. Dora Anish will turn their faces to the Pacific northwest this month, visiting Seattle, where they will glimpse snow-capped Mt. Rainier and Mt. Baker. Their plans for a steamer trip to Alaska have not yet been completed.

Miss Beryl Madison and mother, Mrs. Flood Madison, Sr., are now in England, where they are anticipating a blissful summer and enjoying unforgettable interludes in nearby places of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meyer and daughter, Miss Violet Meyer, are in Lake Placid, N. Y., established for the remainder of the summer at the Lake Placid club.

Mrs. Bridger Thornhill is making her plans for her annual visit in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Peyton Parker and children are whiling away the summer days in a cottage on the gulf coast at Bay St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvia Masur are somewhere in the west today, en route to Yellowstone National park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edell Blanks are in Colorado, with a visit to Estes park one of the highlights of their visit.

The John Foxes and children will spend the month of August with their parents in their summer home on Long Island, N. Y., caressed by the waters of the Atlantic.

Mrs. Herman Masur and daughter, Mrs. Irving Shlenker, as customary each year will experience a happy summer in eastern resorts, with a steamer trip on the Great Lakes and an occasional trip up the Hudson river offering restful diversion.

The W. F. Cummingses are finding rest and contentment in their summer home at Chetek, Wis., with a motor trip through the picturesque dells offering continual delight.

Miss Judy Thornton will be off for Europe on the sixteenth of July enjoying her first ocean voyage and her first visit to the old world. Mrs. A. M. Thornton will find plenty to interest her in Detroit and New York until her daughter's return on the first of September. Miss Virginia Calvert motored to New York with them and will be privileged to wish Miss Thornton bon voyage when she sails for Europe.

Mrs. Henrietta Keplinger and children and Mrs. D. M. Sholars are contemplating their annual trek to the coast, where they make their home during the summer at the Palmer house.

Several Monroe people preferred taking their vacations early and have already returned from distant points.

The Charlie Wallaces returned last week from California and the Joseph Washburns and the Harvey Trousdales from Mexico City. The Sigmund Masurs have also returned from Mexico City, enjoying the journey via steamer from New Orleans.

Misses Armandine and Irene Quinn Renaud will head east this month, following the automobile route to New York City.

Mrs. Harry Rice is planning a motor trip to Chicago for a summer of study in the dance studios.

Misses Clarice and Golda Roan will study dancing in New York City under celebrated masters.

West Monroe Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gates and son, Kenneth Lee, of Lake Providence spent the fourth of July with Mr. Gates' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gates, of West Monroe. Mr. A. J. Gates returned to Lake Charles with his son to spend a few weeks.

Mrs. E. L. Fainter and daughter, Miss Dorothy Bernice, an accomplished pianist, have returned to their home in Wheaton, Ill., after spending a very enjoyable two weeks in the home of Mrs. Fainter's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kimball of 308 Lindermann avenue.

Mrs. W. F. Stovall and son, William Lane, and grandson, H. L. Crumpton, have returned to the city after a delightful visit in the home of Mrs. Stovall's daughter, Mrs. W. L. Gulledge, at Conway, Ark.

Mr. Martin Hebert, Jr., who was a student at Tulane the past session, has arrived in the city and will spend the summer with his parents.

Mrs. E. E. Sivage, who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. L. Hebert, in Orange, Texas, for some time, has returned to her home at Brown Paper mill.

Mrs. L. P. Raymond, who was a patient in New Orleans for several weeks, has recovered sufficiently to return to her home at 300 South Riverfront.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baker of Farmerville have come to the city, and are pleasantly located on South Riverfront, where they will reside in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Warren, after visiting several points in Texas, have returned home and report a most delightful vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stroud and little son, Don, Jr., of Houston, Texas, have been the guests of Mrs. Stroud's sister, Mrs. J. F. Dudding, and Mr. Dudding. Mr. and Mrs. Stroud, Don, and Mr. G. E. Meredith and son, Billy, formed a motoring party to Hot Springs, where they will visit Mrs. Meredith, also a sister of Mrs. Stroud, who is at Hot Springs for her health, for a few days.

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church will meet in circles Tuesday afternoon: No. 1 with Miss Dena Henry, No. 2 with Mrs. Sholars, No. 3 with Mrs. J. M. McKee, No. 2 with Mrs. L. M. Frey.

The Young Women's Circle of the Methodist Missionary Society met with Mrs. J. E. Whitaker for their weekly meeting on Tuesday evening of last week. A program which was well-planned and in which Miss Edwin Mitchell gave a quite interesting talk on "Orientals in America," was enjoyed, followed by the serving of refreshments to a large group of young women of the organization.

Mrs. Carey Phillips and little daughter, Janet, have returned from several weeks in Macon and Brooksville, Miss., which were spent with relatives.

Miss Carrie Dee Drew has returned home from Shreveport, where she spent a most delightful week with friends.

Miss Vida Snow Drew has returned from Camp Windywood, where, in company with several friends, she enjoyed a most delightful vacation.

Mrs. Mathilde Young is having quite a pleasant visit with friends in Bastrop. She will complete her vacation period within the next few days and return home.

Mrs. Ruth Moon and daughter, Delaine Belle, have returned after a most delightful visit in Little Rock with friends.

Miss Maida McClendon returned home a few days ago after a most pleasant week spent in the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. Hoffpauir, in Ruston.

A much feted visitor in the city is Miss Frances Kwiat of New York city, attractive house guest of Mrs. J. B. Abrams. Informal affairs of considerable charm taking place during the past week were supper parties, morning and afternoon bridge events, luncheons and al fresco affairs. Prominent among the hostesses were Mrs. A. Bloomenthal, Mrs. Herman Masur, Mrs. Louis Masur, Mrs. David Silverstein, Mrs. Charles Saltzman, Mrs. Leon Sugar, Mrs. Harry Kuhn, Mrs. Victor Goldberg and Mrs. I. W. Jeffe.

Frances Prophit of Baton Rouge is visiting his mother, Mrs. Pauline Prophit, in the home of his brother, Mr. Alston Prophit.

Hindu Dhotis Pancake Berets Give Beach Styles Exotic Air

Trousers, skirts and long bathrobe coats appear in these new beach costumes designed by Schiaparelli. The costume at left combines trousers of gold and white striped glazed chintz and a loose linen jacket tied with a chintz sash. The one in the center tops a beach dress of golden yellow cravat silk inspired by the draped skirts worn by Hindu students, with a three quarter length coat of pink linen. The costume at right adds a bathrobe of rose, grey and green printed chintz lined with toweling to a green bathing suit. The pancake berets are fashioned of tent cloth.

By Adelaide Kerr
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS, July 6.—(AP)—The robes of Hindu students and the South Sea Island styles of Tahiti have inspired more beach styles to wear while lounging on sandy stretches this summer.

Schiaparelli has taken the dhoti—the draped skirt worn by the Hindu student—as a model for her latest beach frock designed of golden yellow English cravat silk with a skirt extended upward to swath one shoulder. The other is left bare.

Heim favors the "pareos" which South Sea Island beauties wear as an inspiration for both swimming and lounge suits. He adopts them to modern bathing beauties in printed jersey, cut in an intricate pattern and swathed around the burst and hips.

The rest of the beach costumes which will dot this summer's sun-drenched sands are chiefly inspired by the figure and demands of the modern woman herself, with a general tendency to expose less epidermis than last year. There is a strictly tailored swing to many of them.

In the beach suits and frocks the trousered cut appears in everything from brief trunks to fairly long divided skirts. Mainbocher makes trim suits of duck or pique combining shorts and a top with a tailored jacket. One outfit is fashioned entirely of white tablecloth linen and worn with a bright green Ascot scarf.

Lelong likes shantung beach frocks with divided skirts falling well below the knee topped by bright flowered jackets or linen capes, while other designers combine shorts, which end a few inches above the knee, with colorful shirts and jackets or bare-backed chintz beach dresses and capes. Long beach coats of printed chintz lined with towling are another 1935 design for lounging on the sands.

After Better Movies

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, state chairman of the better movies committee of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs tells us that the General Federation of Women's clubs will continue its support of the better film movement.

"The general federation with its 2,000,000 members absorbed in various activities, touches all phases of social and educational life, therefore, the motion picture looms big among its interests," she said.

"During the last two years, the chief object has been to build up a public demand for better pictures, not only in words but in results. To achieve that there are 2,655 local chairmen cooperating over the entire country, contacting clubs, civic and educational organizations. They mail hundreds of thousands of selected lists and programs to educational groups and others.

"There is little doubt that the same policies will be carried on in the coming administration with perhaps growing emphasis on the close relationship between libraries and the public in correlating reading with motion-picture attendance."

Miss Theodora Hart, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hart, will return home tomorrow from a month's visit with friends in Shreveport accompanied by a friend, Miss Helen Grace Perretz. Miss Edwina Hirsch of Baton Rouge will also be a guest in the Hart home during the coming week.

Alice Haas of Bunkie is a lovely guest in the home of Miss Myrta Reece Stewart, a classmate of Louisiana State university.

Bill Brooks of Burley, Idaho, is enjoying a visit with his mother, Mrs. M. C. Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Sedberry announce the arrival of a son, Robert Bendal, in their home on the second of July.

QUADRUPLETS BOOM RUSSIA

Russia's population has taken a spurt with the births of three sets of quadruplets in six months. The last to arrive are those of Mrs. M. Bibivskaya of Irkutsk, Siberia. Two were boys and two girls. One boy died, but the other three babies are thriving.

Scheduled air lines in the United States established a record by flying 24,134,055 passenger-miles in March.

WILL ROGERS COMEDY HIT AT PARAMOUNT

Humorist Scores In New Film

Fine Supporting Cast Is Included In 'Doubting Thomas'

WILL ROGERS, latest comedy, "Doubting Thomas," had the audience practically rolling in the aisles, last night, at the Paramount theater. The fans howled themselves as nearly into hysterics as a theater audience can. To this reviewer, the picture is Rogers' funniest and to hundreds of others in the Paramount theater, it seemed to be the same thing.

The film is well-paced, capably handled and directed and each member of the cast is particularly well-suited to his or her respective role. It will, no doubt, add thousands of new names to the great roster of Rogers' fans.

The picture was adapted from George Kelly's stage hit, "The Torch Bearers," and shows Rogers in the role of a simple, home-loving sausage manufacturer, whose life-world is tossed into a turmoil when his wife, Billie Burke, goes theatrical; as does his son's fiancee, Frances Grant. The two appear in an amateur charity show and if the audiences hold on to their seats during this show, they'll be doing more than this reviewer was able to do.

Billie Burke is splendid as the stage-struck wife who thinks she's been suppressing a desire all these many years. Alison Skipworth very capably and expertly repeats the part of Mrs. Pampinelli, which she played on the stage; while Sterling Holloway, as the bungling sound-effects man for the play, is a scream.

Frances Grant and Frank Albertson give realistic performances, the latter as Rogers' son and the former as the son's fiancee, and David Butler uses his directorial skill admirably.

Will Rogers, who portrays the role of a small town sausage manufacturer, in his latest Fox Film fun cyclone "Doubting Thomas" at the Paramount today and Monday doubles the talents of his stage struck wife—Billie Burke—and his attempts to cure her make for a new high in hilarity.

St. Joseph

A recent marriage of wide interest here was that of Miss Emily Cornelia Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Wailes Smith, and William Earl Shaw of Hayti, Mo.

The wedding was held at the Union church with the Rev. Ralph L. McKinney officiating. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Miss Marguerite Smith served as maid of honor and little Patricia Yvonne Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, was the flower girl. Jack Bargas of Hammond, La., was best man.

The nuptial ceremony was preceded by the singing of "At Dawning" by Mrs. John Bolin, with Mrs. Curry MacPherson assisting at the organ.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party was entertained by Mrs. Fred Cassil. Assisting Mrs. Cassil was Miss Mildred Kitchin and Miss Beulah Grayson.

When the wedding cake was cut, Mrs. John Bolin drew the dime and Mrs. George Camors of New Orleans, the thimble. A dance followed the reception.

The couple will make their home in Vicksburg.

The Laredo, Tex., Times will spend $40,000 for new equipment and a building which will be air-conditioned throughout.

PROHIBITION WILL RETURN, SAYS FROST

The Women's Christian Temperance union held a special meeting at 3 p.m. Friday in the First Methodist church, West Monroe, when the chief speaker was Rev. Jack Frost, evangelist from Kentucky.

Rev. Frost told in some detail of his experiences and travels during his extensive career in prohibition work. He predicted that prohibition will come again and that the next time to stay. Ever since the return of liquor, he said, there had been strict law enforcement and that such was not the case when the 18th amendment was in effect.

There was a good attendance and much interest was shown in the talk delivered by the visiting speaker.

CHARLIE CHAN FINDS THRILL PACKED ADVENTURE IN EGYPT

Capitol Film Combines Comedy With Mystery

AUDIENCES everywhere have hailed "Charlie Chan in Egypt" as the most thrilling, engrossing and ingenious of the "Chan" series to date. Once more starring Warner Oland, the picture comes today to the Capitol theater. It's the story of Charlie Chan's eeriest adventure in the land of the Pharoahs promises to be the biggest thrill ever offered to audiences in this city.

Priceless gold and jeweled treasures from the tomb of Ameti, an ancient high priest, are stolen from among those brought to light by the French Historical society's expedition, near Luxor on the Nile, the great river and land over which Cleopatra once ruled.

Charlie Chan is hired by the society to trace the thefts and to apprehend the thieves. Three murders occur and everybody wonders whether it was Sekmet, the cat-headed Egyptian goddess of vengeance who struck down those disturbing the monarchs in their final slumber.

Death casts its shadow over the entire family of the expedition's leader and Charlie Chan's skill and courage are tested to their limit, but he finally solves the crimes in one of the most thrilling sequences ever filmed.

"Pat" Paterson, as the daughter of the expedition's leader, gives unusual support to Warner Oland and Stepin Fetchit, as a native of the desert sands who becomes Charlie Chan's strange and frightened aide, creates many comic situations. The bewitching Rita Cansino displays her charms and ability to good advantage, while Thomas Beck holds up his role with some good manly acting.

BOLL WEEVILS FOUND IN DODSON VICINITY

DODSON, La., July 6.—(Special)—A number of the farmers of Dodson and vicinity state that boll weevils have invaded their cotton acreage and that in a number of instances have done considerable damage. The invasion of the pests is said to be due chiefly to heavy rainfall which fell during June. However, it is said that the corn and feed crop situation is more favorable than it was a year ago at this time. A year ago at this time, these crops were suffering greatly from lack of rainfall.

Eight members of the local 4-H clubs have spent an enjoyable week in camp at Natchitoches. They returned Saturday.

Agricultural college experiments show a cow can eat 217 pounds of green grass a day.

Filmed on a lavish scale with spectacle, gorgeous scenes, and hundreds of players in the cast and with Jeanette MacDonald, fresh from her triumph as the Merry Widow, and Nelson Eddy, the screen's new sensation, singing the haunting Victor Herbert songs, "Naughty Marietta" plays Thursday-Friday at the Capitol theater as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's greatest singing picture!

This Week's Movie Program

AT THE PARAMOUNT

Today and Monday—Will Rogers in "Doubting Thomas," with Billie Burke, Alison Skipworth, Sterling Holloway, Gail Patrick and Frances Grant.

Tuesday and Wednesday—Katharine Hepburn and Charles Boyer in "Break of Hearts," with John Beal and Jean Hersholt.

Thursday and Friday—The Cosmopolitan dramatic sensation, "Oil for the Lamps of China," starring Pat O'Brien, Josephine Hutchinson and Jean Muir, with Lyle Talbot and Arthur Byron.

Saturday and Sunday—Claudette Colbert in "Private Worlds," with Charles Boyer, Joan Bennett, Helen Vinson and Joel McCrea.

AT THE CAPITOL

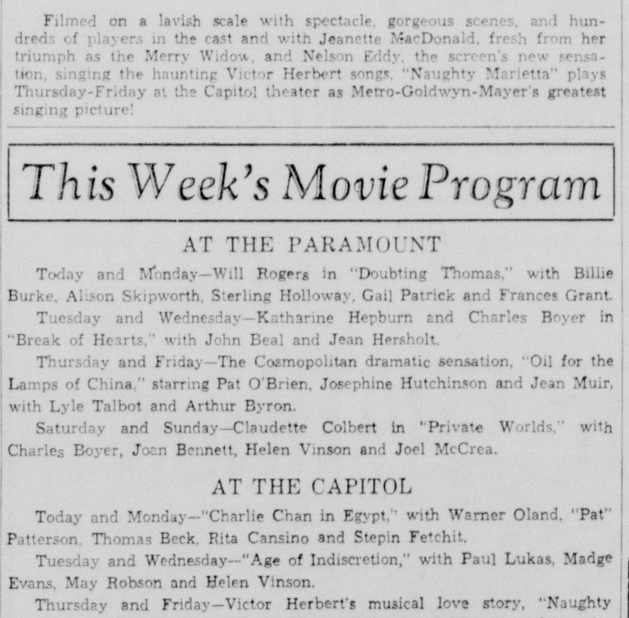

Today and Monday—"Charlie Chan in Egypt," with Warner Oland, "Pat" Patterson, Thomas Beck, Rita Cansino and Stepin Fetchit.

Tuesday and Wednesday—"Age of Indiscretion," with Paul Lukas, Madge Evans, May Robson and Helen Vinson.

Thursday and Friday—Victor Herbert's musical love story, "Naughty Marietta," with Jeanette McDonald, Nelson Eddy, Frank Morgan and Douglas Dumbrille.

Saturday—Tim McCoy in his latest western, "Justice of the Range," with Billie Seward.

Sunday—Edgar Allen Poe's "The Raven," with Bela Lugosi and Boris Karloff.

Based on a best selling novel by Alice Tisdale Hobart, the Cosmopolitan production "Oil for the Lamps of China," which First National Pictures will present at the Paramount theater on Thursday and Friday has given to Pat O'Brien and Josephine Hutchinson (above) their most dramatic film roles.

Screen Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD.—After more than 10 years as king of the Fox studio, Winfield Sheehan is about to see his "Empire" collapse.

But before that happens the film industry is going to witness an explosion such as it never has seen before. Ever since the Twentieth Century-Fox merger several weeks ago, Hollywood has been a rumbling volcano. Now the fireworks (which won't be any Fourth of July celebration) are due.

On one side of the fracas will be "Winnie" Sheehan. On the other, Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck. All three have reputations for riding rough shod over anyone or anything blocking their way.

Now they're at swords' points over control of the newly organized Twenieth Century-Fox (use of the Fox name is to be dropped) company. And the battle is certain to be fierce.

There isn't a studio in the world big enough to hold both Zanuck and Sheehan, neither of whom will play second fiddle to anyone—at least not today. So, with all production of the new company scheduled for the Fox studios, war is inevitable.

Will Stick To Contract

Sheehan's contract, said to be the most iron clad ever written in the picture business, gives his full authority over all studio production. Calling for a weekly salary of $5,000, that contract still has a year and a half to run.

Consequently it's going to be difficult to blast him off his throne unless he's willing to move. And it's a cinch he'll be unwilling. At the same time Zanuck will be equally unwilling to leave such powers in Sheehan's hands.

It has been suggested that Zanuck and Sheehan may be given equal authority over their own productions with Schenck, chairman of the board of the new company, acting as mediator for both. That set-up would be kicked over in 10 days, because it's a cinch Schenck would side with Zanuck in any controversy.

Looking at the situation from all angles, there seems to be only one answer. That is for Schenck and Zanuck to make a cash settlement with Sheehan for the remainder of his contract. There again trouble will arise. They will want to discount the amount for making an immediate settlement. And I don't think "Winnie" will take one cent less than the terms of his contract.

Bankers Behind Zanuck

In that event, Schenck and Banuck will have no recourse but to pay in full if they want Sheehan out of the picture—which they obviously do.

This, however, should be a simple matter, as they apparently have complete support of the Chase National Bank which now has some $26,000,000 invested in the Fox company.

From inside sources it has been learned that it was the Chase bank which got Twentieth Century to merge with Fox, or rather take over the Fox corporation, which is really what happened. This move is the bank's "white hope" of eventually recovering its investment—which looked impossible under the old Fox set-up with Sheehan in the driver's seat.

It was Sheehan who built Fox from a second rate concern into one of the biggest corporations in the industry. He is said also to have engineered the deal which forced William Fox out of the company several years ago. And it was under his administration that the staggering debt piled up.

Few Successes By Fox

It's no secret that Sheehan has not made a financial success of running the Fox studio during the last two or three years. While the majority of pictures personally supervised by him have been good, the product of the studio as a whole has been extremely poor.

About the only films that have made money have been the Shirley Temple, Will Rogers and Janet Gaynor productions.

At the same time, Twentieth Century has been the industry's most successful company since its organization two years ago. Zanuck has turned out one box office hit after another.

The bankers, naturally, want to see some profits coming into the Fox organization—lots of profits. It will take plenty to repay their $26,000,000.

Katharine Hepburn as the poor music student in "Break of Hearts," RKO Radio picture. The beginning of her romance with the captivating symphony conductor, Charles Boyer, begins when he barges into her little studio to apologize for snubbing her at their introduction by Jean Hersholt. "Break of Hearts" is the Paramount theater's attraction Tuesday and Wednesday.

Warner Oland and Pat Patterson have the leading roles in Fox Film's comedy of terrors "Charlie Chan in Egypt' playing today and Monday at the Capitol. You'll tremble as you laugh when Stepin Fetchit becomes Chan's reluctant aide to defy a grim curse that started 3,000 years ago in a ghostly Egyptian tomb.

A NEW BUILDING MATERIAL SHOWN

Asbesto Flexboard Is Noted For Sturdiness And Flexibility

At the exhibition of contemporary American industrial art which attracted much interest in New York recently, asbestos flexboard, a new material made by Johns-Manville, was used in a number of rooms, according to Mr. Ralph Gatlin of the Ritchie Grocer company, local J-M dealer. The purpose of the exhibition was to show new products which combine good looks, utility and, besides these, marketability. No product was chosen unless it lived up to these conditions.

Asbestos flexboard as its name implies is made of asbestos fibers and Portland cement formed under great hydraulic pressure. In spite of the sturdiness of this material it is flexible enough to apply over curved surfaces.

Many new apartments throughout the country are having their walls finished with flexboard, and the fact that it can be applied right over old walls has also made it a popular choice in modernization jobs where economy and durability are desired.

Flexboard may be bought in decorative single colors to match the room, green, buff, rose or slate, and it is finished with a smooth lustrous surface. The pigment is mixed with the asbestos and cement during manufacture and it is an integral part of the material. The surface will not corrode, chip, warp or crack and it is easy to keep clean. Another important factor in its favor is that it is fireproof.

Flexboard might well be called the material of 1,000 uses. It may be seen on exhibit at Ritchie Grocer company display rooms.

GOLDEN, Colo.—A movement is under way here to make Golden the first 100 per cent modernized city in the country.

To carry out this intention, the Golden Modernization Prosperity Club was organized recently. Each member binds himself to obtain modernization and repair pledges from three other persons. By this method it is expected that modernization work will be undertaken by every resident in the city. The population of Golden is 2,426.

SERVICE GIVEN BY ARCHITECTS

Free Advice And Small Fee For Consultation In Vogue Many Places

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The practice of supplying free architectural information service in conjunction with the better housing program is growing in many sections of the country, the federal housing administration is advised.

Pittsburgh, Pa.; Philadelphia, Pa.; New York, N. Y.; Baltimore, Md.; and Los Angeles, Calif., have already organized architectural groups who are offering certain general services gratis to the public.

The Pittsburgh procedure is a fair example. In cooperation with the local organization of the federal housing administration, an architectural information service is being operated in a well-known building in the business section. An architect remains on duty there from 1 to 5 p. m. daily to give information to visitors. No information is supplied, however, that might be construed as professional services. The purpose is to acquaint interested persons with what type of architectural service they might require when considering building, approximate initial costs, and with the names of reputable architects in the community.

In Philadelphia another form of architectural service has been inaugurated. A group of qualified architects have opened a consultation service with small fee charges to applicants. Preliminary questions pertaining to housing are furnished in this manner similar to the services often offered by doctors.

HOUSING PROGRAM HELPS FINISH HOME

CLAIRTON, Pa.—Completion of a home which was delayed by lack of funds for a year and a half was made possible through the provisions of the national housing act, according to one of the women field representatives of the Federal Housing Administration.

An interested woman called three times on the district supervisor of the better housing survey here and said that she and her husband started to build a home 18 months ago. The closing of banks and the tying-up of savings indefinitely postponed the completion of the home. With information gained by the wife at better housing headquarters, the couple applied at a local bank for modernization credit. The funds advanced allowed for the completion of the house, and the grateful couple have announced that they are moving into their new home this month.

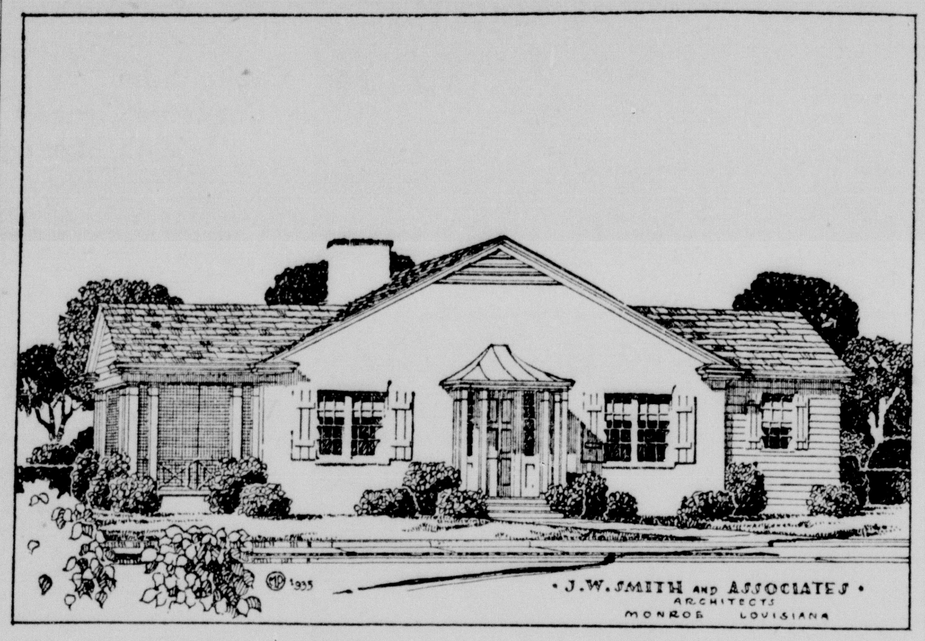

LUMBER INSTITUTE ISSUES FHA BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—The Lumber and Allied Products Institute here has issued a bulletin, accompanied by forms used in the making of an application for mortgage loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration. The bulletin advises all members of the institute to "become thoroughly familiar with every detail of the application" and to be prepared to aid contractors and other clients in filling out forms and obtaining commitments from the Federal Housing Administration.

ARCHITECTS REPORT

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—One of the leading architectural firms here recently reported to the State Director of the Federal Housing Administration that it has done more business so far in 1935 than came to its offices during the entire 3 previous years.

SOUTH GRAND STREET HOME

The residence of O. A. Easterling, 1508 South Grand street, as remodelled will comprise: addition of living porch, kitchen wing and interior re-arrangement incorporating additional closet space, bedroom, bath, etc. Plumbing throughout is being replaced with copper. A new rigid asbestos shingle laid in Dutch-lap pattern will be applied over house and garage. A new double garage with servants' quarters is also included in the contract. Interior refinishing will consist of complete renovation of woodwork, floors and walls. Present exterior brick work will be painted. The contract price for these alterations and additions is $3,887.00. General contractor is W. H. Blane of Monroe.

SUGGEST WAYS TO BUILD GUTTERS FOR HOUSE ROOF

Gutters should be of sufficient size and should be constructed with enough pitch or slope to carry off water draining from the roof.

When properly designed and installed, gutters should permit snow drifts which accumulate on roofs to slide over and not pile up in them and, at the same time, to catch water from melting snow. Gutters should be of durable, water-resistant and corrosive-resistant material.

If the material is subject to gradual deterioration, due to exposure to the elements, it should be painted with a good quality of durable, water-resistant paint. Good gutters and downspouts of adequate size properly installed prevent building deterioration and are an essential factor in low maintenance cost. They also assist in keeping dampness out of a home, making it more healthful and serviceable.

WINDOW REPAIR

Before doing the spring painting of your home it is good practice to make a thorough inspection of the windows to ascertain if all of the glass is sealed tight with putty. If the putty has become hard and cracked, or is loose and has pulled away from the glass, all defective material should be removed and freshly replaced. This will eliminate the necessity of patching the windows after painting. It also will keep air and dust from filtering in around the glass and prevent deterioration of the window frames due to moisture getting into the wood.

INTEREST GROWING IN REPAIR EXTENSION

CHICAGO, Ill.—Daily reports from the northern district of Illinois to state federal housing headquarters indicated widespread interest in the recent extension of the limitations of modernization credit recently passed by congress.

The state director reports that "one of our good friends is considering a projecting involving the expenditure of $30,000. This is only one of many."

Numerous remodeling projects involving sums ranging from $30,000 to $400,000 are being planned by industrial concerns and hotels in northern Illinois.

PASTOR AIDS

ST. JOSEPH, Mich.—The pastor of the German Lutheran church here recently said that he would write a letter over his signature to his 2,000 parishioners, explaining the program of the Federal Housing administration and urging cooperation with it. The letter was to be written in German, assuring the interest of the entire congregation, according to the pastor.

RULES UNDER $50,000 LIMIT MADE PUBLI

Extension Of Credit Seen A Stimulating Wider Building Activity

WASHINGTON, July 6.—New re ulations governing the administra tion of the modernization credit pl of the federal housing administr tion have been announced by Actin Administrator Stewart McDonald fo lowing the extension of the amou insurable under the plan from $2,0 to $50,000.

These revised regulations have be forwarded to all federal housi headquarters and all approved fina cial institutions and are expected open a new market for building m terials, machinery and equipme which should be of direct benefit practically all industry and, indirec ly, to the nation as a whole.

Under the amended act, the regu lations governing modernizati credit for improvement of individu homes, farm properties, churche clubs, public buildings, and simil properties remain substantially th same. The maximum limit for ea such property is fixed under prov sions of the act at $2,000. This type credit is being extended for the pu pose of making additions, alteratio repairs, and improvements of re property, including also such ne construction as garages and certa other similar structures.

Classify Credits

The class of modernization cred made possible by the $50,000 amen ment also is being handled sep rately. This type of credit is e tended for additions, alterations, r pairs, and improvement for "re property improved by or to be co verted into apartment or multipl family houses, hotels, office, bus ness, or other commercial building hospitals, orphanages, college schools, or manufacturing or indu trial plants." The maximum lim for each property is $50,000.

Purchase and installation of ma chinery and equipment in the typ of property mentioned in the pr ceding paragraph are eligible for mo ernization credit under the new re ulations, provided they are "pecu iarly adapted to the business co ducted therein or necessary to th operation thereof."

All charges, including interest, fe both types of modernization cred are to be determined by the finan cial institution and the applicant f credit, the rates to be as low as consistent with the character of bus ness in the particular territory which the loan is negotiated. Und no circumstances can the interest, t gether with all other charges con bined, exceed the equivalent of discount per $100 original face amou of a 1-year note to be paid in equ monthly installments.

Determine Risk

Determination of the credit risk i volved is left largely to the di cretion of the financial institutio advancing the funds, it was state This was substantially true under th old regulations.

"The amendments to the Nation Housing act covering the extensio of modernization credit for improve ment, conversion, or equipment commercial properties are of dire interest and benefit to everyone pr ducing goods or services requirin buildings or permanent equipment Mr. McDonald stated. "They are particular interest to all those wh manufacture or deal in machinery.

"Under the amended act, the mod ernization market has been increase so as to include practically ever user of permanently installed ma chinery or equipment, as well a every property owner.

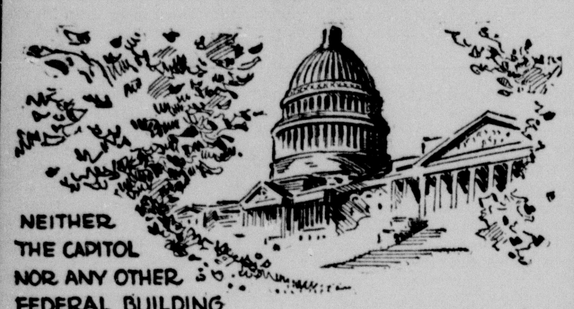

"Revised regulations have been ser to all the approved banks and othe financial institutions, all better-hous ing committees, and all the offices c the federal housing administratio Detailed information may be obtaine at any of these places by those wh can use modernization credit for im provement or better equipment o their properties."

There never was such a golden opportunity for you to have your house repainted inside and out. In all probability, it has been neglected these past four or five years because of the economic situation.

But this neglect is unwise for two good reasons—your property depreciates and you are compelled to live in a "seedy" home. Paint is not and never has been, an "expense" in the usual sense. As a matter of fact, it is an economy.

Now comes the government's fine Better Housing Program whereby funds may be borrowed for home improvements. We can assist you in working out the problem in your own case. . . . prepare an estimate and put you in touch with the proper sources of money supply. Consult us at once.

Puts New Life In Your Old Roof!

J-M Roof Coatings are good medicine for composition roofs that are drying out and beginning to crack. They penetrate to the very heart of the roofing felt, re-vitalizing it, and restoring all its waterproof qualities—just what the roof needs to be good for many more years of service.

By repeating this process every few years, you can keep your roof in prime condition at very little cost. J-M Coatings also give first-class protection to metal roofs that are showing signs of wear.

Use J. M. Fibrous Enamel (containing asbestos fibres) when the roof is in a worn condition. For ordinary conditions, use Regal Roof Coating (without fibres).

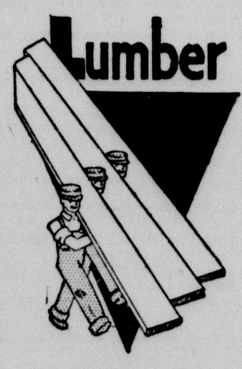

All Johns-Manville Coatings can be applied with a large brush. Full directions on every container.

NSURED PLAN PUTS NO COST ON TAXPAYERS

utual Mortgage Procedure Stimulates Long-Term Loan Of Funds

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Without st to taxpayers of the country the utual mortgage insurance plan es- blished in the national housing act bringing about a transformation in e residential-mortgage business of mmercial banks and other large nancial institutions through its pro- sions for a sound, conservative ethod of installment buying, accord- g to the federal housing administra- on.

The short-term mortgage business feeling the effects of the change. uilding and loan associations and any insurance companies already al in long-term loans.

"While the whole method is out- ned in the national housing act," cting Administrator Stewart Mc- onald stated, "the public sometimes ses sight of the fact that residential- ortgage refinancing and new resi- ential construction as established in e act will cost the taxpaying public othing.

FHA Pays Own Way

"The federal housing administration ust pay its own way out of the in- urance funds and not out of gov- nmental appropriations. This is a rovision of the organic act.

"The fact that the mutual mortgage rogram must be self-sustaining is the eason why the mutual mortgage in- urance requirements are so rigid and hy the appraisers, architects and ther technical members of the insur- ng office staffs must be chosen upon he basis of qualification and ex- erience."

Low-Cost Housing

Insurance of mortgages on low-cost nd limited-dividend housing proj- cts, for the purpose of providing ousing to persons of low income, is ncluded with the insurance of resi- ential mortgages and also must be elf-supporting, it was explained. No overnment funds are appropriated to he federal housing administration for his activity.

This mutual mortgage insurance lan is confidently expected by the dministration to transform the resi- ential-mortgage system. Under this lan, second and third mortgages, high nterest rates, and exorbitant bonuses or renewals of first mortgages will e eliminated; the home owner can et a single mortgage for an amount p to 80 per cent of its appraised alue for a term up to 20 years at definitely limited interest rates and harges—the same in Maine as in California.

Former Hazards

"Heretofore, mortgages have been easonably sound investments for hose who lend the money, as wit- essed by the huge holdings of sav- ngs banks, insurance companies, uilding and loan associations, and ther financial institutions," Mr. Mc- Donald said, "but they have not been o sound for the borrower or home wner, who has faced the possibility f dispossession at every renewal eriod. This threat is a reality in imes of severe depression. Under the ong-term provisions of the mutual ortgage insurance plan the great ajority of home owners should be ble to weather depressions without osing their homes."

Housing Question Box

Q.—What are the natural earth colors used in coloring concrete walks?

A.—Natural earth colors are color compounds which are found as deposits in the earth and utilized as pigments. Sometimes they are treated to bring out or intensify the colors. Natural iron oxide, mineral browns, ocres, siennas, umbers, mineral black, and a few allied substances are the pigments used. The so-called "oxides" give colors ranging from a warm brown to a brilliant scarlet.

Q.—We expect to build an addition to our home and would like to know how the joists should be inserted in the masonry wall to prevent deterioration.

A.—The pocket, or space provided in the masonry wall for inserting the end of a joist, seam or sill, should be blocked out, leaving smooth surfaces. It is usually advisable to have the pocket of sufficient size so that there will be an open space of about one inch between the masonry and the side and end surfaces of the wood in order to obtain ventilation.

Not only should the masonry wall be constructed so as to be water-resistant, but it is good practice to damp-proof the surfaces of the pocket. Where there is any possibility of dampness getting to the wood, it is safer to treat it, or at least treat the ends for a distance of two or three feet, with a good quality wood preservative. When it is not possible to use wood which has been given a pressure treatment, then the ends should be given two or three coats of preservative applied freely with a brush.

Slate, tile, or other water-resistant material should be used to block up the joists in the pockets when it is necessary to raise the ends of the joists to make them level. It is also good practice to use preservatively treated joists, sills, and other wodden members where they rest on or adjoin damp masonry walls, especially where the ventilation is poor.

J.—Will hedges make an adequate screen for a laundry or service yard?

A.—A hedge of privet, Buckthorn, or similar quick-growing deciduous plants will reach a height of 8 to 10 feet in a very few years. If properly clipped and cultivated, it makes a very attractive thick screen. An evergreen hedge which will be effective both in summer and winter costs somewhat more and grows more slowly. The common Arbor Vitae, Norway spruce, or hemlock are excellent for this purpose. In a shaded location, the hemlock will prove best.

Q.—Should a tree four inches in diameter be moved with bare roots?

A.—A tree of this size whether evergreen or deciduous should not be moved with bare roots. It should be dug with a ball of earth at least four feet in diameter. The earth ball should be carefully wrapped in burlap and securely tied with rope before the tree is transferred. If special tree-moving equipment is not available a low stone boat may be used to haul it on.

Q.—When should lawns be fertilized?

A.—A lawn should be fertilized in the early spring and in the early fall, but never in the heat of summer or the turf will be badly burned. It is always advisable to water the lawn thoroughly after applying the fertilizer.

Q.—I am considering building a cement driveway and would like to know what material can be added to the concrete to darken it and thus decrease the sun glare.

A.—Powdered lamp black or some of the prepared coloring compounds that can be secured from any paint store can be added to the concrete at the time of mixing, these will darken the concrete to any shade desired. It would be wise to make a few test blocks before laying the drive to determine the correct color.

Garden Walk Construction Method Given

A garden walk should be of a material that weathers well and blends naturally with the landscape. The material and the construction varies with the type of garden. For an old colonial garden nothing is more attractive than soft-toned brick, laid on a cushion of sand. They will soon be weathered and covered with moss and add greatly to the charm of the garden. For a natural path that winds through the woods or a rock garden, water-worn flagstone would be appropriate.

For the formal French or Italian garden, the walks are frequently of cut sandstone or limestone with narrow cut stone curbings. Sometimes large colored pebbles are fitted into patterns and set in cement and used for walks in formal gardens.

Well compacted clay gravel makes a good walk, but there should be enough clay in the gravel to keep it firm or else the loose stones are uncomfortable to walk on as they are apt to get into low shoes.

Such improvements may be made through modernization credit available at lending institutions approved by the federal housing administration.

200,000 VISITORS

DALLAS, Texas.—More than 200,000 persons visited "Inspiration House" here during the seven weeks that the model home was open to the public.

CORNCRIBS MAY BE REPAIRED ECONOMICALLY

Credit up to $2,000 for the modernization of existing corncribs and the construction of new ones is available on easy and convenient terms under the National Housing act. Such credit is available at commercial banks, building and loan associations, and other financial institutions approved by the Federal Housing administration and is repayable in monthly installments, or as crops are harvested, over a period of from one to five years.

Full information is given in the Farm Property Improvement Bulletin of the Federal Housing Administration, a copy of which will be furnished free upon request by the Washington office of the administration or any state office.

The importance of storing corn on the farm cannot be overestimated, because 70 per cent of the crop is fed to farm animals, and only about one-third is shipped out of the locality in which it is grown. Even when produced as a cash crop, corn is seldom hauled direct from the field to the elevator, hence some provision must be made for storing it.

The availability of credit for the modernization and construction of corncribs under the National Housing Act, therefore, is most important to farmers. Construction of adequate cribs will make it possible for the farmer to store corn and hold corn on the farm for use when needed. Furthermore, when the farmer cannot finance the storing of the corn, it will make it possible to meet the corncrib-storage requirements of the commodity credit corporation in order to obtain a loan for storing corn.

BOWL CLEANERS

Choose drain and closet-bowl cleaners carefully. The cheaper cleaners are likely to damage the enamel finish. Your plumber will be glad to recommend a cleaner which can be used with safety.

Exempt

Law Prevents Assessment Increase After Repairs

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—By an act of legislature, all property in this state upon which modernization work has been done is exempt from increased assessments during the next three years, according to State Director Ernest C. Fiedler.

The bill, signed recently by Governor Phillip La Follette, also exempts from assessments and taxation all new homes to be built during the next three years, leaving only the lot to be assessed, "precisely the same as if no new home were built on it," according to Mr. Fiedler.

END HEAT LOSS

Part of the heat loss which occurs in a frame constructed home can be prevented by closing the open spaces between the wall studs at the attic floor line. This may be done by first cutting pieces of planking 2 inches in thickness, the exact size of the opening. Then insert them between the studs and nail tight. These stops cut off the circulation of air which is drawn up into the attic through the walls. They reduce the fire hazard and assist in making the house warmer in winter and cut down the fuel bill.

STRAHAN WARNS AGAINST WEEVIL

Parish Agent Says Heavy Infestation For Cotton Crop Almost Certain

"A heavy infestation of boll weevils on this year's cotton crop seems almost certain, and the weevils will either cause great damage or they will be destroyed by the cotton growers," E. R. Strahan, Ouachita parish agricultural agent, said in a statement on the extermination of the weevils.

"There are two ways to poison cotton for weevils," Mr. Strahan said. "One is to make a haphazard guess as to the time to poison and the other is to make sure of the proper time. Some cotton is not worth poisoning, but where there is a prospect of one-third bale per acre or more, poisoning by all means should be done.

"The following procedure is recommended:

"1. Begin dusting when weevils have punctured 10 out of every 100 of the squares.

"2. Use only pure cotton-dusting calcium arsenate in the form of a dry powder.

"3. Use from five to seven pounds per acre for each application.

"4. Dust only when the air is reasonably calm and the cotton plants are moist.

"5. Repeat applications three times at 5-day intervals. Do not poison again until the infestation is 10 per cent or more.

"6. If a heavy rain falls within 24 hours after poisoning repeat the application.

"7. Poison should be applied when there is dew on the plants. This can be done at night or early in the morning if the acreage is small.

"8. Poison right or not at all and remember that it costs little to dust as compared to the cost of not dusting at all.

"To determine the per cent of infestation walk diagonally across the field and examine carefully the buds in 100 squares. Pull off all squares and buds showing feeding or egg puncture of weevils. Keep these punctured forms in the hand. When 100 squares have been examined, count those in hand. This will be roughly the per cent of infestation. Repeat this three times for checking. Poison if 10 per cent or more buds are punctured.

"The calmest part of the day is usually just before dusk. Begin poisoning at this time if plants are wet with dew and continue as far into the night as possible. Poisoning in a high wind, and poisoning when plants are dry is unprofitable.

"Weevils are poisoned as they feed principally on the squares and small bolls. Dust all of the cotton plants as thoroughly as possible. The more force with which poison is driven through plants, the more effective it will be.

"Cotton naturally sheds more than half of the squares formed. Be sure the weevils are causing from 10 per cent to 15 per cent of the shedding before poisoning.

"Do not poison at all if:

"1. You do not intend to poison sufficiently to keep weevils under control for at least 15 days.

"2. Poisoning is not done when plants are wet.

"3. You wait until fifty per cent or more of the forms are punctured.

"4. Poisoning is to be carelessly done."

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

A cachet for the first night flight over A. M. 24, leaving Monroe Tuesday morning, was sponsored by the Twin City Stamp club. The cachet was applied to 577 pieces of mail, going to persons in practically every state in the union, Canada, Scotland, England and other foreign countries. Only one color of ink—red—was used in applying the cachet. It is hoped that this cachet will give Monroe, Delta Air Service and the Twin City Stamp club some desirable publicity.

Our advice to collectors is to secure the Silver Jubilee issues of the British Colonies now. As we predicted several weeks ago, prices of these stamps are rising rapidly and many dealers report that they are entirely sold out.

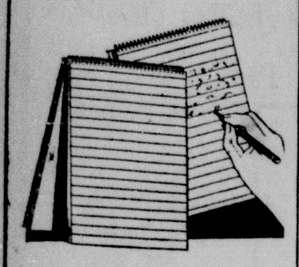

While we do not advocate the collecting of stamps for investment, few investments would have paid as large dividends at as rapid rates, as these issues. Also, they are among the most attractive stamps—according to the writer's opinion—that ever has been issued.

It is said that a new government ruling in Russia gives officials the right to open all collectors' mail, and that a necessary form must be enclosed in each letter containing stamps. Unless Russian postal officials make their emissions more attractive, they will have little use for the forms mentioned.

The cornerstone of the new post-office building at Sellersville, Pa., had a stamp album placed in it through the generosity of a collector there. Quite a fitting subject for the building, we should say.

Misses Lela Kirby Odgen and Mary Ann Odgen attended the 4-H club encampment at Camp Peck, near Sicily Island.

Miss Genevieve Hill of Monroe is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. R. L. Dade.

WORK PUSHED ON LOCAL PROJECTS

Excellent Progress Made On Sicard Overpass And Louisville Avenue

Excellent progress is being made in the construction of the Sicard overpass and the extension of Louisville avenue from the present end of the avenue to the intersection of the DeSiard and Sterlington roads, it was learned at offices of the Louisiana state employment service here. The employment service provides labor for a number of local construction projects and is in close touch with them.

The building up of the west approach of the overpass has been completed, and virtually all of the concrete work has been done. The east approach was finished several weeks ago.

Steel for the overpass construction is expected to arrive within the next 10 days.

Dirt work of the Louisville avenue extension east of the Little Rock and Monroe railroad tracks is expected to be completed within the next 10 days. The new thoroughfare to be wider in its entire length than the present width of the section which has been paved for some years, will lead traffic to and from the new state highway bridge under construction across the Ouachita river.

Steel work on the bridge is still delayed by high water.

The paving of a wide, new street to serve as a direct approach to the bridge from Cypress street in West Monroe has been completed.

At the southern edge of West Monroe, construction of one of the last two links of dirt levees of that city has been completed.

At the northern edge of West Monroe, near Major McGuire park, the remaining dirt link of the levee is being constructed.

The employment service reported that two miles of concrete sidewalk are being constructed adjacent to the highway that connects Jonesboro and Hodge. The labor for this project is being provided by the Jonesboro office of the Louisiana state employment service.

REPORTER SHOT IN OFFICE

Hodge

The home of Mrs. Ira Bowman of Hodge was the scene of one of the loveliest of the season's gay parties, when a group of prominent women honored Miss Audie Mae Greer, whose marriage to Mr. John Lintotte took place on July 6. Mrs. Bowman was assisted by Miss Hortense Smith, Miss Grace Pringle, Miss Mary Garrett and Mrs. Chas. Palmer, all of whom wore frocks of pastel shaded organdy, with matching accessories.

The honoree wore a gown of crisp blue organdy, with wide double-flounced circular skirts over blue satin rows of tiny blue velvet bows trimmed the skirt, bodice and small puffed sleeves.

Little Miss Patty Etter impersonated "Cupid," in a suit of pink crepe with silver bandings. Miss Molly Jean Kelley, impersonating an old fashioned belle, in a long ruffled white dress, with a bonnet of blue hydrangea buds, led the honoree to the gift table, where many useful gifts of silver, linen, crystal, pottery, china, and lingerie and an elaborate hand made quilt and a gorgeous crocheted lace bed spread were viewed.

Delectable refreshments were served to the following friends: Mesdames John Dennis, Sam Walsworth, Jane Gagnon, John C. Michaud, David Belle, S. E. Michaud, P. Madden, J. B. Boss, Benton L. Kelley, Love, Ralph Largay, Lucille Colvin, Douglass McLean, Stubblefield, John Holden, Carl Etter, Misses Mable McLeary, Rose O'Brien, Olla Dee Watts, Ethel Wilson, Mrs. D. D. McDonald, Mrs. Greer.

Eighteen members of the D. W. Cantwell company visited the Southern Advance Bag and Paper company last week, arriving by special bus from Nashville, Tenn., to spend several days as guests of the paper company. After being tendered a banquet at the club house the party was shown the different places of interest in Hodge, such as the canning plant, golf club, swimming pool and general stores.

HEY, RED! WHERE'VE Y'BEEN KEEPIN' YOURSELF? I HAVEN'T SEEN ANYTHING OF YUH SINCE WE'VE BEEN ABOARD

OH, I'VE BEEN BUSY, BOOTS

HOW'S YOUR BROTHER?

SWELL -- BUT, I DON'T THINK HE HAS ANY INTENTION OF GETTIN' WELL, AS LONG AS THERE ARE SO MANY PRETTY NURSES TO TAKE CARE OF 'IM

SAY, THERE'S A GIRL ON TH' SHIP I'D LIKE FOR YOU T'MEET

SURE -- IF SHE'S A FRIEND OF YOURS

SHE ISN'T -- BUT, SHE SAYS SHE KNOWS YOU

REALLY? WHAT'S HER NAME?

WELL -- UH, THAT ALL DEPENDS! Y'SEE SHE WAS CURIOUS AS TO HOW I HAPPENED T'SHOW UP OUT HERE IN THE MIDDLE OF THE OCEAN -- AND, IN EXPLAINING THE CIRCUMSTANCES, I MENTIONED YOUR NAME! SHE SEEMED MORE THAN INTERESTED

OH, I CAN'T IMAGINE WHO IT IS

C'MON -- I'LL TAKE YOU TO HER

OKE! THIS IS A S'PRISE

HERE WE ARE

176

GWEN

YEAH! WELL -- AIN'TCHA GLAD T'SEE ME?

WHY -- YES! YES, OF COURSE. BUT.....

S'PRISED, EH? WELL, BRIGHT EYES, Y'DON'T HAVE A THING ON ME

I NEVER THOUGHT YOU'D COME OFFA THAT ISLAND ALIVE

I DON'T UNDERSTAND! WHAT DO Y'MEAN?

WELL, NOW THAT TH' JIG'S UP, I MIGHT AS WELL TELL YUH- I WAS TH' ONE WHO DUMPED ALL YOUR SUPPLIES IN TH' OCEAN, N'NAILED TH' BOXES UP AGAIN EMPTY

YOU? YOU DID THAT? ? ? ?

OH!! I'LL NEVER FORGIVE YOU -- BILLY MIGHT'VE DIED! WE BOTH MIGHT HAVE! OOH, HOW COULD YOU?

EASY! N'IF I EVER GET ANOTHER CHANCE, I'LL DO A BETTER JOB OF IT

WELL, Y'AREN'T GONNA GET ANOTHER CHANCE! I'M GONNA PUT YOU BEHIND SO MANY BARS, YOU'LL THINK YOU'RE IN A ZOO .... N'THAT WOULDN'T BE SUCH A BAD IDEA, EITHER!

TOMMY TRAILED THE TWO FLYERS WHO TRIED TO STEAL THE PLANS OF THE STRATOS SHIP. THEY SHOT HIM DOWN BUT HE ESCAPED UNHURT FROM THE WRECK OF HIS PLANE AND SIGNALLED TO A MAIL SHIP FOR HELP—

THAT'S A WRECK-- SURE ENOUGH—

I'LL SIT DOWN AND INVESTIGATE—

GOT ROOM FOR A HITCH-HIKER, SPEED?

TOMMY!-- HOW-- WHAT---

HAVEN'T MUCH LOAD TODAY, YOU MIGHT CURL UP IN THE MAIL COMPARTMENT—

SAY! I'D EVEN RIDE YOUR TAIL ASSEMBLY RATHER THAN STAY IN THIS DRY DESERT!

WHAT---- HAPPENED, TOMMY?

I WAS SHOT DOWN! SOUNDS ALMOST LIKE A DIME NOVEL STORY-- BUT IT'S ON THE LEVEL—

BETTER RADIO TO SEND HELP TO MR. CRANDELL--- GOSH!--NO! THEY'D NEVER FIND THE SECRET HANGAR!

WE SHIFT OUR SCENE TO AN OFFICE IN EL PASO WHERE WE FIND BOSS TAGGART—

WHAT!-- HUH---- SAY-- WHY DON'T YOU KNOCK BEFORE--

BOSS THE DEAL WENT HAYWIRE!

--YOU MEAN--YOU TRAILED CRANDELL TO HIS SECRET HANGAR--THEN LET HIM SCARE YOU AWAY--

THIS GUY, TAILSPIN TOMMY TOOK AFTER US--

--WE SHOT 'IM DOWN--AN' WERE GONNA FINISH 'IM WHEN TH' STRATOS SHIP SWOOPED DOWN ON US AN'---

WELL, YOU'RE GOING BACK THERE AGAIN! WE'VE GOT TO GET THE LOW-DOWN ON HOW HE OPERATES THAT SHIP!

HURLED INTO THE WATERS OF THE PARK LAGOON ALONG WITH TESS TRUEHEART'S ROADSTER, WHEN TESS WAS SNATCHED FROM THE MOVING CAR AS IT CROSSED THE PARK BRIDGE- JUNIOR SEIZED A FLOATING SEAT CUSHION AND MANAGED TO SWIM TOWARD SHORE WHERE HE WAS RESCUED.....

MEANWHILE TESS TRUEHEART'S WHEREABOUTS IS AS COMPLETELY A DARK SECRET AS THOUGH SHE HAD BEEN SEIZED BY SOME PHANTOM HAND AND HURLED INTO THE BLACK MOUTH OF A DISTANT VOLCANO.

IF YOU HAD ONLY BEEN ABLE TO GET A GOOD LOOK AT THE MAN THAT GRABBED TESS, JUNIOR, OR COULD HAVE SEEN THE CAR'S LICENSE - THAT WOULD HAVE BEEN A LITTLE HELP.

IT ALL HAPPENED SO QUICK, TRACY.. I DIDN'T HAVE TIME TO THINK. I DO REMEMBER THE MAN THAT SNATCHED MISS TESS HAD A HANDKERCHIEF OVER HIS FACE.. ..AND I THINK THE CAR HAD A LICENSE PLATE.

COME ON, PAT... WE'RE GOING OVER EVERY INCH OF GROUND FROM THAT BRIDGE TO THE PARK DRIVE AND SEE WHAT WE CAN FIND.

YOU'RE OUR PRISONER, MISS TRUEHEART, AND WILL RECEIVE ALL YOUR INSTRUCTIONS OVER THIS LOUDSPEAKER.

OUR REASON FOR TALKING TO YOU THROUGH THIS LOUD SPEAKER IS TO MAKE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR YOU TO EVER IDENTIFY ANY OF OUR VOICES.

NOW WRITE WHAT I DICTATE - "DETECTIVE TRACY: THIS IS NOT A KIDNAPING. THERE WILL BE NO RANSOM. OUR DEMAND IS THAT YOU CALL OFF YOUR GAMBLING-BOOKIE-SYNDICATE DRIVE. YOU HAVE 36 HOURS TO COMPLY OR ELSE! SIGNED X."

THERE'S NO GETTING AROUND IT, PAT! ANY CAR COMING OFF THIS BRIDGE WOULD HAVE TO GO STRAIGHT DOWN THIS DEAD-END STREET.

YOU'RE RIGHT- BUT STILL..

EVEN THOUGH THE STREET IS BLOCKED, TRACY, THEY COULD HAVE SWERVED OVER ONTO THAT GRAVEL BRIDLE PATH AND REACHED THE BOULEVARD.

WAIT! WE'RE GOING TO STOP HERE. THAT LOOKS LIKE MARKS OF A SKIDDING CAR IN THE DIRT!

I'LL TAKE ANOTHER LOOK AT THE BRIDLE PATH.

HM... LOOKS LIKE A CAR DASHED DOWN HERE - THE DRIVER SAW THE STREET WAS BLOCKED.. ..PUT ON THE BRAKES, AND SKIDDED INTO THIS DIRT BANK.. OH! OH! WHAT'S THIS!

PAT, THE CAR THAT CARRIED AWAY TESS TRUEHEART BORE LICENSE PLATE NUMBER M-2053.

HOW IN THE WORLD DID YOU FIND THAT OUT?

LOOK! THE CAR SKIDDED WITH SUCH FORCE THAT THE REAR WAS THROWN AGAINST THIS BANK OF DAMP LOAM! THE PRESSURE CRUSHED THE FENDER AGAINST THE WEAKLY SUPPORTED LICENSE PLATE! WITH THE RESULT THAT M-2053 IS IMPRINTED FOR OUR COMPLETE INSPECTION RIGHT HERE IN THE DIRT.

M-2053

WELL, I'LL BE A —! LICENSE - M-2053!

WAR WITH ETHIOPIAN EMPIRE IS INEVITABLE, DECLARES MUSSOLINI

TODAY

Mussolini's Queer Sons
Einstein's New Theory
Bit Her Nose For Love
Death Of A Wit

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

MUSSOLINI'S SONS, Vittorio, 19, and Bruno, 17, named probably for Giordano Bruno, in days when Mussolini was a radical, have enlisted as pilots in the Italian air force, to fight in East Africa. Bruno Mussolini is the youngest licensed fighting pilot in Italy. Both boys select service in scouting and bombardment planes.

The sons of royalty did not do that in Germany.

It must puzzle Hitler to see non-Aryan Italian boys acting so strangely.

THE LEARNED Professor Einstein, who has a new space theory, believes that by combining his "relativity" with the "quantum theory," he can explain all the phenomena of the physical universe.

Max Planck, who started that quantum theory, and Professor Einstein, will probably be surprised when they reach heaven, and find out what a complicated thing "the physical universe" really is. The old Greeks thought they explained everything with "fire, air, earth and water." They explained nothing. Man cannot even understand or explain himself; but Professor Einstein, at least, "tackles" the universe, and makes men think. Thank him for that. His is a great mathematical intellect.

COMING BACK to earth's commonplaces, Asaya Sillasse Haile, Ethiopian law student at the university of Geneva, is sentenced to two year's imprisonment, because he bit off the nose of his Egyptian sweetheart, in a demonstration of affection. The girl is a Mohammedan, the Ethiopian Christian. His lawyer tried to prove that such demonstrations of affection were not unusual.

It might surprise the Paris judge to know that his distinguished fellow countryman, Montaigne, would sympathize with the Ethiopian. Montaigne said that "biting and scratching" were essential parts of violent affection. Modern man seems to have "cooled off."

ETHIOPIA'S EMPEROR swears that he is not trying to start a fight with Italy, and everybody will believe him. The sheep would hardly bite the wolf. Not even Ethiopia's need of a seaport would drive the descendant of King Solomon and the Queen of Sheba to war with Mussolini.

The emperor further announces he has abolished the slave trade in Abyssinia, where, until recently, it was widespread and profitable. That is good news for the slaves, whose fate in such a climate was hard.

In this Ethiopian matter, Mussolini's mind is on Japan, which is taking the trade of Ethiopia, shutting out Italians. There might be another war in that difficulty.

OLIVER HERFORD, dead at 72, was described by President Wilson as "that very delightful wit and artist."

Herford said "a little widow is a dangerous thing." Asked why he wore an ugly hat, because of "a whim" of his wife, Herford is supposed to have said: "You must remember that my wife has a whim of iron."

COMMITTEE BEING FORMED TO FIGHT FOR LOWER TAXES

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The World-Telegram said today it learned that Charles H. Sabin, Jr., was forming a committee of wealthy persons to lobby for lower income tax rates, a federal sales tax, abolition of nuisance taxes and drastic cuts in governmental expenditures.

The paper quoted a fund-soliciting letter which it said had been sent out over Sabin's name saying of the committee "the Wrigleys, Armours, McCormicks, Mayers, Mortons of the west are on it, and in the east we have the usual Pells, Whitneys, Taylors, Watsons, Vanderlips, etc."

The organization is called the Committee of Americans, the World-Telegram said, and claims to be nation-wide. Its eastern headquarters' address was given as the offices of the Hamilton gas company, where only an elderly man opening the day's mail could be found today.

PRESIDENT IS OFF ON WEEK-END FISHING TRIP

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt set out from here aboard the government yacht Sequoia today for an afternoon of fishing and a weekend of the waters of Chesapeake bay.

He carried in his hand as he boarded the ship in the hot July sun a rod and reel column from a Washington paper describing the best fishing opportunities.

TAX ROW GROWS AS LONG SESSION THREAT IS MADE

Differences Over Scope Of Program Prompts Opposing Predictions

PLANS MADE TO EXPEDITE OTHER 'MUST' MEASURES

Opinion Divided Over What Share Wealth Tax Bill Should Contain

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Fast-expanding differences over the scope of the president's wealth-tax program prompted opposing predictions tonight that it would be dropped temporarily and that it would hold congress in session well into September.

Senator McNary of Oregon, Republican leader, forecast that congress either would recess and reconvene in the fall or enact the tax bill at the session beginning next January 3.

On the other side were house ways and means committee Democrats, still sticking by their pledge to bring out a bill this session. They doubted, almost to a man, that final congressional action on the bill—not even drafted yet—could be obtained before the first week of September.

Simultaneously, plans went ahead to expedite other measures on the "must" legislative program. The house planned to take up Monday the controverted amendments to the Tennessee valley authority law.

The senate arranged to take up Monday and vote Tuesday on a motion by Senator Dieterich, Democrat, Illinois, to concur in the house amendment, knocking out of the utilities bill the death sentence for "unnecessary" holding companies. Scheduled to follow that were the Wheeler water carrier, AAA amendment and omnibus banking bills.

In the house hearings were set for next week on the new "must" gold clause bill, while leaders hoped the Guffey coal stabilization and federal alcohol control measures would be ready for the floor by the week-end.

There was, too, a wide difference of opinion among house ways and means committeemen over what the wealth distribution tax bill should contain. Chairman Samuel B. Hill, Democrat, Washington, of the tax subcommittee, said he thought the meas-

Score Of Deaths Caused By Weather In Sun's First Strong Attack

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—The sun relented today after the first general demonstration of its summer power which caused, directly or indirectly, a score of deaths.

Temperatures were in or near the 90's and as high as 100 degrees over wide areas but discomfort was lessened by cooling showers and winds and a forecast for more moderate weather over most of the nation.

Though Kansas continued to bake, its maximum of 100 degrees at Dodge City, was four degrees under the previous day's high of 104.

Henry Roebuck, a farmer, died after a sunstroke in a wheat field near Clarence, Mo. Three heat deaths in Ohio and another in Indiana brought the total directly attributable to this

NEW MEXICO COURT RULES CHAIN STORE TAX IS NOT LEGAL

SANTA FE, N. M., July 6.—(AP)—New Mexico today was without its occupational or so-called "chain store tax."

The much-publicized chain store act smashed into the rocks of unconstitutionality, with the state supreme court ruling Friday in favor of four large store operators who had sued to enjoin the operation of the tax on the ground of unfairness and inequality.

Originally enacted by the 1933 legislative assembly, the first chain store tax was attacked by a referendum calling for the act to be put to a state-wide vote.

The special assembly of 1934, acting before the referendum vote occurred, repealed the original measure and passed another which differed only in the lower rates affixed to certain brackets of business.

The second act immediately was thrown into court, with District Judge M. A. Otero, Jr., of Santa Fe last fall holding it unconstitutional because it penalized certain concerns for doing large amounts of business. The supreme court upheld him.

26 'Dictatorship Clinching' Measures Speedily Pass In House; Senate Acts Tonight

Long Is Well Satisfied By Conquest Of New Political Authority

GRETNA MAN IS NAMED AS JOE FISHER'S SUCCESSOR

Eugene Stanley Makes Ineffectual Fight Against One Of Bills

BATON ROUGE, La., July 6.—(AP)—Huey Long held "court" for political followers in his skyscraper statehouse tonight, well pleased with action of the special session of the legislature in speeding his 26 "dictatorship clinching" bills toward final passage after midnight tomorrow.

He swapped yarns with enthusiastic listeners in the governor's office of the 33-story capitol, satisfied with his conquest of the city administration of New Orleans and his firing and hiring privileges over every non-elective political employe in the state.

The session—the sixth extraordinary assembly in a year—was called Thursday night after Long rushed to Louisiana from Washington by airplane.

His measures went into the law-making hopper that night and with breath-taking speed were steered toward final passage by the house of representatives today, unhampered by scant and feeble minority opposition.

The house adjourned until 12:30 a. m. Monday after sending the bills to the senate. It took the senate only a few minutes this afternoon to refer the bills to the finance committee where they were reported favorably at the rate of one a minute under Long's personal direction.

The senate then sent the measures to the legislative bureau and adjourned until 6 p. m. tomorrow. The bills will then be advanced to third reading and finally passed after midnight. Concurrence in amendments by the house will end another of Louisiana's momentuous legislative meetings.

Two new members of the legislature appointed by Governor O. K. Allen, bringing the total number he

PRESIDENT SET ON OBJECTIVES

New Deal Is Headed Into Epochal Political And Constitutional Struggle

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was believed at the capitol today to be pointing the New Deal determinedly into an epochal political and constitutional struggle.

Whatever uncertainty existed before was offset by his request for the house ways and means committee not to "permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block" the Guffey coal bill.

Other developments this week also supported the prospect.

With challenges of its enactments pyramiding in the courts, the administration finally saw the Wagner labor bill become law and progress of the social security and utility control bills toward the statute books.

Each had been attacked as unconstitutional. The parties divided on the votes.

Suits to annul them will take their place alongside those already pending against the AAA and TVA. Thus a broad range of New Deal philosophy

'MERCY' SLAYER

Chicago authorities say they will seek a murder indictment against William Ganschaw (above), 58-year-old mechanic, who told police he helped his ill and suffering wife kill herself with gas as an act of mercy. He said he intended to die with her but changed his mind. (Associated Press Photo).

DR. DEAN STARTS TERM THIS WEEK

Alleged 'Poison Whisky Highball' Slayer Facing Life Sentence

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—Unless Governor Sennett Conner again intercedes, Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean of Greenwood, Miss., prominent socially and professionally, must begin next week serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary.

The Greenwood woman doctor, convicted of the "poison whisky highball" death of her clinical associate, Dr. John Preston Kennedy, must begin serving her sentence Tuesday unless Governor Conner, who left the capitol today for an unannounced destination, extends a 30-day order of suspension of sentence or grants the woman a full pardon.

A suspension of sentence granted by the governor June 8 will expire Monday.

Recovering from a recent illness, Governor Conner and members of his family left Jackson today. The governor was ordered by his physician to take a few days rest. He did not indicate his destination, nor what action, if any, he expects to take on the Dean case.

Miss Lena Brock, private secretary to the governor, said she expected to communicate with the governor by telephone Sunday or Monday, and ne

KING GEORGE SEES DEMONSTRATION OF NATION'S AIR UNIT

DUXFORD, Eng., July 6.—(AP)—The finest, fastest ships of the royal air force roared past King George and Queen Mary on the 42nd anniversary of their marriage today, in the first royal review of the newest branch of the armed forces.

After an hour's ground inspection of 350 planes of 38 squadrons drawn up at Mildenhall airdrome, the king motored the 35 miles to Duxford to join the queen and 200,000 other Britons in watching 200 planes roar by in formation.

The king, for the first time, wore the blue uniform of the royal air force. His two sons, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York, were similarly attired. With them, he drove up and down the long lines of planes at Mildenhall stopping several times to chat with officers.

ARGENTINE IMPORT PLAN SEEN AS U. S. PROPAGANDA

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The plan of Governor Jose Castells of the Argentine Chaco to import Texas cotton farmers found little sympathy today among Texans in congress.

Senator Connally expressed the opinion the campaign of Argentina, Brazil and Paraguay to capture part of the cotton empire because of a reduction program in this country "evidently is propaganda, probably inspired up here."

MOVE IS STARTED FOR THIRD PARTY

New National Organization To Launch Its First Campaign In 1936

CHICAGO, July 6. — (AP) — Formal demand for the creation of a new national political party, which would launch its first campaign in 1936, was voted today by the "third party" advocates' rally.

Quickly settling a controversy which had tied up their morning session, the conference of "liberals" decided their temporary organization, to act until a convention can be held, should be titled: "The American Commonwealth Political Federation."

That out of the way, they adopted their organizing committee's recommendation that they go on record "as favoring a new national political party, based on the principle of production for use."

An executive committee to be elected here was directed to call a national convention in time to get the proposed party in the running for 1936.

Delegates indicated the convention would likely be held in October.

Without much debate six other recommendations detailing the officers, their duties and the general structure of the new federation were approved by the shirt sleeved delegates.

Officers of the federations will include a chairman, vice chairman, secretary and treasurer.

Its national committee will be composed of two delegates "elected at clearly representative state conventions, called by the national executive committee."

The executive committee, another approved recommendation, declared will be composed of "the national of-

Slayer Of Little Detroit Girl Makes Plea For Wife

DETROIT, July 6.—(AP)—Merton W. Goodrich, at the end of the long flight that began last September after the brutal slaying of 11-year-old Lillian Gallaher, said today he was "ready to get it over with" but would not plead until he knew the fate of his wife.

"I don't want to make any more trouble," said the thin-faced confessed slayer. "I know I don't need a trial, but if they file charges against my wife I'll plead not guilty.

"I don't want her bothered. She is innocent."

Goodrich and the wife who said she stayed with her husband after he told her of the assault and murder "because he begged me not to leave him" were confronted by Frank Gallaher, father of the former trap drummer's victim.

Gallaher hurried to police headquarters a few minutes after the train arrived from New York, where the former inmate of the Lima State Hospital for the Insane was picked up when a patrolman saw him attempting to attract the attention of children in a Central park wading pool.

"I want to have a look at that fellow," Gallaher said, and was led into the room where Goodrich waited nervously.

The sallow musician groaned and hid his haggard face in his hands as Gallaher stared searchingly at him. The visitor ended the silent, accusing scrutiny abruptly, muttered "crazy-looking guy" almost inaudibly, and went to another room to view Mrs. Goodrich.

The drummer's wife returned Gallaher's stare momentarily, then wept.

MONGOLS ACCUSE JAPS OF PLAN TO SEIZE TERRITORY

Ultimatum Demands Mongolia Allow Japan Military Observers There

GREAT GRAVITY LOOMS IN FAR EAST SITUATION

Threatened Country Is Close Political Ally Of Soviet Russia

MOSCOW, July 6.—(AP)—Independent Mongolia today formally accused the Japanese army already virtual master of North China of plotting to seize Mongolian territory.

A communique issued at Ulan Bator Mongolian capital and published in the official Soviet press said Manchoukuan and Japanese forces had delivered an ultimatum demanding the right to maintain military observers in Mongolian territory. It made this charge:

"Recent events prove that Manchoukuo with the Japanese army's support wishes to avoid peaceful settlement of border incidents and prepare the way for further occupations of our territory."

Mongolia with its Soviet type of government is closely related politically with the U. S. S. R. Its borders march with Siberia's for many miles. Manchoukuo lies in its east. North China into which the Japanese army has penetrated deeply during recent months is southeast.

The Japanese demands followed several Mongol-Manchoukuan border incidents which were termed provocative in nature. They were presented even as Russia's diplomatic representative at Tokyo was busy seeking assurances against repetition of similar incidents including alleged invasion of Soviet territory along the Siberia-Manchoukuo frontier.

A note which Chan Kei, head of the Manchoukuan foreign ministry, and high Japanese army officers handed July 4 to the Mongolian section of the mixed Mongol-Manchoukuan committee studying the border incidents contained the demands, the Mongolian communique said It called them "entirely unwarrantable" and "intolerable."

The Japanese army asked the right of permanent residence for military

SOLONS DEMAND ACTION ON SILVER

Thomas Says 40 Senators Will Ask Early Stabilization Of 2 Metals

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—Contending banks were using the treasury's silver buying machinery for their own profit, Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, said today that President Roosevelt will be served immediately with a request backed by 40 senators for early stabilization of gold and silver.

The 40 senators, including members from all but about a dozen states, appended their names to a letter addressed by Thomas to the president requesting adherence to the monetary policy adopted by the last congress. Under terms of that, this government was pledged to continue buying silver until either one quarter of the nation's monetary metal was silver

ESCAPED ARKANSAS CONVICT GIVES UP TO FATHER, SHERIFF

CONWAY, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—Officers here were advised today that Zack McHenry, 25, one of two escaped convicts who left a trail of terror during their flight across central Arkansas, surrendered this morning to his father and the sheriff of this county in a woods nine miles north of here.

McHenry was returned to custody near the little town of Wooster, just off trunk highway 65, when Sheriff J. R. Summers of Faulkner county, and the fugitive's father, Sam McHenry, farmer living near here, found him and persuaded him to give up.

The father joined the searching posse last night in an effort to have his son returned to prison peacefully.

The youth made no show of resistance when discovered in the woods. Officers had concentrated their search near here in the belief he would seek a hideout near his home in this county following his break from Tucker penal farm on July 4 with a fellow-convict, Lee Sitton, 28, who was still sought today.

LEAFLETS ATTACK ROOSEVELT CRITIC

Georgia Governor Characterized As 'Boll Weevil Menace' In Circulars

WALLBURG, N. C., July 6.—(AP)—Governor Eugene Talmadge of Georgia was characterized as "the boll weevil menace" and the audience was urged to "boo the menace back to Georgia" in circulars distributed among a crowd of farmers waiting here today to hear an address by the anti-Roosevelt executive.

The circulars were not signed, but the man distributing them, who declined to give his name, said "the labor unions" were responsible for them.

The leaflets said organized labor and President Roosevelt were co-operating to "exterminate this pest."

Several hundred persons were present as the governor began speaking under the auspices of the Non-Tax association, an organization opposed to policies of the agricultural adjustment administration. Farmers of the area recently voted overwhelmingly in favor of continued tobacco crop control, an AAA proposal.

It was this policy which Talmadge has attacked.

Loosening a volley at the Roosevelt administration, Governor Talmadge said money is "choked off" from America's small business people in spite of the national emergency legislation.

The Georgia critic of the "New Deal" levelling blows at federal taxes and imports, said in his prepared address that of the "billions of dollars appropriated by congress to help business" none "has found its way into small loans." He added:

"Billions of dollars have been loaned to railroads. Other billions have been loaned to great industries, but in the rank and file of small business people, money is scarcer today than ever in the history of our government."

YOUTH HELD WHEN BODY OF GIRL IS FOUND IN CREEK

FORT SMITH, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—Clyde Trammell, young Fort Smithian, was taken into custody for questioning late today, shortly after discovery in Clear creek 20 miles north of here of the scantily-clad body of Mary Isabel Mahar, 14, who had been missing since Independence day.

Mrs. Agnes Minella, New York resident visiting in this vicinity, found the body when she walked to the stream with her two children.

Sheriff Fred Long and Prosecuting Attorney Finis F. Batchelor of Crawford county, announced detention of Trammell for investigation. The youth was reported to be the last member of a holiday swimming party of 16 to see Miss Mahar alive.

A jury empaneled by Dr. B. B. Bruce of Alma, county coroner, began an inquest but adjourned until Monday afternoon. Sheriff Long said he believed the condition of the girl's body, clad only in undergarments, indicated "some violence."

2 ILLINOIS FLIERS WILL MAKE ENDURANCE FLIGHT

PEORIA, Ill., July 6.—(AP)—Two Peoria aviators, Ken Ringel, 29, and Ellis Frederich, 31, announced today plans to start about July 21 an attempt to return the official world endurance flying record to Illinois by breaking the 27-day mark set last Monday by the Key brothers of Meridian, Miss.

Flying a six-place monoplane of the type used by the Hunter brothers, whose world mark stood until the plying Key boys went up in the "Ole Miss" at Meridian, the Peoria pilots have set their goal above Mt. Hawley airport at a full month.

Britain Contemplates Making 'Hopeless' Effort To Avert Struggle

(By Associated Press)

Events seemed to be marching irresistibly toward war between Italy and Ethiopia.

ADDIS ABABA—The American legation told 125 resident Americans to leave the country.

LONDON—Britain contemplated one more effort for peace, with little hope it would succeed.

PALERNO, Italy—Benito Mussolini, speaking to 12,000 Blackshirts leaving for East Africa, said: "We have decided upon a struggle in which we will not turn back."

ROME—Italy continued her warlike preparations. Mussolini's two young aviator sons signed up for service.

WASHINGTON — The state department in effect has refused Emperor Haile Selassie's request to find some way to make Italy abide by the Kellog anti-war pact.

ROME, July 6.—A ringing battlecry from Benito Mussolini echoed through Italy tonight as the country turned to preparations for war with Ethiopia. Before 12,000 volunteers destined for service in East Africa who gathered at the Salerno today, Il Duce, cheered to the echo, declared:

"We have decided upon a struggle in which we as a government and a people will not turn back. The decision is irretrievable."

A cannon-top was Il Duce's rostrum for his fighting speech, and the throng of eager-faced youths roaring approval of his words, included four of his own kinsmen. They were of the battalion from Forli, the premier's home town. In Rome the leader's two aviator sons, Vittorio and Bruno, signed up for African service.

The Forli unit, with three other Blackshirt and two regular army divisions, went over equipment in expectation of speedy departure for the African adventure.

Meanwhile the steamer Cello left Naples with 22 officers and 600 men aboard, while the Principessa Maria began loading 40 officers and 1,350 men for departure tomorrow.

The Naples sailing, together with the troops scheduled to put out from Salerno, will push well past 130,000 men in the army Italy has concentrated in her African colonies for hos-

LONG FORCES KILL PROPOSAL TO AID STRICKEN FARMERS

BATON ROUGE, July 6.—(AP)—Rep. Joe B. Hamiter's resolution to authorize a state loan of $250,000 for relief of flood-stricken farmers in a number of parishes overflowed by the Red and Sabine rivers was killed today by Senator Huey P. Longs' house majority.

The resolution, which would have approved the borrowing of the money by the state board of liquidation for relief in Rapides, Caddo, Natchitoches, DeSoto, Grant, Avoyelles, Vernon, Sabine parishes and elsewhere was anaesthetized by being referred to the Long-controlled ways and means committee when Hamiter, anti-Long, of Caddo, urged its adoption.

Rep. Isom J. Guillory, St. Landry, Long's floor leader, contended that the resolution's provision for administration of the relief money by the police juries of the affected parishes was a vague and unsatisfactory method of distribution.

Will Rogers Says

SANTA MONICA, Cal., July 6.—(Special)—That library that we got 159 years ago Thursday was a great thing but they ought to pass a law that we could only celebrate it every 100 years, for at the rate of accidents Thursday we won't have enough people to celebrate it every year. And the speeches? Did you read them? Never was so much politics indulged in under the guise of "freedom and liberty."

They was five per cent what George Washington did, and 95 per cent what the speaker intended to do. What this country needs on July the fourth is not more "liberty or more freedom." It's a Roman candle that only shoots out of one end.

Yours,
Will Rogers

800 WOMEN TO ATTEND COURSE

Adults Will Go To Baton Rouge For Studies In August

A large delegation from Ouachita parish is expected to attend the annual adult short course held at Louisiana State university August 12-15. In all, it is expected that fully 800 Louisiana women will attend from all parts of the state, according to estimates made by Miss Ellen LeNoir, state home demonstration agent. A comprehensive program will be filled with inspirational lectures, classes dealing with such subject matter that will be of aid to housewives, recreational features and social functions all are included in the program.

Housing facilities will be furnished by the university and the cafeteria will serve well-balanced meals at a nominal cost. Miss LeNoir is said to be bending every effort to make an outstanding success of the short course.

According to reports from 52 home demonstration agents in the state, each parish where there is a home demonstration agent employed will send a delegation.

One of the features of the course will be the meeting of the state home demonstration council at which plans for the coming year will be considered.

STOLEN FIRE TRUCK IS RETURNED AT COVINGTON

COVINGTON, La., July 6.—(AP)—Presumably a holiday prank, the fire truck taken from the Covington engine house July 4 was back in the fire house today after being found in the woods off the highway about ten miles north of here.

Reading in New Orleans newspapers that the truck was missing, James W. Godberry of New Orleans, notified Covington fire department officials that he had seen the truck stranded in the woods off the highway while passing in his automobile.

In one of the newer French fighting planes, a trapdoor is provided for the machine gunner to escape in a parachute jump if the ship should become disabled.

NEW GLY-CAS IS A SENSATION IN ALL MONROE

Crowds Coming to Phoenix Drug Co., to Get Gly-Cas; Monroe Lady Like New After Short Trial of New Medical Remedy; Mrs. Wimberly Enjoys Meals First in Years.

Never before has a single medicine created such a sensation throughout Monroe and vicinity as this new Gly-Cas. Hundreds of local residents have already been given the good results

MRS W. D. WIMBERLY

they had been wanting for years and were unable to find in any other medicine or treatment before. Read what Mrs. W. D. Wimberly, 307 North Sixth street, Monroe, highly respected local lady who has lived here for the past forty years and is well known throughout this entire section, said recently to the Gly-Cas man who is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, this city:

"It is really a pleasure to do my work feeling as I do today," said Mrs. Wimberly. "Stomach troubles had been a constant source of distress with me for years and at times the attacks would be so severe I thought I would never be able to stand them. Indigestion was terrible and often would spit up soured foods after eating. This would fill my entire system with poisonous gases, my heart would palpitate dreadfully and would become so dizzy I could hardly stand it. I would bloat so I could hardly get my breath at times a good nights sleep was impossible, head ached almost continually and was simply worn out all of the time. I lacked the energy to do my regular household duties and my future did not look very bright for me as seemingly everything had failed to benefit my miserable condition to any great extent. It was terribly discouraging and I did not know where to turn next when I began to hear so much praise for this new Gly-Cas on every side. And I decided to put this new remedy to a REAL TEST on my own case—and found it even more wonderful than I expected."

"My bowels were regulated almost at once—and in a MOST NATURAL way too," continued Mrs. Wimberly. "Those terrible poisons and gases were removed from my system and I began to show improvement from the very first few doses. Today I am able to eat the most substantial foods and with no ill effects afterwards and enjoy eating what any well person eats. My former pep and energy has been restored, sleep well and it is a real pleasure to do my work feeling as I do now. Little did I realize that any medicine could be so wonderful as Gly-Cas has been in my case—no wonder it receives so much praise—it deserves it all and more too. And to think even those dreadful headaches and every pain has left me too—Yes—there is only one Gly-Cas and it gives results."

The Gly-Cas man is daily meeting crowds of local people at the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard street, where he is demonstrating and explaining the action of this valuable new remedy. Adv.

CCC Youths To Build Camp At Old Fort Beauregard

By Wade W. Scott

HARRISONBURG, La., July 6.—Boys of the CCC erosion camp at Fort Beauregard in Harrisonburg will have a practical example of erosion control prepared by nature's own handiwork as they take up quarters on the site of the historic old fortress. The gigantic pine trees with here and there a gnarled oak, or blackjack bush serve as mute evidence that erosion can be prevented while cutover hills surrounding the fort are slowly being washed into the Ouachita river which runs at their base.

Work of erecting about 14 buildings, fences and roads which will make up the new CCC camp will start Monday under the supervision of CCC engineers. Every mark of historic interest will be preserved if possible.

The huge hill right in the bend of the Ouachita river was made into a fort by the Confederate soldiers who threw up breastworks of dirt and huge sand rocks along its edges. The barricades which skirt the edges of the hill are still in evidence and have washed very little, being still about the right height for protection. A knoll about 15 feet high in the center of the fortress marks the place where the cannon were planted, commanding a view of the Ouachita river in both directions for several miles. This knoll is now covered with huge pine trees.

Old-timers say that the fort prevented the Union gun boats from passing and saved the town of Monroe. The Union boats were held at bay by the Confederates until 15,000 men came by land from Natchez to force abandonment of Fort Beauregard. When the fort was finally taken only 45 men were still fighting for its defense, all others having fled on account of starvation. Records show that the fort was considered one of the strongest points and actively participated from March 6th, 1863, until evacuation on the night of September 4th, of the same year.

All over the old fortress can be seen evidence of terrific struggle, which according to old-timers, would never have been taken had it not been for the lack of supplies and ammunition. Outposts in every direction from the fort can be seen, most of which command a perfect view of the Ouachita river as well as a view of the hills and ravines back of the fort which prevented attacks from the rear.

The shoals which hindered the Union boats from passing after they had successfully put the Confederates to route, is still a bugbear to river men whose craft now pass peacefully along the river, having only one other barricade during low water, that being Lock No. 2. It was said that the water was falling at the time if the battle and the troops had held the gun boats at bay so long, that by the time they had reached Catahoula Shoals above Harrisonburg, it was too risky to pass. Thus, it was said Fort Miro was saved.

A letter dated, May 10th, 1863, from George M. Logan, lieut.-colonel of the Confederate forces, commander of the fort until time of evacuation on September 4th, 1863, addressed to Capt. Samuel Boyer Davis, assistant adjutant general, Monroe, La., follows:

"Captain: Four Federal gun boats came up this morning at 2 o'clock. They anchored at the mouth of the Bushley and immediately sent a flag of truce. I dispatched Captain Benton and Lieut. Blanchard to meet the flag and state that I would hold the fort forever. Lieut. William W. Fowler represented the Federal government. He informed us that Commodore Selim E. Woodsworth commanded the fleet and demanded unconditional surrender of the fort and its surroundings. If we did not accede to the demand they would give us one hour to move the women and children.

"Capt. Benton responded that the only answer he could give was that the fort would be defended at all hazards and that the women and children were already moved.

"The flag of truce returned and an hour later three of the boats began shelling. They have fired some 150 shots, but have done no damage, only knocking up some of the parapet. They have destroyed one house in the town.

"We have fired but two shots, as they are a little out of our range and are waiting for them to approach us to give them their just deserts. Our firing is accurate but falls short, and therefore shall fire no more until they come nearer. Lieut. Carter has this instant been seriously wounded. "We should have more troops between here and Alexandria, I shall hold the forth with God's blessings.

Your obedient servant, in haste,
GEORGE M. LOGAN,
Lieut. Colonel Commanding Post.

(Editor's Note: The Capt Benton mentioned in the letter was the father of Miss Lida Benton, now living in Monroe.)

Mayor L. L. McGuffee said Monday that all buildings erected by the government will revert to the town of Harrisonburg when the camp is demobilized, it being placed on town property and agreed to by CCC officials at Washington. The town will furnish the camp with water while the electricity will be purchased from a utilities company in Jonesville. The efforts of Mayor McGuffee, Aldermen E. C. Beasley, J. W. Wright and Z. Y. Stutson, have brought about the erection of possibly the first CCC camp within the corporate limits of a town.

Mayor McGuffee said, "I believe the fort shows without a doubt, the best example of the prevention of soil erosion. These large trees have sheltered the land and held it together to preserve the fort just as it was when our forefathers fought here. It should serve as an inspiration to the boys as to the good work they will be doing." A. B. McGuffee, grandfather of the mayor, is perhaps the only survivor of the battle of Fort Beauregard and it is a known fact that he is the only survivor in Catahoula parish.

Many of the boys who will be among the enlisted men at the CCC camp at Harrisonburg are probably descendants of the brave little group of a few hundred men, who protected the fort, eventually leaving until only 45 remained on the date of the complete evacuation. Echoes of the war will be resounded with the slashing of the axe, the clink of the shovel and pounding of the hammer, a structure far superior to its progenitor will be erected to house descendants of the brave forces of '63.

One reason for the timber surrounding the fort never having been cut was because the lumber company owning the land encountered pieces of shrapnel, minnie balls in trees taken a few miles from the scene of the battle. Several expensive band saws were ruined and the company abandoned the idea of cutting the timber at that time. After all merchantable timber belonging to the company had been cut into lumber, the company then decided to fell the remaining part along the range of hills on which Fort Beauregard was located. It was then that the late E. J. Sargent, mayor of Harrisonburg and publisher of The Catahoula News started a campaign which resulted in the town purchasing the land and timber to be used as a park.

Fort Hill, as it is commonly referred to, has been a favorite site for community picnics. Many a chicken has been barbecued behind the protecting breastworks, and parties of every kind are held in the historical setting. A government marker furnished by the Historical Society at Washington will be planted where the cannon stood.

An agreement has been made that all relics unearthed by the CCC boys will be placed on display about the fort and will later become the property of the town. It is the belief of local people that more cannon balls, minnie balls, as well as two brass cannons, not accounted for, will be unearthed.

Jonesboro

The Baptist W. M. S. met at the church Monday afternoon for the regular monthly business meeting, Mrs. P. H. Key presiding.

The devotional was given by Mrs Key, and afterwards, reports from the different officers were given, together with those of the chairman of the various committees. This being the month for the society to serve the Lions club at the noon meal, the president appointed committees to take charge of the serving each Thursday of the month. The society also voted to invite Miss Emma Leachmon, a field worker from the Home Mission board, to visit the church in September, at the time the school of missions is held in the Jonesboro church.

The Methodist W. M. S. met at the church for the regular monthly business meeting with Mrs. A. A. Meredith presiding.

Mrs. Meredith also gave the devotional exercises, taking her lesson from the 19th chapter of the Psalms. Good reports were given from the different officers and the different circles. Mrs. T. D. Callaway was elected superintendent of Christian social relations, with Mrs. Henry Scroggins as her assistant. The society also voted to give one scholarship to the Houma Mission Field, amounting to $150 for the year.

The regular weekly meeting of the Art club was held in the home of Mrs. Brown Traylor. The reception rooms were decorated with a profusion of summer flowers. The club members held the regular business session and enjoyed an hour of sewing. The hostess served an iced course to Mesdames H. M. Gatlin, Paul Stinson, W. P. Miller, Stanley Lewis, Martin, J. D. Jefress, George Littlefield, H. W. Ayers and Wayne Stovall.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Lewis was made very attractive with a variety of summer flowers, when they entertained the members of their auction bridge club. At the conclusion of the games of bridge, Mr. H. M. Gatlin was the high scorer of the evening, and received a lovely toilet set. Miss Elizabeth Bremer, of Glenmora, was the guest of the club, and was presented with a lovely colonial doll as a prize.

After the presentation of the gifts, the hostess served a delightful iced course to Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Bass, Mr. and Mrs. S. Kirkland, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox, Mr. and Mrs H. M. Gatlin, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stinson, and Miss Elizabeth Bremer of Glenmora, La.

The shipping sheds at Jonesboro were closed July 1, after one of the best seasons since the beginning of the project in Jackon parish. Thirty-eight cars of tomatoes and 27 carloads of potatoes were shipped from Jonesboro this year. This year's shipment was better than last year, as only 27 carloads of tomatoes, and 27 carloads of potatoes were shipped from this point. In addition to those shipped from Jonesboro this season some 15 cars were shipped from Chatham, indicating that Jackson parish is outstanding for trucking possibilities.

The following boys from Jonesboro left last Monday for the summer camp at Camp Windywood, near Pollock, La.: Jack and Jimmy Shows, Jerry Michaud, and Kenneth Brumfield. They expect to be away about three weeks. The camp at Windywood is sponsored by the state Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. and each year some 125 girls are in attendance at the camp. The period for the boys' encampment follows immediately after that of the girls.

MISSISSIPPI VETERANS SUPPORT CASH BONUS

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—Voicing an insistent demand for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus, the first annual encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, department of Mississippi, was brought to a close here today.

The veterans re-elected Roland B. Wall of Brookhaven as department commander and selected Greenwood as the next convention city before adjournment this afternoon.

The veterans last night heard their national adjutant general, R. B. Handy, Jr., of Kansas City, suggest material reprisals at the ballot box against office holders who failed to support the bonus.

FORMER QUEEN IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Elizabeth Of Greece Given Absolute Decree On Abandonment Grounds

BUCHAREST, July 6.—(AP)—On the ground that her husband, the former King George of Greece, had abandoned his marital domicile in Rumania, the court of appeals today granted an absolute divorce to former Queen Elizabeth.

This action precluded the possibility that Elizabeth might join George on the Greek throne should he be recalled as a result of a plebiscite to be held in Greece probably the end of this month.

The proceedings today occupied only 16 minutes and were held in secret. George, who is living in London, ignored the entire case and was not even represented by lawyers.

Elizabeth, it was announced, will now resume her old title of Elizabeth of Hohenzollern, princess of Rumania. She will make her permanent home on a beautiful estate she recently purchased in Transylvania.

Under Rumanian legal procedure the divorce will be final, failing an appeal by the former king within five days from next Monday.

Inasmuch as he was not represented at the proceedings it was taken for granted that no appeal would be filed.

GOOD-WILL VALUED BY IRON MOUNTAIN

Bakery Has Built Up Mutual Confidence Between Salesmen, Grocers

Mutual confidence and good-will between grocerymen of northeast Louisiana and truck salesmen of the Iron Mountain bakery, 508 Harrison street, is one of the reasons why the bakery has built up a successful business throughout the Monroe trade territory. And that same reason is also the reason why the public gets strictly fresh bread throughout the territory in purchasing products of the Iron Mountain bakery.

As explained by W. E. Bennett, manager of the bakery, the truck salesmen do not over-sell their retailers; they sell the retailers only about as much bread as the retailers will sell between the time of one delivery and the next delivery. This assures the public that no bread will be left over on the retailers' shelves or in his showcases until the following day.

The inclination of a truck salesman to overstock a retailer, to leave with him more bread than he can justifiably be expected to sell, in the hope that the retailer will put forth efforts to sell greater amounts of bread and thereby build up a baker's trade, is recognized in the baking industry, according to Mr. Bennett. The Iron Mountain bakery, therefore, forbids a truck salesman to bring back into the bakery establishment any baking product taken out of the establishment and placed in the salesman's truck for sale on his route.

Nearly all of the eight truck salesmen of the Iron Mountain bakery have been connected with the bakery for some years. They are thoroughly familiar with their trade, and the early morning delivery salesmen leave with retailers purchases of bread the amount of which is determined by the salesman, instead of the storekeeper. This is because the storekeeper is asleep and his store is closed when the salesman arrives at his store before daylight and leaves his bread in a box in front of the store.

This plan has worked out exceptionally well in building up the Iron Mountain bakery's business. An example of the exactness with which the plan works is shown in a recent trip Mr. Bennett made with a truck salesman on the Vidalia route, which serves 126 retailers. On the return trip from Vidalia stops were made at each of the retail establishments, and it was shown that not more than 20 loaves of bread were "oversold" on the entire route.

tilities expected to begin after the rainy season ends in September.

Special transports have carried 107,000 soldiers and workmen who may be converted into soldiers. About 10,000 more have gone on weekly mailboats.

They carried with them the most astounding military equipment Africa has ever seen—flame throwers, gas outfits, the latest thing in tanks and airplanes and equipment for covering vast areas with chemicals designed to burn the bare feet of Emperor Haile Selassie's soldiers.

While Fascists rejoiced at Mussolini's escape from harm when lightning struck the wireless antennae of his big three-motor airship while it was fighting its way down through an electrical storm to the little west coast town, authoritative sources here reiterated that Italy neither wanted nor would accept mediation of her conflict with Ethiopia.

Once again they declared the matter one to be settled—and settled once for all—directly between Italy and Ethiopia. Italy wants no half settlement such as territorial concessions, they said.

If Haile Selassie is willing to ask Italy to assume an armed protectorate over his country, these sources said, then war may be avoided. If not, war is certain.

Nothing daunted by his near disaster, Il Duce was in top oratorical form as he told his massed fighting men the die was cast.

"Remember," he said, "that Italians have always defeated the black races Adua (where an Italian invading force was badly beaten by ill-equipped but numerically superior Ethiopian defenders in 1896) was an exception only because of the difference in proportion between the forces. There were only 14,000 Italians against 100,000 Ethiopians."

Declaring the earlier Ethiopian conflict unfortunate for Italy because she was less concerned about her soldiers than with "miserable questions of parliament"—an institution his Fascist regime has virtually abandoned—Mussolini continued:

"Italy today is rewriting an heroic page of her history."

He asserted the entire nation was "behind her sons who are leaving for Africa," and paraphrased the famed Fascist slogan, "Better to live one day as a lion than 100 years as a lamb," in this wise:

"Every Italian prefers a life of heroism to a life of uselessness."

That phrase brought the greatest ovation from the Italian youths ready to join the more than 100,000 men Italy already has sent to her colonies adjoining Ethiopia.

Col. Attilio Biseo, the leader's favorite co-pilot who accompanied Gen. Italo Balbo on his mass flight to Chicago, was at the controls with Il Duce both on the flight down and the flight back.

Il Duce returned to Rome to find his government, obviously relieved at the United States government's disinclination to do anything about Ethiopia's appeal to the provisions of the Kellogg anti-war pact, pushing forward energetically the enormous preparations for war.

he planned to arraign Goodrich Monday but that he would not decide what action to take against Mrs. Goodrich pending further questioning.

Goodrich identified the hammer with which he killed the girl, the rope with which he trussed her up, and the trunk into which he stuffed the body before fleeing from his one-room apartment.

Preparations to forestall a demonstration against Goodrich upon his arrival proved unnecessary. He was hurried from the train, through the station baggage room and into a police car. Few spectators were aware of his identity.

cidental "upstanding he-men." A Siamese husband may now get a divorce by proving his wife's infidelity. But the wife may not get a divorce by proving her husband's infidelity. After divorce comes, a husband may remarry immediately, the wife must wait 310 days.

According to a newspaper cable, the law specifies that "the husband is the ruling head of the household." That will probably depend on the wife, in Siam, as it does here.

Siam has adopted the Russian idea, allowing divorce by mutual consent, with no accusations.

THE WIDOW of Lenin, whose embalmed body lies in Moscow exposed to public worship, does not call herself "Mrs. Lenin," but Madame Nadejda Krupskaya. And, speaking with the authority of her important husband, she tells Russian women not to be bossed around by their husbands. They must be good mothers, but they must not let married life "separate them from public work."

cause in the past two days to 13. Seven other persons were drowned.

The first real taste of summer was not entirely unwelcomed. While city residents suffered, farmers especially in the corn belt rejoiced. It was just what they have been ordering for weeks. A report from Humbolt county, Iowa, said corn had responded by growing two inches daily during the past three days of sunshine.

Retailers too said they had encountered this week the first strong demand for vacation supplies. As a result gains for their business over the same period last year were reported from Washington as "noteworthy."

High temperatures for the day included: 95 at Kansas City, 90 at Cleveland, 88 at Detroit, 86 in Washington, 85 in Chicago, and around 90 in Indiana. The mercury dropped eight degrees to 80 in Portland, Me., and "normal" weather prevailed on the Pacific coast. It was 91 at Louisville.

YOUTH OF SWARTZ IS CHARGED WITH STRIKING MOTHER

Hubert Hollandsworth, about 19, of Swartz, yesterday was held in the parish jail charged with assaulting and beating his mother, Mrs. L. A. Hollandsworth.

The charge against the youth was said to have developed from a disagreement between him and his mother over some vegetables. He wanted to take the vegetables and sell them, and she wished to preserve them, it was reported. He was said to have struck his mother in the face, and to have inflicted a scratch on her arm.

After the youth was arrested, it was stated that his mother sought to have the charge against him dropped.

Charlie Allen, negro of ward three, was arrested and placed in the parish jail charged with assaulting and beating his step-daughter, Blanchie Robinson.

Accused of obtaining goods under false pretenses, Ernest Walker, negro, said to be a transient, was taken in custody and lodged in jail.

Murphy Stroman, negro of Arcadia, was arrested there by the Bienville parish sheriff's department for the Ouachita parish sheriff's department and returned here to answer a charge of stealing a quantity of clothing, the property of Gladys Woods, negro woman.

observers, the right for them to move about freely and keep contact with Manchoukuo and permission to run telegraph lines into Mongolia to facilitate this communication.

Failing Mongolia's compliance, the communique asserted, Japan threatened to demilitarize much of the eastern section of Mongolia by forcing the withdrawal of Mongolian troops.

A recent dispatch from Tientsin, China, quoted foreign military observers as expressing the opinion Japan's North China and Mongolia policy was designed primarily to guarantee her freedom of communications and freedom from trouble to the south in case she came to war with the Soviet.

While the Mongol-Japanese issue was regarded here with great gravity, Soviety officials withheld comment pending further developments.

TWO STRUCTURES RAZED IN BUSINESS EXPANSION

Two more old residential structures, in years gone by the homes of private citizens on a pretentious residential thoroughfare, but used as rooming houses in late years, have been razed here in the business revival which is steadily pushing the depression into the background.

The buildings were a one-story structure at 205 Walnut street and a large two-story structure at 207 Walnut stret. They were razed so that property on which they stood may be used as an automobile sales lot.

Several weeks ago another large, two-story rooming house, located across the street from the latest two to be razed, was dismantled.

The U. S. government distributed more than seven billion fish fry and eggs during 1931.

OBITUARY

W. W. PIGFORD

Hundreds of friends gathered Monday to pay respects to William Wells Pigford, 71, pioneer merchant, druggist and banker of Lumberton, Miss., who died at his home last Sunday morning. Mr. Pigford was the father of Mrs. F. A. Terzia, Jr., of Monroe.

Funeral services were conducted at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon by the Rev. C. H. Thompson, pastor of the Methodist church, the Rev. C. A. Schultz, pastor of the Court Street Methodist church in Hattiesburg, and the Rev. M. L. McCormick, pastor of the Millsaps Memorial church in Jackson. Interment was made in the Lumberton cemetery.

Mr. Pigford was born in Lauderdale county. He moved from Meridian to Nicholson, near here, about 50 years ago. For six years he was a druggist in Nicholson. He then moved to Lumberton, where he also operated a drug store. Later he organized the Pigford Mercantile company, which is now operated by his son, M. A. Pigford.

Mr. Pigford was for 25 years president of the Lumberton Bank and was a steward in the Methodist church for 35 years. In addition, he was a director of the Laurel Oil and Fertilizer company.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, L. C., of New Orleans, and M. A., of Lumberton; two daughters, Mrs. F. A. Terzia, Jr., of Monroe, La., and Mrs. Willard Haynes of Lumberton; one brother, W. S. Pigford of Lockhart, Miss., and seven grand children.

MRS. FRANCIS HARRIS

JONESBORO, July 6.—(Special)—Mrs. Francis Harris, 78, died July 3, after an illness of about six months. Funeral services were held July 4 at 10:30 from the Edmonds funeral home, with Rev. John L. Dodge, officiating.

Interment followed in the Jonesboro cemetery. The deceased is survived by three sons and three daughters, Mrs. Nora Calloway, Blevins, Ark. Mrs. Ruth Billingsly, Lubbock, Texas, and Mrs. Jennie Causey, Jonesboro. The sons are John Harris, Jonesboro; J. C. Harris, Hemet, Cal., and Claud Harris of Preston, Ark.

E. D. PRICHARD

HODGE, La., July 6.—(Special)—E. D. Prichard, 69, died Thursday at 9 p. m. Funeral services were held Friday at 2:30 at Old Salem church, with J. L. Dodge officiating. Interment followed in cemetery at this church. The deceased is survived by his widow, Mrs. E. D. Prichard and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Farris, of St. Helena, Oregon.

City Briefs

F. B. Neeley of 202 Egan street, has been seriously ill at his home the past week.

Mrs. T. H. Elliott of 112 Grayling Lane, is now able to receive callers after a serious illness.

Mrs. W. H. Mayes will return to her home today after spending several days with her sister, Mrs. T. H. Elliott, who underwent a serious operation at St. Francis sanitarium recently. Her little niece, Dorothy Jane Elliott, will accompany her home.

Davis Pace of West Monroe, student at Tulane, left yesterday for Quantico, Va., where he will take a course with the U. S. marines for the next six weeks.

Joseph Kusin left Saturday for Chicago and New York on a business trip.

C. P. Couch, president of the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad, was in Monroe Saturday, coming over from Shreveport for the day which was spent in the offices of the company in the Bernhardt building and in meeting a number of representative business men of Monroe.

MAN WANTED FOR THEFT OF CAR HERE ARRESTED

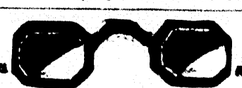

Sheriff Milton Coverdale was notified last night by the chief of police of Brookhaven, Miss., that Max King, wanted here to answer a charge of stealing an automobile, has been arrested by the Brookhaven police for the local sheriff's department.

Sheriff Coverdale said King is accused of renting an automobile from the Monroe Cab company, located at the corner of South Grand and Grammont streets, Tuesday of last week, and failing to return with the car.

A woman arrested with King at Brookhaven gave her name as Mrs. Max King, stating that she was the accused man's wife.

The Brookhaven police chief told Sheriff Coverdale that King refused to return here without extradition papers being obtained.

Bill Miller, former Stanford ace and Olympic pole vault champion in 1932, is coaching track in Central America.

SUMMER GLARE

To see comfortably, scientists tell us, eyes demand the elimination of glare, because glarestrain is the cause of eyestrain, fatigue, irritable nerves and headaches. Eyes narrow down to ugly slits, squinting and straining to pierce annoying GLARE, are fighting eyes. Fighting eye need glare-absorbing lenses.

Varied Aspects Of Loyalty

We can learn worthwhile lessons probably from every phase of this existence. For instance, from our most vicious criminal gangsters we learn the lesson of the importance and value of loyalty.

The gangsters have developed to a high degree the observance of loyalty to the gang. Loyalty among them has become a religion. Again and again gangsters are found seriously or fatally wounded by their own gangs; yet not a word will they squeak. They remain perfectly dumb under questioning.

Gangsters are arrested and sent to the penitentiary when they could win their freedom if they would tell what they know about the gang.

An extraordinary spirit of loyalty has been developed among gangsters. The same spirit of loyalty has been developed among professional politicians. While loyalty in itself is beautiful, still the purpose that impels gangsters and professional politicians to promote loyalty among their henchmen is not beautiful. The only way that gangsters and professional politicians can get results is by means of a strong spirit of loyalty to the gang and to the ring. Or, in other words, they must have an organization composed of persons placing the welfare of the gang or the ring above everything else. They will discipline severely any member of the outfit whose actions prove or indicate his disloyalty.

Reward for loyalty and punishment for disloyalty are the outstanding compelling influences that make possible the success of gangsters and professional politicians.

The forces of decency foolishly blunder when they temporize with disloyalty to their cause and when they fail to reward loyalty. All over this nation in civic organizations, clean social groups and in churches, you will find men received with cordiality and respect, you will find them placed in positions of honor, who have proved again and again that they are the enemies of decency and integrity. Again and again, you will find men known to be rascals, elevated above those who are known to be sincere and honest.

Liberality is all right. We should be liberal. But we should not smile on the evildoer and make him feel that his evil doings are countenanced or ignored. On the contrary, we should let it be seen very clearly that the man who misbehaves himself will be disciplined by the people standing for right behavior.

We shall never stop the respectable rascal until we make rascality reprehensible. We shall never halt the man who is working against the best interests of the public until we repudiate him as long as he continues his misbehavior.

That is not to say that we should treat as an outcast the person who has done wrong or is doing wrong. Certainly he should be given an opportunity to redeem himself and come back. But until he does redeem himself he should not be put in any position of honor or prominence. Those places should be reserved for persons worthy of them, persons who are striving diligently to uphold honor and to establish decency.

If those working for the right thing would demand loyalty to their cause with the same zeal that gangsters and professional politicians demand loyalty to their interests, the business of being decent would be decidedly speeded up and strengthened.

MR. HOOVER'S PLANS

Frank R. Kent, whose loyalty to Mr. Hoover during the four years that closed with the descent into the maelstrom and the two years that have followed the ordeal by fire has been a rather touching spectacle, is of the opinion that the former president will not be a candidate for the Republican nomination in 1936.

Mr. Kent argues that his old idol, although somewhat battered and bruised from the buffeting of the difficult years, is entirely clearheaded about his own position. In consequence, he says, Mr. Hoover is not a candidate, does not want to be a candidate and has no intention of being a candidate. He appreciates that his candidacy would split his party and enhance the Roosevelt chances. In passing, Mr. Kent sheds a tear for him as an unlucky man who has been badly treated.

But, at the same time, his statements leave unexplained the sudden emergence of Mr. Hoover from the solitude of his Palo Alto retreat, the rush of his apologists, including Mr. Kent, into print, his conferences with leaders, his appearances before party organizations and the lugubrious wails about the established order that he is sending up from a score of college campuses.

It becomes difficult under all circumstances to reconcile Mr. Hoover's own performances and utterances with Mr. Kent's assurances and so, perhaps, it would be safer to wait awhile before reaching a conclusion as to the designs of the former president.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

LO! THE PASSING INDIAN

There are no more dangerous Indians in America.

Hurray for the red-man!
There little is left
Of the lands that he used to possess.
Yet with what he is sent
He is calm and content
And emits not a whoop of distress.
Bereft by the pale face of Woodland and plain,
He cheerfully harrows and hoes,
And why he's as mild
As a timorous child
He knows! You can gamble he knows!

Supposing some stranger
Should knock at your door,
And savagely bid you depart;
Your loud raucous cries
Would go to the skies,
And something would speedily start.
But the Indian continues to sow and to reap,
Never lifting his voice in a moan,
Though the woods and the hills
And the rocks and the rills,
In the days of the past were his own.
No longer I wonder
Why poor luckless Lo
Has taken his fate lying down.
Yet he goes on his way,
Dull day after day,
With never a groan or a frown.
The answer, perhaps, may be found in the fact
That, although he is fond of a fight,
He'll be forced to the wall
If he battles at all,
For he isn't so very darned bright.

Opposes Statesmen's Wars

By BRUCE CATTON

Once in a blue moon, someone takes the unprecedented step of trying to find out what the ordinary man in the street thinks about his country's foreign policy.

When this is done the results are apt to be surprising.

Some 40 organizations recently undertook a great poll of British citizens to see what sentiment might be in regard to the League of Nations, disarmament, and similar issues.

All in all, they collected more than 11,000,000 votes, slightly less than 40 per cent of the entire British electorate. If the 11,000,000 people who voted represent a fair cross-section of British opinion—and there is good reason to suppose that they do—here is what the average Briton wants done:

He is overwhelmingly in favor of British adherence to the League of Nations.

He is almost equally overwhelmingly in favor of arms reduction.

He favors international agreement to abolish military and naval aircraft and to prohibit the manufacture and sale of weapons for private profit.

He favors the use of economic sanctions, such as the boycott, against aggressor nations which make war in violation of such agreements as the Kellogg treaty. By a lesser majority, he even favors the use of military measures against such nations.

Add all of this together and you discover that the war-weary Briton not only wants peace, but is willing to take some risks and do some unorthodox things in order to get it. That isn't surprising. He lived through four and one half years of war that almost wrecked his nation; he isn't keen to get another dose of the same.

Statesmen are fond of saying that wars come as a result of irresistible popular clamor; that the various treaties, agreements and leagues to preserve peace are all right in theory but do not command the popular support which they must have in order to succeed; and that a statesman who proposed outright disarmament, or tried to put real teeth in such a thing as the Kellogg treaty, would immediately be disowned by his own voters.

This British poll would seem to give the lie to those claims. It shows that the people of at least one great nation—a nation which lives under the shadow of war, has enemies at its very frontiers and can look back on a long and proud tradition of military success—are ready, even eager, to go to almost any length to keep another war from overwhelming the world.

SO THEY SAY

It is idle to talk of the wickedness of killing, because if and when the next war comes, men will think only of the nobleness of dying.—Lord Hewart, chief justice of England.

The non-farming three-fourths of the nation cannot insulate itself against the economic distress of the agricultural fourth.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace.

The rich, of course, should bear their full share, but to destroy estates is to destroy the goose that lays the golden egg.—Senator Elmer Thomas of Utah.

• • •

Creative enterprise is not stimulated by vast inheritances. They bless neither those who bequeath nor those who receive.—President Roosevelt.

BARBS

Our old friend and well-wisher, George Bernard Shaw, says an American asylum for the sane would be empty. Perhaps, but the fact that an empty theater greeted the American presentation of Shaw's new play suggests that we're improving a little mentally.

New Deal in Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON. — The period of taxation maneuvers, counter-maneuvers, trick plays, feints, and about-faces has added greatly to the ranks of those inhabitants here who stand firmly convinced that they are living in what is technically known as a bughouse.

The kindest friends of the administration wish you would blame it all on the notorious local heat.

Low-minded persons who always like to see the privileged classes get a kick in the pants are, however, enjoying a couple of developments on the side which give some promise of making capital life more bearable through a redistribution of its burdens.

Congressman Raymond Cannon of Wisconsin is undertaking to add an element of misery to the lives of the foreign diplomats here and Congressman Steve Young of Ohio has a diabolical scheme aimed at the army officers.

Just A Bowl Of Cherries

These two groups are the envy of us all. Having little to do beyond polo, golf, tennis, and an occasional few turns in a swivel chair, they're always invited to the best parties. They're the only fellows who have time to go and the only ones who have time to change their clothes.

Furthermore, their clothes never get mussy, so they seldom have to change—an obvious item of unfair competition.

Diplomats would be the especial victims of Congressman Cannon's bill, which provides heavy taxes on the wealth of citizens (male or female) who marry aliens. The tax would run from 10 per cent on all fortunes over $100,000 to 25 per cent on fortunes above $500,000.

All over the world, one hears, Washington is looked upon as a happy fish pond for young diplomats whose careers require an heiress in the family. The numerous heiresses who make their debuts here would think twice about that tax, Cannon believes, and the young diplomats would be so handicapped that even young congressmen might have a look-in.

Would This Be Tough!

Young's bill would make army and navy officers on duty in Washington wear uniforms all day long. They wear civilian clothes now and in that disguise, Young insists, flood the capital's cocktail lounges and country clubs.

Says Young: "My bill would reveal all the loafing among them. Civilians would be amazed and taxpayers outraged when they saw the hundreds of officers in uniform. They would insist that the officers be ordered into active service."

Hold That Line, Joe!

For years, Senate Majority Leader Joe Robinson has been privately assuring his friends that he would like to take a sock at Huey Long. This yen comes on Joe in great surges when Huey familiarly puts his arm around Joe on the Senate floor.

Robinson's candidacy for the United States supreme court requires a certain dignity and he thus far has held off. But the day may be approaching.

When Roosevelt's soak-the-rich tax message was being read, Huey eased over, put his arm around his ancient enemy's shoulder, and asked:

"How do yo like it, Joe?"

"Go way from me, or I'll black your eye!" growled Joe, who didn't like it at all.

But Huey just laughed and repeated the performance a bit later, with:

"How's it goin' now, Joe?"

"Lay off me, or I'll black both your eyes!" hissed Robinson, gathering himself as if about to spring.

Huey just kept on laughing. But he didn't come back.

Let The Bones Roll

If Roosevelt backed up the men who run the affairs of the District of Columbia, the capital would have legalized gambling.

Both District Commissioner Melvin C. Hazen and Police Chief Ernest W. Brown have agreed with Congressman William Schulte of Indiana, during an investigation of local lawlessness, that much of the crime problem here might be solved by legalization of gambling—which is now the chief business of Washington's underworld.

"Human nature being what it is," explained Hazen.

Lights Of New York

By Paul Harrison

NEW YORK.—At 2 o'clock in the morning the fog of carbon monoxide lifts from rialto streets, and the first cool wind rustles the discouraged little potted trees hedging the bistro that is Dave's Blue Room. Ice tinkles in tall glasses and dice rattle in backgammon cups. Having the place to themselves now, Broadway folk relax and talk . . .

Talk about a young actor whose ego hasn't been exactly dormant during his recent rise to prominence. Mentioning his mother the other day, he declared her a remarkable woman. A most unusual woman, indeed. "And the most remarkable thing about her," he concluded, "is that she's so modest about me."

They talk about the Marions Chase. There were two of them, and both lived in the same hotel, and they both were well-known singers. Greatest difference between the Marion Chase was that one sang in night clubs and the other warbled for the uppity Metropolitan Opera company.

The situation naturally led to a good deal of confusion. The opera girl would be bidden to moan torch numbers as a guest star at the opening of Chez Rowdy-Dow, and the cabaret entertainer was begged to vocalize in church choirs, polite musicales and society weddings. Each one, resentful of the other's presence, refused to move, and difficulties mounted. It was the opera singer who finally weakened. She didn't move, but changed her name. It's Marissa Chase now.

Dollars Talk

They talk about Hollywood and the invasion of its money into the Broadway theater. The big film companies have been bidding competitively for screen rights of legitimate shows, and paying huge prices for the successful ones. Now they have discovered that it is cheaper to put up the money and become co-producers of plays and musical comedies.

Thus the screen rights are clinched in advance, and when shows make a profit on Broadway the producers are doubly rewarded. But even a Broadway flop may be adapted into a successful movie. Last season Warner Brothers financed the revue "Calling All Stars," expecting a hit show and subsequently a hit movie, and got neither. On the other hand, Warners backed "The Red Cat" feeling pretty certain that it would flop on Broadway. It did, too, but the movie that followed cleared a far greater sum than had been lost.

Opinion is sharply split on whether Hollywoodsmen are rushing in to wreck or revive the flesh-and-blood drama. If play scripts are read with an eye to future flicker adaptation, reactionaries ask, what will happen to plays of the caliber of "The Children's Hour" and "Tobacco Road," which Holy-wood dassn't touch. But a lot of showmen whose loyalties are divided between Broadway and the coast believe the drama most of all needs new blood and fresh money.

Ghost of a Show

Lounging of an early morning at tables of the sidewalk cafe, the mainstemmers chuckled over the experience of Walter Catlett, able actor who went to the cinema city. Interviewed by an executive who couldn't remember his name, Catlett identified himself as Richard Mansfield. "And what shows you been in, Mr. Mansfield?" asked the official.

"Oh, Hamlet, Othello, King Lear"

"Yes, yes," said the other impatiently. "But what modern shows?"

"Why not any. You see—" and here he leaned forward and spoke in a sepulchral whisper—"I've been dead for 20 years"

Homesick, Not Seasick

Annette Kellerman is in town again, with what seems to be all her old figure and fervor for swimming. Her visit reminds one of the Broadwaymen of a westward Atlantic voyage he made a good many years ago. From sailing time until the ship was docked at Manhattan, he didn't see the occupant of the next stateroom. He frequently heard the person, though—the low moans and other distressful sounds of mal de mer. When everyone was leaving the ship, he noticed a mountain of luggage being removed from the stateroom. On the trunks appeared the words: "Annette Kellerman — Neptune's Daughter."

The talk swings to one of the street's most objectionable busybodie, and he is dissected by the gossips. "Only trouble with Blank," observes Martin Greene, "is that he's got an inferiority complex."

Winnfield

A party of Winnfield girls will return home Sunday from Camp Windywood, where they spent the past two weeks. They are as follows: Brooksie Fuller, Lowice Branch, Gloria Nugent, Joan Faith, Sue Radesicich, Helen Lois Milam, Doris and Kathleen Kemp.

The girls earned a reputation of being good campers by their ready and joyous participation in all camp activities. In the special contests Brooksie Fuller, Lowice Branch and Helen Lois Milam won special recognition as being among the best campers in the entire assembly, and were awarded a torch. First place in the senior group diving contest was awarded to Brooksie Fuller, while Helen Lois Milam won the title of "Miss Winnfield" in the beauty contest.

Others were successful in passing tests in life-saving.

The W. M. S. of the First Methodist church held a very satisfactory business session the past week when reports of the past quarter's work were made which showed a highly satisfactory condition of affairs.

The Presbyterian auxiliary met at the church for a program meeting Monday and the theme under consideration was "Spiritual Life." Mrs. A. S. Stokes made an interesting talk.

The girls' auxiliary of the Baptist church W. M. S. met with Mrs. W. P. Martin Tuesday when a program on "Stewardship" was given. Mrs. W. F. Minor was leader. A rehearsal of "Aunt Polly Joins the Missionary Society" was given. This will be presented July 11 at Harmony Grove Baptist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robins, of Huntsville, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Compton of Rusk, Texas, arrived Wednesday and spent the fourth of July with Mr. and Mrs. A. Peterson. They left for home Saturday, being accompanied by Jack Compton and Kelly Peterson. Kelly expects to visit in San Antonio and Corpus Christi before returning home.

The R. A. chapter, the junior and Sunbeam bands of the Baptist church had an enjoyable joint social in the church basement Monday, after regular meetings were held. Games were directed by Misses Dorothy Ethridge, Terrell O'Neal and Hazel Durham. Refreshments were served to 40 persons.

Mrs. A. L. Phillips, of Marion, is the guest of her sister-in-law, Mrs. A. S. Branch. She is accompanied by her son, Jimmie, who is to spend some time later at Camp Windywood.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Shelton and son, Marion, of Charleston, S. C., have arrived for a visit with Mr. Shelton's father, J. W. Shelton. They expect to remain several weeks.

Mrs. Ada Kennon of Heflin, arrived this week to visit her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Watts, Jr.

Miss Pearl Shaw of Alexandria, spent Sunday here with her brother, F. L. Shaw and family. At the same time, Miss Shaw's sister, Mrs. Earl Grigsby, of Baton Rouge, was a guest in the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Cupp of Phoenix, Ariz., accompanied by their daughter, Mrs. C. M. Fritzinger and husband, arrived Tuesday for a visit with their daughter, Mrs. S. Jenkins. From here they will visit relatives in Monroe, Baton Rouge and in Laurel, Miss.

Mrs. John Kelsoe had as her guests recently her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McMain, of Pollock, and her sisters, Mrs. Lester Mayes of Tullos, and Mrs. J. M. Sage of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. W. O. Averette, who was called to Wichita, Kans., recently on account of the illness of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Strickland, has returned home and her daughter is now much improved.

Mrs. Verna Henderson has returned to her home in Hot Springs after a visit with Mrs. J. B. Wallace.

Mrs. C. O. White of Greenville, S. C., and Mrs. Bessie Creed of Selma, spent the week-end here with Mrs. Pinkie Wright, who is still seriously ill.

A. L. Hoke has returned from an extended trip through the east, stopping to pay a visit to friends in Bridgeport, Del.

Mrs. W. E. Harlan and sons, Jimmy and Ray, of Chicago, are the guests of Mrs. Harlan's sister, Mrs. Earl Hughes.

Dr. G. B. Hall, evangelist, of Wichita Falls, Tex., will start a series of revivals in the Presbyterian church here on July 14. He will be assisted by the pastor, Rev. A. S. Stokes.

Ferriday

Miss Lucille Hopkins of Havana, Cuba, is spending some time here as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle. She came to Ferriday from New Orleans, where she visited Miss Ida Davis, another relative.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Price and young son are enjoying a visit in Chattanooga, Tennessee.

Mrs. O. C. Montgomery, Sr., and son, Malcolm, of Vicksburg and Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Montgomery, Jr., of Natchez, spent the past week-end at Lake St. John, where they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Cobb and members of their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Knight have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Berkley Knight and young son of Sicily Island.

Reverend and Mrs. Charles G. Brace and young son, Carl, and Mrs. Bruce's sister, Miss Cora Darden, spent a recent week-end in Centreville, Miss., where they were the guests of Mrs. Bruce's relations.

Among the 20 capital crimes of colonial North Carolina were bigamy and the circulation of seditious literature.

FORMER JURIST GIVEN FREEDOM

W. Bernard Vause Is Paroled From Federal Penitentiary At Atlanta

ATLANTA, July 6.—(AP)—W. Bernard Vause, former Kings county judge at Brooklyn, New York, was paroled from the federal penitentiary here today.

The 55-year-old former judge started serving a six-year term on February 3, 1932, following his conviction in the southern district of New York for conspiracy and use of the mails to defraud.

The charges against Vause grew out of the operation of the Columbia Finance corporation.

He was sentenced July 30, 1930, and appeals were carried to the circuit and supreme courts and an appeal for executive clemency was made to President Roosevelt.

The former judge was acquitted in 1930 on a federal charge of false income tax return for the year 1926. Two state charges in New York courts based on the Columbia corporation losses for investors have been dropped.

During his prison term Vause was hospitalized three times, the federal parole board said it found in announcing several months ago that he would be paroled today.

Leaving the prison in mid-morning, Vause entered an automobile and left quickly. No statement regarding his release was forthcoming from prison officials.

GOOD ATTENDANCE IS EXPECTED AT CAMP

Young people from the First Baptist church here are awaiting the annual encampment at Mandeville which will open on July 16. From 30 to 35 will leave here by bus, according to present plans. Churches in the Monroe area, such as those at Jonesville, Oak Ridge, Bastrop, Delhi and other places, are to send delegations who will accompany the Monroe group, L. A. Stulce, educational director of the First Baptist church here, said.

The student union conferences daily will be led by trained workers. On the program are Frank Leavell, G. K. Keegan, E. E. Lee, Rev. J. L. Dodge, Rev. W. A. Corkern, Miss Elizabeth Cullen, Miss May Detherage and Miss Gladys Young.

Each day there will be inspirational talks made by Dr. H. E. Dana, Dr. M. E. Dodd and Dr. T. B. Maston.

Summer Sweethearts

CHAPTER XIII

The girl at the wheel of the big car sat slim and straight and golden in her white frock, her fair hair ruffled in the wind. She looked straight into the eyes of the man on the big black horse.

"I'm all right," she said confusedly. Their glances clung. "You were so quick, I think you probably saved my life. . . ."

She was conscious that nothing she said made any particular sense, but it did not seem to matter. Nothing mattered save the fact that it was morning in summer, that she was young and alive and that Michael Heatheroe was staring down at her as if he had never seen her before.

"You'll try the riding again?' he muttered vaguely.

Katharine laughed and looked away, answering him. Of course she would ride. That was nothing—the tumble had been nothing.

Up the hill a car honked imperiously. Two chickens, trotting out of the door yard of the farm below the riding club, crossed the macadam with slow dignity. Between them a little tiger cat appeared in a series of flying leaps. The chickens scattered.

"This—this is nice up here," commented the girl. "I love it—love to live on a farm."

"Yes, you would," he said, laughing. "Feeding pigs and gathering eggs and picking windfall apples. . . ."

"I would. Honestly."

He glanced significantly at her hands, those slender, rosy-tipped hands fresh from Isabel's ministering fingers. Katharine, accepting the unspoken comment, shrugged her shoulders.

"Can't help it that my life has been so easy."

"No, you can't. That's true."

His voice was grave and she stood, as it were, convicted.

Katharine flushed. "You—you despite us all as wasters, don't you?"

"I do?" said Michael Heatheroe, on a note of honest surprise. "Wherever did you get such a notion?"

"Skip it," cried Katharine gayly. "I was just talking. . . ."

"I think you're grand," said the man soberly.

"Oh, Michael, do you really?"

The moment hung, poised, precious and fragile as a drop of summer dew. But what Michael would have said she was not to know. There was the angry bray of a French horn behind. Katharine, obedient to its challenge, swerved her car to the right, in the narrow road, and a long, low chariot gleaming with cream colored paint and bright work swept past. Sally Moon was at the wheel.

She pulled up abreast of the man on the black horse. "Oh, Michael, don't forget about tonight!"

"I won't." His voice was expressionless.

"If you've a minute now I want to talk to you about those trotters," said Sally languishingly.

"Goodby then," Katharine said coolly. She slid her car into gear and was off like a streak before he could detain her. Was there a gleam of triumph in Sally's opaque dark eyes as she passed?

"I hate her—how I hate her," Katharine cried to herself, taking the curves at a dizzy rate of speed.

Don't forget about tonight, indeed! Pretending she owns him. Nasty little thing. Her cuddly ways, too. I've heard about Sally Moon. Probably he tells everyone he thinks they're grand."

Katharine drove her foot viciously down upon the gas-feed and the little car leaped madly ahead.

What a fool she was, to be losing her head about a pleasant young man who had a way with horses! What, after all, did she know about him? Precisely nothing!

Bertine was very cool because Katharine was late for lunch. "Dr. John telephoned." Bertine said as they rose from the table. "He's coming out for a swim."

"That's nice." Katharine was politely disinterested. As if it mattered whether John Kaye stayed or went . . .

"I do think you might show a little interest in our guests," said Bertine bitterly. "Since you met that woman—that Mrs. Merser—you don't seem to have time for anyone . . ."

Katharine did not answer. Everything was horrid today. Heat had descended on the village like a blanket. Bertine made home unendurable, with her scoldings and complaints. Nothing was as you thought it would be. . . .

She went to her own room and brushed her hair and changed her frock for a brief bathing suit of leaf green silk. In it she looked like a dryad. There was a little cove on their beach where an old maple tree threw pleasant shadows at this time of day. There she would be secure from everyone. In an hour or two she would go in swimming by herself. Let John Kaye find her if he could!

Katharine settled herself in the curve of the rock wall with her plaid beach robe and a book, but her eyes kept roving from the printed page as she review the brief encounter of the morning.

"I think you're grand," Michael had said. Probably that didn't mean a thing. . . .

Presently she fell asleep.

There were voices behind her when she awoke. A man and a girl. They must be below the convent hedge. Probably one of the maids who had slipped down to talk to her beau.

Katharine felt heavy and drowsy. The heat was intense. She had no inclination to move.

Those voices sounded familiar, although neither was lifted above a whisper. "I've fixed it," said the man easily. "We drive up to Greenwich about 10. We meet Howe and the minister at 10:30. Howe has fixed up the license business. Then we send the folks a wire. How does that strike you?"

"Marvelous!" a girl's voice said. Zoe's voice. Katharine stirred uneasily from her lethargy. She ought to make some sound—cry out that she had overheard.

There was the sound of a kiss. The sound of half-hysterical laughter. Katharine sat up, rubbing her eyes. Had she dreamed it all?

But no. To the left a dinghy painted red sped out toward the little yacht bobbing at anchor. Gibbs Larkin's boat.

Zoe Parker eloping with Gibbs! But that was preposterous. Katharine hoped, uneasily, that she had dreamed it. After all, even if it were true, was it any of her business.

She shook herself, sprang erect. She ran to the end of the pier and dove, a flash of green and white against the dazzling summer scene. The man smoking a cigaret on the balcony watched her intently. He was a slim man in a gray business suit. His blunt-tipped fingers were the fingers of a clever surgeon. His eyes were keen behind his glasses.

When he came down the pebbled stretch of beach several minutes later Katharine was swimming. She shouted out to him. "Come along in!"

"Later!"

The heat shimmered on the pier, the sun made a bright cascade of molten reflections on the water. A boat with sail painted emerald green bobbed at anchor off the point. Katharine swam back and hauled herself up by the iron ladder. "Oh, John, it's grand. You ought to come in."

"Going to in half a minute."

"John, are you mad at me?"

He looked at her with his familiar smile and for a minute Katharine was struck by the quality of it.

"I wanted to have a talk with you, Katharine," he said, his voice oddly trembling.

"Did you, John? Look—first of all I want to tell you something. It's the most cock-eyed thing that ever happened to me, but I've got to tell someone. Not half an hour ago I heard Zoe Parker planning to elope with Gibbs Larkin." . . .

"Well, what's all the shouting for?" inquired the man, watching with lazy interest the play of emotion in her mobile face.

"He's terrible, Johnny. We can't let her do it. The other night—you remember—when you came down on the beach and found me? You saw a man dash off, didn't you? I could tell by the way you looked."

He nodded. Something flashed across his quiet face.

"Well, that was Gibbs. He'd been seeing Zoe. I didn't think it would ever be this serious. The Parkers would never forgive me if they knew I'd helped."

"What," asked Dr. Kaye equably, "do you want me to do?"

(To Be Continued)

MAY ASK STATE TO CONSTRUCT NEW DAM

Members of the West Monroe Kiwanis club are of the opinion that if the project were properly outlined and application made in proper form that the state department of conservation might be induced to take over the development of Cheniere lake.

The construction of a dam across the Cheniere at Lenwil, thereby forming a large lake of clear spring water, has been advocated by the West Monroe Kiwanis club for some time. Plans in the past have been formulated but no permanent results have resulted to this time.

Steps are now proposed to be taken through the state conservation department which may be asked to create a dam of the proper height and a fill for a section of highway leading to the stream. Land not suited for agriculture would be used for a lake that could be stocked with fish, in the opinion of those who are interested.

Enthusiastic residents of one Japanese community recently named a new-born camel after the country's leading actress.

TAX ROW GROWS AS LONG SESSION THREAT IS MADE

ure should raise $350,000,000 to $500,000,000 annually.

Another leading Democratic committeeman, who talked privately because he did not want to start a "fuss" with Hill, remarked he thought a bill raising $200,000,000 would be sufficient.

Hill said, however, that it would be difficult to raise $340,000,000 a year even by increasing taxes on all incomes over $100,000 and putting new levies on all inheritances above $50,000. Chairman Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, of the senate finance committee had calculated that $340,000,000 would be raised by taxing only incomes above $1,000,000, inheritances over $300,000, gifts, and corporation incomes.

Secretary Morgenthau told Harrison's committee that the treasury had in mind a tax along those lines which could bring in $300,000,000 to $800,000,000 annually.

"So far," Hill said, "I haven't heard of any such plan; and I don't believe the treasury has any definite plan. Those $300,000,000 and $340,000,000 and $800,000,000 figures were held out to the country as to what could be done, and I don't see how we can stop at a small figure.

"But the money just isn't there unless we cut more deeply into the middle brackets."

The ways and means committee starts its hearings Monday.

Senator McNary said his belief was that congress either would pass a small bill hitting the high incomes and adjourn soon or prepare for more detailed study of a broad tax program and put off its passage.

may issue instructions then for disposing of the Dean case.

The governor has been presented with a pardon petition bearing the names of several hundred persons urging him to pardon the woman physician, who is said to be critically ill.

At a pardon hearing in Jackson several weeks ago, physicians attending Dr. Dean, testified that she would not live "over a year" if confined in prison.

Dr. Dean was convicted of administering a lethal dose of poison to Dr. Kennedy, with whom she admittedly had had a "love affair," in a whisky cocktail. The woman was convicted largely upon the accusation of the alleged victim, who in a "dying declaration" said that he had been poisoned by Dr. Dean, witnesses testified.

26 DICTATORSHIP BILLS APPROVED

has appointed to 11, were seated today.

Alvin T. Stumpf, Gretna, La., manufacturer, was given the seat formerly occupied by Joseph W. Fisher of Jefferson parish in the house of representatives. Fisher was recently convicted on income tax law violation charges and is now serving a federal penitentiary sentence.

In the senate, T. A. McConnell of New Orleans, was appointed to replace Paul E. Chasez, whose seat was declared vacant today because he accepted a job as personnel director of the federal emergency relief administration in New Orleans.

Senator Joseph Boudreaux of Abbeville, objected on the grounds the governor had no right to make legislative appointments and further that Chasez's job with the FERA did not disqualify him.

The governor's appointments are made under a ruling of the attorney-general that he has the authority as no elections can be held this year.

When Chasez' seat was declared vacant by a 26 to 3 vote, Long said: "We ought to ask the federal government to give out three more jobs so we can make this senate unanimous."

Frank Peterman, former senator, was removed when he became Louisiana administrator for the FERA. Both Chasez and Peterman were anti-administrationists.

The smooth course of the 26 bills through the senate finance committee was interrupted only once, when District Attorney Eugene Stanley of New Orleans, Long's bitter enemy, appeared to protest against favorable action on the measure giving the state attorney general the right to name Stanley's assistant district attorneys and clerical help.

"In every parish in the state, outside of New Orleans, the district attorney has the power to appoint his assistants," Stanley said. "I say this is a bad bill and has behind it a purely political motive. I beseech at your hands an unfavorable report."

The committee, however, in stride, approved the bill without a dissenting voice being heard.

Long ascended rhetorical heights in explaining the bill which will give him control of every non-elective political employe in the state, by placing the employes under the state civil service commission which the senator controls.

"This is the golden dream of politics," Long said. "It is a law which the state will never want to get rid of in years to come."

Long heard himself described in the house as a "lying crook" and a political manipulator of state funds when the house took up and passed the bills providing a $200 fine and a 90-day prison term for use of federal relief funds for political purposes.

Long has repeatedly charged the Roosevelt administration planned to use government money in fighting him in Louisiana.

Ineffectual efforts were made by anti-administrationists to include in the bill provisions for the same penalties for political use of state funds, but administrationists answered the state already had laws taking care of such misuse of public funds.

The house beat down an anti-Long resolution calling upon Long, self-professed "aide and ambassador" of President Roosevelt, to take state action to carry out Roosevelt's pension plan for the aged. It was sidetracked by introduction of an administration resolution criticizing the president's plan as inadequate.

Some voiced opposition was raised by bills stripping Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley, of New Orleans, of practically all powers.

One measure gives the state control of all employes and another provides for payment of policemen and firemen, who are already under Long's control.

Employes of 11 city departments, presently under Walmsley's control, are being paid by the FERA because the city's coffers are empty as a result of Long's legislation and litigation. The policemen and firemen were not paid by the FERA.

"It had not been my intention to say anything about these matters, but no matter how meritorious they may be, I can't vote for them," said Representative Mason Spencer of Madison parish.

"I can't vote for a lot of half-baked stuff being railroaded through this legislature that nobody knows about and cares less. No good can come of it."

Frank H. Peterman, state FERA administrator, said in New Orleans today that when the state administration took over the city departments the FERA would discontinue paying the workers.

"That suits us," retorted Long. "Anyhow, we don't propose to take over the city departments until election day."

The state elections will be held in January, 1936.

YACHTSMEN PERISH AT SEA

Engaged in a trans-Atlantic race of seven yachts from Newport, R. I., to Bergen, Norway, in their 54-foot ketch, the Hamrah (above), Robert Ames, Boston sportsman, and his two sons, Richard (left inset) and Harry (right), perished in a gale that overtook their craft about 600 miles east of Newfoundland. A mountainous wave washed their father overboard and the boys were drowned in vain efforts to rescue him. (Associated Press Photos)

ficers and seven additional members elected at this convention."

Intentions of the conference to develop a new party on a national scale were emphasized in the eighth and ninth articles of the recommendations. They directed the executive committee to organize the states into "properly functioning units of the American Commonwealth Federation" and to arrange for city, county, ward and precinct units.

With the tenth recommendations another argument developed.

The majority report urged: "This conference affirm its belief in the Democratic process and the achievement of its ends through peaceful means. Members and groups shall be admitted to this federation which support this principle."

Chairman Paul H. Douglas, university of Chicago political economist, told the delegates this was strong enough to keep out communists.

But a minority report by Ray McKaig which recommended "that all members of the Communist party and all those opposed to the Democratic process be excluded" drew support from the floor.

or until the price of that metal had reached $1.29 an ounce.

Commenting on the recent drop in the price of silver from a high of 81 cents, to about 69 cents, Thomas contended the banks, with forehand knowledge of when the treasury was to buy or sell silver, were able to profit either on the upturn or the drop.

The Oklahoman emphasized he did not accuse either Secretary Morgenthau or the banks with "duplicity" but insisted "banks will be banks" when an opportunity for profit is offered.

PRESIDENT SET ON OBJECTIVES

will be reviewed by the supreme court, possibly in time to influence the 1936 campaign profoundly.

If the essential principles share the fate of NRA and no other way can be found to effect them within the constitution, proposals to amend that instrument are expected.

If all should be sustained, "issues" now indicated would have less chance of realization.

In the months that must pass before the court acts, the current dispute over fundamentals of government is expected to grow. While the president has just broadened his objectives to include "wider distribution of wealth" through taxation, opposition to the New Deal centers the more on its alleged "unAmericanism."

Tallulah

Mrs. R. C. Gaines was hostess to the members of her bridge club on Saturday afternoon of last week. She served delightful refreshments after the games. Those in attendance were Mesdames W. C. Starrett T. B. Lucas, George Yerger, Jr., R. T. Campbell, W. M. Scott, C. H. Todd and Alex Blanche.

The Senior B. Y. P. U. was entertained on Wednesday evening at Lake Providence with a delightful swimming party, a picnic lunch being served after the swim. Those present were Flynt Hall of Gulfport, Burney Jones, Patricia Gilpin, Lucille Flowers, Vivian Scott, Helen Massey, Louise Westmorcland, Barbara Harrington, Herbert Massey, Emma Lishman, Hunter Whitehead, Ethel Emory, William Towne, Cecile Whitehead, J. C. Bryan, Joe Cline, Herbert Day, Martha Bunch, Marguerite Boswell, Lessie Wood, Aulbra Smith, Lena Mae Cheevers, Lavonne Waters, Katherine Westmoreland, Mary Sue Cummings, Helen Gibson, Herman Smith, Clyde Wade and Jimmie Spinks. The group was chaperoned by Mrs. H. J. Jones.

The Friday Afternoon club met with Mrs. Herman Lancaster. Mrs. Wray Bowie won the high score prize and Mrs. J. D. Halbach captured second high. A refreshing salad course was attractively served to Mesdames Wray Bowie, J. C. Lee, C. H. Calhoun, J. D. Halbach, Paul Schwartz, Harry Anderson, R. L. Moncrief and John Fridge.

Increasing interest is being manifested in the Daily Vacation Bible school being conducted at the Methodist church. New pupils are enrolled each day and the work in each of the departments is progressing satisfactorily. The junior department, under the leadership of Mrs. C. K. Smith, is using as a basis for study, "The Land Where Jesus Lived," the primary department, under Mrs. C. S. Pierce, "Learning About Our Church," and the beginners, "Our Happy World."

The monthly meeting of the Madison Parish Garden club was held with Mrs. Albert Sevier on Tuesday afternoon, with the vice-president, Miss Bertha Keller, presiding in the absence of the president, Mrs. W. M. Murphy. Mrs. W. D. Buford served as leader of the program, which consisted of two appropriate readings by Mrs. C. W. Spencer and a round-table discussion on parks for Tallulah, led by Miss Keller. The club voted to sponsor a project for a park and playground for Madison parish and will lend its efforts to its accomplishment. The president-elect, Mrs. Horace Maxwell, named her yearbook committee and flower show committee.

A delightful social hour followed the session, when the hostess served a delicious ice course. Those in attendance were Mesdames D. H. Allen, W. D. Buford, Charles Coltharp, J. H. Devine, W. R. Gilfoil, T. P. Kell, H. R. Maxwell, E. T. Purnell, A. L. Sevier, George Webb, J. B. Collins, David E. Holt, W. H. Hale, Tom Fortner, Will Sevier, Jr., and C. E. Hester and Miss Bertha Keller.

Mrs. Albert Sherwin entertained the members of her bridge club. Mrs. Hugh Montgomery received the award for high score. An enjoyable plate lunch was attractively served at the close of the games to Mesdames R. L. Baily, Hugh Montgomery, Maxwell Yerger, Will Adams, Will Sevier, Jr., and Misses Jane Johnson, Katherine Ward and Jessica Greene.

CATTLE DISEASE DRIVE PLANNED

Ouachita Parish Farmers To Discuss Eradication Of Tuberculosis

Meetings of Ouachita parish farmers for the purpose of discussing a campaign of eradication of tuberculosis in cattle in the parish, in connection with a state-wide program, will be held in various communities from tomorrow until Tuesday of next week, it was announced by E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent.

Assembly places for bunching cattle for tuberculin tests will be selected at the meetings.

The parish program, and the entire state program, are being conducted without cost to the farmer. Under the law, all persons who own cattle, whether they own a large herd or one animal, must have their stock tested for tuberculosis.

Following is the schedule of meetings:

Monday: Guy Barr's farm, 9 a. m.; Sterlington, Methodist church, 11 a. m.; Fairbanks school, 1:30 p. m.; Hugh Collins' store, 3:30 p. m.

Tuesday: Lock Arbor church, 9 a. m.; Swartz school, 11 a. m.; Millhaven negro school, 1:30 p. m.; I. E. Lucas' farm, 3:30 p. m.

Wednesday: Richwood church, 9 a. m.; Monroe, court house, 11 a. m.; Harrison, Rhymes' farm, 1:30 p. m.; Riser school, 3:30 p. m.

Thursday: McDonald's dairy farm, 9 a. m.; Bosco, 11 a. m.; Jess Bawcomb's home, 1:30 p. m.; Allen White's farm, 3:30 p. m.

Friday: Claiborne school, 9 a. m.; Cheniere school, 11 a. m.; Drew school, 3:30 p. m.; Lee Neal's store, 3:30 p. m.

Saturday: Peevy negro school, 9 a. m.; Eureka school, 11 a. m.; Calhoun school, 2 p. m.

Monday, July 15: Mineral Springs negro school, 9 a. m.; Old Cadeville school, 11 a. m.; Okaloosa school, 1:30 p. m.; Lapine school, 3:30 p. m.

Tuesday, July 16: Mt. Vernon school, 9 a. m.; Cypress school, 11 a. m.; Watson school, 1:30 p. m.

CHURCHES

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Cor. Auburn Ave. and N. Second St.

Sunday service 11 a.m. Sunday school 9:30 a.m. Wednesday evening testimony meeting 8 o'clock. Reading room, 1108 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily except Sundays and holidays 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "God" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, July 7. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Sing praises to God, sing praises; sing praises unto our King, sing praises. For God is the King of all the earth: sing ye praises with understanding. God reigneth over the heathen: God sitteth upon the throne of His holiness." (Ps. 47). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "That God is a corporeal being, nobody can truly affirm. The Bible represents Him as saying, 'Thou canst not see My face; for there shall no man see Me, and live.' Not materially but spiritually we know Him as divine Mind, as Life, Truth, and Love. We shall obey and adore in proportion as we apprehend the divine nature and love Him understandingly, warring no more over the corporeality, but rejoicing in the affluence of our God. The Jewish tribal Jehovah was a man-projected God, liable to wraht, repentance, and human changeableness. The Christian Science God is universal, eternal, divine Love, with changeth not and causeth no evil, disease, nor death. We acknowledge and adore one supreme and infinite God." (pp. 140-497).

RECREATION SETS UP SUMMER PACE

Many Projects Are Now Being Carried Out; Others To Come

Municipal recreation department projects are now in full swing and promise diversified interest, a member of the board said Saturday. There are now five playgrounds in full operation and one playground for boys exclusively that is near the Missouri Pacific railroad station. There are four teams of junior league baseball, six teams of senior league baseball and eight teams of soft ball in operation.

The new recreation center, 124 1-2 DeSiard street, is proving popular. Games of all kinds are being played and club meetings are conducted there. The Rhythm club, the junior and senior stamp clubs, tthe Marionette club and other organizations are using the rooms as a place for assembling. It is open for adults as well as for children and all are welcome from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. daily.

It is the purpose to interest the general public in the programs that are carried out. For example, the lantern parade and swimming contests were highly successful July 4 at the natatorium. The next affair that will be open to the public will be a doll show on July 26 at the recreation center. There will be a doll parade at 10 a.m. and an open display at 2 p.m. on the same day. At 7:30 p.m. also there will be a special show staged at the recreation center.

After the doll show there will be a model boat building contest at the pool and races will be conducted on July 28.

Other contests will be announced from time to time, it was said.

Kansas unemployed took steps to form a state organization at an Emporia meeting.

NEW STORE PLANNED BY E. JACK SELIG

Contract has been awarded by E. Jack Selig for the remodeling of a store at 230 DeSiard street, formerly occupied by the Roosevelt bar, which will be occupied on or about August 15 by Jack's Clothes shop. The contract was for $1,750.

The new establishment will be managed by E. Jack Selig, Jr., and will feature two-price clothing and topcoats.

The interior of the store will be completely renovated and all new fixtures will be installed. New show windows will be built and the store will be one of the most modern in the city when completed.

Jack Selig, Jr., returned from Chicago Friday, where he purchased a full line of new fall suits and overcoats which will be shipped in time for the opening. He also purchased new and novel window fixtures.

CARTER IS FREED UNDER BIG BOND

Alleged 'Legs Murder' Slayer Released Pending High Court Appeal

LAUREL, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—W. M. Carter, 67-year-old Laurel businessman sentenced to life imprisonment for the butcher slaying of Mrs. Daisy Keeton, wealthy laurel widow, today was released under $15,000 bond pending appeal to the state supreme court.

Carter was released temporarily by Judge W. Joe Pack in Jones county circuit court after he had heard several doctors testify Carter's health would be jeopardized if he were kept in the Jones county jail until the supreme court acted.

Miss Ouida Keeton, daughter of the slain woman, who is also sentenced to life imprisonment for the "legs" murder of her mother, has been released under a similar bail, pending appeal.

The torso and legs portions of Mrs. Keeton's mutilated body were found on a lonely country lane early this spring. The remaining portions of the body have never been found.

MERCURY CLIMBS TO 96 DEGREES AS RESIDENTS PANT

Yes, sir. It was hot Saturday and Saturday night.

Old Sol beamed down in all his glory during the day, sending the temperature soaring to 96 degrees as a maximum.

The heat continued far into the night and it took no stretch of the imagination to realize that mid-summer is here.

Saturday's maximum temperature was the second highest of the year, according to Miss Katie Key, U. S. weather observer. The highest for the year was 97 degrees.

"WATCH THE FORDS GO BY"

POWER TO GO
AND POWER TO STOP

A SAFE CAR helps to make a safe driver. The Ford Motor Company sees to it that you get a safe car. Unusual power to go is combined with unusual power to stop. Ford brakes are an outstanding feature. They are powerful, efficient and easy to apply—with more braking area per pound of weight than any other car under $1095.

But Ford safety is more than the safety of good brakes. It is built into every part of the car.

The Ford body is all steel . . . steel reinforced with steel and electrically welded into a one-piece unit for still greater strength. All Ford body types have Safety Glass throughout at no extra cost.

Three other reasons why you will feel safer in a Ford are ease of handling, stability, and the alert, obedient performance of the V-8 engine.

The Ford is steady on curves. It hugs the road because of correct weight distribution and because its center of gravity is low. You will find that the steady, sure response of the Ford communicates calmness and confidence to those in the car and makes each journey easier and more reposeful.

The Ford thus gives you double safety. The way it drives helps you to avoid danger. The way it is built provides unusual protection in time of emergency.

Boon To Home Dressmaker

Patterns 2194 and 2353

There never was a season when fashion seemed to make "all things possible" to the home dressmaker as does this one! Even the tailored sports frock (once considered the sacred right of "professionals") has abandoned some of its detail for softness, so it's easy for even the beginner to make pattern 2194 with its simple yoke-sleeve topping a shirred bodice. Turn about is fair play, so this time the afternoon frock, pattern 2353, seemingly all softness and flattery in its puffed sleeves and high skirt panel ending in a sash, borrows a tailored trick and gives a clean-cut finish to the neck with a neat round yoke and buttons. Sports fabric for pattern 2194; and of soft sheer for afternoon model.

Pattern 2194 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 16 takes 3 1-4 yards 36 inch fabric. Price 15c.

Pattern 2353 is available in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 takes 3 3-4 yards, 39-inch fabric. Price 15c. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with each pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Anne Adams pattern, thirty cents (30c) for both. Write name, address and style number. Be sure to state size.

Anne Adams summer pattern book should be in every home! Its forty fascinating pages are full of fashion facts every woman wants to know! Everyone's problem is solved . . . the bride with trousseau troubles . . . the matron with weighty problems . . . the much "dated" deb . . . tiny tots at play . . . vacation planners! Consult its fashion pages for a smarter wardrobe! Read its absorbing special articles for a smarter point of view! Send for your copy today! Price of book fifteen cents. Book and pattern together, twenty-five cents.

Miss Mary Pearl made the highest score and was awarded the first prize when Mrs. Charles Hart entertained the Thursday Night club at her home in South Davis street.

Other members playing were Mrs. M. Kaufman, Mrs. J. C. Gross, Mrs. J. C. Hamley, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Mrs. J. N. Turner and Mrs. B. R. Pinkston. Mrs. W. B. Evans played for the hostess.

Mrs H. L. Van Valkenburgh entertained a congenial group of players on Friday afternoon for several hours of pleasure at cards.

The guests were Mrs. F. X. Ransdell, Mrs. J. M. Hamley, Mrs. W. R. Powell, Mrs. Ida Fisher, Mrs. Herman, Stein, Sr., Mrs. Herman Schfartz, Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. W. K. Evans, Mrs. M. Kaufman, Mrs. J. C. Bass, Mrs. E. E. Evans and Mrs. A. P. Surles.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Wood drove to Edwards, Miss., on Thursday for a reunion picnic of the Bush, Ballard, Kennedy families and had with them Miss Katie Kennedy, R. P. Kennedy, Miss Dorothy Kennedy and Joe Kennedy.

Mrs. J. C. Gross and Mrs. W. D. Brown were substitute players for Mrs. J. N. Turner and Mrs. N. K. Delony when Mrs. J. H. Gilfoil entertained her club. The members to accept Mrs. Gilfoil's hospitality were Mrs. W. K. Evans, Mrs. Charles Hart, Mrs. J. M. Hamley, Mrs. F. X. Ransdell and Mrs. F. H. Schneider. Mrs. Hamley won the high score prize and the hostess the booby.

Mrs. Addison Thompson of Ruston and state chairman of press and publicity, told of the activities of the recent triennial session of the national convention of Federation of Women's Clubs recently held in Detroit, at the meeting of the Civic club, for which Mrs. J. M. Hamley was hostess.

Mrs. John J. Nelson, president of the club reported contact with the board of aldermen relative to the moving of the fish house outside of the city limits. The house will be moved as soon as a suitable location can be obtained.

Mrs. J. C. Bass reported that nothing could be done relative to the cutting of the weeds along the lake bank, as it was private property.

Dr. Franklin D. Boyd, director of the local health unit, announced the holding of a clinic in the parish after July 28 for the removal of tonsils and adenoids for all children in need of such an operation.

Miss McDanile's motion that the municipal auditorium be used for a clinic for these operations was carried.

A donation of $10 towards the salary of the swimming instructor was made.

With Mrs. C. A. Ross as chairman, Mrs. Frank Brown and Mrs. J. M. Hamley were appointed to arrange for a speaking date for Miss Mary Sue Wigley.

The second feature of the program were the whistling numbers by Olive Ann, Guenard, the seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. H. Guenard, with her mother as accompanist.

Members present were Mesdames C. A. Rose, E. E. Erwin, Frank Brown, A. M. Nelson, J. B. Erwin, J. W. McDaniel, E. C. Frenz, F. X. Ransdell, T. H. Estes, W. H. Maben, A. S. Hill, H. T. Van Fossen, F. D. Boyd, and Misses Eunyce and Elizabeth Howard. Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson of Ruston was a traveling companion of Mrs. Thompson's for this meeting.

After the meeting the hostess served iced tea and sandwiches.

H. T. Van Fossen, Jr., has returned after spending a week in Washington, D. C. and Annapolis, Md., where he was called to stand his physical examination for entrance to the naval academy.

Young Van Fossen won the principal appointment from the fifth district, and spent a year studying at Marion Military institute and his grades at that institution were accepted for the mental examination but in the physical examination was rejected.

Mrs. A. J. Wyly entertained the Philathea class of the Methodist church at the home of Mrs. T. J. Slagle. Mrs. C. E. Newman, junior past president, presided in the absence of Mrs. E. Wilbourn, who is spending the summer in Vicksburg. Donations were acknowledged from Sheriff J. C. Bass of $5, and two dozen glasses from Mrs. R. K. Howard.

Mrs. Grady Wyly will be hostess to the first of a series of teas for which the various members of the organization will be hostesses during the summer months.

After the business session the hostess served cakes and cream.

Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Merrill were hosts at a farewell dinner honoring Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Goyne, before their departure to reside in Vicksburg, which was regretted by a wide circle of friends.

Guests to bid farewell to this popular young couple were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Surles, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Abernethy, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Bass, Miss Sue Pinkston, Miss Ruby Bass, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Hebrard of Bernice, La., and Judge W. H. Maben.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Nelson left on a motor trip to Manitou, Colo., where they will spend the remainder of the heated term in their cottage. Mrs. L. Dunn and grandchildren, Marion Leach of Beaumont, Texas, and Stuart Pittman, accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Nelson.

INDUSTRIAL--REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

SYNDICATE HAS FINE STATEMENT

Report Of Investors Syndicate Indicates Efficient Management

The 1934 statement of condition of Investors Syndicate should bring to their more than 200,000 certificate holders throughout the United States and Canada a satisfying sense of security and peace of mind—a feeling of the soundness and proven stability of the company in which they have expressed their confidence.

During its entire history, year in and year out, Investors Syndicate has maintained an unbroken record of progress, regardless of good times or bad.

The company's record during the past five depression years proves the soundness of its plan of operations and the conservative policy of its management. During this time its liquid position was substantially strengthened, its total resources were almost doubled and every obligation was met promptly, when due.

In the recent depression period of general uncertainty, Investors Syndicate disbursed to its certificate holders a total of more than $40,000,000—in sums that meant to many the difference between actual charity and independence of conditions. Some of this money went toward the college education of young men and women preparing themselves for life's battles. Some aided in the purchase of homes or helped to free them from debt. To some, it meant food, clothing, shelter—comfortable and carefree old age, at a time when a person of 50 or 65 without means of support, was unquestionably a burden upon relatives or friends.

In all, this vast sum proved a bulwark of living protection between these people and the emergencies which arose.

Investors Syndicate's 1934 statement shows a substantial strengthening of its liquid position as an added protection to its certificate holders. Cash, high grade bonds and marketable securities were increased from $13,517,806.45 at the close of 1933, to $24,026,775.32 as of December 31, 1934, totaling 38.8 per cent of the company's resources.

Total resources at the end of 1934 amounted to $61,905,167.22, as shown in the accompanying statement, an increase of $7,390,316.96 over the previous year.

From the date of its founding in 1934, Investors Syndicate has paid every obligation promptly when due.

They are proud of this record.

John S. Fox, district manager, heads the Investors Syndicate organization in this territory.

PONTIAC SALES SHOW BIG GAIN

3,000 More Cars Sold To June 20 Than During Year Of 1934

Retail deliveries of Pontiac automobiles in the United States from January 1 to June 20 exceeds those of the entire year of 1934 by more than 3,000 cars, it was announced today by Mr. A. W. L. Gilpin, vice president and general sales manager of Pontiac Motor company.

Deliveries this year to date total 76,147 while those for the 12 months of last year were 72,877, it was stated. The 1935 figures have not been equalled since 1929. At the end of the 10-day period of June, 1934, Pontiac dealers had delivered 40,169 cars, thus revealing an increase in retail sales this year of more than 75 per cent.

"Early in the year we predicted that sales would hold up into the summer," said Mr. Gilpin, "and the record for June bears out that such will be the case." Deliveries during the second 10-day period this month were 4,872, giving us a total for the first two periods of 9,184 with every indication of running well over the 14,500 mark for the month.

"Reports from our dealers and field organizations are optimistic and points to one of the best summers Pontiac has ever seen. Employment in our factory is holding up near the peak with two shifts to date working in most departments."

"Naturally we are gratified at the wonderful acceptance the public has given Pontiac cars this year. It justifies the judgment of the engineers who designed the line and it indicates that the cars are performing satisfactorily in the hands of owners."

Here's The New Ford V-8 Touring Sedan

Ford dealers have introduced a beautiful new line of Ford cars with built-in trunks. These cars are furnished with DeLuxe equipment.

The rear seat is moved forward. The built-in trunk opens into the space behind the rear seat. The spare tire is mounted outside of the trunk. These features provide a trunk of generous proportions.

A Ford dealer employee crawled into the trunk shown at the right to illustrate its generous proportions.

KNEE-ACTION CAR PROVES POPULAR

Latest Chevrolet Figures Prove Comfort Feature Is Preferred

Conclusive proof of the motoring public's demand for knee-action, demonstrating that buyers not only want it but are willing to pay the small extra charge for it, is presented in the Chevrolet Motor company's announcement that only three per cent of the purchasers of its Master de luxe models, which may be had either with knees or with a conventional front axle, order the conventional type suspension.

William E. Holler, vice president and general sales manager, who announced the comparative figures, declares that the proof of the knee action acceptance is all the more positive because knee action requires an outlay of $20 additional.

"When we announced, last January," said Mr. Holler, "that knee-action would be optional equipment at a small extra charge, I underestimated the hold that the improved suspension had already taken on the motoring public. I gave out a statement estimating that 90 per cent of the purchasers of the Master de luxe models would order knee action. Instead, it is 97 per cent.

"This percentage is based on figures for sales beginning with March. Before that, we were not in heavy production on conventional axle models. In March, 97.2 per cent of our orders were for knee action cars; in April, 96.3 per cent; in May, 98.7 per cent; and in June, 97.5 per cent.

"Knee action got off to a great start in 1934, its first year. More than half of all the cars registered in the United States last year had some form of knee action. Until this year, however, we could not tell whether people were buying cars with knee action because they preferred them to conventional axles, since no make of car gave buyers their choice of either form of suspension. This year, Chevrolet, by making knee action optional, has given the public its chance to register its preference, and knee action has won overwhelmingly."

Trucker Without Mishap In 400,000 Miles Driving

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—(AP)—Four hundred thousand miles of truck driving without so much as a dented fender is the record of Harry Wilde, freight carrier driver for a feed firm here. He has driven daily for nine years without an accident.

Wilde, who claims a national safety record for regularly empolyed drivers, has been awarded medals and bonuses for his achievement.

RECKLESS DRIVER MUST BE CURBED

Many People Killed By Improperly-Driven Motor Vehicles

The reckless driver, like the habitual criminal, can't win.

Every newspaper carries the evidence of that, in accounts of those whose lives have been sacrificed to speed, to incompetence, and to carelessness at the wheel, according to Downes Brokerage, Inc.

The tragic end to the great career of T. E. Shaw, the famed "Lawrence of Arabia," was headlined in the papers of the world a few weeks ago. Not yet 40, Shaw had done war service whose value to the English cause was so great as to make it almost unappraisable. He had distinguished himself as a translator of Greed classics. He was one of the most brilliant of living archaeologists. He was a military and mechanical genius of the first rank. It was certain that his period of greatest achievement still lay in the years ahead.

Shaw's "hobby" was to drive automobiles and motorcycles at incredibly high speeds on country roads. According to news accounts, his cycle was going at around eighty miles an hour when he was forced to deliberately crash to avoid striking a boy on a bicycle. A few days later he died without regaining consciousness. His doctor said that it was best that he did not live, because of the terrible injuries his brain had sustained in the accident. Congenital recklessness had robbed the world of one of its gifted minds.

Every year in this country alone some 35,000 people die—victims to improperly - driven motor vehicles. Among them are the famous and the obscure, the brilliant and the mediocre. Each life lost means that the nation's resources have been sapped—each death means misery and unhappiness to others. Reckless driving is an unbeatable game at which the player always loses—and which likewise penalizes and robs the innocent.

The average tourist spends $5.57 a day of which 27 per cent goes for lodging and 37 per cent for food, the California Automobile association estimates.

KELLY-BAXTER BOUT TOPS OUTDOOR CARD TODAY

FOUR MATCHES ON BIG PROGRAM AT CASINO BALL PARK

Bruscato Celebrates First Anniversary With All-Star Mat Show

With four matches on the program, Monroe's biggest wrestling show will be staged at Casino park this afternoon, starting at 3:30 o'clock. It will be the first outdoor mat show presented here in several years.

Celebrating his first anniversary as a wrestling promoter, Charlie Bruscato has made elaborate arrangements for the big show, with a match between Ernest Kelly, long a favorite in Monroe, and Laverne Baxter, clever North Carolina youngster, headlining the program. The Baxter-Kelly bout is one of a double main event, the other presenting a pair of barrelhouse performers in Leo, the Terror, 245-pound bearded villain of Kentucky, and George Cochrane, former Washington lumberjack, who tips the beam at 225.

The preliminary bout which opens the big show will find Johnny Ackten, 169, of Mobile, meeting Emanuel Lopez, 173, of Laredo, Texas, in what has been billed as a grudge match. In the semi-final, Louis Bacigalupi, husky Italian from Chicago, will tangle with George Mansor, Syrian Adonis. Bacigalupi weighs 230 pounds and Mansor 225.

Both main events will be best two out of three falls, each with a two-hour time limit. The semi-final will be a one-fall affair, with a one-hour time limit, while the prelim will be one fall, limited to 45 minutes.

The largest crowd ever to witness a wrestling show here is expected to pack Casino park. Promoter Bruscato announced last night that reservations have been received from Alto, Bastrop, Rayville, Sterlington, Ruston, Columbia, Delhi and Crossett, Ark., as well as many requests for ringside seats from local fans.

The ring has been placed over home plate at the ball park and a good view of the action may be had from all parts of the grandstand. Ringside seats will be provided, with general admission tickets entitling their holders to choose their seats any place in the stands.

While every match on the card promises to be good, the Kelly-Baxter match is expected to be one of the best ever staged here. Both are clever youngsters who have made a big hit with local wrestling enthusiasts. Each is a clean, scientific performer and both know plenty of holds.

Kelly has been wrestling here for almost a year and he has built up a large following. Baxter made his local debut a couple of weeks ago and gave one of the most pleasing exhibitions ever shown here. The two are ideally matched, each weighing 210 pounds and each being an exceptionally fast worker.

The other main event, featuring Leo and Cochrane, will provide a contrast for the Kelly-Baxter affair. Both are as rough as they come, and Leo has yet to be tamed in the local arena. Cochrane has promised Promoter Bruscato that he will turn the trick today and the fans may expect all kinds of fireworks when the two roughhouse artists meet.

Bruscato said yesterday that Bacigalupi, who meets Mansor in the semi-final, has fully recovered from a snake bite which prevented his appearance here last Wednesday night and will be in good shape for his encounter with the Syrian. Mansor will be making his first appearance here, and consequently local fans know little about him, but he has an excellent record.

Ackten and Lopez, a pair of light heavyweights, are said to have a grudge against each other and today's match is expected to settle their differences, whatever they may be.

City and highway police will handle the traffic at the park, and Bruscato has announced that there will be plenty of parking space. Cars will be parked inside the ball park as long as space permits, the promoter said.

The big show will include music by Vincent LaRocco and his 20-piece band and several other features. Promoters from various parts of Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas will be guests of Bruscato on his first anniversary.

Bruscato said last night that he was considering several referees to handle the show today and promised that a capable official will act as third man in the ring. Harry Prophit will make the announcements and Phillip Lisotta will keep time.

THE ALL-STAR GAME

The National league apparently is tired of taking it on the chin in baseball's annual all-star game. The senior loop will present a team Monday which includes an even dozen members of the New York Giants and the St. Louis Cardinals, admittedly the two strongest clubs in the National, in an effort to crash through with their first victory since the game was inaugurated two years ago.

The American league squad this year will honor a number of veterans who have had their great moments but who are hardly the best in the league at the present writing. There's no denying that Vernon Gomoz, Schoolboy Rowe and Bob Grove, for instance, rank with the outstanding hurlers of the game but in the light of cold statistics, they're not the tops in the American league right now. Vito Tamulis, Johnny Allen and Ted Lyons all have better records, but neither got the call.

Also, Lou Gehrig and Joe Cronin will start at first base and shortstop, respectively, but the records indicate that Hank Greenberg and Bill Knickerbocker would have been better choices. Knickerbocker is hitting .311 to Cronin's .265 and the Boston skipper has been rather jittery around short this season. Ossie Bluege, a shopworn player, drew an infield berth ahead of Hale, Travis, Higgins and other brilliant young ball players.

The fact that Lyons was overlooked is particularly regrettable. The veteran White Sox hurler has been going great guns this season and for the first time in the history of the all-star classic, he has earned the right to a berth on the hurling staff. It may be his last chance to crash the big game.

Of course, the American league vets may come through in the clutch and knock the dope for a cocked hat, but with an infield consisting of Terry, Frisch, Vaughan and Martin, an outfield of Medwick, Berger and Ott and the league's leading hurlers to do the chunking, it looks like the National's year.

WHO'S THE CHAMP?

Danno O'Mahoney beat Jimmy Londos and they're calling the Irishman the heavyweight wrestling champion of the world. But is he? In Massachusetts Ed George was and as far as we know still is recognized as the champ, and the O'Mahoney-Londos thing was held in Massachusetts. How could O'Mahoney win George's title when the said George wasn't even in the ring?

Of course, Londos was recognized by the National Wrestling association and by other state wrestling commissions which are not members of the N. W. A. And the fact that he was defeated by O'Mahoney, even in an "outlaw" state, apparently wins the title for Danno, although the line of reasoning is a little complicated.

Several of the boys supposedly "in the know" up East told us last week that Londos' price for "losing" the championship was $50,000. Jeems had accumulated a small fortune and was tired of it all. He says he's through now and will take a trip back home to Greece. But if the heavyweight ranks haven't produced a champion more colorful than O'Mahoney by the time Londos finishes his vacation, you can look for the Greek to come out of retirement and regain his title. After all, wrestling must have a showman at the top of the heap and there's no denying that Londos qualifies in that respect.

CHARLIE'S 'BIRTHDAY'

Charlie Bruscato celebrates his first birthday as a wrestling promoter with a four-bout card at Casino park this afternoon. It's Monroe's first outdoor wrestling show in seven or eight years and from all indications, it will be a big success.

Bruscato took over wrestling here a year ago, after Little Rock interests had made a flop of it with light heavyweights and middleweights. Several years ago Charlie built Roosevelt stadium with little prospect of making it a paying proposition. After the first attempt to make the mat game pay was unsuccessful Bruscato took over the promotional end of the game, brought in heavyweights instead of the lighter boys and began to build for the future.

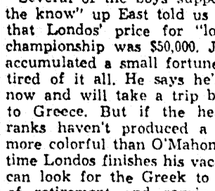

The increased attendance testifies to his success. There have been some excellent matches at Roosevelt stadium and some that weren't so good, but as a whole the fans have been well pleased with Bruscato's efforts.

Charlie has done a good job in his first year as the big boss of wrestling and it is the wish of his many friends that he continue to enjoy the success that has marked the venture so far.

VAUGHAN HOLDS PACE AS LEADING NATIONAL HITTER

Pittsburgh Star Continues Batting Rampage After Layoff

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—All predications to the contrary, Arky Vaughan resumed hitting at his usual clip or a little better when he returned to action after spending two weeks on the sidelines with a charley horse and hit hitting feats furnished the outstanding feature in the big league batting race during the past week.

Vaughan, after a brief slump, rallied to shoot his mark up to .406 in Friday's games. That showed a gain of six points through the week, in which he made 13 hits in 29 times at bat.

Bill Terry of the Giants picked up eight points to jump from sixth place to third among the National League leaders while Wally Moses of the Athletics gained six points and moved up from seventh to second in the American league.

Joe Medwick, runner-up to Vaughan, just managed to maintain his .362 average and his place on the list while most of the others lost ground.

Ouachita Valley League

RUSTON AT STERLINGTON

STERLINGTON, La., July 6.—(Special)—The Sterlington Engineers will play hosts to the Ruston baseball club here Sunday in a Ouachita Valley league game. The contest is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock.

After staging a great drive in the fag-end of the first half race to finish on top, the Engineers are exerting every effort to clinch the league championship by copping second half honors. Sterlington will send Still out to subdue the Rustonites, while the visitors are expected to pitch Stiles.

The Ruston club has been improving as the race progresses and a close game is expected Sunday.

Cramer Haas Beats Shafto In First Round At Bastrop

Upset Features First Round Matches In Kraft Golf Tourney

BASTROP, July 6—(Special)—Elimination of Wesley Shafto, Monroe, an early favorite, in the first round of the championship flight, and a thrilling hard fought match between Mercer Tinnelle of Shreveport and W. B. Gladney, Bastrop, which was won by Tinnelle 1 up in 20 holes, were among the features of the first round of play in the fifth annual Kraft Paper golf tournament here today. Ninety golfers qualified for play in the tournament with entries from all parts of Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi. Monroe is well represented with 25 entries and West Monroe has six entries.

Cramer Haas of Monroe won from Wesley Shafto by a score of 2 and 1 to provide one of the upsets of the day. In the other matches in the championship flight, Ross McDade, Shreveport, defeated Jimmie Cole, Baton Rouge 2 and 1, and Joe Halbach, Tallulah, won from McVea Oliver, Monroe, 4 and 2.

In the semi-finals in the championship flight to be played Sunday morning beginning at 9 o'clock, Haas will meet Tinnelle and McDade will meet Holbach.

Wesley Shafto and Joe Halbach were tied for medalist honors with a score of 77 and in the play-off this afternoon, Halbach won with a score of 79.

Much interest is being taken in the tournament and a large gallery watched the matches here this afternoon. The tournament will come to a close Sunday evening with the awarding of $400 in prizes to the winners. Semi-finals in all flights will be played Sunday afternoon and the finals will be played in the afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock.

Fred Haas, Jr., of New Orleans, holder of the Kraft championship, wired today that he was unable to take part in the tourney. Edwin McClure of Shreveport, another expected entry and winner of the championship in 1932, also failed to arrive, although his father, N. W. McClure, is taking part in the tourney.

Bobby Oliver of Monroe, the youngest player in the tourney, won his match today, defeating Jimmie Davis of Ruston, 4 and 3.

Results of the first round matches:

First flight: H. K. Touchstone, Monroe, won from Bunn Beasley, Monroe, 3 and 2; J. B. Tisdale, Bastrop, defeated Kenneth Holt, Monroe, 2 up; L. L. Vann, New Orleans, won from Gene Loftin, Bastrop, 5 and 4; A. L. Ross, Bastrop, won from Ed Ware, Shreveport, 4 and 3.

Second flight: R. L. Bailey, Tallulah, won from Dr. T. A. Brulte, Monroe, 2 and 1; Bobby Oliver, Monroe, won from Jimmy Davis, Ruston, 4 and 3; John Williams, Tuscaloosa, Ala., won from Ben Downing, Jr., Monroe, 4 and 2; Walter Leabo, Shreveport, won from James Tisdale, Bastrop, 3 and 2.

Third flight: M. W. McClure, Shreveport, won from H. W. Wells, McGehee, Ark., 3 and 4; Ralph Wheat, Jonesboro, won from O. J. Oleson, Bastrop, default; J. A. Cason, Tallulah, won from E. A. Buckner, Tallulah, 3 and 2; O. Higginbotham, Baton Rouge, won from F. W. Hawthorne, Bastrop, 3 and 1.

Fourth flight: Dr. R. T. Harberson, Monroe, won from H. E. Roberts, Monroe, 4 and 3; Prioleau Ellis, Monroe, won from R. K. Haxton, Greenville, Miss., 2 and 1; S. J. Rogers, West Monroe, won from Geo. Crittenden, Greenville, 8 and 6; Bryce Pirtle, Bastrop, won from Cooper Riley, West Monroe, 3 and 1.

Fifth flight: L. C. Spier, Bastrop, won from H. A. McDonald, Monroe, 3 and 1; W. J. Taylor, Greenville, won from M. F. Hill, Bastrop, 2 and 1; Bob Horton, Greenville, won from Jordan Barton, Monroe, 2 and 1; J. M. Menefee, Monroe, won from J. H. Turner, McGehee, 7 and 6.

DIZZY DEAN TO GO UNPUNISHED

Frisch And Breadon Declare St. Paul Incident Is Closed

ST. LOUIS, July 6.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, alternately baseball's bad boy and hero, avowedly is to go unpunished for his refusal to appear yesterday in an exhibition game at St. Paul.

Despite his rebellion and unkind remarks about the world champion St. Louis Cardinal club being "a chain gang," team officials agreed today that the incident was "finished."

After a lenghty conference with President Sam Breadon, Manager Frankie Frisch this afternoon declared he planned no action.

Plainly weary of the whole affair, neither Breadon nor Frisch would comment at length.

"It's all blown over, I tell you," the irritated manager said. "No punishment is planned for Dean. I'm sick of the whole matter."

However, after twice changing his mind, Frisch was still undecided whether he would name Dizzy to start in the all-star game at Cleveland Monday. Frisch will manage the National league team.

"I don't know for sure yet who will be the opening pitcher," he added. "I haven't decided definitely."

Visibly annoyed at the latest of a long line of outbursts from his temperamental pitcher, President Sam Breadon said he would support Frisch if the manager chose to fine or punish Dizzy.

Unrepentant and unchastened, Dizzy, who charged during his oral explosion at St. Paul that the Cardinals "were a chain gang, an outfit that would send you back if you didn't hit a .600," was still in a rebellious mood.

"If he (Frisch) wants to keep me out of the all-star game, it's all right with me. It's his priviledge," Dean declared.

The Lafayette White Sox, fresh from a victory over an all-star team selected from the other seven clubs of the Evangeline league Friday, trimmed a full game from the lead of the Jeanerette Blues Saturday by winning, 4 to 3, in an exciting game decided in the ninth inning.

Alexandria climbed within reach of the second place White Sox by clubbing Lake Charles into submission, 9 to 4.

Opelousas and the Abbeville Athletics, played the best baseball of the day, the Indians finally ekeing out a 1-0 win in a tight game featured by airtight hurling.

In the other league contest Saturday, Rayne was forced to go 11 innings before turning back the tailend New Iberia nine.

The first meeting of the recently organized Ouachita Valley Athletic club will be held on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, David Hunt, acting secretary of the club, announced yesterday.

A short boxing class will be held after the meeting.

Free instructions in boxing are being offered by the club and everyone interested in the sport is invited to attend Monday night's meeting.

CUBS GO THIRTEEN INNINGS TO BEAT PIRATES, 10 TO 8

Bruins Win Out After Pittsburgh Ties Score With 6-Run Rally

PITTSBURGH, July 6.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs ended a four-game streak today by beating Pittsburgh in 13 innings, 10 to 8, after the Pirates had tied up the game with a six-run ninth inning attack.

Cavarretta's fourth single of the game sent Galan home with the winning run in the final inning and Tommy Thevenow's error let Herman in with a second run.

The game started out as a pitchers' battle between Buy Bush, ex-Cub, and Tex Carleton. Bush was lifted in the seventh and Mace Brown, Weaver and Hoyt all worked before Swift, the losing hurler, went into the game in the tenth.

Carleton permitted but two hits until the seventh when Thevenow's triple and Grace's double scored a run and brought an ex-Pirate, Larry French, to the rescue. French was chased in the ninth inning uprising, in which a bad throw by Stanley Hack to Cavarretta let in the tying run.

Galan hit a home run for the Cubs in the seventh. Arky Vaughan, leader of both leagues in hitting, went without a safety in four times at bat.

PHILS, BRAVES DIVIDE

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—(AP)—The Phillies divided a doubleheader with the Boston Braves before 8,000 fans today. Boston overcame a 4-0 lead piled up by the Phils to score a 10-5 triumph in the opener, but in the second the locals ran away with a 15-2 triumph.

Baxter Jordan hit a home run for the Braves in the first game while George Watkins paced a 21-hit attack in the second fray with his 13th home run of the season.

Macfayden, although laced for 15 hits, lasted until one out in the ninth and got credit for the victory of the Braves in the first, while Jorgens pitched brilliantly in the nightcap and limited Boston to eight safeties.

Johnny Moore led both clubs with the stick during the afternoon making seven hits in eleven times at bat.

Bucky Walters, pitcher and third baseman, finished the second game at second base for the Phillies.

YANKS SPLIT TWIN BILL AND TIGERS GAIN IN RACE

SENATORS HOLD LEADERS EVEN AS DETROITERS WIN

Yankees Win Second Game In Extra Innings After Losing First

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP)—The Yankees floundered badly today as they encountered their first defeat at Griffith stadium this season, but they finally ended up by splitting a doubleheader with the Senators and preserving their slim lead over the second place Detroit Tigers.

Bump Hadley

Washington won the first encounter 8 to 3 while the Yanks came through in the 11th inning to take the second 10 to 7.

The even break reduced the Yankees' lead by a half game, leaving them just one ahead of the Tigers, while the Senators remained in seventh, a single percentage point behind the Athletics, who were beaten by Boston.

The Senators had things all their own way in the opener as Bump Hadley, after yielding three hits and as many runs in the opening inning, settled down and allowed only three more blows in eight frames. Washington hopped on Vito Tamulis for four runs to take the lead in the fourth, and hand the young southpaw his second defeat of the season. Joe Kuhel doubled the score in the eighth when he belted a home run after Pat Malone had loaded the bases.

The wildness of both teams' pitchers was the outstanding feature of the overtime second encounter. The Yanks built up a 4-1 lead off Leon Pettit in the seventh and seemed headed for an easy triumph, when Johnny Murphy blew up and filled the bases with three walks. Lefty Gomez replaced him, but before he could retire the side a single by Jake Powell and errors by Ben Chapman and Red Rolfe enabled Washington to score four runs and take the lead.

Each team tallied in the eighth and the Yanks knotted it up again in the ninth on doubles by Chapman and Tony Lazzeri.

Going into the 11th Ed Linke ran into a wild spell like Murphy's, and was relieved by Bob Burke, after giving two passes and issuing three balls to Lou Gehrig. Burke passed Gehrig and Lazzeri to force in one run, then Myril Hoag singled home two more. Finally Lazzeri and Hoag worked a double steal for the fourth run of the inning.

TIGERS BEAT BROWNS

DETROIT, July 6.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers, making the most of seven consecutive victory today, a 7 to 6 triumph at the expense of the St. Louis Browns, and edged to within a few percentage points of the pace-setting New York Yankees.

Tommy Bridges was touched for six hits, three walks and five runs before he was removed for a pinch batter in the second. Rowe finished the game, allowing five hits and receiving credit for his ninth victory.

CHISOX SHADE TRIBE

CHICAGO, July 6. — (AP) — Carl Fischer's effective relief pitching and a 16-hit bombardment that included Zeke Bonura's 15th homer, and six other extra base blows overshadowed three long Cleveland hits and gave the White Sox a 7 to 6 victory in the opening game of their series before 8,000 today.

It was the White Sox's sixth straight victory and the Indians' seventh straight defeat.

RED SOX TRIM A'S

BOSTON, July 6.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell pitched his way to his twelfth victory of the season today when the Red Sox turned back the Athletics, 6-4.

The Sox made all their runs with three hits, Ferrell struck out eight men including the redoubtable Jimmy Foxx twice and Bob Johnson once.

Werber's home run in the second inning was the Sox's first hit and accounted for three runs.

Cronin's double in the fourth, Miller's sacrifice and Rick Ferrell's long fly gave Boston its fourth run. Boston made its remaining runs in the fifth when Dahlgren walked, Wes Ferrell sacrificed and Melillo tripled to right, scoring Dahlgren. Melillo scored after Almada's flyout to Cramer.

Baseball's Biggest Crowd To See All-Stars Battle

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

CLEVELAND, July 6.—The greatest crowd that has ever paid to witness a baseball game, a capacity gathering of nearly 85,000, is expected to jam Cleveland's municipal stadium Monday for the big parade of the all-stars in the third annual game between hand-picked forces of the National and American leagues.

Anything can happen when a galaxy of such satellites of the diamond clashes but it looks like a ripe occasion for the Nationals to turn the tide after two previous setbacks. They are fortified with a dozen of the ace performers of the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals, world champions. They look to have a distinct edge, especially in pitching, over the crippled and somewhat shell-shocked American league array.

The pitching prospects for the Americans are equally spotty, on the basis of spring performances. Schoolboy Rowe, big Tiger righthander, has been highly erratic but Cochrane yesterday denied reports he would be withdrawn. Tommy Bridges, big winner for Detroit so far, may get the starting assignment, with Harder as No. 2 man. The use of Lefty Gomez of the Yankees, who was hit hard at the outset of last year's game, or Lefty Grove of the Red Sox probably will depend on how many left-handed hitters the Nationals send into action at one time.

Frankie Frisch, manager of the world champion Cardinals, ran into a series of unforeseen difficulties in the direction of the National league squad when the Dean brothers staged another "rebellion" over an exhibition-game appearance at St. Paul and Van Mungo, Brooklyn pitcher, turned up with a bruised finger that probably will prevent his appearing in the game.

Frisch had planned to use Dizzy Dean as his starting pitcher but when Diz and brother Paul refused even to show themselves to the crowd at St. Paul he announced firmly that he would not have Dean on his all-star squad and named Paul Derringer as his probable first choice for flinging duties. He may switch to Hal Schumacher, right-handed "sinker ball" ace of the Giants. Schumacher has now run up ten consecutive victories and is easily the league's pitching standout. Also available are Carl Hubbell, Giants' screwball ace, who baffled the American league sluggers for three innings last year, and Paul Derringer of the Reds.

Cochrane says he won't divulge his starting lineup until Monday but here's the probable batting order:

Sunnyside Team Beats Crowville In 2 Games

ST. JOSEPH, La., July 6.—(Special)—The Sunnyside baseball club won a double header from Crowville on the Sunnyside diamond July 4. The scores were 4 to 2 and 7 to 1.

Thompson was on the mound for Sunnyside in the first game and held Crowville to four hits, while his mates were connecting for 14. Lester Shepherd, Sunnyside's southpaw hurler, pitched the second game. In seven trips to the plate, Dick Olds got two home runs, two singles and a double to lead the batting.

Spencer Celebrates 4th With Pair Of Victories

SPENCER, July 6.—(Special)—The Spencer baseball team celebrated the Fourth of July by winning both games of a twin bill, defeating Perryville, 6 to 4, in the first game behind the four-hit pitching of Ellis "Hooks" Bowen, and winning the nightcap from Sterlington, 3 to 1, as Flynn Wallace set the invaders down with two safeties.

Aubra Love's circuit drive in the seventh inning of the first game with one on gave the locals their margin of victory. Wallace held the opposing batsmen well in check in the second affair, but with the help of some erratic fielding the visitors made a serious threat in the ninth. The first two batters were safe on errors, but Wallace bore down and Ford struck out, Evans grounded out, and Gilbert, leading hitter of the Ouachita Valley league, flied out.

Score by innings:

Perryville	011	101	000—4	4	3
Spencer	011	110	20x—6	9	7

Hamilton and Hart; E. Bowen and Norman, Spillers.

Sterlington	000	100	000—1	2	2
Spencer	120	000	00x—3	7	5

A. Bowen and Hart, Gimber; Wallace and Spillers.

Some great hitters go through whole seasons without hitting a home run with the bases full, but Al Simmons of the White Sox recently hit two such drives within three days.

M'DIARMID, COEN MEET FOR TITLE

Texas Star And Missourian In Final For Western Net Crown

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Texas, and Wilbur Coen, Jr., of Kansas City, will battle it out tomorrow for the men's western singles tennis title at the South Shore Country club.

McDiarmid, seeded at the top, ploughed through two matches necessary to bring the rain-delayed schedule up to date, in easy style. His quarter finals victim was Ernest Sutter, Tulane university star, 6-0, 6-3. Art Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., had little better luck against the clever Texan losing by 6-2, 6-3.

Coen trounced Sin Kie Kho, Chinese Davis cup player, 6-3, 6-3, but but had plenty of trouble with big Bill Reese, star of the Georgia Tech team in the national intercollegiate tournament last week. The Atlanta youngster staged a furious battle in the first set, but went down, 9-7, and Coen, relying on a strong backhand, finished the match with a 6-3 victory in the second set.

Katherine Wolf of Elkhart, Ind., three times winner of the women's title, defeated Lila Porter of Mobile, Ala., the surprise player in the tournament, 6-1, 6-3, to reach the finals. She will meet Eunice Dean of Fort Worth, Texas, who eliminated Helen Fulton, Winnetka, Ill., 2-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Reese didn't have to lift a racquet in gaining the final four. His opponent, 18-year-old Frank Guernsey of Orlando, Fla.—the tournament "dark horse"—failed to appear on the South Shore Country club's courts at 10 a. m., and the match was awarded to Reese.

After getting away to a wobbly start, Hendrix steadied in the second and third sets to defeat Lewis Carson, another Shanghai entry, 2-6, 6-4, 6-1, in the quarter finals.

Fred Fitzsimmons May Undergo Arm Operation

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Fred Fitzsimmons, veteran right-handed hurler, may be lost to the New York Giants for a month as the result of a chipped bone in his right elbow.

An X-ray, taken this morning, revealed the chipped bone. The plates were to be read again this afternoon. If it is fully established that it is a bone fracture, Fitz will submit to a surgical operation.

LEE TURNS WRESTLER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 6.—(AP)—Bill Lee, who led the Alabama Tide to victory over Stanford in the Rose bowl last New Year's day, is training for the "grunt and groan" profession near here. At Germantown, Tenn., Lee is learning the wrestling game under Charlie Rentrop, veteran wrestler. Lee tips the scales at 246.

Walter Johnson was never knocked out of the box in his pitching years between 1913 and 1920.

DODGERS WIN AGAIN

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Just to show that yesterday's uprising was no fluke, the Dodgers again pummeled the Giants today, winning 12 to 7 with a 16-hit outburst to clinch the three-game series. This marked the first series loss for the league leaders since the Cards took two out of three in May.

A seven run outburst in the fifth inning when they bunched five hits with an error by Mark Koenig, two walks and a hit batsman, clinched the game for the Dodgers and sent Roy Parmelee to the showers with his second defeat of the season. Old Tom Zachary went the route for Brooklyn despite the heat and a weak finish.

MRS. MOODY BEATS MISS JACOBS IN 3-SET BATTLE

ORMER CHAMP IN GREAT RALLY TO WIN CROWN

oody Climaxes Comeback With Stirring Exhibition Of Tennis

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—(AP)—len Wills Moody, poker-faced ling of Wimbledon's galleries for re than a decade, reclaimed the world's feminine tennis championship today with as fine and gallant a last-ditch rally as the game ever has seen.

Helen Moody

Heading into what seemed certain defeat and frustration in the comeback campaign that has stirred the tennis world, the 29-year old San Francisco matron dramatically overcame a deficit in the third and deciding of her match with Helen Jacobs, merican titleholder for three years, owned her arch rival 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

THE CHAMPIONS

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 6.—(AP) Champions crowned in the all-England tennis championships:

(x) Men's singles—Fred Perry, Great Britain.

Women's singles—Helen Wills Moody, United States.

Men's doubles—Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist, Australia.

Women's doubles—Freda James and Katherine Stammers, Great Britain.

Mixed doubles—Fred Perry and Dorothy Round, Great Britain.

(x) Indicates retained title.

d annexed the all-England singles own for the seventh time.

Seventeen thousand fans who sat stood through the struggle verged on hysteria before Miss Jacobs, run the point of exhaustion, knocked final ball over the back corner ter an hour and 40 minutes of uelling play.

The victory supplied all the vindiation Mrs. Moody ever will need for incident in the American championship final of 1933 when, suffering from a back injury, she walked t the court in the third set with Miss Jacobs leading 3-0. She was used then of quitting, of depriving Miss Jacobs of a chance for a clean-, undisputed victory.

Today, however, she gave a conusive rebuff to any one who ever uestioned her fighting heart. Almost as though she willed it, Mrs. Moody again gave her fighting adrary a three-game advantage in e third set, the same advantage Miss Jacobs had enjoyed at Forest ills. She even spotted Miss Jacobs 5-3 lead later in the set and once, the ninth game, had match point ing her in the face.

Then like an avenging goddess, she on five straight games from one of e gamest fighters who ever donned nnis shorts.

When the final point kicked the ut over the baseline, the winner atically tossed her racquet over r shoulder almost into the bleacher owd and literally raced to grasp her efeated rival's hand.

Miss Jacobs stood up bravely as ey walked off side by side and the owd stood and roared its approval r many minutes.

Then in her dressing room, she lay ostrate for 45 minutes and on the rge of tears.

"Helen deserved to win," Miss Jacobs said falteringly. "I just couldn't t that match point."

Also tuckered out but in much better shape than her rival, Mrs. Moody id:

"Helen played gloriously. I never pected to win."

One linesman vouched for the fact at Miss Jacobs played the last three mes in a virtual daze.

"We had to tell her it was her rvice in the final game," he said. What a wonderful fighter she is."

Had she been fresh, Miss Jacobs doubtedly would have won the tch in the ninth game of the final t when she went to the net for hat appeared to be a simple kill of rs. Moody's weak lob. But, at tch point, Miss Jacobs seemed unle to lift her racquet high enough the decisive stroke and hit futilelinstead into the net.

Later with the count at 5-5, Miss cobs needed only one point to break rs. Moody's service and gain what ght have been a decisive 6-5 lead. t once more she drove into the net. She never had another chance as rs. Moody poured terrific drives to the back corners.

The entire picture of the match in trospect was of Mrs. Moody hitting t bravely, clipping the sidelines and ntrolling play throughout. On the her side of the net Miss Jacobs shutd endlessly across the baseline, getng her racquet on what seemed to impossible drives, never conceding point until she had given every nce of effort she could muster.

In winning the second set, Miss Jacobs proved that Mrs. Moody was nerable when forced to the net. older star on these occasions ked a finishing smash and easily passed.

t once Mrs. Moody got her drives ping the lines in the final set, Jacobs was too busy just chopthem back to attempt any egy.

the first two sets when Miss Jawas fresh, Mrs. Moody scored nine placements in all. But in third set when Miss Jacobs was on her feet, she sent 15 past her. here was some eye-brow lifting as

TWO NEW SWIM CHAMPS CROWNED

Pair Of Youngsters Gain Outstanding Victories In A. A. U. Meet

DETROIT, July 6.—(AP)—Two new champions were crowned tonight on the basis of record-shattering performances in the finals of the National A. A. U. swimming meet. Neither of the titleholders is yet out of his teens.

John Macionis, 19-year-old Philadelphia youth who will be a sophomore at Yale next fall, upset the dope in the 440-yard free style to wrest the title from Jack Medica of Seattle, Wash. The blond Lithuanian boy finished only a few inches in front of Medica, whom he had led all the way, although his margin at no time was more than two feet. Macionis was timed at 4:51.5. The recognized world record for the event was 4:52.0, established by Johnny Weismuller in 1927.

Ralph Flanagan, Miami, Fla., high school boy to whom the experts had looked to furnish Medica with his chief contention, finished third. Other contestants in the order in which they crossed the line were Jimmie Gilhula, Detroit; Dexter Woodford, Ohio State university, and Ralph Gilman, San Francisco.

Adolph Keifer, 17-year-old Chicagoan, who is a senior at Roosevelt High school, won a decided victory in the 100-meter backstroke, finishing seven feet ahead of Taylor Drysdale, Detroit.

OWENS, PEACOCK TO RACE AGAIN

BUFFALO, July 6.—(AP)—Another chapter in the intense rivalry between America's outstanding negro track and field athletes—Jesse Owens of Ohio State and Eulace Peacock of Temple—will be written here next Tuesday evening when they meet again in an all-star program of champions and record-holders sponsored by the National A. A. U.

Owens, who has already bettered the world marks for 220 yards, the running broad jump and the 220-yard low hurdles, will oppose Peacock, his conquerer in the 100-meter and running broad jump in the national championships last Independence day, at 100 yards and in the broad jump. Peacock bettered the world's 100-meter standard and the existing broad jump mark to defeat Owens at Lincoln, Neb.

Other contestants in the century will be George Anderson of the University of California, I. C. 4-A 100-meter titlist and Roy Draper of Southern California, I. C. 4-A 200-meter king. In the broad jump Owens and Peacock will go out to surpass the dazzling 1935 effort of 26 feet, 8 1-4 inches by Owens.

Owens and Peacock will be the featured performers in a field of stars, including ten national champions, six N. C. A. A. champions,

Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, prospective American Davis cup doubles pair, were beaten in the final round of mens doubles by Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist of Australia, 6-3, 5-7, 6-2, 5-7, 7-5.

Great Britain added the Women's doubles and mixed doubles crowns.

Freda James and Kay Stammers decisively trounced Mme. Rene Mathieu of France and Hilda Krahwinkel Sperling of Germany, 6-1, 6-4, to win the women's tandem championship, while Perry and Miss Round teamed up to capture the mixed title from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hopman of Australia, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2.

BOBBY JONES SAYS

In the foregoing articles of this series, I have tried to give a complete description of the golf swing, without indulging too much in the theorizing and speculation which delight the student and the hobbyist. It has been my purpose to show, in their simplest form, the essential movements, which form the foundation of a sound method, and are varied only very little as each individual makes use of them according to his taste and capabilities.

Even so, it is not difficult to see trouble in the way of the average golfer as he attempts to make use of this description in order to play better golf. Even granted the most ideal combination of a perfectly accurate exposition and a perfectly accurate understanding, one still must translate the words and method of another into his own muscular activity, subject to his own nerve control. No one can say exactly how far the backswing should go, how much the hips must turn or shift, precisely when the completely release of the wrist-cock should take place. Trese things are learned only from experience.

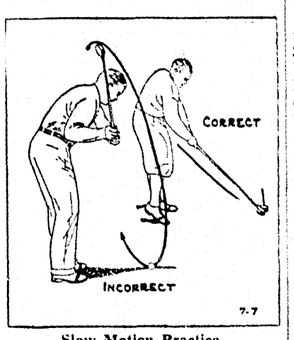

Nevertheless, a careful study of such an analysis of the swing as has been presented here should result not merely in confusion and dismay. For one who understands the proper order of movement, even in a purely theoretical way, finds himself at least in possession of the education he will need to make a practical success on the golf course. He will need only, as he will in any other activity, to train himself to perform as he has learned and observed. And this is the way to go about it.

How To Practice

We will consider that we are dealing with a person who has played some golf—enough to be reasonably sure of hitting the ball each time. We will assume that here or elsewhere he has gained a fair idea of what he has to do in order to hit the ball correctly. His problem is to get the "feel" of the action he has had described for him.

The first move is to the practice tee with a sack full of balls. Many will never take even this first step, but for the one who does, the next is this—before hitting even one shot, let him stop and think what it is he wants to do. Obviously it is to hit the ball and hit it straight. Nothing else matters for the moment.

Now let him visualize what he must do to bring about this result. Let him see clearly what must be the nature of the contact between club and ball. If he thinks hard enough, he will conjure up a vision of the club-head moving precisely along the line the ball is intended to take, with its face exactly perpendicular to that line, and making contact in the exact center of the face. He will see that if these conditions are met the ball must fly straight.

Slow Motion Practice

Now, let him stick a tee in the ground, over which and through which, without a ball, he can swing his club. Then slowly, at first, almost in slow motion, let him, by trial and re-trial, find out what movement he will have to make to bring about the conditions he desires. Remembering what he has learned of theory he will very soon learn the reasons for the hip-turn for saving the wrist cock, for the shift to the left, etc. By concentrating on the end which these complicated actions are designed to achieve, some order is bound to come out of the confusion in his brain and he will be on the road to better golf.

A golfer is no different from any other human in that he wants a reason for doing as he is told. What better demonstration can he have than to find out for himself that he cannot hit the ball straight if he holds his weight back on his right foot, or hits with his hands from the top of the swing? Finding out for himself that he must drop his swing inside before he can hit out is the finest lesson he could have.

Boating On The Ouachita

July Fourth saw little activity on the Ouachita river this year as no form of organized boating was staged.

And unless some interest and backing is aroused, it seems probable that there will be no regattas held at any time this year. In the event a yacht club is organized, and this appears to be an ultimate certainty, racing on the river will once more become popular. This form of sport undoubtedly will be furthered by responsible interests because speedboat racing has in the past attracted larger crowds to Monroe than any other form of competitive sport.

Monroe is strategically located on one of the most ideal and beautiful bodies of water in the entire United States and this geographic advantage is naturally suited for both pleasure and racing boat activities.

Last week thousands of spectators spent Sunday afternoon on the shores of Cross lake at Shreveport viewing the greatest regatta ever staged there. They were thrilled in knowing that they had witnessed the establishing of three new world's records which put Shreveport on the boating map of the country.

Monroe, too, can support these regattas.

The "Pegasus" and the "Goofus" belonging to Milling Bernstein and Alden Shotwell, respectively, left Wednesday for overnight July Fourth cruises up the river.

William Smith, one of the partners who owns and operates the Monroe Dock company, returned from a vacation trip to Beeville, Texas, with the following account: Rising flood waters near Beeville had entrapped a large herd of cattle on a small knoll of ground that was also rapidly becoming overflowed. Cowboys tried in vain to herd the cattle by swimming their horses around the knoll and behind the panic stricken steers and thus move them through the deep sections to higher ground. However, all of the usual persuasion was of no avail and something had to be done immediately or the whole herd would drown.

Someone thought of securing outboard motors for the job, which was quickly done from the neighboring towns, and with these small motors attached to skiffs the cowboys went at the herd again.

The cattle were so frightened by this new kind of "cayuse" and theer strange "snortings" that they allowed themselves to be "herded" or rather swum through the deep waters to the high section of land.

SAILOR, DO YOU KNOW:

That the marine inspectors drop in at the most inopportune times to embarrass you with their inquisitive glances into your government required equipment? That one life preserver for each passenger regardless of whether the passenger is a paid or invited guest is required? Also that this life preserver must be of the fedesal approved type?

That the fluid in your fire extinguishers becomes weakened from age and must be renewed according to the manufacturers' instructions?

That a sounding device for signals meeting government requirements must be maintained in good working order on your boat at all times?

JACKSON JUNIORS WIN

JACKSON, Miss., July 6.—(AP)—The Jackson American Legion junior baseball team today went into the state finals by turning in a 2 to 1 win over the Meridian nine, in a 12-inning bitterly fought contest. The Jackson team will meet the winner of a seven-team elimination contest in north Mississippi within the next few weeks.

DOUCIERE WINS

ARCHIBALD, La., July 6.—(Special)—The Douciere baseball team defeated Archibald on July 4 by a score of 10 to 8. The good pitching and catching of Wheeler, Harveston and Evans and the excellent support and good hitting of the rest of the team was responsible for the victory.

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, July 6.—(AP)—Short covering and evening-up of commitments in preparation for the government acreage report for Monday brought light buying into the cotton market today and futures closed nine to eleven points higher.

At the start of the two-hour session prices were three to five points higher on better cables from Liverpool. They were also buying in the near months on a large spot house and by a firm that ordinarily acts for Japanese interests.

July closed at 11.92, the best price of the day for their position, while October at 11.59 and December at 11.58 were up an even 50 cents a bale. As is customary prior to a government report evening-up operations resulted in considerable activity in the market.

The weather map showed that needed rains were falling in the eastern section of the belt while in the western areas there was little precipitation and favorable temperatures.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advance of 9 to 11 points.

New York

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Cotton covered today a good part of Friday's losses. After showing net gains of 16 to 23 points, the market eased under week-end realizing or scattering liquidation, October, after selling up to 11.75, closed at 11.65, with the general market closing barely steady at net advances of 10 to 14 points.

Cotton futures closed barely steady, 7 to 14 higher.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—The brief stock market session was an indefinite affair today with selective buying lifting a number of issues to new highs for the year while profit taking soft spots appeared elsewhere.

The close was somewhat irregular. Transfers approximated 600,000 shares.

Wheat was under pressure most of the time, but corn and the other cereals registered some recoveries. Cotton also found support. Bonds were just about steady. Foreign gold currencies did better.

Shares up fractionally to around a point included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Republic Steel, Sears Roebuck, American Telephone, Loews's, Schenley, Air Reduction, General Motors, Chrysler, Western Union and Westinghouse. Among losers of as much were Santa Fe, Southern Railway, U. S. Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, American Can, Consolidated Gas and Standard Oil of New Jersey.

While dividend papers continued to attract the attention of idle money hunting employment, buying flurries in non-dividend issues were interpreted by some ticker tape watchers a san indication that earnings hopes fo rvarious companies are growing brighter.

The rails did not respond particularly to the general improvement in freight car loadings for the past week, as the upturn had been anticipated.

With congress in recess until Monday, the political picture was somewhat dim.

Trade news was not especially disheartening. Motor equities paid little attention to the lower production estimate for this week. Cram's figured an output of 59,380 units against 88,537 in the previous week. The drop was explained by the Independence day holiday and the fact that seven plants were closed all week for inventory and vacation purposes.

The utilities were in a waiting mood pending final action on the holding company bill. Bank stocks were dull following word that a possible split on the Glass measure might cause a deletion of its underwriting clause. The steels, while still in moderate demand, were inclined to rest after their spurt of yesterday.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, July 6. — (AP) — Bonds steady; price changes narrow. Stocks irregular; profit taking stems advance. Curbs mixed; utilities sag. Foreign exchanges quiet; gold currencies improve. Cotton steady; trade and foreign buying; scarcity of contracts. Sugar-Coffee closed.

CHICAGO.—Wheat lower; enlarged receipts expected. Corn higher; offerings scarce. Cattle closed week; choice steers steady; others up 25 cents. Hogs about steady, quality considered; top 9.75.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—Uncertainty that persisted regarding what disposition of Canada's wheat surplus would be made led to fresh setbacks of Chicago's grain values early today.

Opening 7-8 to 1 3-4 cent down, Sept. 80 1-4 to 3-4, Chicago wheat prices quickly recovered to a moderate extent. Corn started 1-4 to 3-4 off, Sept. 72 1-2 to 3-4, and then scored gians.

Wheat closed nervous, 2 1-8 to 2 3-4 under yesterday's finish, Sept. 79 1-8 to 1-4, corn 1-4 to 1 3-8 advanced, Sept. 74 1-8 to 3-8, oats 1-8 to 1-4 off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents higher.

HOME OF JOHN HUMBLE IS DAMAGED BY BLAZE

Firemen were summoned yesterday afternoon to the residence of J. L. Humble, 3215 Concordia street, in Cole addition, where rags on the top of a hot water tank were reported to have become ignited and set the walls afire. The damage amounted to about $50, the fire inspector reported. Shortly before noon firemen extinguished a grass fire at the intersection of North Sixth street and Rochelle avenue.

Recent tests indicate that oil waste in engines is due largely to worn main, rod, and camshaft bearings which permit excessive throwoff, and is only partially stopped by new rings.

GULLEY WILL BE ARRAIGNED SOON

Farmerville Man Sits Silently In Jail, Accused Of Slaying Two

EL DORADO, Ark., July 6.—(AP)—Silent and grim-faced, Clyde Gulley, 38, Farmerville, La., married man, sat in a solitary cell in the Union county jail here today, awaiting arraignment July 12 on charges of murdering his ex-sweetheart and her holiday companion at a roadside stand near here Thursday.

While attorneys conferred with witnesses and agreed to the preliminary hearing before Municipal Judge John Carroll next Friday, Gulley refused to discuss the slayings of Cleo Moore Murphy, 22, of Huttig, and R. A. "Pap" Harper, 22, of Strong.

To all requests for his version of the double killing or that he pose for photographers, Gulley made the same quiet, emotionless answer:

"I'd rather not."

The body of the young Huttig woman, whose affair with the Louisiana man previous to the Independence day tragedy, had caused the serious wounding of one of her kinsmen, was buried yesterday at Sparkman, Ark. Funeral services for Harper were planned for Sunday morning at Strong.

Prosecuting Attorney Alvin D. Stevens filed two formal charges of first degree murder against Gulley yesterday and Walter L. Brown, former prosecutor, appeared as defense attorney for Gulley. Brown did not indicate what plea he would make when the case is called by Judge Carroll.

Patrons and attendants at the roadside stand told Deputy Sheriff Elmer Nelson that Gulley killed Harper as the youth walked toward a taxicab in which the elder man and the Murphy woman were sitting. Nelson quoted these witnesses as saying that when Harper fell with three bullets in his chest, Gulley turned his pistol on the woman and shot her twice.

When officers caught Gulley driving the taxi toward Bernice, La., the girl, slumped down in the seat beside him, was dead.

Gulley is said by officers to have a wife and two small sons living at Farmerville.

AMERICANS DEPORTED FROM CUBA AS AGITATORS

This group of Americans constituting an "investigating commission," which went to Cuba to study social and labor conditions, got no further than the dock in Havana. Regarding them as agitators, Cuban soldiers met their boat, hustled the whole crowd to a detention camp and then deported them on the next boat for New York. They arrived home yesterday. (Associated Press Photo)

DEPORTED GROUP RETURNS TO U. S.

15 American Liberals, Kicked Out Of Cuba, Brimming With Indignation

NEW YORK, July 6.—(AP)—Fifteen American liberals who went to Cuba to investigate what they called "the destruction of civil liberties" returned today from a fast round-trip on the Ward liner Oriente, brimming with indignation over alleged "inhuman treatment."

To newsmen who boarded the boat at Quarantine, Clifford Odets, liberal playwright and chairman of the delegation, asserted in a prepared statement: "This delegation has been honored by deportation by the present Cuban dictatorship."

Conrad Komorowski, correspondent for a liberal magazine, attributed the treatment accorded the investigating committee by the Cuban government to "collusion between the American diplomatic service and Cuban industrial interests."

"The sugar interests are keeping the Cubans in peonage," said Komorowski. Odets added to that, "it appears to me that the American embassy, sugar and utility interests in Cuba worked together to prevent our determining the extent of the destruction of civil liberties."

The delegation, which included two negroes and four women, dwelled at length upon their incarceration by Cuban authorities and their being held for 17 hours incommunicado. Odets said neither the men nor the women were given mattresses and that the springs of the beds at Tiscornia detention camp made their backs look like waffles. Other members of the party said that none of the windows had screens and they were bitten a-plenty by mosquitoes.

Regarding action or lack of action by American diplomatic representatives at Havana, Odets commented: "I have no doubt that a joint course of action regarding the treatment to be accorded us was mapped out by the American embassy and the Cuban government before the boat ever entered the harbor. I have no doubt, further, that Cuban secret service representatives were on the boat en route to Cuba. We were met by an armed encampment on the dock."

An immediate series of protests to the state department and to congress is planned by the group, whose trip was sponsored by the League of American Writers. They were met here by members of several liberal groups, including the Student League for Industrial Democracy.

VALUABLE BROOCH LOST BY WOMAN IN STORE HERE

Mrs. C. M. Neal of Crossett, Ark., reported to the police Saturday that a dress and valuable brooch had been picked up either by mistake or by a thief from where she laid the package on a table in a local five and ten-cent store.

Mrs. Neal said that she had purchased another dress while in Monroe and changed dresses while here. She wrapped the other dress on which the brooch was attached, in a paper and when she went into the store to shop, she laid the package down. She missed it in a few seconds but could find no trace of it.

Besides the value of the brooch, Mrs. Neal said there was a deep sentimental feeling attached to it. She has offered a $10 reward for the recovery of the package and the police ask that anyone picking it up by mistake, return it to police headquarters for the reward.

CENSUS TAKEN BY PARISH COMPLETE

Shows Total Of 15,115 Educables Of Both Races; Gain Of 602

The 1935 quadrennial census for Ouachita parish, as required by the state board of education, was completed here Saturday and results were made known from the offices of T. O. Brown, parish school superintendent. It was shown that there are 15,115 educable children in the parish, including white and negro, which is a gain of 602 over the figures of a similar Ouachita parish census taken in 1931.

The census was taken with utmost care and careful checking and rechecking of lists was done in order that no mistakes be made and that credit be given the parish for each and every child of educable age, from six to 18 years.

Total figures of white families in Ouachita parish having children 18 years of age and less, are given as 5,938. The total number of families in the parish with children below the age of six years is shown as 3,740. Total number of educable white children, ages six to 18 years, is 9,495.

The total number of negro families in the parish with children 18 years or less is given as 3,051. The total number below six years is 2,228 and the number of negro educable children is 5,620. These results give a total of 15,115 of educables of both races in the parish.

As the allocation of state funds for educational purposes is based on the result of the census figures, it is pointed out that special care must be taken to secure accuracy.

Members of the local staff who took the census under the supervision of the office of T. O. Brown, Ouachita parish school superintendent, were well pleased with the results obtained. The superintendent stated that the figures have shown a very satisfactory gain over four years ago.

14 CADETS FROM THIS SECTION OF STATE PROMOTED

Selection of 14 cadets from northeast Louisiana for the first year advanced course in the reserve officers' training corps, with the rank of sergeant, in the regiment of L. S. U. for the 1935-36 session has been announced by Major Troy H. Middleton, commandant of cadets at the university.

Scholastic and military standing are the bases of consideration, according to the commandant. Interest and ability in military, disciplinary record, military bearing, neatness, and the general reputation of the applicants enter into the selection.

Following is the list of those from this section, given by parishes:

Caldwell: L. T. Weathers, Columbia.

Catahoula: Audley Clifford McDonald and Kellie H. Moses of Harrisonburg.

Concordia: Franklin E. Foster, Ferriday; John H. Maxwell, Canebreak, and Malcolm Saab, Vidalia.

Morehouse: William Carl Johnston, Bastrop.

Ouachita: Anthony L. Airoldi, Toufick Mickel, John B. Strahan of Monroe, John G. Turk, West Monroe.

Richland: Norvel Ellis Thames, Mangham.

Winn: Eugene Wayland Gates, Sikes.

Photographic equipment consisting of a wire gird, an anemometer, and a motion picture camera calibrated to determine exposures per second now computes the landing speed and gliding angle of new planes tested by a large aircraft manufacturer.

WHITE FAMILY HOLDS REUNION

Many Descendants Of Daniel White Present At Gathering Near Ruston

RUSTON, La., Jply 6.—(Special)—The W. H. King farm home near here was the scene Thursday of the first annual reunion of the White family, pioneer settlers of north Louisiana. Most of the nearly 50 persons present were lineal descendants of the late Daniel White, who at one time engaged in the saw milling business in several parishes in the central section of the state.

Three sons of Daniel White, S. N. White of Gladewater, Texas, T. W. White of Mansfield and the late W. W. White of West Monroe, were at one time well-known newspaper publishers in this state, each of them having published weekly newspapers in several Louisiana towns. Two other sons, J. P. White of Winnsboro and the late Eugene White, who lived in Winnsboro before he removed to Shreveport where he was connected with the circulation department of the Shreveport Times, several years ago were associated with the Winnsboro electrical power plant, which Eugene White, the major stockholder, later sold to the Louisiana Power and Light company.

Among those present at the reunion were J. P. White and children Winnsboro; Wiley White, brother of Daniel White, and Mrs. White, of West Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Boyce Guimbelot, of Winnsboro; Mrs. Joe Hilliard and children of Greenville, Miss.; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Ferguson, of Choudrant; Bessie and Guy Stokes Ramsey, of Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph White and children of West Monroe; Carl Gustafson, Jr., of Greenwood, La.; Truett Hinkey, of Vienna, La.; Ruel Ferguson, of Blue Ridge, La., and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. King and son.

Of 8,414 schools conducted in Kansas in 1934, more than 7,000 were of the one-room type.

6 PERSONS PLEAD GUILTY IN COURT

Prisoners Sentenced By Judge Dawkins On Internal Revenue Charges

Six persons pleaded guilty in a special session of the federal court here Saturday morning to charges of violating the internal revenue act, and each was sentenced to serve six months in the federal jail at New Orleans. They were Roy Raphial, E. B. Dixon, Idoff Johnson, Pleas Clinton, Craig Holmes and Zeke Williams.

Hertha Lawson, convicted of violating the Dyer act, was given a sentence of two years in the federal reformatory at El Reno, Okla.

Ruby Brannon's suspended sentence of three years for violation of the narcotic act was revoked. The institution in which she will serve the sentence will be recommended by the state attorney general.

Previously placed on probation for violation of the Dyer act, James Kiser was given an extension of probation until the October term of the court. The probation of Herman Chapman, who had been convicted of forgery of a government check, was extended for a year.

The suspended sentence of Ezbed Sonnier, who had been convicted of using the mails to defraud, was revoked, and his bond was set at $3,500.

L. T. Short was placed on probation for a year for postal laws violation.

Judge Ben C. Dawkins, of Monroe, presided.

SETTLEMENT FILED

In a compromise settlement filed yesterday at the office of the parish clerk of court, Ewan A. Kelly received $3,000 from the Vincennes Bridge company for an injury he received last March 28 while employed on the construction of the state highway bridge across the Ouachita river here. Kelly received the injury as he was exerting his strength in turning a winch on a barge, according to his petition for damages.

Nature Clothes City In Beauty

Social Life Begins As Sun Vacates Sky

Families Dine In Open And Most Entertaining Is Done In Gardens; Boating Is Favorite Pastime In Monroe

By Eve C. Bradford

Mid-summer! The time of the year when the earth seems to pause breathlessly. The soft winds sigh and whisper, disclosing golden secrets they have learned in their long pilgrimage. Heaven is not far away; it is here on earth, for the world has been resurrected and is robed in its pristine beauty. The drone of the insects grow louder. But the sweetest music of all is the whirring of the electric fans and the tinkling of ice in tall frosted glasses.

Summer advances. The corn grows taller and waves its soft yellow hair in the warm breeze. The fields of cotton grow greener and the darkies idle along waiting until the fields are transformed into a sea of snowy white. The throats of the mocking birds are bursting with song. The cattle stand knee deep in the sleepy bayous shaded by the branches of oaks. There is soft music everywhere in the tree tops, in the rustle of the leaves and in the lapping of the water along the water front.

Life begins at sundown in Monroe. The mist comes up from the river and the garden suddenly comes to life. Families dine out of doors and most of the entertaining is done in the shadow of a pool or some enclosure safe from the prying eyes of the public. Those who remain at home during the long, hot summer know how to take life easy, and especially fortunate are those who own comfortable houseboats. It is always cool on the river, no matter how hot the day.

When Elizabeth Cutler arrived at the family home, "Bethaven," from Chicago the other day, Henry and Bessie immediately arranged a little excursion on board the "Bitter Sweet." However, summer in Dixie has no terrors for Elizabeth. We saw her the other morning looking as cool as the proverbial cucumber.

Another southerner who prefers Monroe in summer to cooler climes is Verna Watts. She is in the city now enjoying her vacation with old friends. She is looking as handsome and as vivacious as ever. We saw her recently in a white evening gown and found ourself more impressed than ever with the beauty of her wavy auburn hair. There is a shining sweetness about Verna that wins all hearts.

Speaking of vivacity reminds us of Del Paine. She always comes up smiling, regardless of the weather. Some one said not so long ago that they would like to take her apart and find out what makes her tick. She is really a lovely person and an exhilarating tonic for whatever ails you.

Still another vivacious person is Sallie Merideth. Never have we seen her in a state of gloom. She has the most charming personality and has enough irons in the fire to keep a dozen women busy. We have learned through association with Sallie that it is the busy woman who is the happiest.

Floy Surguine is quite the loveliest person we have met in many a day. We watched her the other day in the living room of the home of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Swift, and were completely charmed with her low, beautifully modulated voice, her poise and her grace. She will join her husband in Africa next month, and is already anticipating the pleasure of 28 days at sea. People like Floy, with their calm assurance of good things to come, can adapt themselves to conditions and mode of living in any section of the globe. She told us something about life in Africa and we decided that it must be a really beautiful place. She spoke of the beauty of the azure sky, the flaming sunsets, the exotic flowers and the abundance of fruit.

We discovered something at Judge Schulze's barbecue on the fourth of July that we did not know before. It was Charles Titche's remarkable ability as a speaker. Patriotism flared high and every one who heard him was proud to call him a son of the south. It often takes an occasion such as this one to bring to light a talent lying dormant.

The honeymoon month has been torn from the calendar, but the memory of those marriage ceremonies will linger. They conjured up visions young couples starting on a long journey together with high ideals of honor and loyalty. There is much of courage and steadfastness in the words of the wedding service.

Nautical Suggestion

Your nautical-minded hostess, who has asked you to spend a couple of days on board her boat, large or small, will be pleased if you turn up for breakfast in a sea-going outfit consisting of navy blue, nicely tailored slacks of linen, gabardine or duck and a halter of white and navy blue that has some kind of nautical motif in it. Take along a matching blue, double-breasted, sailor-type, mannish jacket to slip over the halter when the wind is cool. Remember that navy blue and white are the colors of the sea, and even though you think you look better in pink yellow or other hues, save them for other week-ends on shore.

The halter you wear with your slacks will go with extra shorts. The double-breasted jacket can be worn with a pleated flannel skirt for the afternoon. Be sure to have a small beret or hat to keep your hair in place. Crownless linen varieties are ideal.

For holidays in which tennis plays an important part, there are divided skirts with shirt-like tops and regular backless tennis dresses. These come in washable fabrics, of course, and in all summer colors. However, any tennis player will do well to stick to plain white. You can go in for vivid shades when you pick knock-about pajamas or slacks for week-ends where no special programs are planned.

Incidentally, rubber bathing suits take up little space in a bag. An habitual week-ender will do well to have at least one. In addition to being splendid for active swimming and extremely smart this year, rubber suits do not have to hang in the sun for hours before you can pack them. Simply take off your suit, wipe it, inside and out, with a towel and tuck it away.

Drink Recipe

The activities of the non-alcoholic fruit products department of the National Woman's Christian Temperance union are at their height this summer, when fruits are plentiful. There is nothing more refreshing than cold fruit juice and all fruits lend themselves to the making of juice. Clever homemakers today make a point of knowing how to concoct cool, sparkling, zestful and reviving drinks for summer which are as popular as hot spiced fruit drinks were in the winter.

Of course, with fruit colorings it is easy to fix it up according to Mom Beck's directions to The Little Colonel Shirley Temple, when she said, "When yo' wants a pink party everything in it's gotta be pink, and when yo' want a blue party everything's gotta be blue," and you saw what a grand success the pink party turned out to be.

Mrs. Blanch Pennington of Elizabeth, N. J., national director of non-alcoholic fruit products, gives the recipe for her white ribbon special as requiring one quart of Orange Pekoe tea, one large can of crushed pineapple, one cup of lemon juice, two cups of orange or cherry juice, and two quarts of water. Boil two sticks of cinnamon in two cups of water, strain, then add sugar and let boil three minutes. Cool and add aforementioned ingredients. Set in refrigerator until ready to use, then add fresh cut mint leaves, cherries or strawberries, and green ice cubes. This will serve about 35 people.

It's Figure Flattering, This Crocheted Dress

Crocheted of a mercerized knitting and crochet cotton, this stunning chevron striped dress is going places this summer. The skirt has diagonal rows of mesh, meeting in a point at the center front—very flattering to the figure. And the full sleeves are made of wide meshes. There is a wide bib front, with little crocheted buttons and loops up the sides.

Feazel-Hyde Wedding Solemnized July 4th

Others Take Nuptial Vows; Engagement Is Announced; Dances And Various Group Functions Are Held

A wedding characterized by charming simplicity was that of Miss Lucile Hyde, niece of Mr. and Mrs. E. Hyde, and Mr. Ralph Feazel of Ruston, July the fourth at seven o'clock in the afternoon, with Reverend W. G. Scott, pastor of the First Methodist church, officiating in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of the families of the couple.

The ceremony was performed in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hyde, with pastel-shaded flowers, in extravagant array, forming the background. The vows were spoken 'neath an arch of southern smilax, pink gladiolas and blue hydrangea tied with misty illusion. Tall floor standards overflowing with pink gladiolas formed a narrow aisle.

Mr. Joseph Wright sang in splendid voice "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Miss Gertrude Ellison of Camden, Ark., at the piano. "Because" was softly rendered during the ceremony.

Miss Mildred Vincent of Kelly, La., was the bride's attendant. She wore a pastel pink model of chiffon and lace with blue accessories and corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The bride wore an exquisite model of pastel blue crepe with pink accessories and a corsage of pale pink bride's roses and valley lilies.

Mr. "Red" McManus of Ruston acted in the capacity of best man.

An informal reception permitted friends to offer their well wishes and to enjoy the delicious ices, in the form of pink roses, served with the wedding cake in the dining room, Miss Elizabeth Benton and Miss Juanita Ellison of Camden presided over the beautifully-appointed table.

Mr. and Mrs. Feazel are spending their honeymoon in New Orleans and on the gulf coast. On their return will be at home to their friends in Ruston, where Mr. Feazel is associated with the Feazel Motor company. Mrs. Feazel traveled in a smart tailleur of Madonna blue with accessories of a darker shade of blue.

Mrs. Feazel is a graduate of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university and attended the Louisiana State Normal college at Natchitoches. Mr. Feazel, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Feazel of Ruston, attended Louisiana Polytechnic institute.

Pride-Folse Wedding

Claiming prominence among the season's nuptial events was the marriage of Miss Dorothy Bruff Folse of Oak Ridge, La., and Mr. James Willsey Pride of Madison, Ala., at the church of the Redeemer, Wednesday, June the twenty-sixth, with Reverend Paul D. Bowden of Virginia, uncle of the bride, officiating.

The church was garlanded with Shasta daisies and banked with luxuriant palms and ferns in woodland effect. The altar was a solid mass of white and green, with sheaves of Madonna lilies in the background. Tall cathedral candles flamed in the handsome candelabra flanking the shining brass cross in the recesses of the altar. Clusters of Shasta daisies and white tulle marked the pews reserved for the intimate friends and members of the families of the bride and bridegroom.

A nuptial concert was rendered, while the guests were assembling, by Miss Lena May Ross of Hodge, pianist, and Mr. H. G. Marcus of Oak Grove, violinist. Miss Juanita Cotton of Oak Grove sang in splendid voice, "O Promise Me."

Before the entrance of the bridal party, Messrs. William Rolfe and Tazewell Baird the third, wearing white linens, unwound the white satin ribbons that formed the aisle down which the bridal party walked.

The maids, Miss Catherine Ivy of Decatur, Ala., Miss Marion Reeves of Oak Grove and Misses Maybeth and Lois Thibadeaux of Mer Rouge, wore lovely frocks of rose-colored silk net over rose-colored taffeta and poke bonnets of rose-colored lace. They carried colonial bouquets of pastel-shaded flowers tied with loops of orchid satin ribbon falling to the hem line of their bouffant skirts.

The two honor maids, Misses Margaret and Winnifred Folse, were charming in sea-green frocks of silk net over green taffeta. Their hats and colonial bouquets were similar to those of the maids.

The flower girls, May Dalgarn and Ann Maurice Boyd of Collinston, wore floor length frocks of rose net over rose-colored taffetta. They scattered rose petals down the white carpeted aisle.

Mr. Floyd Fletcher acted as best man.

The bride, walking with her father, who gave her in marriage, wore a handsome wedding gown of ivory duchess satin fashioned along classic lines most becoming to her patrician type of beauty. The bridal veil of illusion was caught to the hair, bonnet fashion, with a cluster of orange blossoms worn by the bride's grandmother, the late Mrs. Penelope Douglass, on her wedding day. A cluster of beautiful white calla lilies formed the bridal bouquet.

Following the ceremony the bride and bridegroom knelt on white satin cushions to receive the benediction.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. In the receiving line were Misses Ellie and May Traylor, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Folse, Mrs. W. T. Pride, mother of the bridegroom, and Mrs. O. A. Folse, grandmother of the bride.

The bride's table in the dining room, overlaid with handsome Irish lace was centered with a superb plaque of shasta daisies and maiden hair flanked by tall silver candlesticks supporting white cathedral tapers.

A crystal punch bowl at one end of the table was presided over by Miss Lucile Huffman in white lace evening model. The handsome three-tiered wedding cake, the gift of Mrs. Paul Norman, graced one end of the table and was cut by the bride before she changed her wedding raiment for a handsome tailleur of navy blue.

A coterie of lovely girls, Misses Henrietta Bowden of Pelham, Tenn., Elizabeth Folse, Margaret McDuffie and Irma Jane Gibson, in evening frocks, assisted in the serving of the confectionery course.

Mr. and Mrs. Pride are spending their honeymoon in New Orleans and upon their return will be at home in Madison, Ala., where Mr. Pride is a prominent young planter and large land owner.

Mrs. Pride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Folse. She is a graduate of Sophie Newcomb college, a member of Alpha Omricon Pi sorority and a charter member of the General William Carroll chapter, D. A. R. Mr. Pride is a son of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Pride of Madison, Ala. He is a graduate of the University of Alabama and a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity.

Cotillion Club Dance

A gay, pleasure-seeking group of friends danced under the multi-colored chandeliers on the Cherokee terrace of the Frances hotel Wednesday night as guests of the Ruston Cotillion club.

The affair, one of the most brilliant of the summer season, was marked by several interesting features, outstanding being the floor show and the serving of refreshing aperitifs at the tables outlining the ball room floor. Rainbow-colored lights cast fantastic shadows along the walls and the glistening floor, where the feminine guests, in beautiful evening attire, and the gentlemen, in white linens, danced until the early morning hours.

Guests attending from this city were Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Porter Burgess, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Isaacman, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Seymour, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Black, Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse, Mr. Bert Yates, Mr. Ford Benham, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sorority Dance

Diaphanous frocks of mousseline and chiffon fluttered on the dance floor at Plantation club Thursday night, when members of Delta Beta Sigma sorority were hostesses at a gala fourth of July affair. With every one in festive mood and the entrancing strains of music filling the air, the event proved to be one of the most enjoyable of the mid-summer season.

The chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Giraudy Prophit, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prophit, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Starsney and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Miles.

Among the dancers were noted Jane Gregory and T. J. Hunt, Roberta Neal and Tommy Downs, Nell de Lee and Kirt Touchstone, Jonnie Myers and Boyd Grant, Dot Williamson and Jimmie Wyatt, Mary McKee and Raymond West, Mary Styler and Joe Ammons, Laura Grace Kendall and Fred Ammons, Helen Earle and Leo Montgomery, Gertrude Ellison and Buddy Bubb, Mary Hayward and Lavell Green, Sara Virginia Craig and F. Outing On Lake

Members of Phi Kappa fraternity and their "dates" spent a blissful fourth of July at Lake Bruin, where they swam, fished shot fire crackers and feasted on barbecued steaks and other edibles to their heart's content.

They were guests at Morgan's camp during their two-day outing.

Attending the house party, chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Martin, were Miss Clara Terzia and Billy Herring, Miss Happy Tidwell and Durwood Griffin, Miss Pricilla Hodge and Kent Breard, Miss Anne Molaison and Will D. King, Jr., Miss Nina Mae Lee and Byron Breard, Miss Alma Dell McKee and Harold Fink, Miss Edith Nell Haynes and Jimmy Jones, Miss Marie Roark and Johnny Sherrouse, Jr., Miss Marie Taylor and Freneau Prophit, Miss "Monkey" Myatt and George Kennedy, Miss Helen Earle and Charles Baur, Miss Sara Beth Farmer and Billy Haynes, Miss Eleanor Colbert and Bob Hannah, Paul Fink, Jimmy Swink, Carl Morgan, Henry Colbert, Jake Chase, Buster Baur and B. Luncheon For Bride

Dan Cupid, that busy little fellow who has been working overtime this summer, inspired the matrimonial theme employed by Mrs. J. C. Steele and daughter, Miss Joy Steele, in the decorations of their luncheon table at the Lotus club Friday at 1 o'clock, with Mrs. Foster Wallace, one of June's loveliest brides, the honor guest.

A honeymoon cottage with winding walks, lily pool and rose arbor centered the table. Cunning little "cottage" place cards also accentuated the "honeymoon" theme. Exquisite corsages were presented to Mrs. Wallace and to Miss Sadie Foster.

Mrs. Wallace was a lovely figure in green linen sport model with wide-brimmed green linen hat and white accessories.

A luscious five-course luncheon was served to Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Freneau Surguine, Mrs. Floyd Martin, Miss Sadie Foster, Miss Lillie Thompson, Miss Bonita Allen, Miss Clara Terzia, Miss Happy Tidwell and the hostesses.

Two Clubs Meet

A meeting of unusual interest was held by the Carroll Woman's club and the Civic club of Lake Providence in the home of Mrs. J. Martin Hamley on Tuesday.

Mrs. Madison Thompson of Ruston, guest speaker of the afternoon, discussed the important issues which were before the triennial convention held in Detroit. The parish health officer, Dr. F. D. Boyd, was also present, outlining plans for the preschool clinic which the clubs will sponsor, giving the use of their clubhouse for the purpose.

The two clubs are interested in presenting Miss Mary Sue Wigly of Chicago, national lecturer on economic problems, a committee being appointed to perfect arrangements. Miss Wigly was an outstanding speaker at the state convention of the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs at Lafayette last November and was received with acclaim.

The Carroll Woman's club is sponsoring swimming classes which are held at the beautiful lake for which Lake Providence is noted. The club is responsible in part for the salary of the instructor.

For the pleasure of the guests, little seven-year-old Olive Ann Guenard, daughter of Mrs. J. H. Guenard, gave an exhibition of her skill as a whistler in a group of melodious numbers. Her whistling, of unusual duo-tone, is a talent few people possess and never fails to elicit highest praise from her audiences.

Present for the afternoon were Mrs. Addison Thompson, Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson, Mrs. C. A. Rose, Mrs. E. E. Erwin, Miss Elizabeth Howard, Miss Eunice Howard, Mrs. F. D. Boyd, Mrs. Frank Brown, Mrs. A. M. Nelson, Mrs. J. B. Erwin, Mrs J. W. McDaniel, Mrs. H T Van Fossen, Mrs E. C. Frenz, Mrs. F. X. Randell, Mrs. T. H. Estes, Mrs. John M. Nelson, Mrs. J. C. Bass, Mrs. W. H. Maben, Miss Olive Ann Guenard, Mrs J. H. Guenard, Mrs. A. S. Hill and the hostess, Mrs. Hamley.

Preceding the club meeting, a beautifully appointed luncheon was served in the home of Mrs. C. A. Rose, the guests including Mrs. Addison Thompson and Mrs. Eunice C. Williamson of Ruston, Mrs. John M. Nelson, president of the Civic club, Mrs. T. H. Estes, president-elect, and Mrs. J. Martin Hamley.

25th Anniversary

Anniversaries are always such interesting affairs, and especially so when they bring together old friends in some beautiful garden spot, where they can exchange reminiscences.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the union of the home and foreign missionary societies of the Southern Methodist church was unusually delightful, as it occurred during the perfect days of late June and was celebrated in the beautiful, shadowy gardens of Mrs. Fred Coen's home.

With glorious old trees silhouetted against the flaming sunset and luxuriant shrubs and foliage for a natural background, two hundred guests thronged the garden and enjoyed to the fullest the courtesies offered by the hostesses, Mrs. A. R. Holloway, president, and all the past presidents, including Mrs. M. L. Meredith, Mrs. Robert Cann, Mrs. D. C. Warner, Mrs. J. W. Worthington, Mrs E. N. Stewart, Mrs. Carl Atkinson, Mrs. S M. Collins, Mrs. W B. Clarke and Mrs. John Herring.

Mrs. Holloway extended a gracious welcome, while Mrs. John Munholland gave an interesting history of the society and introduced the past presidents.

Diversion was offered during the receiving hours by dramatic readings contributed by Mrs. Emma Alexander and the charming musical numbers rendered by Mrs. P. A. Poag, pianist, Mr. Alfred Hennen, flutist, and Mr. Wayne Wamsley, violinist. Beautiful vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Persis Jones.

The tea table was presided over by Mrs. W. J. Meyer, who cut the handsome birthday cake, and assisted in serving frosted frappe, assorted sandwiches and beautifully embossed petit fours. Assisting in serving refreshments were Mrs. Fred Coon, Mrs. S. M. McReynolds, Mrs. Addie Walker, Mrs. S. R. Wright, Mrs. W. M Washburn and Mrs. Robert Cann.

Garden Club Session

Members of the Garden club met under the spreading branches of the historic old oak tree in the gardens of Mrs. Robert Layton's home Friday morning for their regular monthly session.

Mrs. Elmer Richards, president, presided.

Mrs. J. R. Wooten, chairman of the civic committee, reported that plans were being completed for cooperation with other clubs of the city and a joint meeting to be held at a later date.

It was voted that the Garden club go on record as having for its aim a

Convention Sidelights

Mrs. Addison Thompson of Ruston, state chairman of the publicity committee of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs, gives some interesting sidelights on the recent national convention held in Detroit, Michigan.

She says: "The city of Detroit, noted for its manufacturing enterprises, may well be called a city of hospitality. The men of affairs who have gleaned great fortunes in industry have proved themselves to be great philanthropists. It was through their courtesy that club women who attended the convention were privileged to enjoy much that was cultural and social.

"Greenfield village, which is still in process of assembly, stands a tribute to Henry Ford, its founder. In striking contrast to the bustling city, which is a few miles distant, the serene little village is composed of buildings of a former day, all with historical significance. They were taken from their original locations and assembled here. Thomas A. Edison is the central figure, not only for the reason that Mr. Ford considers him one of America's most famous men, but for the reason that it was Thomas A. Edison who first gave him encouragement when he was struggling to perfect an automobile.

"The first laboratory of Mr. Edison stands as it did at Menlo park. Mr. Jehl, a life-time companion and co-worker of Mr. Edison, lectures to visitors, demonstrating the first phonograph and the present day radio. 'Had it not been for Mr. Edison you would not have the radio today,' he remarks as he takes a light bulb from the radio. 'Mr. Edison was not an educated man. Education is a box of fine tools to work with. It takes common sense to use them. Mr. Edison always used common sense,' he comments with a tone of reverence.

"When Mr. Edison was taken to see the reconstructed laboratory when it was completed, he was overcome with emotion. He said that he was a boy again, that he felt 50 years fall from his shoulders.

"As the significance of Greenfield village dawns, with its quiet little streets, its velvety lawns, with little shops, stores, a church, a school where Mr. Ford and Mr. Edison sat on the back seat and carved their initials, the blacksmith shop under the spreading chestnut tree where two beautiful horses wait to be shod by blacksmith's who work with precision, the horse drawn carriages with old gentlemen in perfect livery conveying the visitor from one point to another, there is a dramatic appeal, and a craving for the beautiful is satisfied.

"Mr. Ford was host to club women on a boat ride during the convention and for entertainment provided a chorus of negro singers who rendered classical number of considerable beauty.

"The Chrysler male chorus, composed of 200 singers, contributed a program of music presented in the magnificent Masonic temple.

"Members of the Chevrolet glee club also entertained with a concert at Belle Isle.

"The five thousand club women who were guests of Mr. Ford and Mr. Edsel Ford at Orchestra hall were privileged to listen to the national broadcast over the Columbia network. The Ford symphony orchestra and chorus was augumented by Paul Althouse, American tenor and celebrated opera star.

"Attaining a degree of perfection never to be forgotten was the Chicago chorus of women's voices, in "It Takes a Heap O' Livin"

"The Masonic temple, where the sessions were held and which commands a price of $750 per day, was the courtesy extended by that order to the General Federation of Women's clubs."

Misses Nibby and Jane McKenzie returned home today from a month's visit with their cousin, Mr. O. P. Bendall, of Jacksonville, Fla. They had a most delightful vacation, with trips to Miami, Daytona Beach, and other points of interest outstanding.

MODES of the MOMENT

These new hats for late season wear, give a hint of early fall in their fabric and shaping. In the new hats of smaller size, there is a definite trend to beret styling, many models being shown in both felt and velvet. Hats with larger brims will, of course, continue in favor right through the summer season, yet they take up this new felt theme enthusiastically, in bright colors and pastels, as well as in the ever popular black and navy blue.

In the sketch at top is pictured a new Italian beret of summer-weight black felt; with a pointed front and pleats at each side. A tiny bow of grosgrain trims the left side at the hairline. Such models as this one are especially desirable and smart for late summer travel wear.

The convex brimmed hat in the lower sketch, is fashioned of summer-weight felt, in dubonnet red. It displays a deeply curving, down-turned brim all around and a very shallow crown. The edge of the brim is glove stitched and a back bandeau holds it securely in place. For decoration it uses a white gardenia with grosgrain bow at the front of the crown.

Monroe Residents Off Or Planning To Leave On Vacations

Local Vacationists Are Scattered Over Nation

Almost Every One Is Planning Trip Somewhere During Months Of July And August; Many Have Already Departed

Summer vacations dominate the social calendar these days. Almost every one we know is planning a trip somewhere, either for this month or the month of August. And many have already taken their departure.

To the four corners of the nation they will travel, with foreign soil claiming a few. From the Gulf of Mexico to the Great Lakes and from the Pacific to the Atlantic, Monroe vacationists will be scattered this summer.

Miss Maible Hood and Mrs. Dora Anish will turn their faces to the Pacific northwest this month, visiting Seattle, where they will glimpse snow-capped Mt. Rainier and Mt. Baker. Their plans for a steamer trip to Alaska have not yet been completed.

Miss Beryl Madison and mother, Mrs. Flood Madison, Sr., are now in England, where they are anticipating a blissful summer and enjoying unforgettable interludes in nearby places of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meyer and daughter, Miss Violet Meyer, are in Lake Placid, N. Y., established for the remainder of the summer at the Lake Placid club.

Mrs. Bridger Thornhill is making her plans for her annual visit in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Peyton Parker and children are whiling away the summer days in a cottage on the gulf coast at Bay St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvia Masur are somewhere in the west today, en route to Yellowstone National park.

Mr. and Mrs. Edell Blanks are in Colorado, with a visit to Estes park one of the highlights of their visit.

The John Foxes and children will spend the month of August with their parents in their summer home on Long Island, N. Y., caressed by the waters of the Atlantic.

Mrs. Herman Masur and daughter, Mrs. Irving Shlenker, as customary each year will experience a happy summer in eastern resorts, with a steamer trip on the Great Lakes and an occasional trip up the Hudson river offering restful diversion.

The W. F. Cummingses are finding rest and contentment in their summer home at Chetek, Wis., with a motor trip through the picturesque dells offering continual delight.

Miss Judy Thornton will be off for Europe on the sixteenth of July enjoying her first ocean voyage and her first visit to the old world. Mrs. A. M. Thornton will find plenty to interest her in Detroit and New York until her daughter's return on the first of September. Miss Virginia Calvert motored to New York with them and will be privileged to wish Miss Thornton bon voyage when she sails for Europe.

Mrs. Henrietta Keplinger and children and Mrs. D. M. Sholars are contemplating their annual trek to the coast, where they make their home during the summer at the Palmer house.

Several Monroe people preferred taking their vacations early and have already returned from distant points.

The Charlie Wallaces returned last week from California and the Joseph Washburns and the Harvey Trousdales from Mexico City. The Sigmund Masurs have also returned from Mexico City, enjoying the journey via steamer from New Orleans.

Misses Armandine and Irene Quinn Renaud will head east this month, following the automobile route to New York City.

Mrs. Harry Rice is planning a motor trip to Chicago for a summer of study in the dance studios.

Misses Clarice and Golda Roan will study dancing in New York City under celebrated masters.

West Monroe Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gates and son, Kenneth Lee, of Lake Providence spent the fourth of July with Mr. Gates' parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Gates, of West Monroe. Mr. A. J. Gates returned to Lake Charles with his son to spend a few weeks.

Mrs. E. L. Fainter and daughter, Miss Dorothy Bernice, an accomplished pianist, have returned to their home in Wheaton, Ill., after spending a very enjoyable two weeks in the home of Mrs. Fainter's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kimball of 308 Lindermann avenue.

Mrs. W. F. Stovall and son, William Lane, and grandson, H. L. Crumpton, have returned to the city after a delightful visit in the home of Mrs. Stovall's daughter, Mrs. W. L. Gulledge, at Conway, Ark.

Mr. Martin Hebert, Jr., who was a student at Tulane the past session, has arrived in the city and will spend the summer with his parents.

Mrs. E. E. Sivage, who has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. L. Hebert, in Orange, Texas, for some time, has returned to her home at Brown Paper mill.

Mrs. L. P. Raymond, who was a patient in New Orleans for several weeks, has recovered sufficiently to return to her home at 300 South Riverfront.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Baker of Farmerville have come to the city, and are pleasantly located on South Riverfront, where they will reside in the future.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Warren, after visiting several points in Texas, have returned home and report a most delightful vacation trip.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stroud and little son, Don, Jr., of Houston, Texas, have been the guests of Mrs. Stroud's sister, Mrs. J. F. Dudding, and Mr. Dudding. Mr. and Mrs. Stroud, Don, and Mr. G. E. Meredith and son, Billy, formed a motoring party to Hot Springs, where they will visit Mrs. Meredith, also a sister of Mrs. Stroud, who is at Hot Springs for her health, for a few days.

The W. M. S. of the Methodist church will meet in circles Tuesday afternoon: No. 1 with Miss Dena Henry, No. 2 with Mrs. Sholars, No. 3 with Mrs. J. M. McKee, No. 2 with Mrs. L. M. Frey.

The Young Women's Circle of the Methodist Missionary Society met with Mrs. J. E. Whitaker for their weekly meeting on Tuesday evening of last week. A program which was well-planned and in which Miss Edwin Mitchell gave a quite interesting talk on "Orientals in America," was enjoyed, followed by the serving of refreshments to a large group of young women of the organization.

Mrs. Carey Phillips and little daughter, Janet, have returned from several weeks in Macon and Brooksville, Miss., which were spent with relatives.

Miss Carrie Dee Drew has returned home from Shreveport, where she spent a most delightful week with friends.

Miss Vida Snow Drew has returned from Camp Windywood, where, in company with several friends, she enjoyed a most delightful vacation.

Mrs. Mathilde Young is having quite a pleasant visit with friends in Bastrop. She will complete her vacation period within the next few days and return home.

Mrs. Ruth Moon and daughter, Delaine Belle, have returned after a most delightful visit in Little Rock with friends.

Miss Maida McClendon returned home a few days ago after a most pleasant week spent in the home of Rev. and Mrs. L. Hoffpauir, in Ruston.

A much feted visitor in the city is Miss Frances Kwiat of New York city, attractive house guest of Mrs. J. B. Abrams. Informal affairs of considerable charm taking place during the past week were supper parties, morning and afternoon bridge events, luncheons and al fresco affairs. Prominent among the hostesses were Mrs. A. Bloomenthal, Mrs. Herman Masur, Mrs. Louis Masur, Mrs. David Silverstein, Mrs. Charles Saltzman, Mrs. Leon Sugar, Mrs. Harry Kuhn, Mrs. Victor Goldberg and Mrs. I. W. Jeffe.

Frances Prophit of Baton Rouge is visiting his mother, Mrs. Pauline Prophit, in the home of his brother, Mr. Alston Prophit.

Hindu Dhotis Pancake Berets Give Beach Styles Exotic Air

Trousers, skirts and long bathrobe coats appear in these new beach costumes designed by Schiaparelli. The costume at left combines trousers of gold and white striped glazed chintz and a loose linen jacket tied with a chintz sash. The one in the center tops a beach dress of golden yellow cravat silk inspired by the draped skirts worn by Hindu students, with a three quarter length coat of pink linen. The costume at right adds a bathrobe of rose, grey and green printed chintz lined with toweling to a green bathing suit. The pancake berets are fashioned of tent cloth.

By Adelaide Kerr
(Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS, July 6.—(AP)—The robes of Hindu students and the South Sea Island styles of Tahiti have inspired more beach styles to wear while lounging on sandy stretches this summer.

Schiaparelli has taken the dhoti—the draped skirt worn by the Hindu student—as a model for her latest beach frock designed of golden yellow English cravat silk with a skirt extended upward to swath one shoulder. The other is left bare.

Heim favors the "pareos" which South Sea Island beauties wear as an inspiration for both swimming and lounge suits. He adopts them to modern bathing beauties in printed jersey, cut in an intricate pattern and swathed around the burst and hips.

The rest of the beach costumes which will dot this summer's sun-drenched sands are chiefly inspired by the figure and demands of the modern woman herself, with a general tendency to expose less epidermis than last year. There is a strictly tailored swing to many of them.

In the beach suits and frocks the trousered cut appears in everything from brief trunks to fairly long divided skirts. Mainbocher makes trim suits of duck or pique combining shorts and a top with a tailored jacket. One outfit is fashioned entirely of white tablecloth linen and worn with a bright green Ascot scarf.

Lelong likes shantung beach frocks with divided skirts falling well below the knee topped by bright flowered jackets or linen capes, while other designers combine shorts, which end a few inches above the knee, with colorful shirts and jackets or bare-backed chintz beach dresses and capes. Long beach coats of printed chintz lined with towling are another 1935 design for lounging on the sands.

After Better Movies

Miss Myrtle Rodgers, state chairman of the better movies committee of the Louisiana Federated Women's clubs tells us that the General Federation of Women's clubs will continue its support of the better film movement.

"The general federation with its 2,000,000 members absorbed in various activities, touches all phases of social and educational life, therefore, the motion picture looms big among its interests," she said.

"During the last two years, the chief object has been to build up a public demand for better pictures, not only in words but in results. To achieve that there are 2,655 local chairmen cooperating over the entire country, contacting clubs, civic and educational organizations. They mail hundreds of thousands of selected lists and programs to educational groups and others.

"There is little doubt that the same policies will be carried on in the coming administration with perhaps growing emphasis on the close relationship between libraries and the public in correlating reading with motion-picture attendance."

Miss Theodora Hart, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hart, will return home tomorrow from a month's visit with friends in Shreveport accompanied by a friend, Miss Helen Grace Perretz. Miss Edwina Hirsch of Baton Rouge will also be a guest in the Hart home during the coming week.

Alice Haas of Bunkie is a lovely guest in the home of Miss Myrta Reece Stewart, a classmate of Louisiana State university.

Bill Brooks of Burley, Idaho, is enjoying a visit with his mother, Mrs. M. C. Brooks.

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Sedberry announce the arrival of a son, Robert Bendal, in their home on the second of July.

WILL ROGERS COMEDY HIT AT PARAMOUNT

Humorist Scores In New Film

Fine Supporting Cast Is Included In 'Doubting Thomas'

WILL ROGERS, latest comedy, "Doubting Thomas," had the audience practically rolling in the aisles, last night, at the Paramount theater. The fans howled themselves nearly into hysterics as a theater audience can. To this reviewer, the picture is Rogers' funniest and to hundreds of others in the Paramount theater, it seemed to be the same thing.

The film is well-paced, capably handled and directed and each member of the cast is particularly well-suited to his or her respective role. It will, no doubt, add thousands of new names to the great roster of Rogers' fans.

The picture was adapted from George Kelly's stage hit, "The Torch Bearers," and shows Rogers in the role of a simple, home-loving sausage manufacturer, whose life-world is tossed into a turmoil when his wife, Billie Burke, goes theatrical; as does his son's fiancee, Frances Grant. The two appear in an amateur charity show and if the audiences hold on to their seats during this show, they'll be doing more than this reviewer was able to do.

Billie Burke is splendid as the stage-struck wife who thinks she's been suppressing a desire all these many years. Alison Skipworth very capably and expertly repeats the part of Mrs. Pampinelli, which she played on the stage; while Sterling Holloway, as the bungling sound-effects man for the play, is a scream.

Frances Grant and Frank Albertson give realistic performances, the latter as Rogers' son and the former as the son's fiancee, and David Butler uses his directorial skill admirably.

Will Rogers, who portrays the role of a small town sausage manufacturer, in his latest Fox Film fun cyclone "Doubting Thomas" at the Paramount today and Monday doubles the talents of his stage struck wife—Billie Burke—and his attempts to cure her make for a new high in hilarity.

St. Joseph

A recent marriage of wide interest here was that of Miss Emily Cornelia Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Wailes Smith, and William Earl Shaw of Hayti, Mo.

The wedding was held at the Union church with the Rev. Ralph L. McKinney officiating. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

Miss Marguerite Smith served as maid of honor and little Patricia Yvonne Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Curry, was the flower girl. Jack Bargas of Hammond, La., was best man.

The nuptial ceremony was preceded by the singing of "At Dawning" by Mrs. John Bolin, with Mrs. Curry MacPherson assisting at the organ.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party was entertained by Mrs. Fred Cassil. Assisting Mrs. Cassil was Miss Mildred Kitchin and Miss Beulah Grayson.

When the wedding cake was cut, Mrs. John Bolin drew the dime and Mrs. George Camors of New Orleans, the thimble. A dance followed the reception.

The couple will make their home in Vicksburg.

The Laredo, Tex., Times will spend $40,000 for new equipment and a building which will be air-conditioned throughout.

CHARLIE CHAN FINDS THRILL PACKED ADVENTURE IN EGYPT

Capitol Film Combines Comedy With Mystery

AUDIENCES everywhere have hailed "Charlie Chan in Egypt" as the most thrilling, engrossing and ingenious of the "Chan" series to date. Once more starring Warner Oland, the picture comes today to the Capitol theater. It's the story of Charlie Chan's eeriest adventure in the land of the Pharoahs promises to be the biggest thrill ever offered to audiences in this city.

Priceless gold and jeweled treasures from the tomb of Ameti, an ancient high priest, are stolen from among those brought to light by the French Historical society's expedition, near Luxor on the Nile, the great river and land over which Cleopatra once ruled.

Charlie Chan is hired by the society to trace the thefts and to apprehend the thieves. Three murders occur and everybody wonders whether it was Sekmet, the cat-headed Egyptian goddess of vengeance who struck down those disturbing the monarchs in their final slumber.

Death casts its shadow over the entire family of the expedition's leader and Charlie Chan's skill and courage are tested to their limit, but he finally solves the crimes in one of the most thrilling sequences ever filmed.

"Fat" Paterson, as the daughter of the expedition's leader, gives unusual support to Warner Oland and Stepin Fetchit, as a native of the desert sands who becomes Charlie Chan's strange and frightened aide, creates many comic situations. The bewitching Rita Cansino displays her charms and ability to good advantage, while Thomas Beck holds up his role with some good manly acting.

BOLL WEEVILS FOUND IN DODSON VICINITY

DODSON, La., July 6.—(Special)—A number of the farmers of Dodson and vicinity state that boll weevils have invaded their cotton acreage and that in a number of instances have done considerable damage. The invasion of the pests is said to be due chiefly to heavy rainfall which fell during June. However, it is said that the corn and feed crop situation is more favorable than it was a year ago at this time. A year ago at this time, these crops were suffering greatly from lack of rainfall.

Eight members of the local 4-H clubs have spent an enjoyable week in camp at Natchitoches. They returned Saturday.

Screen Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD.—After more than 10 years as king of the Fox studio, Winfield Sheehan is about to see his "Empire" collapse.

But before that happens the film industry is going to witness an explosion such as it never has seen before. Ever since the Twentieth Century-Fox merger several weeks ago, Hollywood has been a rumbling volcano. Now the fireworks (which won't be any Fourth of July celebration) are due.

On one side of the fracas will be "Winnie" Sheehan. On the other, Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl Zanuck. All three have reputations for riding rough shod over anyone or anything blocking their way.

Now they're at swords' points over control of the newly organized Twenieth Century-Fox (use of the Fox name is to be dropped) company. And the battle is certain to be fierce.

There isn't a studio in the world big enough to hold both Zanuck and Sheehan, neither of whom will play second fiddle to anyone—at least not today. So, with all production of the new company scheduled for the Fox studios, war is inevitable.

Will Stick To Contract

Sheehan's contract, said to be the most iron clad ever written in the picture business, gives his full authority over all studio production. Calling for a weekly salary of $5,000, that contract still has a year and a half to run.

Consequently it's going to be difficult to blast him off his throne unless he's willing to move. And it's a cinch he'll be unwilling. At the same time Zanuck will be equally unwilling to leave such powers in Sheehan's hands.

It has been suggested that Zanuck and Sheehan may be given equal authority over their own productions with Schenck, chairman of the board of the new company, acting as mediator for both. That set-up would be kicked over in 10 days, because it's a cinch Schenck would side with Zanuck in any controversy.

Looking at the situation from all angles, there seems to be only one answer. That is for Schenck and Zanuck to make a cash settlement with Sheehan for the remainder of his contract. There again trouble will arise. They will want to discount the amount for making an immediate settlement. And I don't think "Winnie" will take one cent less than the terms of his contract.

Bankers Behind Zanuck

In that event, Schenck and Banuck will have no recourse but to pay in full if they want Sheehan out of the picture—which they obviously do.

This, however, should be a simple matter, as they apparently have complete support of the Chase National Bank which now has some $26,000,000 invested in the Fox company.

From inside sources it has been learned that it was the Chase bank which got Twentieth Century to merge with Fox, or rather take over the Fox corporation, which is really what happened. This move is the bank's "white hope" of eventually recovering its investment—which looked impossible under the old Fox setup with Sheehan in the driver's seat.

It was Sheehan who built Fox from a second rate concern into one of the biggest corporations in the industry. He is said also to have engineered the deal which forced William Fox out of the company several years ago. And it was under his administration that the staggering debt piled up.

Few Successes By Fox

It's no secret that Sheehan has not made a financial success of running the Fox studio during the last two or three years. While the majority of pictures personally supervised by him have been good, the product of the studio as a whole has been extremely poor.

About the only films that have made money have been the Shirley Temple, Will Rogers and Janet Gaynor productions.

At the same time, Twentieth Century has been the industry's most successful company since its organization two years ago. Zanuck has turned out one box office hit after another.

The bankers, naturally, want to see some profits coming into the Fox organization—lots of profits. It will take plenty to repay their $26,000,000.

RUSSIANS TO DRIVE AT 12

Children of Russia between the ages of 12 and 14 are to be taught to drive automobiles. Factories in Moscow are to produce special cars for this purpose. They will have a one-cylinder engine of one and one-half horsepower, and a maximum speed of 25 miles an hour. The price will be low.

Filmed on a lavish scale with spectacle, gorgeous scenes, and hundreds of players in the cast and with Jeanette MacDonald, fresh from her triumph as the Merry Widow, and Nelson Eddy, the screen's new sensation, singing the haunting Victor Herbert songs, "Naughty Marietta" plays Thursday-Friday at the Capitol theater as Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's greatest singing picture!

This Week's Movie Program

AT THE PARAMOUNT

Today and Monday—Will Rogers in "Doubting Thomas," with Billie Burke, Alison Skipworth, Sterling Holloway, Gail Patrick and Frances Grant.

Tuesday and Wednesday—Katharine Hepburn and Charles Boyer in "Break of Hearts," with John Beal and Jean Hersholt.

Thursday and Friday—The Cosmopolitan dramatic sensation, "Oil for the Lamps of China," starring Pat O'Brien, Josephine Hutchinson and Jean Muir, with Lyle Talbot and Arthur Byron.

Saturday and Sunday—Claudette Colbert in "Private Worlds," with Charles Boyer, Joan Bennett, Helen Vinson and Joel McCrea.

AT THE CAPITOL

Today and Monday—"Charlie Chan in Egypt," with Warner Oland, "Pat" Patterson, Thomas Beck, Rita Cansino and Stepin Fetchit.

Tuesday and Wednesday—"Age of Indiscretion," with Paul Lukas, Madge Evans, May Robson and Helen Vinson.

PROHIBITION WILL RETURN, SAYS FROST

The Women's Christian Temperance union held a special meeting at 3 p.m. Friday in the First Methodist church, West Monroe, when the chief speaker was Rev. Jack Frost, evangelist from Kentucky.

Rev. Frost told in some detail of his experiences and travels during his extensive career in prohibition work. He predicted that prohibition will come again and that the next time to stay. Ever since the return of liquor, he said, there had been strict law enforcement and that such was not the case when the 18th amendment was in effect.

There was a good attendance and much interest was shown in the talk delivered by the visiting speaker.

More BUILDING Necessary for Entire Nation!

A NEW BUILDING MATERIAL SHOWN

Asbesto Flexboard Is Noted For Sturdiness And Flexibility

At the exhibition of contemporary American industrial art which attracted much interest in New York recently, asbestos flexboard, a new material made by Johns-Manville, was used in a number of rooms, according to Mr. Ralph Gatlin of the Ritchie Grocer company, local J-M dealer. The purpose of the exhibition was to show new products which combine good looks, utility and, besides these, marketability. No product was chosen unless it lived up to these conditions.

Asbestos flexboard as its name implies is made of asbestos fibers and Portland cement formed under great hydraulic pressure. In spite of the sturdiness of this material it is flexible enough to apply over curved surfaces.

Many new apartments throughout the country are having their walls finished with flexboard, and the fact that it can be applied right over old walls has also made it a popular choice in modernization jobs where economy and durability are desired.

Flexboard may be bought in decorative single colors to match the room, green, buff, rose or slate, and it is finished with a smooth lustrous surface. The pigment is mixed with the asbestos and cement during manufacture and it is an integral part of the material. The surface will not corrode, chip, warp or crack and it is easy to keep clean. Another important factor in its favor is that it is fireproof.

Flexboard might well be called the material of 1,000 uses. It may be seen on exhibit at Ritchie Grocer company display rooms.

GOLDEN, Colo.—A movement is under way here to make Golden the first 100 per cent modernized city in the country.

To carry out this intention, the Golden Modernization Prosperity Club was organized recently. Each member binds himself to obtain modernization and repair pledges from three other persons. By this method it is expected that modernization work will be undertaken by every resident in the city. The population of Golden is 2,426.

SERVICE GIVEN BY ARCHITECTS

Free Advice And Small Fee For Consultation In Vogue Many Places

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The practice of supplying free architectural information service in conjunction with the better housing program is growing in many sections of the country, the federal housing administration is advised.

Pittsburgh, Pa.; Philadelphia, Pa.; New York, N. Y.; Baltimore, Md.; and Los Angeles, Calif., have already organized architectural groups who are offering certain general services gratis to the public.

The Pittsburgh procedure is a fair example. In cooperation with the local organization of the federal housing administration, an architectural information service is being operated in a well-known building in the business section. An architect remains on duty there from 1 to 5 p. m. daily to give information to visitors. No information is supplied, however, that might be construed as professional services. The purpose is to acquaint interested persons with what type of architectural service they might require when considering building, approximate initial costs, and with the names of reputable architects in the community.

In Philadelphia another form of architectural service has been inaugurated. A group of qualified architects have opened a consultation service with small fee charges to applicants. Preliminary questions pertaining to housing are furnished in this manner similar to the services often offered by doctors.

HOUSING PROGRAM HELPS FINISH HOME

CLAIRTON, Pa.—Completion of a home which was delayed by lack of funds for a year and a half was made possible through the provisions of the national housing act, according to one of the women field representatives of the Federal Housing Administration.

An interested woman called three times on the district supervisor of the better housing survey here and said that she and her husband started to build a home 18 months ago. The closing of banks and the tying-up of savings indefinitely postponed the completion of the home. With information gained by the wife at better housing headquarters, the couple applied at a local bank for modernization credit. The funds advanced allowed for the completion of the house, and the grateful couple have announced that they are moving into their new home this month.

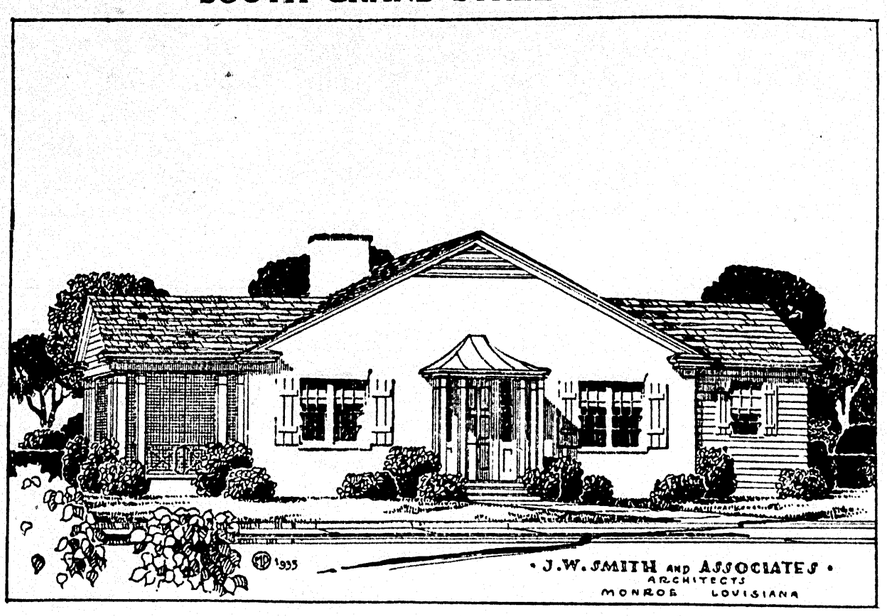

LUMBER INSTITUTE ISSUES FHA BULLETIN

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—The Lumber and Allied Products Institute here has issued a bulletin, accompanied by forms used in the making of an application for mortgage loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration. The bulletin advises all members of the institute to "become thoroughly familiar with every detail of the application" and to be prepared to aid contractors and other clients in filling out forms and obtaining commitments from the Federal Housing Administration.

ARCHITECTS REPORT

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—One of the leading architectural firms here recently reported to the State Director of the Federal Housing Administration that it has done more business so far in 1935 than came to its offices during the entire 3 previous years.

SOUTH GRAND STREET HOME

The residence of O. A. Easterling, 1508 South Grand street, as remodelled will comprise: addition of living porch, kitchen wing and interior re-arrangement incorporating additional closet space, bedroom, bath, etc. Plumbing throughout is being replaced with copper. A new rigid asbestos shingle laid in Dutch-lap pattern will be applied over house and garage. A new double garage with servants' quarters is also included in the contract. Interior refinishing will consist of complete renovation of woodwork, floors and walls. Present exterior brick work will be painted. The contract price for these alterations and additions is $3,887.00. General contractor is W. H. Blane of Monroe.

SUGGEST WAYS TO BUILD GUTTERS FOR HOUSE ROOF

Gutters should be of sufficient size and should be constructed with enough pitch or slope to carry off water draining from the roof.

When properly designed and installed, gutters should permit snow drifts which accumulate on roofs to slide over and not pile up in them and, at the same time, to catch water from melting snow. Gutters should be of durable, water-resistant and corrosive-resistant material.

If the material is subject to gradual deterioration, due to exposure to the elements, it should be painted with a good quality of durable, water-resistant paint. Good gutters and downspouts of adequate size properly installed prevent building deterioration and are an essential factor in low maintenance cost. They also assist in keeping dampness out of a home, making it more healthful and serviceable.

WINDOW REPAIR

Before doing the spring painting of your home it is good practice to make a thorough inspection of the windows to ascertain if all of the glass is sealed tight with putty. If the putty has become hard and cracked, or is loose and has pulled away from the glass, all defective material should be removed and freshly replaced. This will eliminate the necessity of patching the windows after painting. It also will keep air and dust from filtering in around the glass and prevent deterioration of the window frames due to moisture getting into the wood.

INTEREST GROWING IN REPAIR EXTENSION

CHICAGO, Ill.—Daily reports from the northern district of Illinois to state federal housing headquarters indicated widespread interest in the recent extension of the limitations of modernization credit recently passed by congress.

The state director reports that "one of our good friends is considering a projecting involving the expenditure of $30,000. This is only one of many."

Numerous remodeling projects involving sums ranging from $30,000 to $400,000 are being planned by industrial concerns and hotels in northern Illinois.

PASTOR AIDS

ST. JOSEPH, Mich.—The pastor of the German Lutheran church here recently said that he would write a letter over his signature to his 2,000 parishioners, explaining the program of the Federal Housing administration and urging cooperation with it. The letter was to be written in German, assuring the interest of the entire congregation, according to the pastor.

RULES UNDER $50,000 LIMIT MADE PUBLI

Extension Of Credit Seen A Stimulating Wider Building Activity

WASHINGTON, July 6.—New regulations governing the administration of the modernization credit pl of the federal housing administration have been announced by Acti Administrator Stewart McDonald fo lowing the extension of the amou insurable under the plan from $2,0 to $50,000.

These revised regulations have be forwarded to all federal housi headquarters and all approved fina cial institutions and are expected open a new market for building m terials, machinery and equipme which should be of direct benefit practically all industry and, indirec ly, to the nation as a whole.

Under the amended act, the regu lations governing modernizati credit for improvement of individu homes, farm properties, church clubs, public buildings, and simil properties remain substantially th same. The maximum limit for ea such property is fixed under prov sions of the act at $2,000. This type credit is being extended for the pu pose of making additions, alteratio repairs, and improvements of re property, including also such ne construction as garages and certa other similar structures.

Classify Credits

The class of modernization cre made possible by the $50,000 amen ment also is being handled sep rately. This type of credit is e tended for additions, alterations, r pairs, and improvement for "re property improved by or to be co verted into apartment or multipl family houses, hotels, office, bus ness, or other commercial building hospitals, orphanages, college schools, or manufacturing or indu trial plants." The maximum lim for each property is $50,000.

Purchase and installation of ma chinery and equipment in the typ of property mentioned in the pr ceding paragraph are eligible for mo ernization credit under the new re ulations, provided they are "pecu iarly adapted to the business co ducted therein or necessary to th operation thereof."

All charges, including interest, fe both types of modernization cred are to be determined by the finan cial institution and the applicant f credit, the rates to be as low as consistent with the character of busi ness in the particular territory which the loan is negotiated. Unde no circumstances can the interest, t gether with all other charges com bined, exceed the equivalent of discount per $100 original face amou of a 1-year note to be paid in equ monthly installments.

Determine Risk

Determination of the credit risk in volved is left largely to the dis cretion of the financial institutio advancing the funds, it was state This was substantially true under th old regulations.

"The amendments to the Nation Housing act covering the extensio of modernization credit for improve ment, conversion, or equipment commercial properties are of direc interest and benefit to everyone pro ducing goods or services requirin buildings or permanent equipment Mr. McDonald stated. "They are particular interest to all those wh manufacture or deal in machinery.

"Under the amended act, the mod ernization market has been increase so as to include practically ever user of permanently installed ma chinery or equipment, as well every property owner.

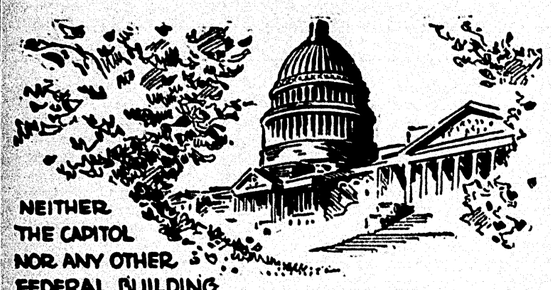

"Revised regulations have been sen to all the approved banks and othe financial institutions, all better-hou ing committees, and all the offices the federal housing administratio Detailed information may be obtaine at any of these places by those wh can use modernization credit for im provement or better equipment their properties."

We'll Help You!

There never was such a golden opportunity for you to have your house repainted inside and out. In all probability, it has been neglected these past four or five years because of the economic situation.

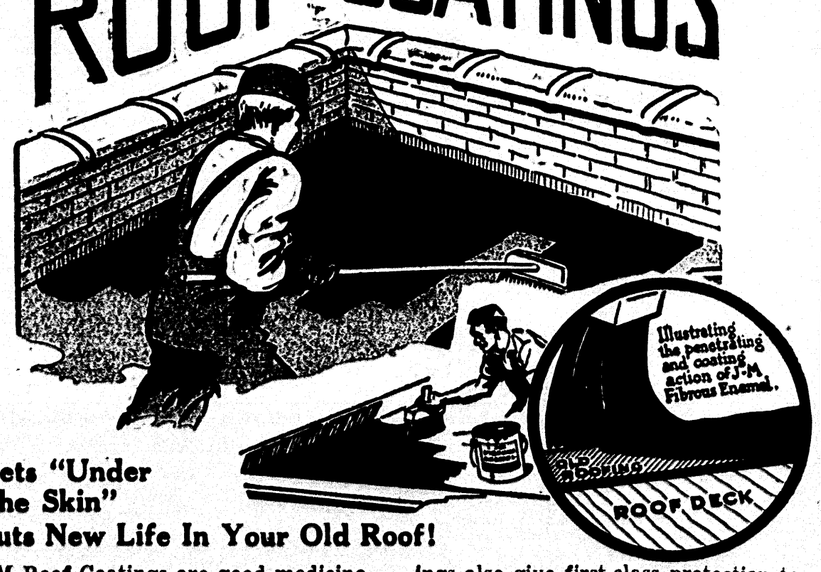

But this neglect is unwise for two good reasons—your property depreciates and you are compelled to live in a "seedy" home. Paint is not and never has been, an "expense" in the usual sense. As a matter of fact, it is an economy.

Now comes the government's fine Better Housing Program whereby funds may be borrowed for home improvements. We can assist you in working out the problem in your own case. . . . prepare an estimate and put you in touch with the proper sources of money supply. Consult us at once.

Puts New Life In Your Old Roof!

J-M Roof Coatings are good medicine for composition roofs that are drying out and beginning to crack. They penetrate to the very heart of the roofing felt, re-vitalizing it, and restoring all its waterproof qualities—just what the roof needs to be good for many more years of service.

By repeating this process every few years, you can keep your roof in prime condition at very little cost. J-M Coatings also give first-class protection to metal roofs that are showing signs of wear.

Use J. M. Fibrous Enamel (containing asbestos fibres) when the roof is in a worn condition. For ordinary conditions, use Regal Roof Coating (without fibres).

All Johns-Manville Coatings can be applied with a large brush. Full directions on every container.

INSURED PLAN PUTS NO COST ON TAXPAYERS

Mutual Mortgage Procedure Stimulates Long-Term Loan Of Funds

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Without cost to taxpayers of the country the mutual mortgage insurance plan established in the national housing act is bringing about a transformation in the residential-mortgage business of commercial banks and other large financial institutions through its provisions for a sound, conservative method of installment buying, according to the federal housing administration.

The short-term mortgage business is feeling the effects of the change. Building and loan associations and many insurance companies already deal in long-term loans.

"While the whole method is outlined in the national housing act," acting Administrator Stewart McDonald stated, "the public sometimes loses sight of the fact that residential-mortgage refinancing and new residential construction as established in the act will cost the taxpaying public nothing.

FHA Pays Own Way

"The federal housing administration must pay its own way out of the insurance funds and not out of governmental appropriations. This is a provision of the organic act.

"The fact that the mutual mortgage program must be self-sustaining is the reason why the mutual mortgage insurance requirements are so rigid and why the appraisers, architects and other technical members of the insuring office staffs must be chosen upon the basis of qualification and experience."

Low-Cost Housing

Insurance of mortgages on low-cost and limited-dividend housing projects for the purpose of providing housing to persons of low income, is included with the insurance of residential mortgages and also must be self-supporting, it was explained. No government funds are appropriated to the federal housing administration for this activity.

"This mutual mortgage insurance plan is confidently expected by the administration to transform the residential-mortgage system. Under this plan, second and third mortgages, high interest rates, and exorbitant bonuses for renewals of first mortgages will be eliminated; the home owner can get a single mortgage for an amount up to 80 per cent of its appraised value for a term up to 20 years at definitely limited interest rates and charges—the same in Maine as in California.

Former Hazards

"Heretofore, mortgages have been reasonably sound investments for those who lend the money, as witnessed by the huge holdings of savings banks, insurance companies, building and loan associations, and other financial institutions," Mr. McDonald said, "but they have not been sound for the borrower or home owner, who has faced the possibility of dispossession at every renewal period. This threat is a reality in times of severe depression. Under the long-term provisions of the mutual mortgage insurance plan the great majority of home owners should be able to weather depressions without losing their homes."

Housing Question Box

Q.—What are the natural earth colors used in coloring concrete walks?

A.—Natural earth colors are color compounds which are found as deposits in the earth and utilized as pigments. Sometimes they are treated to bring out or intensify the colors. Natural iron oxide, mineral browns, ocres, siennas, umbers, mineral black, and a few allied substances are the pigments used. The so-called "oxides" give colors ranging from a warm brown to a brilliant scarlet.

Q.—We expect to build an addition to our home and would like to know how the joists should be inserted in the masonry wall to prevent deterioration.

A.—The pocket, or space provided in the masonry wall for inserting the end of a joist, seam or sill, should be blocked out, leaving smooth surfaces. It is usually advisable to have the pocket of sufficient size so that there will be an open space of about one inch between the masonry and the side and end surfaces of the wood in order to obtain ventilation.

Not only should the masonry wall be constructed so as to be water-resistant, but it is good practice to damp-proof the surfaces of the pocket. Where there is any possibility of dampness getting to the wood, it is safer to treat it, or at least treat the ends for a distance of two or three feet, with a good quality wood preservative. When it is not possible to use wood which has been given a pressure treatment, then the ends should be given two or three coats of preservative applied freely with a brush.

Slate, tile, or other water-resistant material should be used to block up the joists in the pockets when it is necessary to raise the ends of the joists to make them level. It is also good practice to use preservatively treated joists, sills, and other wodden members where they rest on or adjoin damp masonry walls, especially where the ventilation is poor.

J.—Will hedges make an adequate screen for a laundry or service yard?

A.—A hedge of privet, Buckthorn, or similar quick-growing deciduous plants will reach a height of 8 to 10 feet in a very few years. If properly clipped and cultivated, it makes a very attractive thick screen. An evergreen hedge which will be effective both in summer and winter costs somewhat more and grows more slowly. The common Arbor Vitae, Norway spruce, or hemlock are excellent for this purpose. In a shaded location, the hemlock will prove best.

Q.—Should a tree four inches in diameter be moved with bare roots?

A.—A tree of this size whether evergreen or deciduous should not be moved with bare roots. It should be dug with a ball of earth at least four feet in diameter. The earth ball should be carefully wrapped in burlap and securely tied with rope before the tree is transferred. If special tree-moving equipment is not available a low stone boat may be used to haul it on.

Q.—When should lawns be fertilized?

A.—A lawn should be fertilized in the early spring and in the early fall, but never in the heat of summer or the turf will be badly burned. It is always advisable to water the lawn thoroughly after applying the fertilizer.

Q.—I am considering building a cement driveway and would like to know what material can be added to the concrete to darken it and thus decrease the sun glare.

A.—Powdered lamp black or some of the prepared coloring compounds that can be secured from any paint store can be added to the concrete at the time of mixing, these will darken the concrete to any shade desired. It would be wise to make a few test blocks before laying the drive to determine the correct color.

Garden Walk Construction Method Given

A garden walk should be of a material that weathers well and blends naturally with the landscape. The material and the construction varies with the type of garden. For an old colonial garden nothing is more attractive than soft-toned brick, laid on a cushion of sand. They will soon be weathered and covered with moss and add greatly to the charm of the garden. For a natural path that winds through the woods or a rock garden, water-worn flagstone would be appropriate.

For the formal French or Italian garden, the walks are frequently of cut sandstone or limestone with narrow cut stone curbings. Sometimes large colored pebbles are fitted into patterns and set in cement and used for walks in formal gardens.

Well compacted clay gravel makes a good walk, but there should be enough clay in the gravel to keep it firm or else the loose stones are uncomfortable to walk on as they are apt to get into low shoes.

Such improvements may be made through modernization credit available at lending institutions approved by the federal housing administration.

200,000 VISITORS

DALLAS, Texas.—More than 200,000 persons visited "Inspiration House" here during the seven weeks that the model home was open to the public.

CORNCRIBS MAY BE REPAIRED ECONOMICALLY

Credit up to $2,000 for the modernization of existing corncribs and the construction of new ones is available on easy and convenient terms under the National Housing act. Such credit is available at commercial banks building and loan associations, and other financial institutions approved by the Federal Housing administration and is repayable in monthly installments, or as crops are harvested, over a period of from one to five years.

Full information is given in the Farm Property Improvement Bulletin of the Federal Housing Administration, a copy of which will be furnished free upon request by the Washington office of the administration or any state office.

The importance of storing corn on the farm cannot be overestimated, because 70 per cent of the crop is fed to farm animals, and only about one-third is shipped out of the locality in which it is grown. Even when produced as a cash crop, corn is seldom hauled direct from the field to the elevator, hence some provision must be made for storing it.

The availability of credit for the modernization and construction of corncribs under the National Housing Act, therefore, is most important to farmers. Construction of adequate cribs will make it possible for the farmer to store corn and hold corn on the farm for use when needed. Furthermore, when the farmer cannot finance the storing of the corn, it will make it possible to meet the corncrib-storage requirements of the commodity credit corporation in order to obtain a loan for storing corn.

BOWL CLEANERS

Choose drain and closet-bowl cleaners carefully. The cheaper cleaners are likely to damage the enamel finish. Your plumber will be glad to recommend a cleaner which can be used with safety.

Exempt

Law Prevents Assessment Increase After Repairs

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—By an act of legislature, all property in this state upon which modernization work has been done is exempt from increased assessments during the next three years, according to State Director Ernest C. Fiedler.

The bill, signed recently by Governor Phillip La Follette, also exempts from assessments and taxation all new homes to be built during the next three years, leaving only the lot to be assessed, "precisely the same as if no new home were built on it," according to Mr. Fiedler.

END HEAT LOSS

Part of the heat loss which occurs in a frame constructed home can be prevented by closing the open spaces between the wall studs at the attic floor line. This may be done by first cutting pieces of planking 2 inches in thickness, the exact size of the opening. Then insert them between the studs and nail tight. These stops cut off the circulation of air which is drawn up into the attic through the walls. They reduce the fire hazard and assist in making the house warmer in winter and cut down the fuel bill.

STRAHAN WARNS AGAINST WEEVIL

Parish Agent Says Heavy Infestation For Cotton Crop Almost Certain

"A heavy infestation of boll weevils on this year's cotton crop seems almost certain, and the weevils will either cause great damage or they will be destroyed by the cotton growers," E. R. Strahan, Ouachita parish agricultural agent, said in a statement on the extermination of the weevils.

"There are two ways to poison cotton for weevils," Mr. Strahan said. "One is to make a haphazard guess as to the time to poison and the other is to make sure of the proper time. Some cotton is not worth poisoning, but where there is a prospect of one-third bale per acre or more, poisoning by all means should be done.

"The following procedure is recommended:

"1. Begin dusting when weevils have punctured 10 out of every 100 of the squares.

"2. Use only pure cotton-dusting calcium arsenate in the form of a dry powder.

"3. Use from five to seven pounds per acre for each application.

"4. Dust only when the air is reasonably calm and the cotton plants are moist.

"5. Repeat applications three times at 5-day intervals. Do not poison again until the infestation is 10 per cent or more.

"6. If a heavy rain falls within 24 hours after poisoning repeat the application.

"7. Poison should be applied when there is dew on the plants. This can be done at night or early in the morning if the acreage is small.

"8. Poison right or not at all and remember that it costs little to dust as compared to the cost of not dusting at all.

"To determine the per cent of infestation walk diagonally across the field and examine carefully the buds in 100 squares. Pull off all squares and buds showing feeding or egg puncture of weevils. Keep these punctured forms in the hand. When 100 squares have been examined, count those in hand. This will be roughly the per cent of infestation. Repeat this three times for checking. Poison if 10 per cent or more buds are punctured.

"The calmest part of the day is usually just before dusk. Begin poisoning at this time if plants are wet with dew and continue as far into the night as possible. Poisoning in a high wind, and poisoning when plants are dry is unprofitable.

"Weevils are poisoned as they feed principally on the squares and small bolls. Dust all of the cotton plants as thoroughly as possible. The more force with which poison is driven through plants, the more effective it will be.

"Cotton naturally sheds more than half of the squares formed. Be sure the weevils are causing from 10 per cent to 15 per cent of the shedding before poisoning.

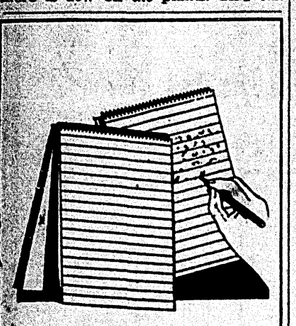

"Do not poison at all if:

"1. You do not intend to poison sufficiently to keep weevils under control for at least 15 days.

"2. Poisoning is not done when plants are wet.

"3. You wait until fifty per cent or more of the forms are punctured.

"4. Poisoning is to be carelessly done."

A STAMPING CORNER

By W. J. KIRBY

A cachet for the first night flight over A. M. 24, leaving Monroe Tuesday morning, was sponsored by the Twin City Stamp club. The cachet was applied to 577 pieces of mail, going to persons in practically every state in the union, Canada, Scotland, England and other foreign countries. Only one color of ink—red—was used in applying the cachet. It is hoped that this cachet will give Monroe, Delta Air Service and the Twin City Stamp club some desirable publicity.

Our advice to collectors is to secure the Silver Jubilee issues of the British Colonies now. As we predicted several weeks ago, prices of these stamps are rising rapidly and many dealers report that they are entirely sold out.

While we do not advocate the collecting of stamps for investment, few investments would have paid as large dividends at as rapid rates, as these issues. Also, they are among the most attractive stamps—according to the writer's opinion—that ever has been issued.

It is said that a new government ruling in Russia gives officials the right to open all collectors' mail, and that a necessary form must be enclosed in each letter containing stamps. Unless Russian postal officials make their emissions more attractive, they will have little use for the forms mentioned.

The cornerstone of the new post-office building at Sellersville, Pa., had a stamp album placed in it through the generosity of a collector there. Quite a fitting subject for the building, we should say.

WORK PUSHED ON LOCAL PROJECTS

Excellent Progress Made On Sicard Overpass And Louisville Avenue

Excellent progress is being made in the construction of the Sicard overpass and the extension of Louisville avenue from the present end of the avenue to the intersection of the DeSiard and Sterlington roads, it was learned at offices of the Louisiana state employment service here. The employment service provides labor for a number of local construction projects and is in close touch with them.

The building up of the west approach of the overpass has been completed, and virtually all of the concrete work has been done. The east approach was finished several weeks ago.

Steel for the overpass construction is expected to arrive within the next 10 days.

Dirt work of the Louisville avenue extension east of the Little Rock and Monroe railroad tracks is expected to be completed within the next 10 days. The new thoroughfare to be wider in its entire length than the present width of the section which has been paved for some years, will lead traffic to and from the new state highway bridge under construction across the Ouachita river.

Steel work on the bridge is still delayed by high water.

The paving of a wide, new street to serve as a direct approach to the bridge from Cypress street in West Monroe has been completed.

At the southern edge of West Monroe, construction of one of the last two links of dirt levees of that city has been completed.

At the northern edge of West Monroe, near Major McGuire park, the remaining dirt link of the levee is being constructed.

The employment service reported that two miles of concrete sidewalk are being constructed adjacent to the highway that connects Jonesboro and Hodge. The labor for this project is being provided by the Jonesboro office of the Louisiana state employment service.

REPORTER SHOT IN OFFICE

Hodge

The home of Mrs. Ira Bowman of Hodge was the scene of one of the loveliest of the season's gay parties, when a group of prominent women honored Miss Audie Mae Greer, whose marriage to Mr. John Lintotte took place on July 6. Mrs. Bowman was assisted by Miss Hortense Smith, Miss Grace Pringle, Miss Mary Garrett and Mrs. Chas. Palmer, all of whom wore frocks of pastel shaded organdy, with matching accessories.

The honoree wore a gown of crisp blue organdy, with wide double-flounced circular skirts over blue satin rows of tiny blue velvet bows trimmed the skirt, bodice and small puffed sleeves.

Little Miss Patty Etter impersonated "Cupid," in a suit of pink crepe with silver bandings. Miss Molly Jean Kelley, impersonating an old fashioned belle, in a long ruffled white dress, with a bonnet of blue hydrangea buds, led the honoree to the gift table, where many useful gifts of silver, linen, crystal, pottery, china, and lingerie and an elaborate hand made quilt and a gorgeous crocheted lace bed spread were viewed.

Delectable refreshments were served to the following friends: Mesdames John Dennis, Sam Walsworth, Jane Gagnon, John C. Michaud, David Belle, S. E. Michaud, P. Madden, J. B. Boss, Benton L. Kelley, Love, Ralph Largay, Lucille Colvin, Douglass McLean, Stubblefield, John Holden, Carl Etter, Misses Mable McLeary, Rose O'Brien, Olla Dee Watts, Ethel Wilson, Mrs. D. D. McDonald, Mrs. Greer.

Eighteen members of the D. W. Cantwell company visited the Southern Advance Bag and Paper company last week, arriving by special bus from Nashville, Tenn., to spend several days as guests of the paper company. After being tendered a banquet at the club house the party was shown the different places of interest in Hodge, such as the canning plant, golf club, swimming pool and general stores.

TARZAN'S AUDACITY

THEIR ENEMIES SLAIN, TARZAN AND THORIK HAULED SYBIL UP THE CLIFF AND BEGAN THEIR PERILOUS TREK TOWARD THE LAND OF THE VIKINGS.

THEIR GOAL WAS MANY MARCHES TOWARD THE DISTANT MOUNTAINS, BUT THEIR PATH LAY THROUGH DARK, DENSE FORESTS.

TARZAN'S JUNGLE SKILL AND SWIFT ARROWS PROVIDED THEM WITH FOOD AND PROTECTED THEM FROM MARAUDING BEASTS.

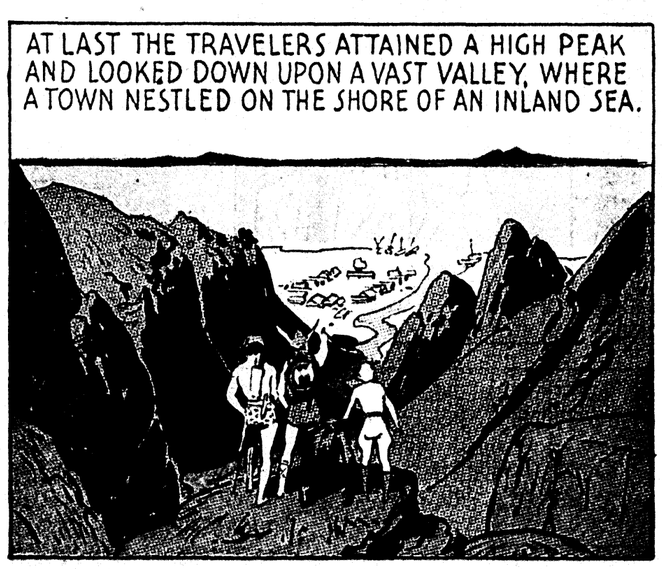

ONE DAY THE JUNGLE LORD SAID TO BOHGDU: "YOU GO SOUTH TO YOUR OWN APE-PEOPLE. WE GO AMONG CRUEL MEN. THEY MAY KILL US ALL!"

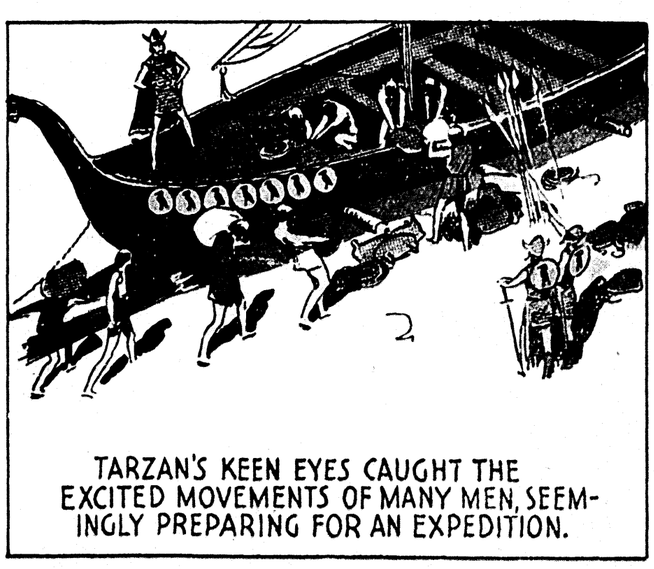

THE FAITHFUL BOHGDU ANSWERED: "TARZAN IS KING OF THE APES. I FOLLOW TARZAN, MY KING." THE APE-MAN SMILED.

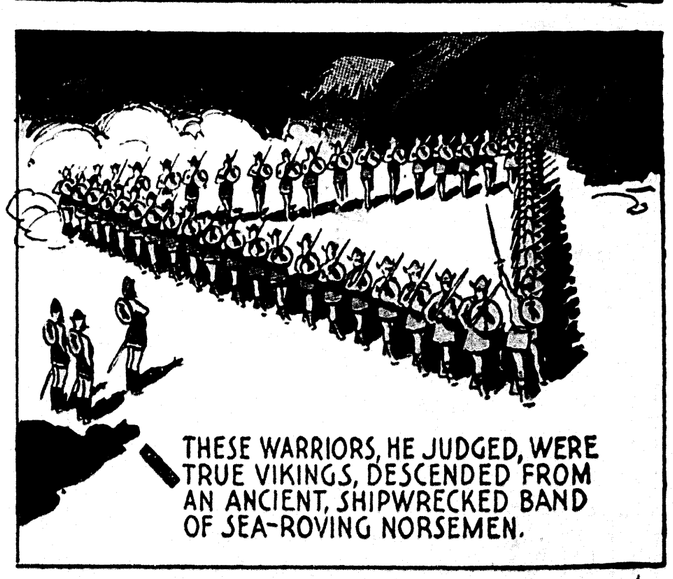

MEANWHILE THE LOVE-STRICKEN SYBIL SOUGHT THORIK'S FAVOR, BUT HE GAVE HER NO MORE ATTENTION THAN COURTESY REQUIRED.

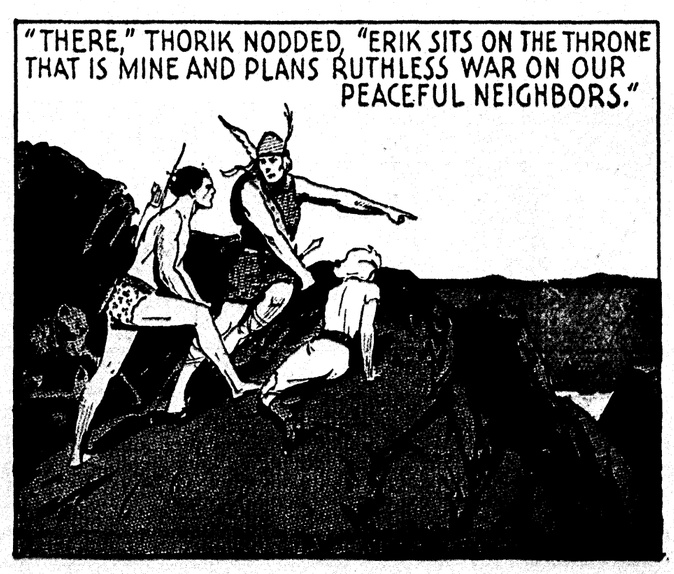

AT LAST THE TRAVELERS ATTAINED A HIGH PEAK AND LOOKED DOWN UPON A VAST VALLEY, WHERE A TOWN NESTLED ON THE SHORE OF AN INLAND SEA.

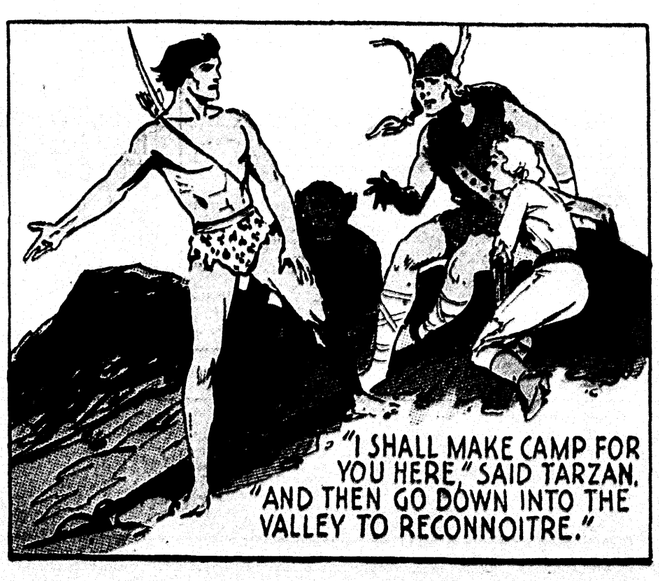

TARZAN'S KEEN EYES CAUGHT THE EXCITED MOVEMENTS OF MANY MEN, SEEMINGLY PREPARING FOR AN EXPEDITION.

THESE WARRIORS, HE JUDGED, WERE TRUE VIKINGS, DESCENDED FROM AN ANCIENT, SHIPWRECKED BAND OF SEA-ROVING NORSEMEN.

"THERE," THORIK NODDED, "ERIK SITS ON THE THRONE THAT IS MINE AND PLANS RUTHLESS WAR ON OUR PEACEFUL NEIGHBORS."

"I SHALL MAKE CAMP FOR YOU HERE," SAID TARZAN. "AND THEN GO DOWN INTO THE VALLEY TO RECONNOITRE."

EVEN THE BRAVE THORIK WAS AGHAST AT TARZAN'S AUDACITY. "YOU WILL BE CAPTURED AND KILLED!" HE WARNED.

(Copyright, 1935, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

TOMMY TRAILED THE TWO FLYERS WHO TRIED TO STEAL THE PLANS OF THE STRATOS SHIP. THEY SHOT HIM DOWN BUT HE ESCAPED UNHURT FROM THE WRECK OF HIS PLANE AND SIGNALLED TO A MAIL SHIP FOR HELP—

THAT'S A WRECK-- SURE ENOUGH—

I'LL SIT DOWN AND INVESTIGATE—

GOT ROOM FOR A HITCH-HIKER, SPEED?

TOMMY!-- HOW-- WHAT---

HAVEN'T MUCH LOAD TODAY, YOU MIGHT CURL UP IN THE MAIL COMPARTMENT—

SAY! I'D EVEN RIDE YOUR TAIL ASSEMBLY RATHER THAN STAY IN THIS DRY DESERT!

WHAT---- HAPPENED, TOMMY?

I WAS SHOT DOWN! SOUNDS ALMOST LIKE A DIME NOVEL STORY-- BUT IT'S ON THE LEVEL—

BETTER RADIO TO SEND HELP TO MR. CRANDELL--- GOSH!--NO! THEY'D NEVER FIND THE SECRET HANGAR!

WE SHIFT OUR SCENE TO AN OFFICE IN EL PASO WHERE WE FIND BOSS TAGGART—

WHAT!-- HUH---- SAY-- WHY DON'T YOU KNOCK BEFORE--

BOSS THE DEAL WENT HAYWIRE!

--YOU MEAN--YOU TRAILED CRANDELL TO HIS SECRET HANGAR—THEN LET HIM SCARE YOU AWAY--

THIS GUY, TAILSPIN TOMMY TOOK AFTER US--

--WE SHOT 'IM DOWN--AN' WERE GONNA FINISH 'IM WHEN TH' STRATOS SHIP SWOOPED DOWN ON US AN'---

WELL, YOU'RE GOING BACK THERE AGAIN! WE'VE GOT TO GET THE LOW-DOWN ON HOW HE OPERATES THAT SHIP!

OIL UP THAT MACHINE GUN!--THIS TIME WE DON'T FAIL!

SHE'S OILED!

HOW TO FLY

By Hal Forrest

THERE ARE CERTAIN TESTS ONE MUST UNDERGO BEFORE OBTAINING A PERMIT TO RECEIVE FLIGHT INSTRUCTION--CIVILIAN AVIATION TESTS, HOWEVER, ARE NOT AS RIGID AS MILITARY--THE PICTURE ON THE RIGHT IS AN EARLY TYPE ARMY ORIENTATOR TO TEST MENTAL REACTION OF AERODYNAMIC STUDENTS TO PROBLEMS OF AIRPLANE CONTROL—

THE MECHANICAL FLIGHT TUTOR-A DEVELOPMENT OF THE ORIENTATOR USED BY THE ARMY AIR CORPS-

THE INSTRUMENTS HERE TELL HOW THE BODY REACTS TO VARIOUS ALTITUDES-- THE PULSE AND MENTAL REACTIONS ARE CLOSELY CHECKED AND CONTINUOUS RECORD OF THEM IS KEPT BY THE MACHINE-

HERE IS CAPT. OCKER'S TEST CHAIR, IN WHICH PILOTS ARE REVOLVED WITH FEET ON RUDDER BAR, WHILE WATCHING INSTRUMENTS IN FRONT OF THEIR EYES--A RECENT DEVELOPMENT FOR BLIND FLYING.

HERE THE FLYER IS TESTED FOR CAPILLARY CIRCULATION—THE RELATION OF HIS BLOOD TO SUDDEN CHANGES! A MAN WITH POOR CAPILLARY CIRCULATION WOULD PROVE UNSAFE IN AN EMERGENCY

(Copyright, 1935, by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

THIS VISION TEST TELLS HOW FAR THE FLYER CAN SEE ON ALL SIDES WITHOUT TURNING HIS HEAD FROM SIDE TO SIDE-

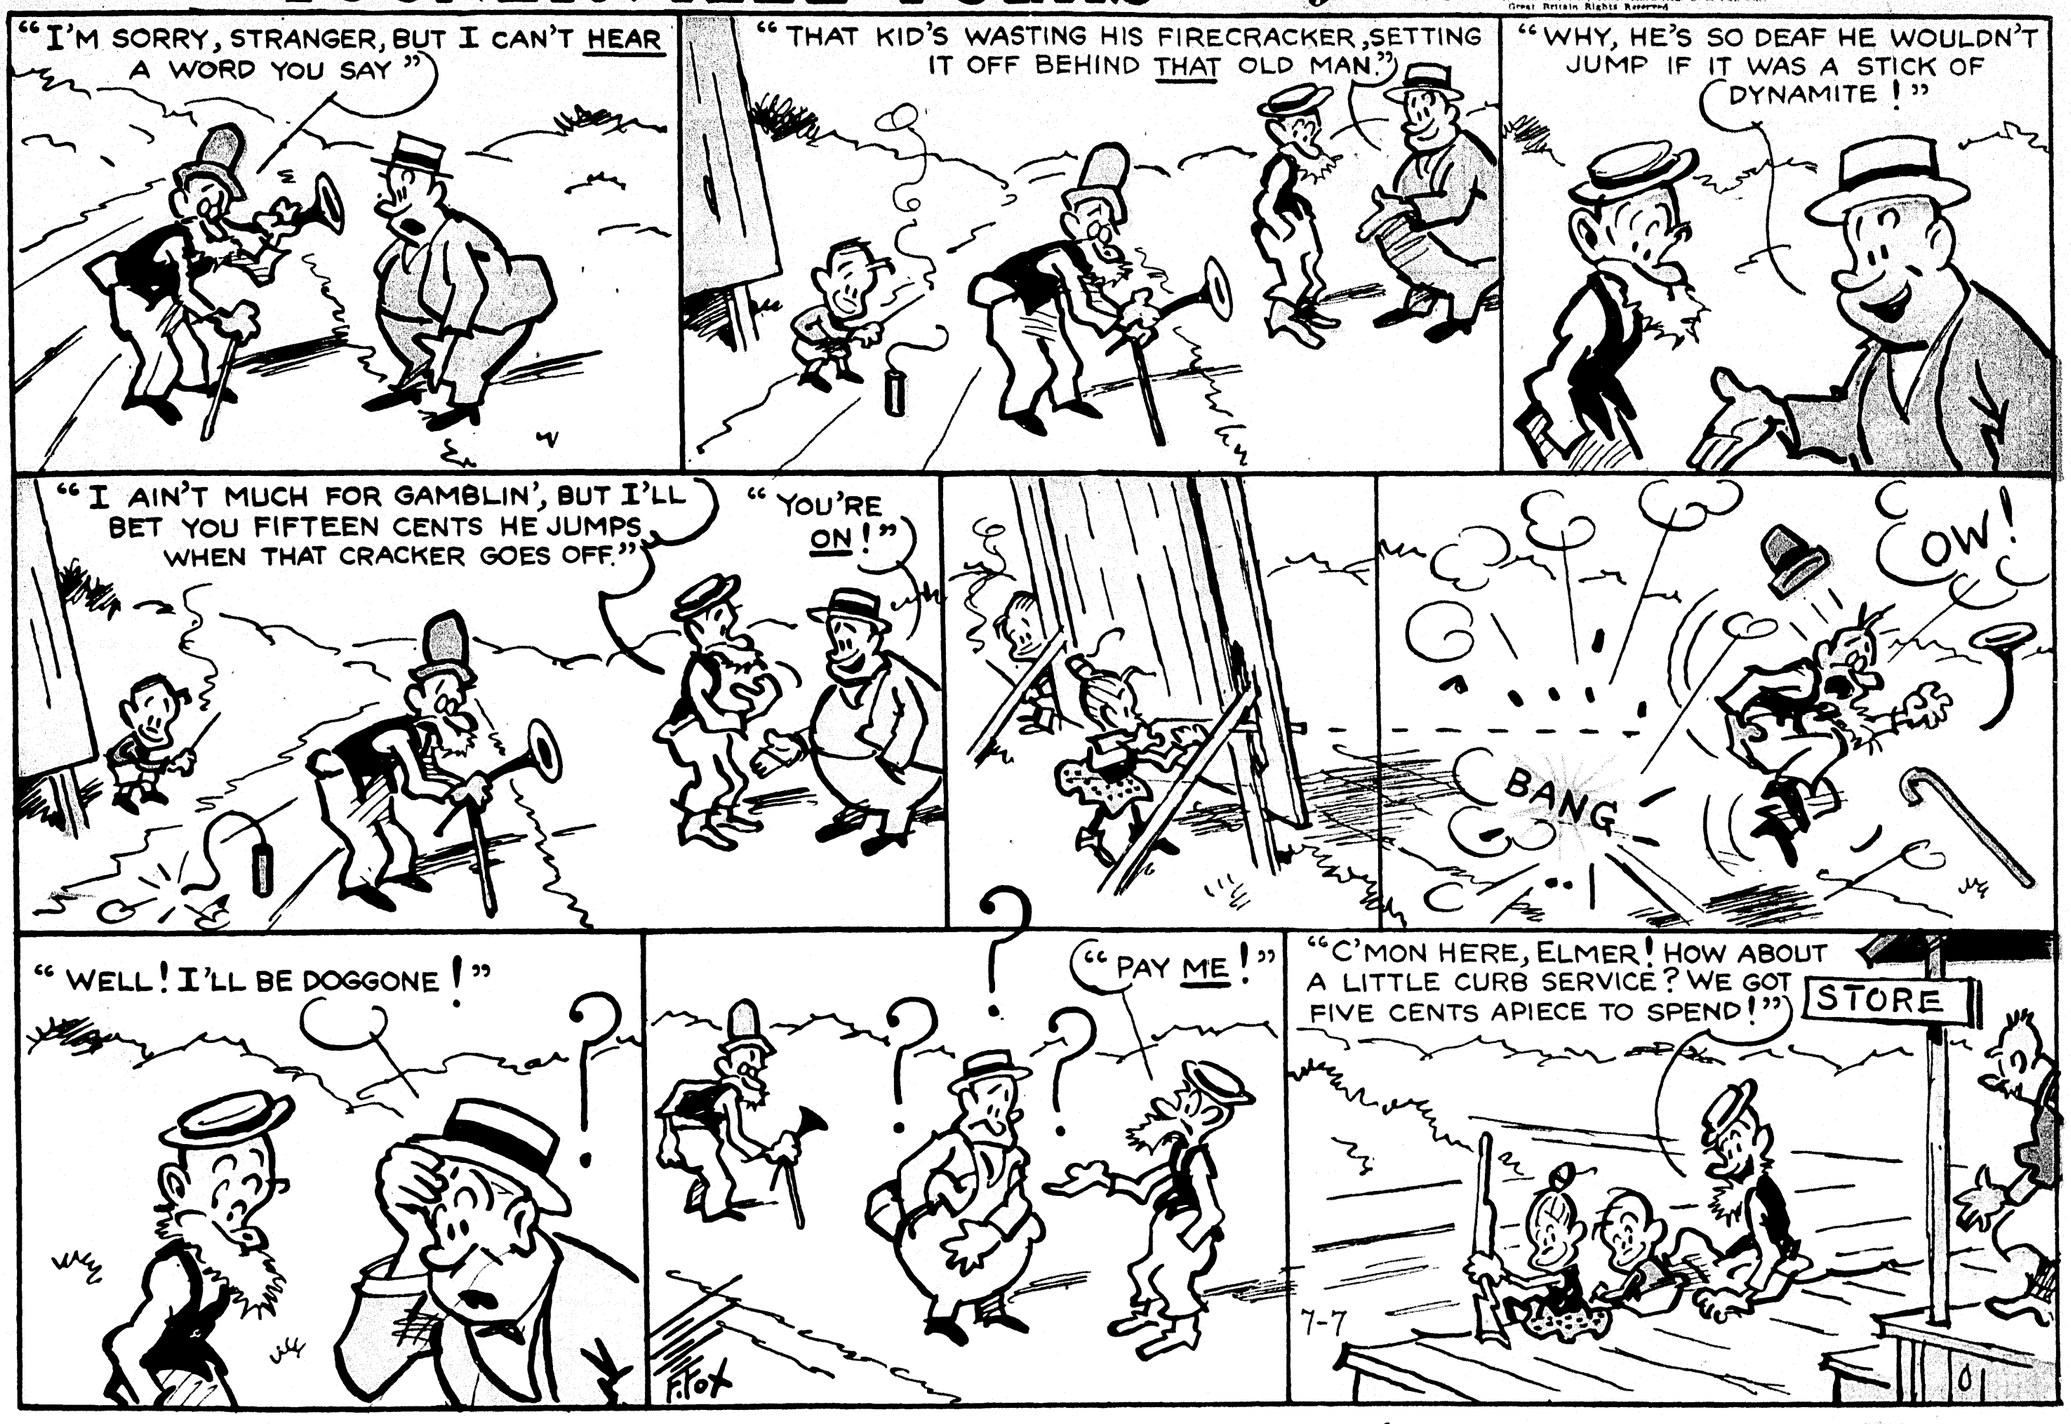

NEXT WEEK I SHALL TELL YOU ABOUT WIND TUNNELS

SOLDIER OF FORTUNE

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

by ROY CRANE

THE ISLANDERS RETURN GAILY TO THEIR CITY, FOR BOTH TWOGGA ZAZULA AND THE PIRATES HAVE GONE.

LOVED ONES ARE REUNITED, AND FOR DAYS THERE IS FEASTING AND REJOICING.

BUT EASY AND PIPPY SOON TIRE OF THE BARBARIC CELEBRATIONS.

WHAT I WANT, FELLA, IS A GOOD CUPPA COFFEE.

AR, ME! OR A GLARSS OF ARF 'N' ARF.

I'M FED UP ON ASIA. I'M SICK O' DIRT AND BUGS AND MUTTON. I'M GOING HOME.

THAT'S THE PROPER TICKET, GUVNOR. YOU 'IT THE NYLE ON THE 'EAD, SIR.

THEY SAIL TO THE MAINLAND

AND, LUCKILY, FIND THEIR PLANE UNHARMED.

BLAZES! WHAT A BREAK!

THEN OVER THE STORM-SWEPT HIMALAYAS TO INDIA.

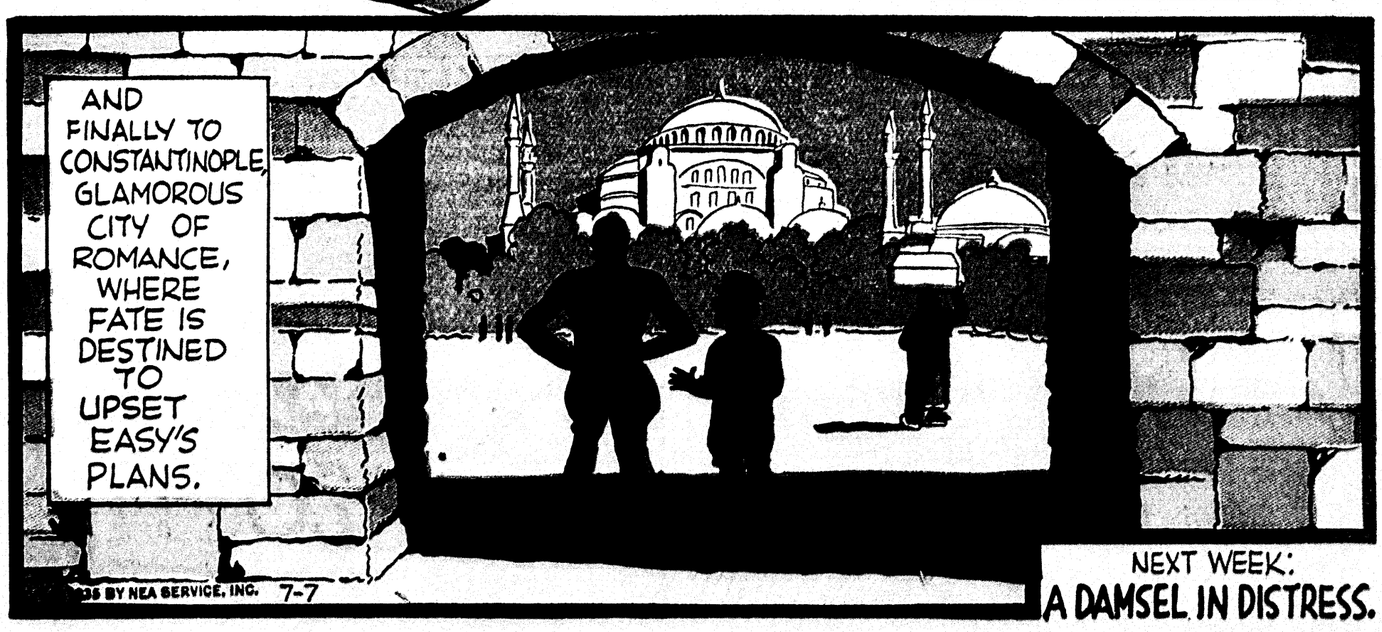

AH! I FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN, ALL READY.

THEN OVER THE BARREN WASTES OF PERSIA, TO BAGDAD, TO ANGORA.

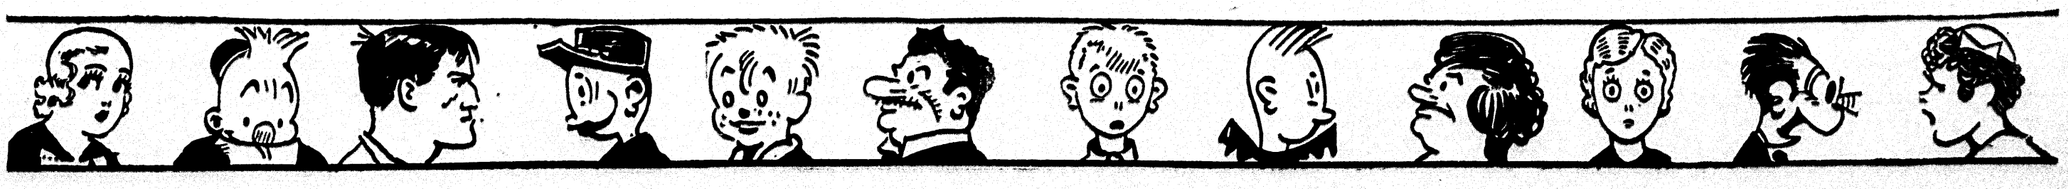

AND FINALLY TO CONSTANTINOPLE, GLAMOROUS CITY OF ROMANCE, WHERE FATE IS DESTINED TO UPSET EASY'S PLANS.

NEXT WEEK:
A DAMSEL IN DISTRESS.

DICK TRACY

HURLED INTO THE WATERS OF THE PARK LAGOON ALONG WITH TESS TRUEHEART'S ROADSTER, WHEN TESS WAS SNATCHED FROM THE MOVING CAR AS IT CROSSED THE PARK BRIDGE-JUNIOR SEIZED A FLOATING SEAT CUSHION AND MANAGED TO SWIM TOWARD SHORE WHERE HE WAS RESCUED.....

CHESTER GOULD

MEANWHILE TESS TRUEHEART'S WHEREABOUTS IS AS COMPLETELY A DARK SECRET AS THOUGH SHE HAD BEEN SEIZED BY SOME PHANTOM HAND AND HURLED INTO THE BLACK MOUTH OF A DISTANT VOLCANO.

IF YOU HAD ONLY BEEN ABLE TO GET A GOOD LOOK AT THE MAN THAT GRABBED TESS, JUNIOR, OR COULD HAVE SEEN THE CAR'S LICENSE-THAT WOULD HAVE BEEN A LITTLE HELP.

IT ALL HAPPENED SO QUICK, TRACY.. I DIDN'T HAVE TIME TO THINK. I DO REMEMBER THE MAN THAT SNATCHED MISS TESS HAD A HANDKERCHIEF OVER HIS FACE.. ..AND I THINK THE CAR HAD A LICENSE PLATE.

COME ON, PAT... WE'RE GOING OVER EVERY INCH OF GROUND FROM THAT BRIDGE TO THE PARK DRIVE AND SEE WHAT WE CAN FIND.

YOU'RE OUR PRISONER, MISS TRUEHEART, AND WILL RECEIVE ALL YOUR INSTRUCTIONS OVER THIS LOUDSPEAKER.

OUR REASON FOR TALKING TO YOU THROUGH THIS LOUD SPEAKER IS TO MAKE IT IMPOSSIBLE FOR YOU TO EVER IDENTIFY ANY OF OUR VOICES.

NOW WRITE WHAT I DICTATE- "DETECTIVE TRACY: THIS IS NOT A KIDNAPING. THERE WILL BE NO RANSOM. OUR DEMAND IS THAT YOU CALL OFF YOUR GAMBLING-BOOKIE-SYNDICATE DRIVE. YOU HAVE 36 HOURS TO COMPLY OR ELSE! SIGNED X."

THERE'S NO GETTING AROUND IT, PAT! ANY CAR COMING OFF THIS BRIDGE WOULD HAVE TO GO STRAIGHT DOWN THIS DEAD-END STREET.

YOU'RE RIGHT- BUT STILL..

EVEN THOUGH THE STREET IS BLOCKED, TRACY, THEY COULD HAVE SWERVED OVER ONTO THAT GRAVEL BRIDLE PATH AND REACHED THE BOULEVARD.

WAIT! WE'RE GOING TO STOP HERE. THAT LOOKS LIKE MARKS OF A SKIDDING CAR IN THE DIRT!

I'LL TAKE ANOTHER LOOK AT THE BRIDLE PATH.

HM... LOOKS LIKE A CAR DASHED DOWN HERE-THE DRIVER SAW THE STREET WAS BLOCKED.. ..PUT ON THE BRAKES, AND SKIDDED INTO THIS DIRT BANK.. OH! OH! WHAT'S THIS!

PAT, THE CAR THAT CARRIED AWAY TESS TRUEHEART BORE LICENSE PLATE NUMBER M-2053.

HOW IN THE WORLD DID YOU FIND THAT OUT?

LOOK! THE CAR SKIDDED WITH SUCH FORCE THAT THE REAR WAS THROWN AGAINST THIS BANK OF DAMP LOAM! THE PRESSURE CRUSHED THE FENDER AGAINST THE WEAKLY SUPPORTED LICENSE PLATE! WITH THE RESULT THAT M-2053 IS IMPRINTED FOR OUR COMPLETE INSPECTION RIGHT HERE IN THE DIRT.

M-2053

WELL, I'LL BE A —! LICENSE- M-2053!

WE'VE GOT OUR FIRST IMPORTANT CLEW.
